The coal mining measure requiring all mines to be placed under the State Safety department, was amended to exempt all workings employing less than five persons.

A bill amended by Delegate Groves provided heavy license on pin ball machines, the revenue to go for erection of a county hospital, had passed the House, but prior to going to the Senate the local delegation awaited the final outcome of the State-wide measure respecting these machines, which made pin ball machines illegal in all but three counties of the State—Anne Arundel, Charles and Prince George's.

SERIES OF FARM RAIDS IN COUNTY ENDED BY ARRESTS

Allegany County Officers Round Up Three; Two Confess To Eleven Cattle Rustlings

ARE GARRETT COUNTIANS

A gang of young bandits whose forays on Allegany and Garrett county farmers ranged from chicken thieving to cattle rustling, was rounded up by State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris, of Allegany county, on Tuesday, with the aid of Maryland and Pennsylvania State police.

Two young men on Tuesday night admitted carrying off stock valued at $500, and another man was being held for further investigation in connection with the rustlings, Mr. Harris said.

The two men who allegedly have admitted to some eleven rustlings are Paul Clark Bittinger, 21, and Lee Roy Wilt, 22, both natives of Garrett county. They were arrested by James Steele, chief of police of Lonaconing, and Sergeant A. M. Spioch, of the State police. A third man was being held for questioning.

When arrested both Wilt and Bittinger made detailed statements in which they admitted their guilt and also implicated other reputed members of the gang, according to the Allegany county officers.

Harris said the gang first struck the night of August 22, 1938, when they raided the farm of M. R. Llewellyn, near Midland. The bandits allegedly loaded two thoroughbred heifers into the back end of their automobile and drove forty miles to Somerset, Pa., where they disposed of the animals. A clip, or registered tag, which was attached to the ear of one of the heifers, later was discovered by investigators in Somerset and started the officers on the right track.

Following the Llewellyn farm rustling the bandits started a program of thieving that had Garrett and Allegany county farmers agitated for several months. Thirty chickens were stolen from the farm of John Blocher in Garrett county; twenty-four chickens were lifted from the roosts in the henhouse of Earl Stark in this county.

A number of other raids then followed in Allegany county.

With the arrest of Wilt and Bittinger authorities are confident that they have the gang smashed for good.

Officers said that Wilt has already served a term in the Maryland House of Correction on a larceny charge of which he was found guilty before the court, and that both youths had been arrested before. Wilt and Bittinger are being held for grand jury action for the cattle rustling and chicken stealing, which constitute larceny.

It was also reported Saturday that a thief or thieves had entered one of the henhouses on the farm of Emerson Bishoff, near Hoyes, and had carried off thirty-five pullets.

Sportsmen To Meet Again On Monday, April 17

The Garrett County Sportsmen's Association will meet next Monday evening, April 17, at which time the group will select a man to be recommended for appointment on the Conservation commission.

Sportsmen at the last meeting on Monday were of the opinion that because of the predominance of deer and the vast amount of woodland cover for other game in this county, that this county should have representation.

There are now over 150 members of the group. A committee of five has been named to assemble complaints and recommendations of members, consisting of Lester Yutzy, chairman; W. R. Browning, Edgar Smith, Harry L. Porter, and J. W. Holman. Farmers and sportsmen may now obtain a copy of the by-laws of the association from H. C. Riggs, president, at the Garrett National Bank.

Mountain Top Ministers To Meet At Kitzmiller

Next Monday morning at 10:30 the members of the Mountain Top Ministers' Association will gather at the Methodist church in Kitzmiller for their monthly meeting.

Luncheon will be served following the meeting. The paper for the day will be read by Rev. H. L. Henthorn, Kitzmiller. Rev. A. K. Jones, of Red House, will give the book review and Rev. A. S. Gear, Mt. Storm, will offer a sermon for criticism.

STUDY FLOOD CONTROL IN GARRETT COUNTY

Connellsville Group Seeks To Improve Yough River Problem

Pennsylvania folk, as well as the U. S. Department of Forestry, are trying to find some way to improve flood conditions in the watershed of the Youghiogheny and other rivers that yearly help to menace Pittsburgh and adjacent cities. An additional survey is underway, extending into Garrett county at this time.

They are certain that reforestation, prevention of forest fires and changes in land use would reduce the run-off from heavy snow melting and rainfall each year. Pittsburgh has brought strong pressure for relief.

C. H. Diebald, Emil Meyers and M. T. Augustine, representatives of the Department of Agriculture, with offices in Connellsville, Pa., conferred with forestry officials on their work in the Garrett county watersheds.

The engineers said the survey sought to find out the extent of forest burning and where reforestation in the planting of pines, on eroded mountain land, was needed and whether or not such an action program was justified.

The survey includes upstream engineering and changes of land use that would reduce the "flood press."

DREAM OF GREAT TUNNEL FOR CANAL IS RECALLED

Waterway Between Washington And Pittsburgh Never Approved

The dream of many years ago of a sixteen-mile tunnel to carry a Washington-Pittsburgh canal beneath four mountains in Garrett county today stands a poorer chance than ever of being realized, although even in the days of inland waterways it never received final approval.

The flood-control plans and parks of the present will entirely blot out the idea, even if the railroads had not done so.

The dream was dissipated when the engineers made a study of the plan and reported it "just fails of justification." They said it would cost $401,441,135. To pay interest charges on this amount it would have to carry 34,700,000 tons of freight a year, and there wasn't that much freight available for it. Anyway, they added, it was more than the canal could carry.

The canal would have followed the route of the old Chesapeake and Ohio canal along the Potomac River from Washington to Cumberland. The old canal has now been bought by the Federal Government and turned into a park. Furthermore, the proposed Savage River dam in this county, approved by the Maryland Legislature to regulate the flow of water in the Potomac, will lie directly across the path the Pittsburgh-Washington waterway would have taken.

Of the 112 locks along the 343-mile route, thirty-eight would have lifted boats 1,520 feet up the side of Big Savage Mountain to the tunnel under Big Savage, Little Savage, Meadow and Negro Mountains. The tunnel would have come out near Friendsville.

"At first thought," a War Department report said, "the conception of a tunnel of such dimensions may appear somewhat daring, but a four and a half-mile tunnel in France shows its entire practicability."

No Further Trouble This Week At Unorganized Mines

No further trouble has been experienced in the unorganized mines of Garrett county since last Thursday morning when 150 pickets appeared at the mines west of Grantsville for the alleged purpose to stop the workers from going to their daily tasks, but dispersed when citizens of Grantsville became aroused and accompanied the miners to their work.

Several pickets have been at the mines from day to day, but they have not molested any of the workers. It was reported that 200 or more union miners were on their way to Crellin yesterday for the purpose of preventing the men from going to work and thus cause a shut-down there, but they failed to materialize and have not appeared thus far today.

Union mines within the area are still closed, pending the signing of the new proposed wage agreement with operators of the Appalachian region.

PRACTICED FOR 50 YEARS

Dr. Henry W. McComas, actively identified with community life, and who served this area as a medical practitioner for more than fifty years, died at the residence of his son, R. Carlton McComas, Route 219, on Monday morning, April 10, at 11:30 o'clock, following an illness of a year. Dr. McComas had been bedfast for more than two months suffering intensely as the result af an incurable maladv, notwithstanding the efforts of medical and surgical specialists to stay the progress of the disease. Many hundreds mourn his passing.

Dr. McComas was born in Oakland on February 12, 1866, a son of the late Dr. J. Lee McComas and Ellen Wheeler McComas, natives of Baltimore, who came to Oakland at the close of the Civil War. He was aged 73 years.

Dr. McComas received his early education in the public schools of Oakland, subsequently attending the University of West Virginia and later the Penhcy School at Baltimore, at that time under the direction of Colonel Johnson. As his ambition led to the medical profession he entered the medical department of the University of Maryland and was graduated April 17, 1888, with the degree of M.D.

Upon completion of his professional education he returned to Oakland where he established himself in the general practice of medicine. A close and thorough student, and possessing an inherent love of his profession, he attained a high standing among physicians of the county and was recognized by all as one of the most able practitioners in this section of Maryland.

Dr. McComas, even in his early days as a physician did many delicate surgical operations and later established a hospital here which was patronized by residents for a number of years.

On January 27 of the present year, at the annual meeting of the Allegany-Garrett Medical Society in Cumberland. Dr. McComas was honored for his service as a physician. His colleagues paid tribute to him for his fifty years' practice and praised him for skill and courage which saved the lives of many a man, woman and child on prosperous farms or in mountain cabins of Garrett county. Leaders of the profession told how Dr. McComas pioneered in kitchen-tabe surgery at a time when there was no hospital in Garrett county and for lack of transporation facilities hospitals in Cumberland might as well have been as far distant as five hundred miles. They told also there was no hope for the dying except in this country doctor's kit of instruments and a few vials of drugs. He was presented at that time with a big silver platter with names of members of the society engraved upon it. He at the time of the meeting was a patient in Memorial Hospital in Cumberland, but he attended the meeting and related some of his experiences—times when he rode as many as seven hours on horseback through blizzards to relieve distress.

Politically Dr. McComas was a Republican and was actively identified with his party. He served two terms as a member of the Oakland Town Council and as Mayor of Oakland during 1896 and 1897. He was a former State Senator from this county and at the time of his death was a member of the Maryland State Conservation Commission, having been appointed on that important commission by former Governor Harry W. Nice. He was interested in the wildlife of the county many years before being appointed to the Conservation Commission and since his appointment had done many things tending to improve conditions along these lines.

He was not only active in the practice of medicine and in politics, but had been identified with a number of community interests. He was a charter member of Garrett Lodge, No. 113, Knights of Pythias, and in October would have been a member of that organization for fifty years. He was one of the organizers of the Oakland Rotary Club and its first president. He was a member of the Methodist church and served officially on the Board of Directors of the Garrett National Bank and was its vice-president at the time of his death, having been re-elected as such at the meeting held in February.

During the many years the Garrett County Agricultural Fair Association was in existence, Dr. McComas was a member of the Board of Directors and its president for a number of terms.

He married Miss Annie West, only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. West, on November 16, 1884, who survives with the following children: Mrs. Edward Lawrence, Mrs. Paul McIntire, R. Carlton McComas and Henry W. McComas, Jr., all of Oakland, and by one brother, J. Lee McComas, also of Oakland. Two adult sons, Harry McComas and Joseph McComas, and a daughter, Anna McComas, died a number of years ago.

Funeral Service Held Yesterday

The funeral service for Dr. McComas was conducted yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from St. Paul's Methodist church, Rev. W. S. Patterson, pastor, officiating, assisted by the Rev. David C. Trimble, Episcopal rector, Oakland.

Rites at the grave were in charge of the Knights of Pythias and members of the order, James Bell, Lawrence M. Fraley, A. G. Gortner, Grover C. Stemple, Guy Hinebaugh and Irvin R. Rudy were active pallbearers. The Rotary Club attended in a body. Interment was in the family plot in Oakland cemetery.

Honorary pallbearers were Judge Duer, member of the Conservation Commission; Frank Bentz, clerk of the Commission, both of Baltimore; Dr. N. I. Broadwater, Dr. Clift P. Berger, Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, Dr. M. C. Hinebaugh: Joseph E. Harned, Wm. A. Sturgiss, Thomas A. Gonder, all of Oakland; other Garrett county physicians; Dr. A. H. Hawkins, Dr. W. A. Gracie, Dr. H. L. Tolson, Dr. J. K Cowherd and thirty-three other physicians of Allegany county.

Oakland High To Open Baseball Season Next Week

Oakland High school baseball team will open its season next week with fair prospects for a successful season, according to Coach Thomas V. Baucom. Inclement weather has kept the members from getting much practice, so that the strength of the team is rather uncertain.

Oakland will play games with Rowlesburg, Beall, Tunnelton, Kitzmiller, the West Virginia Deaf School and possibly others. The opening game at Oakland will be on May 3. Their games next week will be played away from home.

Henline and Sweitzer, pitcher and shortstop of last year's team, are lost for this year. Holdovers are Arthur Wolf, William Faherty, Robert Root, William Sharps, Harry Sanders, Darrell DeWitt and Junior Sanders, with other candidates ready to fill the vacancies created.

Mrs. Emerie Dusic entertained members of her bridge club on Wednesday evening.

VETERAN SURGEON PAYS TRIBUTE TO DR. M'COMAS

Dr. Hawkins Hails Local Physician As "Great Man"; Others Express Themselves

CROWD ATTENDS SERVICE

"He loved to do for people," Dr. Hawkins said of Dr. McComas who died Monday after a half-century of service as a physician in this county. His death breaks a chain of 100 years of continuous medical service provided for the county people by Dr. McComas and his father.

"Dr. McComas was the outstanding physician within 100 miles of Oakland. He was as well known in Baltimore as he was in Western Maryland. He was one of the kindest persons I ever knew and also one of the happiest. He would do anything for a friend and he had many.

"There were no sour notes in his makeup. Although he suffered agony during his last illness he never lost his optimism. After a particularly painful period he would turn with a twinkle in his eye and make a little joke.

"Dr. McComas had a deep and abiding belief in the hereafter. He was a laborer in the full sense of the word. Although he had other interests his big interest was always medicine. He had wonderful hands and great skill and judgment. He had the real Christian spirit and loved to do for people. He had the keenest eyes one ever looked into. His death leaves a gap that they won't be able to fill in Garrett county," he concluded.

Others Pay Tribute

Although perhaps not as expressive as Dr. Hawkins, hundreds of people nevertheless paid their respects to Dr. McComas in other ways.

Since his death on Monday it was impossible to go into any section of the county without hearing his passing discussed and his deeds through the years praised highly. Farmers, miners, sportsmen, town people, all were feeling the loss distinctly, for in many cases he had administered to their needs throughout his career and the personal contact had created a bond that could not be dimmed through the years.

The respect in which his profession held him was attested by the fact that thirty-six Allegany county medical men were among the honorary pallbearers at the funeral service on Wednesday.

Hundreds of people called at the McComas home to express their sympathy and the Methodist church was packed during the actual services.

April and March Appear Mixed

April weather became a little mixed with the March variety this week and as a result the county has been the recipient of a number of snow flurries and a temperature as low as 20 degrees, which was the reading this morning.

The snow has not remained for any length of time, however, and some warmer weather has been interspersed between the snow flurries.

HELEN SHREVE IS COUNTY ESSAY CONTEST WINNER

Will Vie With Winners In Allegany and Washington Counties To Represent Group I Bankers

LOCAL WINNERS LISTED

Helen Shreve, senior student in Oakland High school, was declared the county winner in the essay contest sponsored by the Maryland Bankers' Association, and will vie with winners in Allegany and Washington counties for the chance to represent group I at the annual meeting of the association in Atlantic City, N. J., on May 4 and 5. Miss Shreve is a bus student and resides in Gorman.

The Maryland Bankers' Association has offered a scholarship of $1,000 in a college course for the best essay on "What Our Bank Means to Our Community." Winners from each of the seven groups in the state will be invited to attend the Atlantic City meeting with hotel and traveling expenses paid. The seven individuals will deliver their papers before the convention and the winner will be awarded the scholarship to be used at the rate of $250 per year. The winner may select the college. Group I winner will be decided at a meeting in Cumberland.

Miss Shreve's essay was selected from among forty-seven which were entered in the contest from the six county high schools.

The four banks in the county offered additional prizes of $10 to the county winner, $5 to the first place winner in each high school, and $2.50 to the second place winner in each school. Judges selected the winners in the various communities and the twelve essays were then turned over to Delbert M. Davis, cashier of the First National Bank, and secretary of Group I Bankers. Mr. Davis called in two judges to assist him in his final selection.

Winners in the various high schools were as follows:

Accident—Margaret Schmale, 1st; Marjorie Riley, 2nd.

Friendsville—Dorothy Glenn, 1st; Charles Thomas, 2nd.

Grantsville—Mary Schaefer, 1st; Ruby Buckel, 2nd.

Kempton—Dale Duling, 1st; Eva Cooke, 2nd.

Kitzmiller—Joseph Markley, 1st; Robertus Stewart, 2nd.

Oakland—Helen Shreve, 1st; Lorena Fitzwater, 2nd.

Miss Shreve's essay will be printed in The Republican next Thursday.

Oakland High Students Get Use Of Athletic Field

Students of Oakland High school have been given permission to use a field containing about 5 acres, for an athletic field, according to a letter to Mr. F. D. Bittle, principal, from Stuart F. Hamill. The field is located near Eighth and High streets.

This is the same field that was under consideration last year in a petition signed last summer by many Oakland citizens, asking that the County Commissioners purchase this ground.

In the last issue of the High school paper, "The Acorn," a story told that students were again confronted with the problem of entering the annual track and field meet, although they had no adequate field on which to practice.

This has been the case for many years, but until last year the activities were carried on in the streets or in the cage. Last year, however, the school decided it would be best to wait until a suitable place had been obtained on which to practice.

When the paper appeared it seemed to be probable that the high school would not enter the meet, but since the permission to use the field, there seems to be some hope.

As soon as the weather is fit the students expect to try out their field, and take some definite action concerning the question.

Cruitt and Miss Cooper; radio broadcast, harmony team with Misses Loretta Frantz and Catherine DeWitt, Simon Cogley and Frank Glaze in fun and song, Dr. Oscar Hall, ventriloquist. Mickey's Band, of Loch Lynn, will furnish the music.

Scoop's Column

By Scoop Himself

Almost any day now I'm expecting to hear, when I lift the telephone receiver off the hook, "Is there something I can do for you today?"

Since this personality plus custom has been approved by the telephone company, it will even be possible to hear some interested soul ask, "Feeling all right today?" before going on with the routine business of wanting to find out what number you want.

The most popular question thus far seems to be "May I help you, please?" as if you weren't expecting a thing when you lifted the receiver.

If the custom goes too far, they might even be inquiring, "How's your Aunt Fanny?"

I guess it'll be all right with me no matter what they say, just so they don't forget that the real thing is to get the number I ask for. No matter how much personality plus gets into this telephone musiness it will be a long time before they find a substitute for "The line's busy."

Why?

Why will business not proceed? Let me illustrate. Will business hunt business? Will investment hunt profit? Will squirrels hunt nuts? Not if you snipe at the squirrels all the time; not if you take all of his nuts in taxes; not if you take the social-security nuts you promised to save for him and he has to watch you munch them now and knows he will have to be taxed more nuts even to get his social security nuts. Is that plain to you?—Rep. Charles L. Gifford (R) Mass., Congressional Record.

Facts

In the past eight years 227,000 more persons left the United States permanently than arrived from foreign countries. In the 100 years in 1830 more than 38,000,000 arrived. This changed situation is having repercussions on many lines.

Fuel efficiency in railroad freight service was one-third greater in 1938 than in 1920.

Operating costs of automobiles have been reduced 35 percent since 1925. The greatest decrease proportionately was in tire costs as a result of greater efficiency and less expensive raw materials. Gasoline costs per mile showed little change.

Heard in the girls' room at the dance the other night: "First time he looked at me I had an idea he had an idea."

A letter to Scoop last week which didn't run in the last issue along with a lot of other articles which weren't published either, asks, "Is it against the law for a man to ride a black horse over the roads of Garrett county?"

If there weren't a hundred or more applicantions for work in the Matthew's property on Oak street (occupied hy Mrs. Harry White) yesterday, then the human race is improving rapidly.

Carpenters and plumbers were there making some repairs and when a partition was knocked out of the basement Stanton Whipkey came across a pint of whiskey, wrapped in a paper more than thirty years old. From the sense of smell (no other sense used, he swears) Mr. Whipkey said it had the characteristics of what the old-timers would call "good stuff." P. S. He gave it away.

MT. LAKE PARK

"Close his ayes; his work is done—
What to him is friend or foeman,
Rise of moon or set of sun—"

His work is done, and it was a good work. Dr. Henry—we do not even have to write his last name—it was always "Doctor Henry".

Mountain Lake Park as well as all of Garrett county will miss him. Personally we speak of Mountain Lake's loss. There is much that we could say, but none of it would or could convey each one's loss of Dr. Henry McComas. He is almost a legendary figure, as was his father before him.

As man may—he fought his fight, and proved his truth by his endeavor.

We could not forget to mention what Miss Katherine O'Donnell, postmistress, is doing to help beautify the postoffice premises. Some lovely pine trees have been planted, not only in front of the postoffice, but near the State road. A plot of ground has been laid off for a beautiful flower bed. Last year Miss O'Donnell had a small flower plot which attracted the attention of all people who passed through here on the B. & O. She has tried very hard to make this spot attractive and this year when trains go through the passengers will really be able to see something. Our congratulations to Miss O'Donnell, who is trying to make things attractive.

DOCTOR HENRY—

People in all walks of life mourn the passing of Doctor Henry W. McComas. For fifty years he saved the lives of the poor and the rich, the farmer, the laborer, and the business man.

He was subject to their call at all hours of the night and day—whenever and wherever sickness in any form descended. Many hundreds of people in the county today were brought into the world by "Doctor Henry," as he was intimately termed by his friends.

People will miss him as their friend, as their physician, as their adviser.

The immediate community will miss his presence in every-day affairs. He was active in quite a number of organizations formed for the betterment of mankind, and his whole life apparently had been given over to helping humanity.

Other physicians will fill the vacancy thus made in the medical ranks and they will render service to suffering mankind. Other people will fill his place in the various organizations in which he had been active. Others will be active in community affairs and their interest will be acceptable to the people.

But there was only one "Doctor Henry," and he has passed on. His passing is deeply regretted.

YOUTH IN LIMELIGHT—

Indications from all parts of the United States are that the observance of Boys and Girls Week, April 29 to May 6, will be more widespread this year than ever before.

The Rotary club has sponsored this event here for anumber of years, several years ago as Boys' week, and since 1934 including the girls.

The objects are worthy and are repeated here, merely to give the older citizens of the county some food for thought.

1. To focus public attention upon boys and girls, their potentialities, and their problems, to the end that increasing numbers of adults may be awakened to the joys and opportunities of youth service and inspired to participate.

2. To give impetus to year-round programs of character building activities for the general welfare of boys and girls; and to acquaint the public with the agencies which are serving this purpose.

3. To emphasize the importanee of a sound body, a trained mind, and spiritual growth in the complete development of the boy and girl; and to emphasize the important functions of the home, the church, and the school in such development.

4. To emphasize the need of instilling in the boys and girls the love of country and respect for its laws and established institutions and of bringing to each the realization of his duties and responsibilities as a citizen.

Citizens will be able to help see that these objectives are achieved when the local club announces its detailed program which will include an achievement contest.

To Plant 150,000 Pine Trees On Western Maryland Land

Approximately 150,000 white and red pine trees were shipped yesterday from the State nursery at College Park to Western Maryland where they will be planted on forest lands, according to an announcement by F. W. Besley, State Forester.

The trees are to be planted within the next two weeks on sections of State land where there is a scarcity of trees. Within a short time 350,000 small trees are also to be transplanted from College Park to Western Maryland where, after they have grown sufficiently, they will be used for field planting.

Mr. Besley also said the State nursery at College Park had distributed about 100,000 trees, mostly pines, to individuals in the State for forest planting. The trees are sold at a nominal cost.

Churches Well Filled at Easter

Churches of Oakland and in all sections of the county were well filled at the Easter services marking the resurrection of Christ from the dead.

The Easter parade of spring fashions, however, was at a minimum, for there were about two inches of snow fell during the previous night which left the mountain top cold and made it necessary for most of the women, as well as the men, to wear winter clothing. A few brave young ladies, however, appeared in their spring attire, which made them look very courageous indeed against a background of snow.

By evening most of the snow had disappeared and the following day was an ideal balmy spring day.

Farmers Seem To Be Egging On Their Hens To Bigger Exhibits

It's as broad as it is long. And not to keep you in suspense too long, we'll explain.

We mean the egg William Fitzwater, of Swanton, brought to The Republican office last Monday, and for circumference around the short way, Mr. Fitzwater or more likely Mr. Fitzwater's White Leghorn hen, gets the blue ribbon in that one direction.

Mr. Fitzwater's exhibit was 2¾ inches long and weighed four ounces. The circumference the short way was 6⅞ inches and the long way 8¼ inches.

Mr. Hauser, however, retains the blue ribbon for having the longest egg, it having been 3¼ inches long, and its circumference, the long way, was only 8⅛ inches, while around the short way it was 6 inches. Dan Liechty's hen holds second place on the short way circumference, the egg he exhibited being 6¾ inches.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 63. OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND, APRIL 20, 1939. NUMBER 8.

HARVEY J. SPEICHER IS FOUND DEAD IN HIS BED

Succumbs Suddenly Saturday Morning at his Accident Home; Death Due To Heart Attack

WAS FORMER LEGISLATOR

Harvey J. Speicher, State Senator from Garrett county from 1910 to 1922, and prominent farmer and stockman of Accident, was found dead in his bed last Saturday morning at his home by his son Dwight. Death was due to a heart attack.

Apparently he had been in his usual health on the day previous to his sudden death, having been in Oakland the night previous on business. He had been conducting weekly stock sales at Accident for several months and had been active in the cattle business as well as in agricultural pursuits. His death was thought to have occurred about 2:30 o'clock Saturday morning.

Mr. Speicher was a son of the late John P. and Catherine Speicher, was born at Accident November 21, 1873, where he lived the entire sixty-five years of his lifetime. He was one of Garrett county's substantial taxpayers. Mr. Speicher has staged two unsuccessful comeback attempts for the Republican nomination for the State Senate—in 1934 and again last year, and lost in the primary election by a small margin both times. He was recently elected mayor of Accident.

During his term in the State Senate he had held the balance of power during the battle for Nation-wide prohibition and cast the deciding vote which made Maryland a dry State. He was an advocate of local option and a measure sponsored by him in the Senate and passed in both Houses of the Legislature, provided for a referendum on the bill, which was adopted by the voters prior to the prohibition era. During his last eight years in the Legislature he served as minority floor leader, and during the life of the Garrett County Agricultural Fair Association he was an interested participant and helper.

Mr. Speicher was at one time the second largest importer of full blooded horses in the United States, and from 1901 to 1917 carried on a thriving business in this connection, making a trip to Belgium in 1908 to do his buying personally. He purchased many purebred Belgian Percherons during his sixteen years in this business.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Emma (Gnagey) Speicher, Accident, whom he married on May 9, 1897, and five sons, Earl and Dwight, of Accident; Walter Speicher, an assistant clerk of the Court, and Dr. Glenn Speicher, both of Westminster; Hobart Speicher, Grantsville; also by two brothers, Henry M. Speicher, of Accident, and J. Mahlon Speicher, of Morgantown, West Va., and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from St. Paul's Lutheran church, at Accident, with the Rev. Mr. Kauffman, of Somerset, Pa., officiating. Interment was in the cemetery of the Church of the Brethren at Accident, of which denomination he was a member.

Pallbearers were Alva R. Martin, Carl W. Frazee and Henry Smouse, of Oakland; Mahlon Brenneman, W. H. Haenftling and Earl Coddington, of Accident.

Flowerbearers and honorary pallbearers included Newton Gies, A. J. Richter, F. E. Spoerlein, E. H. Ault, R. C. Turney, Walter Fratz, D. O. King, Sherman Frazee, C. C. Goehringer, Harry Liston, F. P. Miller, Harrison Kamp, George Weitzel, of Accident; Alex Frazee, Friendsville; C. M. Railey, George Sebold, McHenry; W. C. Welch, H. W. McComas, Jr., Oakland; Clyde Shipley, Ray Taylor, Mt. Lake Park; Ed. Helbig, C. F. Rollman, Deer Park; Otho S. Fike, Jesse Merrill, Avilton; John Prichard, Grantsville; John Dawkins, Bridgeport, W. Va.; James Shoemaker, William Miller, L. C. Hawkins, Fairmont; Ira Mahaffy, Terra Alta, W. Va.

FORMER SENATOR DIES

HARVEY J. SPEICHER

WILL OF LATE DR. M'COMAS PROBATED IN LOCAL COURT

Veteran Physician Distributed Property In Conventional Manner

The last will and testament of the late Dr. Henry W. McComas, of Oakland, was probated in the Garrett County Orphans' Court on Saturday, April 15, and in it the veteran physician distributed his property among members of his family with the exception of a few minor items.

The will was executed on December 5, 1938, and was witnessed by Miss Florence Browning and Ernest Ray Jones. Under the provisions of the will R. C. McComas, the eldest son of the testator, and Howard C. Riggs, cashier of The Garrett National Bank in Oakland, are appointed executors.

The will provides that after payment of all just debts and funeral expenses, that the residue of the estate be divided as follows:

An amount equal to one-third of his entire estate to his widow, Mrs. Annie West McComas.

To Mrs. Jean McComas, widow of the late Harry McComas, $100. Mrs. McComas now resides in Tuscon, Arizona.

A trust fund of $500 for his brother, J. Lee McComas, which fund is to be held by the cashier of the Garrett National Bank as trustee.

The balance of his estate to be divided equally among his sons and daughters, R. C. McComas, Mrs. Nell McComas Lawrence, Mrs. Martha McComas McIntire, Henry W. McComas, Jr., and his granddaughter, Margaret Sincell McComas, to share and share alike.

A provision of the will gives R. C. McComas a year's option to purchase the testator's one-half interest in the McComas beach property on Deep Creek Lake for the sum of $5,000. The other half interest is now owned by R. C. McComas.

Rains Bring Higher Waters

Continued rains during several days of the past week caused the streams of this section to rise almost to flood stage, but other than a few of the lowlands being covered there was no danger or loss involved.

A sudden thunder shower on Tuesday was followed by a hailstorm which lasted for several minutes and practically covered the ground with pill-sized pellets. The hail cooled the atmosphere considerably and it has remained cold since that time.

CIVIC GROUPS RECOMMEND NEEDS IN CITY BUILDING

Representatives Draw Up Suggestions and Present Them To City Council Monday

ASK FOR CONSIDERATION

Representatives of five community organizations, at a recent meeting, made a number of recommendations concerning the interior of the Community building-to-be, which they presented to the Mayor and Town Council for their thought and consideration prior to the actual construction of the building, at a meeting of the city fathers on Monday evening.

The representatives were from the Oakland Homemakers club, The Oakland Girl Scout Troop committees, the Oakland Boy Scout Troop committees, the Oakland Civic Club, at the Mt. Top Ministers association.

The recommendations were made to the council by letter and were presented and read before the council. The letter stated that it was hoped that the council would accept the recommendations in the same spirit in which they were offered,—that the community needs would be taken care of adequately—and that such recommendations were being presented in plenty of time prior to the erection of the building, so that the members could give them the proper thought and consideration.

The blue-print plans specify on the second floor two rooms 25x32, and one room 12x18-6, while on the first floor there are two rooms 18-3x25, a check room and a ticket office room, each 12 by 13, and toilet facilities. One of the larger rooms downstairs was designed as a Library. In the original plans the kitchen is in the basement, connecting with the locker rooms, underneath the dressing rooms.

The recommendations made by the group include the following:

That a reading room be in connection with the Library, and that the Library be on the second floor, to get away from the confusion often prevailing at the front entrance of a public building.

That storage space be provided under the stage for chairs, tables, etc., as the present plans do not seem to make any provision for things of this nature.

That the kitchen be on the first floor in a convenient location for serving, etc., and not be in the basement, as in the original plan. This might be done by making an addition in the rear, or in the corner back of the fire house, or it might be combined with the dressing rooms by the stage, as these rooms would not be used for a play and a dinner at the same time.

Furthermore, that some competent woman, probably the home demonstration agent, be given the opportunity to plan the kitchen, so that it could be made efficient. Should there be conventions here or large banquets, an efficient kitchen would be necessary.

That adequate room space be made available for youth organizations, such as 4-H, boy and girl scouts, boys' band, besides space for the American Legion, the Civic club, the Homemakers club and other adult groups. This might be done by making sliding partitions of the larger rooms, separating them into small meeting rooms but keeping them available for larger rooms when necessary.

That some definite thought be directed toward the method of proper organized management and supervision, after the building will have been completed. Possibly there should be two rooms where a man and wife could live as caretakers, so that when the building is completed there will be a person in the building at all times so that there will be chance for some organized play among the underprivileged children.

That if possible outside doors or exits be provided, in addition to the main entrance, sufficient in number to make it safe, in case of fire.

That if the fire department is made separate, that the space which would have been used for the fire trucks, be given over to a swimming pool area, to be completed when funds are available.

That the interior be so constructed so as to benefit the greatest number, especially the children and young people of the community.

The committee was pleasantly received by Council and thanked for the suggestions and interest of those whom the committee represented.

DEPOSITORS OF OLD BANK TO GET INTEREST CHECKS

Dividends Payable Friday Equal To 7.66 Percent of Original Claims

Final interest dividend checks to depositors of the old Garrett National Bank of Oakland will be ready for distribution on Friday (tomorrow) morning, April 21, it was announced today by John H. Hoffman, receiver, who has been in charge of the affairs of the old bank for several months.

The dividend amounts to 7.66 per cent of the original claims and will make the total paid to depositors $107.66 for each $100 on deposit at the date of suspension.

So far as is known very few of the many thousands which were closed during the moratorium, have surpassed this record. The time required for the job of liquidation was slightly less than five and one-half years, having started about December 1, 1933. This was some weeks after the new bank was opened for business.

The first payment was a 60-percent dividend. Mr. Hoffman stated that this trust had been mostly free from those distasteful and embarrassing tasks which many receivers experience.

Mr. Hoffman said that within a short time he will turn over to the original stockholders what is left of the uncollected assets.

Claimants are being requested to call promptly for checks so that there would be as little delay as possible in closing the trust.

Relief In Garrett County Is More Than Half Total Tax Levy

Relief expenditures in Maryland's counties in 1938 approximated one-fifth of the total cost of county government in the state for one year, a survey shows.

Based on figures furnished by the Board of State Aid and Charities and a tabulation of county tax levies for the fiscal year 1938-39, the comparison showed that $15,436,534 was levied, and $3,445,301 spent for relief in 1938.

Neither figure included Baltimore City where the tax levy approximated 33 million and relief expenditures amounted to more than 6 million.

In Garrett county relief programs cost a sum equivalent to considerably more than half the total tax levy. The relief figures included some of the funds for which the counties levied, as under the state's program, state and local governments must put up a percentage of matching funds to obtain federal aid.

The levy in Garrett county in 1938 was $252,169, and $155,515 was spent for relief, the survey showed.

Mission At St. Matthew's Parish House, April 23 to April 30

Beginning next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and continuing each day, except Saturday, for one week through Sunday, April 30, a preaching mission will occupy the most prominent place upon the calendar of St. Matthew's Parish. These services will be held in the Parish House, Center street, and are scheduled for each evening at 7:30 o'clock and each afternoon at 3:30 o'clock there will be a special service for boys and girls.

The Rev. McVeigh Harrison, O.H.C., of the Order of the Holy Cross of the Episcopal church, is coming to Oakland from West Park, New York, to have complete charge of the mission. He will also preach each Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

The Order of the Holy Cross carries on extensive mission work in Africa and conducts numerous boys schools in this country. Its headquarters is the Monastery at West Park.

To Initiate Candidates Into The Knights Of Columbus

At the regular meeting of the Knights of Columbus, Oakland Council, on Tuesday evening, plans were made to send a class of candidates to Frostburg on Monday, April 24, for the first degree of the order.

The class was organized as a result of the recent visit to Oakland of John A. Flanigan, State Deputy. The candidates will include John A. Maroney, Percy Lawton, Robert Stanton, Roger Maroney, Bruce Jenkins, Edward Maroney and Fred. W. Helbig.

At Tuesday's meeting the following were reinstated, William R. Pendergast, M. W. Pendergast, Joseph Stanton and Robert Wolfe. The Oakland council is headed by Edward A. Shaffer, grand knight. The council meets the second Tuesday of each month.

FIREMEN TO HOLD SECOND ANNUAL JULY 4TH JUBILEE

Bantley Shows to be Here for Entire Week of July 3 to 8

Arrangements have been completed with Bantley's Great Shows, to exhibit in Oakland, at the second annual Firemen's Jubilee, to be held during the week of July 3 to 8, it has been announced by the Firemen's committee.

According to advance information this year's celebration will surpass any previous fun-fests ever held in Oakland. The Bantley Shows will have at least 10 rides and 10 shows, besides a large number of concessions. Arrangements are being made to locate the show on the ball park, just west of the town.

Several thousand people have been attracted to these celebrations in past years and the fire committee stated it was making every effort to make this year's celebration the biggest and best of them all.

BLOOMINGTON ONE OF 18 "GHOST TOWNS" IN STATE

Towns Still There As Always, But Civic Government Has Ceased

Eighteen Maryland towns, complete with city charter, boundaries and duties, have no official existence except in the statute books and court house files.

These towns are called "ghost towns". They are communities which have ceased, quietly and without legal action, to exercise their town government. Their existence came to light in a report made to the General Assembly by the Board of Public Works. It was found that a number of towns which are listed as incorporated, by having charters granted by the General Assembly in years past, have ceased to function," the board said.

Bloomington is the only town of this character in Garrett county among the list of eighteen.

In each case where the town was no longer functioning, and had no officials to carry out any of the duties under the charter, the board brought the matter to the attention of the State senator from each county involved, suggesting that if there was no desire on the part of anyone to continue the corporate existence of the town, that an act of the General Assembly should be passed repealing the charter originally granted. Senate bill No. 330 made such a provision for Bloomington.

Dr. A. S. Cook To Speak At Annual Teachers' Banquet

The second annual banquet of the Garrett County Teachers' Association will be held in the Assembly room of St. Paul's Methodist church in Oakland, Thursday evening, April 27, at 7:00 o'clock.

Dr. Albert S. Cook, State Superintendent of Schools, will be the speaker. Entertainment will include selections by the Oakland High school orchestra, group singing, instrumental selections, a saxophone solo, piano duet and a quartet.

Walter W. Dawson, president of the Board of Education, will be toastmaster. W. J. Glenn, Friendsville, is president of the association of teachers, while Frank Getty, Grantsville, is its vice-president. Mrs. Julius C. Renninger, Jr., is chairman of the banquet committee.

Sportsmen Make Recommendation To O'Conor

At a meeting of the Garrett County Sportsmen's Association on Monday evening those present passed a resolution recommending the appointment of Bernard I. Gonder as a member of the State Conservation Commission, in the event Governor O'Conor considers an appointment from this county. It is probable that one of the members of the new commission will be from Western Maryland.

The Association members feel that this county is entitled to a representative on the commission because of its location and the large amount of forest land and fishing streams.

To Confer Rank Of Knight

The rank of Knight will be conferred upon a class of candidates at the regular meeting of the Knights of Pythias lodge on Friday evening.

Following this there will be refreshments. A large attendance of the membership is being urged.

EXTRA POLICE CALLED TO PREVENT MINE DISORDER

Grantsville Citizens Continue To Stick With Unorganized Miners And Escort Them To Work

ONE MAN IS ARRESTED

Citizens of Grantsville continue to march side by side with unorganized miners to break the massed union picket line which has been hampering the four or more wagon soft coal mines west of Grantsville for the past two or three weeks.

Plans made at a mass meeting of the residents of that usually quiet town on Tuesday night call for the daily parade to the mines until the pickets grow weary. Mine operators and the non-union miners engaged at the mines announced their determination to keep the mines working in the face of persistent reports that the 150 pickets who have been appearing daily will increase their numbers to a thousand or more.

Officials at the mines placed guards around company property Tuesday night following a brush between the pickets and non-union miners on Tuesday morning in which several men were struck by flying stones. The clash involved about 150 pickets and forty miners of the Bowman mine and preceded another demonstration that resulted in the arrest of a man who gave his name as Harry Smith, of Frostburg. He was said by police to have released the end gate of a coal-laden truck enroute from the mine to the railroad siding east of Grantsville.

Remanded To Jail

Taken before Magistrate Charles S. Zeller, he pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs for tampering with a motor vehicle and was remanded to jail in default of payment. He was released during the afternoon following the payment of the fine.

Mine officials said the stone-throwing episode occurred as the miners attempted to report for work. They declared the clash was "not serious" and that the miners proceeded to their jobs without great delay.

Many Grantsville citizens sped to the mines when the town's fire siren was sounded. State police, under command of Lieut. Niles Falkenstine, said the altercation had subsided by the time the citizens arrived.

Seven coal-laden trucks were reported to have been stopped on Meadow Mountain on Tuesday by union men and the coal shoveled off on the roadside. It was also reported that two trucks had been overturned on Little Savage Mountain, west of Frostburg, and the contents of a third dumped.

A more humorous touch was given to the situation by reports that a party of Grantsville women had busied themselves with letting the air out of the tires of union pickets' cars.

Wednesday Fairly Peaceful

The appearance of ten State Policemen at the mines on Wednesday morning kept the situation under control. One attempt to block a truck was nipped by the police, after which there was no further disorder.

Pickets and miners hurled words back and forth throughout the day, and the 150 or more pickets gradually dispersed. Grantsville citizens were again on hand to assist the mine workers should their help be needed.

Court Again Recesses Until Some Future Date

The March Term of the Garrett County Circuit court re-convened on Monday, but recessed almost immediately until sometime in May, when it was learned that Neil C. Fraley, State's Attorney, had become ill Sunday night and was unable to appear and present his cases. Several criminal matters were to have been brought up before the jury at this session, besides some appeals and civil cases. Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan was here to preside.

Sometime ago an explanation was given of socialism, communism and fascism. To these three some one has added two more, naziism and new dealism. Here they all are:

Socialism—You have two cows and give one to your neighbor.

Communism—You have two cows; you give both to the government and the government gives part of the milk to you.

Fascism—You keep both cows and give the milk to the government. The government sells part of the milk to you.

Naziism—The government shoots you and keeps both cows.

New Dealism—The government shoots one cow, milks the other and pours the milk into the river.

Use Your Brains

A winner in a school prize essay wrote this: "A match has ahead, but no brains. When you use its head, use your brains."

That is something for everyone to think about whenever matches are used. If more care was exercised in disposing of matches there would be fewer fires.

Are the Garrett county male school teachers going to have to go high hat? Invitations being sent out have a notation that dark suits will be appropriate for wear at the teachers' banquet to be held shortly. It's going to be tough on the ones with the light and spring-like suits and no more pay days until May. How about cut-aways?

Sam Yoder Purchases Century Old Stone House Farm

Sam Yoder of Grantsville, has purchased the Stone House Farm, one of the first built in the Grantsville section, and took possession last week. The deal was consummated on April 4.

The farm is located three miles east of Grantsville and its wooded acres and grassy slopes have made it one of the most beautiful farms in that section.

The house was built by Jesse Tomlinson, who went to Grantsville from Wills Creek about 1770. At that time the property was given the name of "Little Meadows," which name it still bears. For a time Mr. Tomlinson operated a tavern on the site, called "Red House," and later erected the "Stone House." It has stood through the years as a historical landmark on the highway, and near the site of a small fort built by George Washington on one of his campaigns to Fort Pitt, which has long been effaced.

At one time the place was the center of politics and society in Northwestern Allegany county. The Stone House has come under various ownerships thru the yeras, the Kuykendalls, of Cumberland, being the last owners. It has been modernized and kept up and is still a beautiful and comfortable country home and an attractive site on the National Highway.

Homer Martin, head of the Independent United Auto Workers Union, now an opponent of John L. Lewis, was steering his organization back into the American Federation of Labor. He wants to regain his charter.

DAILY DOZEN RULES OF HEALTH ARE SUGGESTED

Grown-Ups As Well As Juniors Can Follow These Profitably

In calling attention to the "Health Rules" given below, Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the Maryland State Department of Health, says that though they were formulated especially for "Juniors" in many ways they could be very profitably followed by grown-ups as well as by the youngsters.

The "Health Rules" are part of the suggested program arranged by the National Health Week Committee of the U. S. Public Health Service for this year's observance of Health Week. The "Daily Dozen" follow:

1. Eat three wholesome meals (including fruit, leafy vegetables and whole-grain cereal and bread) regularly every day, with no candy or other sweets between meals. Sit down to eat, chew thoroughly and eat slowly.
2. Drink at least one pint of fresh milk every day, but not tea or coffee.
3. Drink four glasses, or more, of water every day between meals.
4. Sleep 10 to 12 hours every night, warmly covered and with bedroom window(s) open. "Early to bed and early to rise make a man (child, too), healthy and wise."
5. Spend an hour or two outdoors daily in the air and sunlight. When the weather keeps you indoors, play inside with the windows open.
6. Have one good movement every day, preferably in the morning.
7. Brush your teeth carefully and well twice a day, morning and night.
8. Keep the body and clothes clean. Take a warm, complete bath at least twice a week. Don't neglect hair and fingernails.
9. Wash hands thoroughly before eating, and after going to the toilet.
10. Always carry a clean handkerchief and cover mouth and nose when coughing or sneezing. Don't go to school if you have a "bad cold."
11. You should be examined by a medical doctor every year. Your dentist should examine your teeth and mouth twice a year. If you need treatment don't be afraid of the doctor. He is your friend. Be sure you are protected from smallpox by vaccination and from diphtheria by immunization.
12. Keep cheerful. A good disposition helps you to have good health. Be careful. Accidents are numerous and dangerous. When crossing the street, STOP, LOOK and LISTEN! "SAFETY FIRST" is a good watchword.

MT. LAKE PARK

Taking a stroll between showers and hail stones on Tuesday evening we were agreeably surprised at the "cleaning up". Our walk took us over a good part of the Park and everywhere there were signs of cleanliness and orderliness. This was particularly true of the Park property. The groves had been cleaned, outbuildings put in order, old rubbish hauled away. Just whom we are to congratulate on this we are not sure but the town premices are looking fine and the Self-Help School quarters show a great deal of needful work being done. House owners are busy too. Certainly the Park never looked in better condition. Let's keep it that way.

RULES FOR DEMOCRACY

Judge Florence F. Allen, the first woman Federal Circuit Court Judge, is keenly interested in democracy and peace. She has been active in the movement to outlaw war, but she realizes that both peace and democracy depend upon more than laws and pacts and the right to vote. In a recent address on "The Constitution of the United States as an Instrument of Freedom," she said:

"If I had the right, I would require that every child in the public schools of the United States learn—

"The first part of the Declaration of Independence, which tells why we severed our ties with England;

"The Preamble of the Constitution;

"The First Amendment to the Constitution, which is the Bill of Rights;

"The Gettysburg Address;

"The Multi-lateral Pact for the Renunciation of War—the Kellogg Peace Pact signed in Paris in 1928."

An American who understood those five great documents would understand what democracy is and how it may be preserved, and also the foundations upon which a true and lasting peace must be built.

It would be a fine patriotic service for someone to print them in a convenient and attractive form for general distribution.

THURSDAY, APRIL 20,

THE RIGHT TO WORK—

Among the many things guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States are freedom, protection of one's property and the right of an individual to pursue his normal course of living, which means he has a perfect right to work and support himself and his family. In doing so he is entitled to the full protection of the laws of the county, State and if necessary, the Federal Government.

Some of these rights were violated two years ago when workers entered the factories of employers unlawfully and used the "sit-down" strike rather effectively. President Roosevelt stood idly by, Governor Murphy, Michigan, at that time, also stood idly by and forgot entirely the principles of human freedom.

Eventually the Supreme Court of the United States came along and outlawed such occupation of other people's property, but not before great damage had been done.

The same principle is involved on a much smaller scale in this county, and if not subdued by the legally delegated authorities, in future years will reflect on American ideals, and be a blot on law and order in this county.

There are some two hundred bituminous coal miners in the vicinity of Grantsville who are satisfied they have a job, are earning an honest living and want to be let alone and be permitted to continue work. These men told their employers so, and as a result the employers are operating their mines and are giving these two hundred people steady employment at a living wage.

These mines are located in an unorganized field and the men employed do not belong to any union.

They were going about the business in the usual orderly manner when union miners throughout the Appalachian region refused to go back to their work on account of some wage agreement which had not been signed by the owners and operators of the mines of the region.

Because they are not at work union miners of Allegany county and from other sections "invade" Garrett county and endeavor to keep the unorganized miners from working. Why? They have no right to do so.

An individual has a perfect right to work if he wants to do so, and anybody or any organization that transgresses upon that right of a free individual, that person or that organization has overstepped its authority.

Within the past few days pickets have gathered by the hundred in an endeavor to stop the free workers. Stones have been thrown and some of the men struck by the missiles. The local miners sought the protection of the law. Two weeks ago they got that protection from State's Attorney Neil C. Fraley, who advised the "invaders" to leave the county and not molest the Garrett county workers. Mr. Fraley is now in a hospital, unable to back the stand he took at the outset of the "invasion."

On Tuesday of this week they asked for protection from the local officers. People of Grantsville are saying "they didn't get it from Sheriff Owens, who apparently leaned in favor of the pickets, but that the State Police were doing their duty."

Wednesday, with additional help from the State police, there was no disorder. Sheriff Owens, however, states he was "trying to avert trouble."

The situation is still full of dynamite. Grantsville people (and they are thoroughly law-abiding) are aroused and feel that the invasion of their usual peaceful community is unwarranted and they are determined to assist the unorganized workers against union pickets and keep the mines going.

Peace should be restored to that community, if it takes the National guard to do it. The State of Maryland can hardly be a protector of the rights of its citizens and permit such a mess to continue. The State cannot readily allow, along the State highway or on any other public highway, trucks of citizens to be turned over and other unlawful acts committed, and do nothing.

Whatever right the union has, it has no right to send men to Garrett county from another part of the State or from anywhere else, to try to prevent men from working who want that privilege of earning an honest living for themselves and those depending upon them.

Whatever are the sympathies of the Sheriff or any other officer of this county or State, his plain duty is to protect the citizens and their property. That is what they qualified to do when they were sworn into office.

Politics has no place in this crisis.

What the people want is protection, and they ought to have it one hundred per cent.

Paragraph Opinions . . .

A lot of riders and amendments on bills always slip through the legislature at the last moment. The latest one about which there is being a lot of howl raised is a law requiring every motorist to purchase a "tag lock" at a cost of 50 cents. There is about as much need for a "tag lock" as there is for traffic lights on the Sahara desert and won't do anybody and good but those who manufacture the locks. It also adds another burden on the motorist, who is already paying about 40 per cent of the total State tax expense.

There ought to be a law against last-minute riders to bills in the General Assembly, especially against those riders that smell of graft.

People who have suggested as to where would be a suitable place for the Community building, and a place where the owners wouldn't want exorbitant prices for their holdings, will be cordially received by members of the Town Council. They'd like to know the citizens' ideas on the subject.

It is getting to the place where something definite should be done.

The Allegany county tax rate this year is to be $1.60—ten cents higher than last year.

Taxpayers of Garrett county should not feel so badly about the $1.15 rate.

Several years ago when the New Deal Government came along and wanted to loan money to farmers and others to save their homes, it looks now like they were just holding out candy to a lot of "suckers."

More than 500 persons from several New England states were in Washington recently on behalf of legislation to reduce the HOLC interest rate from 5 per cent to 4 per cent, declare a two-year moratorium of foreclosures and give borrowers 30 years instead of 15 years to pay off the principal.

The HOLC has foreclosed or authorized foreclosure on 152,000 of its slightly more than one million mortgages. Another 500,000 mortgagors were in various degrees of default.

In last week's issue of the paper across the street three properties were advertised for sale under this HOLC.

It may be a new deal, but it looks like they had the cards stacked against the borrowers before the game started.

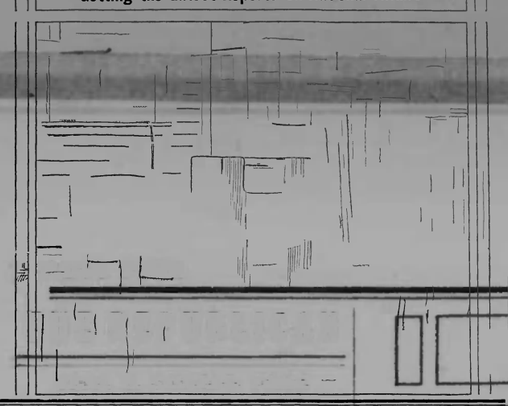
Yes, there is still a sun. It came out at least three times on Tuesday.

And there's warmer weather on the way—but I don't know when it will arrive.

Getting the Latest Reports on National Affairs



Idleness, Segregated Into Three Distinct Groups, Is The Most Difficult Problem Confronting The Nation Today. Is The Opinion Of This Writer From The Sang Run Community.

To the Editor of The Republican.

One of the most formidable and difficult problems confronting our nation today is idleness—idleness that can be segregated into three distinct groups.

There

ity endured inevitably through individuals being permanently or temporarily incapacitated. This form of illness is unavoidable generally, and is therefore excusable.

The second group is likewise excusable, for two comprise that class who, with anxious zeal, pursue every clue that may lead to employment—even part-time. Within this second type are concealed talents and naturally acquired traits whose tact and ability to adjust themselves to new surroundings, even under adverse conditions, would amaze, if not abash, some of our highly educated professional business men. But their talents are held dormant. And through dormancy their inherited abilities are seriously impaired, for these invaluable gifts of nature are hampered and not allowed to expand to their intended proportions, thereby making it impossible for the public to realize the value of what has been lost because no opportunities have ever arisen through which victims of this second group might have exercised and developed their dreams and ideals. So it must be freely admitted that these individuals who should enjoy, and are entitled, to a career, and who could efficiently handle responsible positions, are in no way to blame for the idle life which they are forced to adhere to.

Talent does not, however, always exist in the idle person. There are those who, willing and eager to possess alacrity and eager hopes, but because they haven't adequate natural ability they are—even when opportunity does knock—destined to accept manual labor where proficient skill is not required. They are quite possible, of course, for their plight, for everyone cannot inherit smooth business ability. In view of this fact these less fortunate, though willing ones, must be placed in the same group with their more tactful opponents in the complicated race for consideration in the world of employment.

The third and last group of idlers are to be compared neither with the first nor the second type. It is not the first or second class that threatens to become an appalling curse to the optimistic public. It is the third group who have become ensnared in that morale destroying net woven of despair, despondency, pessimism and utter dejection. As has been proven by various methods, including national unemployment census, it is this element that constitute that well-known type of whom we have all heard, or been personally acquainted with: the kind "that won't work now and never will."

Some are "don't care" drifters. Others have completely abandoned the instinctive desire to "try again." They possess no inclination to forge ahead. They cannot refuse with obstinate, resolute will to accept defeat and the languid, idle life as their master. Instead these listless, shiftless victims of the clutches of despair are precipitated to some level or living. Often times these morose "don't-cares" resort to petty hold-ups, picking the pockets of some unsuspecting innocent, etc. Once this occurs the desire to attempt larger and more profitable "jobs" is usually the ultimate result. In the wind-up these "big job" attempts almost invariably culminate in the facing of some stern judge and the hearing of his austere voice meting out the inevitable justice for the

Even though they are physically perfect (both married and single), they have no desire to work. They are content to struggle along to back from place to place and extract from perhaps some illegal source a bare existence. They do not realize nor appreciate the fact that they have been blessed with sound minds and strong, able bodies. Held On Charges Of Theft Of 27 Chickens

West Virginia State Trooper W. C. Davis and Deputy Sheriff Ted Zinn, of Kingwood, made the arrests after the stolen chickens were found in a den-like enclosure near the Sisler home. The officers declared that the fowls were cached in a place that looked as if it were a long-used hiding place for stolen livestock.

Assemblyman Nelson Brenneman, of McHenry, spent last Monday in Oakland, having been summoned to attend court, but owing to the illness of State's Attorney Fraley court was recessed until a later date. In the meantime, however, Mr. Brenneman filled in the time by relating to his friends some of his experiences as a first-term legislator, and as a whole they were not to the liking of a man of Mr. Brenneman's make-up and integrity, especially when, if he opposed a measure under discussion, he was requested by some of the would-be "bosses" in the House to absent himself when the roll was called on the bill, thus apparently justifying himself in the eyes of his constituents. Of course Mr. Brenneman refused consistently to accede to these various invitations.

BEST CHANCE FOR CURE THRU EARLY DISCOVERY

Chest Clinics Being Held This Month Throughout Nation

Chest clinics for early discovery of tuberculosis will be held in every part of the country this month in connection with the annual "Early Discovery, Early Recovery" campaign of the National and State Tuberculosis Associations. Redoubled efforts will be made in the regular chest clinics held thruout Maryland to reach persons of all age groups who show early signs of the disease or who have been in contact with it.

Explaining the emphasis on "early discovery," Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, said, "Tuberculosis doesn't just happen; it always is picked up, somehow, often in childhood, from other cases. Very frequently there is no outward evidence of the disease for a number of years, or until some strain or illness breaks down the powers of resistance and causes the disease to flare up. The best chance for cure is through the discovery and care of the disease while it is in its early stages.

"Tuberculosis is to be found in every age group. No age is entirely free from it, but it takes its heaviest toll among young people—boys and girls still in school, young men and young women just reaching maturity and establishing homes of their own.

"Our boys and girls of school age in Maryland are being safeguarded thru what are known as tuberculin tests—simple skin tests which show whether or not the disease has been acquired at any time—followed by x-ray examinations, which disclose the location and condition of the part affected. Portable x-ray machines which makes these tests possible are owned or are available in all of the County Health Departments. The tests are made with the permission of the parents in connection with the regular health services of the County Departments of Health in the schools. If any evidence of tuberculosis is discovered the finding are explained to the parents, and they are advised as to whatever care or treatment is necessary.

"Similar services are available to others in all age groups, at the regular chest clinics held monthly—or in some counties more frequently—throughout the State. The clinics are held under the joint auspices of the State and County Departments of Health and the State Tuberculosis Association. Persons who are interested in these clinics can find out about them from their own doctors or from the County Health Officer or the Public Health Nurse."

Praises Carroll Casteel as Editor of Hurlock Paper

Folger McKinsey, the Bentztown Bard, Baltimore Sun writer, who published a series of three articles on the town of Hurlock, on the Eastern Shore has the following to say of Carroll W. "Sparky" Casteel and his newspaper:

"The most enterprising spirit in Hurlock is that of the local newspaper, now known as the Dorchester News . . . which aims to take in more territory than merely the upper section of the county, is of regulation seven-column size, and is ably edited by Mr. Carroll W. Casteel, with Mr. Max Chambers as proprietor. It claims to be 'Dorchester County's Best and Most Progressive Weekly Newspaper,' and it has much to establish its reputation as a live and active element in its community.

"Editor Casteel comes from Garrett county, Maryland, and is fully awake to the needs of his adopted community and imbued with an earnest desire to give it the kind of a paper that will keep it awake."

Mr. Casteel is a son of Mrs. Margaret Casteel, Fifth street. A former member of Oakland Scout Troop No. 1, Casteel is scoutmaster of the troop at Hurlock, and is bringing that organization back to life there.

Mrs. Harriet A. Blocher Honored On 91th Birthday

Mrs. Fannie Wilt, of Piedmont, W. Va., gave a party Monday night, April 10, in honor of her mother, Mrs. Harriett A. Blocher, who celebrated her ninety-fourth anniversary Tuesday.

Mrs. Blocher recalls when James Buchanan was president and when matches were invented. When she was a small child it was necessary for the older folks in her family to travel 3 miles to a neighbor's to get fire. "The times have changed so much, life seems to be like a dream," she says.

Mrs. Blocher is a native of New Germany, Garrett county, and makes her home with her children. She is spending the winter and spring here with her daughter, Mrs. Wilt. She was the mother of eight children. Besides Mrs. Wilt, there are four daughters and a son living: Mrs. Enoch Robeson, Avilton; Mrs. Harvey Custer, Eckhart; Mrs. George Bowers, Jennings; Mrs. Zelpha Wilt, Swanton, and John Blocher, Jennings. She also has 41 grandchildren, 80 greatgrandchildren and 2 great-greatgrandchildren.

At the party Mrs. Blocher gave a reading, "The Blackberry Girl," which she learned 85 years ago. Mrs. Rhoda Fike gave a humorous reading and Rev. Fred R. Barnes contributed several vocal solos.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Russell Porter, Miss Effie Custer, of Eckhart; Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Robeson and Edwin Robeson, Avilton; Mrs. Zelpha Wilt, Swanton; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Green; Mrs. Virginia Broadwater, Barton; Mrs. Viola Bray, Mrs. Bessie Rymer, Cumberland; Rev. Correction

It was erroneously reported last week in the Kempton news letter that the marriage of Miss Lucille James to Mr. James Holtschneider had taken place. Miss James, who is residing near Oakland, stated someone had been misinformed.

A search of the marriage records at the Court House revealed that no marriage license had been issued to the parties mentioned as far back as 1936. The item printed last week stated the marriage had occurred March 23, 1937.

Card Of Thanks

We take this method of expressing our sincere thanks and appreciation to one and all for the kindness and sympathy to us during the long illness and following the death of our beloved wife and mother. We certainly appreciate the kindness of those who sent such beautiful flowers and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral service.

We also wish to thank Rev. H. H. Atkinson, of Lonaconing, for the very appropriate service he conducted at the funeral. It was very consoling.

WHAT OUR BANK MEANS TO OUR COMMUNITY

By HELEN SHREVE

Money is a familiar object which passes from hand to hand daily, but most of us regard money and banking as black magic and expect it work to wonders, which it cannot do. Money and banking are vital to the lives of all, and ruin may easily overtake us through unwise financial practices.

Banks are social agencies upon which the financial welfare of our society depends. There is a vital need for an agency of this kind by means of which transactions involving money and credit may be simplified. Banks exist for this purpose. They indirectly help us to satisfy our wants more easily.

Just as business could not exist without money, so it could not make its extensive use of money if it were not for our banking system. It is the go-between or the clearing house which offers many services and conveniences.

Just what does our bank mean to our community? Our bank is decidedly essential to community welfare. Our modern business structure is so complex that it could not function without banks. More than 90 per cent of all business in this country is carried on by payments with checks. Day in and day out, week after week, month after month, and year after year, our bank renders useful, needed financial services.

When, having been thrifty, we have set aside some money, we are faced with the problem of what to do with it. How are we to take care of it? It is a valuable possession. There was a time when there were few banks and when people would not trust them. It was common to keep one's savings hidden at home, perhaps in the old stocking of which we have all heard. What a foolish way to look after what one has struggled to save! Money is always likely to be stolen, even if it is thought to be well hidden; it may be burned up in case of fire, or it may even be eaten by rats or mice. Furthermore, money that is kept at home tied up in grandmother's old handkerchief or in dad's old sock, is lying idle when someone might be using it and paying for its use. The idea I am trying to convey is that "money makes money, and the money money makes makes more money." In short, we plant our savings and they grow.

If money could talk this is what it would say: "When you put me in the bank, you put me into circulation. I don't stay in a vault. I go out to finance a home in the suburbs, to help build an electric power plant, to construct a brand new concrete highway, and while I am helping everybody by promoting industry, I'm earning good interest for you."

The safest, commonest and most convenient method of investing treasured savings is to place them in the bank. If I lend money to an individual, I run the risk of its not being repaid, but if I put it in the bank, the money is lent to people who pay interest for its use, and the bank assumes all the risk of returning the money to me when I want it.

Money that is deposited in our bank goes into active business use. This greatly aids the general business life of this community. Our banks are chartered to do business by the Federal Government and they assume their responsibilities and perform their duties in an efficient manner.

A bank is not just a place in which to store money. It strives to serve everyone by saving for some and lending to others. Just as no theatre could hold all persons if they all decided to attend a movie at the same time, it is impossible for all depositors to withdraw their money at one time. Our bank, therefore, is able to serve all depositors on the basis of normal daily withdrawels and deposits.

How can we judge our bank and know whether or not it is safe, whether we can get our money when we want it, whether the return is good, and whether investments must be watched? The answer to that question is this: The honesty and skill of its management can best be judged by its good name among the citizens, by the loans it makes, by the services it renders, and by its usefulness to the community. Our bank is examined periodically by Government officials who make any suggestions or recommendations that they feel are desirable. These examiners are an added safeguard to competent banking.

Our local bank employes have many important tasks to perform and a large part of this work is done before and after "banking hours." Like an industrous student or a busy housewife, there is always something else to be done. These employes balance their cash, prove accounts, arrange checks, go over reports and attend to many other duties. This is an important part of their work.

Although our bank likes personal contact with its customers, it will accept deposits by mail and notify the depositor that the money has been received. In this way depositors are conviently served the same as if the money had been brought in by the person himself.

This semi-public institution is anxious to make loans, for its livelihood is derived primarily from this source. But it does not operate for the purpose of making a profit. Its first consideration is Safety—safety of the deposits of its customers.

Banking is a business of human relationships. What would our community do without this helpful institution? It helps to build up the genuine community progress through its alertness, conservativeness, its foresight and experienced judgment of its business men and bankers. It furnishes employment to local people and participates in civic enterprises. Our present economic system could not endure were it not for this public service. It brings together those who wish to lend and those who wish to borrow. It seeks to encourage savings and bring about the productive use of them. We would scarcely know how to do without our banking service. In addition to providing a place for the safe-keeping and growth of savings, making loans for starting business and carrying on enterprises, our bank gives excellent advice about the production and exchange of goods and services (wealth).

The everyday life of all of us, no matter where we live, whether we have a bank account or not, is tied up in many ways with the service of banks. Its services are rendered to all and is worthy of the support and confidence of the entire community. In other words, everybody, the people as a whole, depends upon it as we depend on telephone service, railway service and postal service. A tailor may fail in his business without any loss to anyone but himself, but if our bank fails many people are ruined.

The permanent progress and enduring foundation of our community is, to a large extent, dependent upon the success and soundness of our remarkable business institution—the bank.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS. . . . . .

Congress Calls A Halt

Washington, April 15.

Men whose job it is to observe governmental affairs in Washington believe that this Congress is unique in one thing at least—it is the first in our history which, against the will of the White House, has struggled to save public money instead of spending it. Even if it achieves very little, the mere fact that it is trying at all is sensational.

In other words, this is the only Congress ever known which has tried to curtail executive expenditures, just as this is the only President who has denounced and resisted the efforts of the legislative branch to economize. In the past it has been the other way around. What makes this situation more significant is that the Congress which wants to economize is dominated by the same party to which the President who resists belongs.

The explanation is simple enough. Despite experience, Mr. Roosevelt is still insisting upon his theory that the way to bring about recovery is to continue priming the pump with Federal funds, whereas members of Congress reflect a sentiment in the country which has turned against this great outpouring of money, is shocked at the inexcusable waste and indefensible cost of the WPA, is alarmed at the height of the debt, dismayed by the depth of the deficit, apprehensive lest national bankruptcy, once so vividly predicted by Mr. Roosevelt as the inevitable result of the very policy he is pursuing, should come.

Notwithstanding these facts, neither at this session nor at the next, will Congress save a great deal of money. Not much progress toward restoring national solvency will be made for a very simple reason—it just cannot be done without White House leadership. Mr. Roosevelt has made it clear that so long as he is in the White House the leadership will be in the other direction. So far this session every move toward economy has met the stiffest sort of opposition from him. In his January message he asserted that any reduction in expenditures would be disastrous and practically defied Congress to attempt it.

It is amazing that under such circumstances, and with the President trying to make it appear that Congress is indifferent to suffering and distress—it is amazing that Congress should make any economies at all. Of course, the $50,000,000 cut off the relief appropriation and the $103,000,000 sliced from the budget estimates of the various departments is not a great deal in a total of nine billions. It is the fact that any reduction at all is made rather than the size which is important. It means that Congress, whose prodigality with Federal funds heretofore has had to be restrained by the Executive, itself has called a halt upon the Executive.

Nevertheless, as Senator Byrd points out, no real step toward a balanced budget can be taken without Presidential leadership, which is another way of saying that that must wait until we have another President. Congress cannot do it alone. For one thing, without White House support the pressure is too great to resist. It is entirely possible that before the session ends the $150,000,000 which Congress has cut will be more than made up by yielding in other directions.

For another thing, the natural disposition of a Congressman is to get as much in the way of Federal jobs and Federal funds for his district as he can. That is normal and understandable. In the past, it has strained many a President to keep Congress from running wild in the matter of appropriations, which makes the present reversal of positions the more striking. No one expects Congress, without Presidential pressure, to make any really great cuts. Obviously there are two things which must be done if we are to get back even to the seven-billion-dollar budget of 1937, and Congress can do neither alone.

One is a reorganization of the governmental departments by which the countless useless and expensive agencies created by the New Deal will be abolished. It is estimated that at least $200,000,000 a year can thus be saved, but no move to do that will be made by Mr. Roosevelt. On the contrary, he is soon to appoint six additional and unnecessary secretaries at $10,000 each and wants to create a new $10,000 Under Secretary for the Commerce Department. The other thing is a revamping of the whole WPA situation by which the administration of relief will be put back into the hands of the States, where it can be done for one-half the cost and with doubled efficiency.

Mr. Roosevelt is immovable against both these things. Clearly, Congress is helpless by itself. Just as clearly, no great economy can be made in other directions. All of which means that the most can be hoped for until after the next election is that the expenditures will be held at approximately the present levels. That's the best Congress can do, but considering the attitude of the President, that is a great deal.

PAUL WINS RECOGNITION FOR GENTILE CHRISTIANS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 15:23-29; Galatians 2:1, 2, 9, 10.
GOLDEN TEXT—A man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ—Galatians 2:16.

Persecution from outside was soon followed by what was even more serious—difficulty within the Church. If Satan cannot destroy God's work in one way, he cunningly tries another plan. Although the first council at Jerusalem (Acts 11) had decided that "to the Gentiles also hath God granted repentance unto life," the question did not stay settled, for there were persistent Judaizing teachers who now contended that even though the Gentiles could be saved, they had to come into the Church by way of Judaism and first fullfill the Jewish rite of circumcision.

I. A Serious Difference of Opinion—Grace Versus Law

The story of how this vital and fundamental question came up is found in the early verses of Acts 15. The entire future of the gospel ministry was in a sense dependent on the solution of this problem. Christianity is the only religious faith in the world that presents justification by grace as the way of redemption; all others follow (more or less) the path of salvation by works. The question now was: Shall works of the law be mingled with grace—can Jesus Christ alone save men, or is salvation through Jesus Christ plus something else? How was such a serious question to be settled? Should argument and strife be permitted to go on until the stronger party prevailed? Better judgment indicated the desirability of

II. A Christian Method of Settlement—Council not Controversy

There may be times when it becomes the duty of the Christian worker to take an uncompromising stand for the truth of God and refuse to be moved, come what may. But certainly there should be no such spirit in dealing with differing interpretations of Scripture on the part of sincere and earnest Christian brethren. How much would be gained in the Church today if, instead of magnifying differences and permitting personal desires and ambitions to intervene, men were willing to sit down in the spirit of Christ around the tables of Christian council and brotherhood, presided over and directed by the Holy Spirit (see Acts 15:28).

The whole question was honestly and carefully considered by the second council at Jerusalem, with the result that there was a vindication of the preachers of God's grace. After presenting a plain disavowal of those who had troubled them and subverted their souls (what a serious thing it is to teach error concerning God's Word!), the council being of one accord, gave recognition to Paul and Barnabas as men who had "hazarded their lives for the name of the Lord Jesus" and were worthy of confidence and support.

No man should think more highly of himself than he ought. Humility is a Christian grace which well befits a sinner saved by grace. But the Bible abounds with admonitions to honor one another, to recognize the laborer as being worthy of his hire, to give recognition to those who are over us in the Lord. The brethren at Jerusalem were thoughtful and courteous enough to so honor and encourage Paul and Barnabas. We could well follow their example in recognition of faithful servants of Christ in our own church or Community.

III. A Momentous Decision—Salvation by Grace

The final decision of the council is sent not only by Paul and Barnabas, but also by a committee from Jerusalem, a gracious gesture of fellowship. Courtesy is not out of place in dealing with even such difficult things as controversies on Christian doctrine—in fact it should be most in place in such a situation.

As a matter of record (a wise procedure in such a case), a letter was sent which, after addressing the Gentiles as "brethren," reviewed the history of the matter and then, without mentioning circumcision at all, puts upon the Gentiles "no greater burden than the necessary things." And what were these? Those things which relate to purity of life as those who were enjoying Christian liberty. The law of Moses need not be kept as a ground of salvation. They were saved by grace. But grace can never be the cloak of careless living, nor can liberty in Christ be interpreted as license to live in sin. We are set free in Christ, not that we may sin, but that we may "go and sin no more."

Blessed is the day whose morning is sanctified! Successful is the day whose first victory is won by prayer! Holy is the day whose dawn finds thee on the top of the mount!—Joseph Parker.

Recipe Variations Every Cook Should Know

There come times when many a cook feels closely akin to Mother Hubbard. It's not that her cupboard is bare, but that occasionally it's bare of an important ingredient for making a favorite pudding, a prize cake or some other concoction she has planned.

But while Mother Hubbard and her dog had to accept their fate philosophically, a cook may often figure her own way out. If she knows the possible substitutions for certain ingredients, no one need every know that a kitchen crisis arose.

This knowledge will be helpful at other times, too, when there is no emergency. Sometimes the substitution may be in the interest of economy; sometimes it adds needed food value; sometimes it furnishes variety.

As long as milk turns sour and baking powder cans get empty at inconvenient times, the "baking powder-and-soda" formula is a good one to remember. In cakes, and all quick-breads but pop-overs, sour milk may be substituted for sweet, cup for cup.

For every cup of really sour milk there should be ½ teaspoon of soda to neutralize the acid. This soda furnishes leavening power equal to 4 times its measure of baking powder—in this case 2 teaspoon's worth. If the amount of soda needed to neutralize the sour milk in a recipe does not furnish enough leavening power, add baking powder to take care of the difference.

If the milk is just turning sour, add only ¼ teaspoon of soda for each cup. It is better to use too little than too much because the taste, odor, and yellow color that results from an overamount of soda.

Add the soda to the mixture by sifting it with the flour. It it is mixed first in milk, gas bubbles start forming immediately—and some leavening power is wasted.

Some cooks won't make cake or cookies if they find they've run out of the kind of shortening they ordinarily use. But almost any mild-flavored fat is satisfactory in baked products if proportions are modified slightly.

Butter and margarines are about 15 percent water. So if these are substituted for lard or other fats that contain no water, add about 2 extra tablespoons for each cup. Hydrogenated fats now sold under many brand names have air beaten into them. They may be substituted measure for measure for butter or margarines. But if they are used in place of lard, add 1 to 1½ tablespoons for every cup called for. Remember to add salt when unsalted fats are used instead of butter or margarine.

Borrowing a cupful from the neighbors is one way to meet the sugar-shortage emergency. Another is to use brown suger. About 1 and ¼ cups of brown sugar is equivalent to 1 cup of granulated white sugar. If the brown sugar is lumpy, roll and sift it, then pack in loosely in a cup to measure.

Strained honey may also be used instead of sugar in cakes and quick-breads. Use it cup for cup in place of sugar, but reduce the liquid in the recipe. Honey has some water in it and also retains and absorbs moisture. If medium-thick honey is used in place of half the sugar in the recipe, reduce the liquid one-fourth. If it replaces all the sugar, cut down the liquid to one-half. Mix the cake by the ordinary method, except for combining the honey with the milk. Bake at the lowest temperature given.

Feeling Reported High

Feeling is reported at a high pitch as residents have watched the "invaders" who have poured into Grantsville daily since union mines in the Appalachian region shut down.

Almost to a man the people of the Grantsville community are opposed to the concentration there of union miners from Allegany county and the two coal-mining states adjoining, and term it a plain "invasion."

"Those men have no business coming here," said one of the miners. 'We are satisfied with what we are getting and we want to work."

People of Grantsville and farmers of the entire community were outspoken in their condemnation of the attitude of Sheriff J. W. Owens, while the officer takes the position that he has done all he could under the law.

"We miners feel that in case of trouble we wouldn't get any help from him," said one.

One of the mine operators said Owens refused to appoint any deputies to preserve law and order, when they asked for protection, taking the position that his bond as an officer would be held responsible for anything done by the deputies. Owens also said he was only trying to avert trouble.

Grantsville Mines Employ 200

The mines about Grantsville, employing from 150 to 200 men, are not organized. Most of the men engaged in the work are either residents of the town of Grantsville or live nearby and have continued operations during the shut-down of union bituminous mines pending negotiations of the wage and hour agreement with the United Mine Workers' head, John L. Lewis.

LOOKING FORWARD

By FRANKLYN WALTMAN

Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

One of the fascinating things about the New Deal is its technique of boldly professing virtues which it has failed to practice. We never have had in Washington an Administration so adept at drawing white robes of purity around its shoulders. Nor have we ever had an Administration which has talked one way and acted another.

Easily recalled are the frequent thundering words of the President and his satellites on the subject of monopolies. Yet no Administration ever did more to break down the anti-trust laws and promote monopoly than did the New Deal through the N. R. A. and similar legislation.

Odium and reproaches have been heaped on everyone who undertakes to do business for a profit. "Economic royalists" and "money changers in the temple" are but two of the nasty epithets hurled by the New Deal. Yet never have we had a White House family so zealous in pursuing the illusive dollar for personal gain as now. What other Administration ever had the gall to get campaign funds by shaking down corporations on the pretext of selling them the President's autograph for $2.50 each?

More Sanctimonious Breast-Beating

Lately the New Deal is entertaining us with much breast-beating and many sanctimonius gestures on the subject of "cleaning up the machinery of justice" and assuring the independence and competence of the Federal judiciary.

The high-minded and saintly Attorney General Frank Murphy, has solemnly announced that he proposes to establish a division in the Justice Department to keep watch on Federal judges and take prompt and vigorous measures whenever there is cause to believe that unhealthy conditions and irregularities exist.

President Roosevelt in his recent letter to Floyd H. Robert, the Virginian whose nomination as a Federal judge was rejected because of the objections of Senators Glass and Byrd, likewise struck a lofty attitude. He indicated he was fighting solely to keep politics out of judicial appointments.

Now as a result of all this, the New Deal spokesmen and apologists have been deluging the country with descriptions of the Roosevelt Administration's great crusade for raising the level of the Federal judiciary. Why it took this crusading Administration almost six years to find out about the transgressions of Circuit Court Judge Martin T. Manton is not explained.

Political Hacks Named

Nor is anything said about the character of the judicial appointments made by Mr. Roosevelt during the last six years. As a matter of fact, President Roosevelt's appointments to the Federal bench have been among the worst ever made by any Administration. Not only has he named a long string of mediocre political hacks, but he has appointed to the Federal bench men whose lack of fitness and qualification easily can be demonstrated.

To go no further back than the judicial appointments made this year, we find the President naming as a Federal district judge in Louisiana, Gaston Louis Porterie, who was expelled by the Louisiana Bar Association in 1933 because of the part he played in seeking to hush up election frauds in that State. Long a henchman of the late Huey P. Long and the Democratic machine in Louisiana, Mr. Porterie was elevated to the Federal bench at the behest of two Senators from that State. Is that taking politics out of the judiciary? Will that appointment inspire confidence in the integrity of the Federal bench? We doubt it.

We also find since Congress convened Mr. Roosevelt named a Federal District Judge in Pennsylvania, a former newspaperman, with little legal experience but a henchman of former Governor Earle of that State, one Harry E. Kalodner.

Nominee Accused Of Graft

His inexperience is bad enough. What is worse is the fact that at the time this nomination was sent to the Senate a Pennsylvania grand jury was engaged in investigating a charge of graft and corruption filed months previously against him and others by the District Attorney of Dauphin County, Pennsylvania. The grand jury is still taking evidence in respect to that charge. We suppose that appointment was designed to inspire confidence in the judiciary.

We also find the President in the last two months naming Representative T. Alan Goldsborough, who invited him to Maryland last fall in the effort to purge Senator Tydings, as a Federal judge in the District of Columbia. Anyone familiar with Mr. Goldsborough knows he lacks judicial temperament. But perhaps he has as much as Schackelford Miller, Jr., named as a district judge in Kentucky. Mr. Miller was the campaign manager last fall for Senator (Dear Alben") Barkley, the Democratic leader. Perhaps he was entitled to his reward.

It is true that on the heels of these and similarly uninspiring appointments, Mr. Roosevelt made four judicial nominations which won widespread commendation. But those were exceptions, not the rule. Political hacks or worse have been the rule in his judicial appointments.

During the fight over the Supreme Court packing bill, this writer had occasion to make a careful study of Mr. Roosevelt's judicial appointments up to the spring of 1937. He found that few of the appointees brought honor to the bench to which they were appointed. Most of them distinctly were honored by the appointment and thus lifted out of obscurity.

For instance, it was found that despite the greater opportunities for higher education which have developed in the last 30 years and despite the increased number of college graduates in the legal profession, President Roosevelt's judicial appointments had a far worse record from the viewpoint of educational qualifications than those of any President since the turn of the century. Indeed, only 55 per cent of the Roosevelt judicial appointees up to the summer of 1936 were even law school graduates. Only 17 per cent were both law school and college graduates.

By all means clean up the judicial stables — but the present movement looks strangely like locking the door after the horse has been stolen. And it is a little nauseating to hear these declamations of virtue and purity on the part of persons who have helped to lower the standards of the Federal bench.

MINERS STILL AT WORK AFTER FLARE SATURDAY

Pickets Force Shutdown Saturday; Resume Monday Under Full Protection of State Police

NO TROUBLE IN EVIDENCE

State police, maintaining a strict watch over the coal mining area west of Grantsville, after a flare-up last Saturday between pickets from another county and the unorganized mine workers of that section, have preserved order and the mines have remained open.

Saturday's disturbance at the mines was the worst during the present trouble, and was caused, it was stated, by workers from the Celanese and Kelly-Springfield Companies near Cumberland, who had joined the union miners from Allegany county on the picket line. The pickets, numbering around 200, were massed where the road to four of the mines enters company property.

The operators of the mines finally agreed to cease operations for the day after glass had been broken out of two trucks by rocks thrown by the invaders, but they made it clear they intended to send their miners back to work Monday and succeeding days. They remained firm on this decision on Sunday when a meeting was held at Grantsville with the State police, headed by Major Elmer Munshower and Lieut. Niles Falkenstine. Also present at the meeting were A. Sterigle Marine, State Commissioner of Labor, the mine operators, acting State's Attorney Walter W. Dawson, Sheriff J. William Owens and a number of representative citizens of Grantsville.

With the mine operators and Grantsville citizens firm in their convictions, it was announced the mines would reopen Monday under full protection of the State police, and this was done. A score of State police and about 100 citizens stood by. Union pickets, numbering about 125, were told by Sheriff Owens that the first act of disorder would bring about the arrest of the person creating it and that he would be brought to jail in Oakland. The pickets contented themselves in jeering the miners as they proceeded to their work in trucks, but there was no other evidence of disorder. Loaded trucks left the mines unmolested to dump their cargoes at the railroad siding just east of Grantsville. Similar scenes have been enacted daily since Monday.

The Flare-Up Saturday

The story of Saturday's flare-up is given as follows:

The miners came to work as usual, in trucks, running close together, and passing through the picket lines. A score or more of miners, apparently angered by stones thrown and taunts, jumped out of the trucks, spread out over the rock-strewn hillside flanking the highway, and advanced toward the mass of pickets. Grantsville citizens, parked several hundred yards away, got out of their cars. State police shouted to the miners to go back to their trucks and some of the officers grabbed one of the pickets and placed handcuffs on him. Pickets immediately surrounded the officers, pushing them down a bank off the road and into a fence. After considerable argument the prisoner was turned loose. Grantsville miners in the meantime had gone to work.

Within an hour three loaded trucks approached the highway over the road leading to the mines and went through the picket line. Stones flew and windshields and windows of the cabs were smashed.

Major Munshower called a conference with mine operators and citizens of Grantsville. It was felt that pickets could probably not be moved without a fight, and although the troopers had handy a riot car well loaded with tear gas bombs and clubs, the Major advised the operators of the mines to close down. Grantsville citizens expressed dissatisfaction that the mines were thus forced to shut down and there were rumors that Governor O'Conor would be requested to send a military force to the scene of the trouble.

Spokesmen for the miners said they had told Labor Commissioner Marine that they were satisfied with existing working conditions and wanted to continue activities. The Grantsville miners receive seventy-seven cents a ton for their work, which is less than the union scale.

Allegany county mines have been closed down for several weeks, the workmen participating in the widespread walk-out of union members pending the signing of a new contract by officials who have been deadlocked with union representatives in negotiations in New York.

Roads Commission Asks For Bids For Bridge At Barnum

Delegations about the bridge over the Potomac river at Barnum, W. Va., will probably cease to call upon the County Commissioners at their future meetings. The State Roads Commission is advertising this week for bids for construction of an 85-foot span steel pony truss bridge, to replace the one that has been condemned by the Commissionors for several years, at that point.

A delegation of people from that section have called upon the Commissioners upon numerous occasions, and nothing definite could be promised, the construction depending upon the Roads Commission.

The specifications call for a fourteen foot clear roadway. Bids will be opened publicly on May 9, at the Commission's office in Baltimore.

MORE THAN SEVENTY BILLS SIGNED BY THE GOVERNOR

Two Subject To Referenda; Two County Bills Included In Lot

Governor Herbert R. O'Conor swung into action yesterday and signed fifteen resolutions and 73 bills passed by the Legislature, including the record-breaking $95,000,000 biennial budget.

Including the budget measure, 12 bills of State-wide effect were signed. One measure adopted "Maryland, My Maryland" as the official State song, and another recognized Armistice Day as a legal holiday.

Two of the laws signed are subject to referenda. One would increase the compensation of State legislators from $5 a day during sessions to $750 annually. The other would bring the State's judges under the provisions of the State income tax law.

Creation of a legislative council of 14 members, to function between legislative sessions and recommend needed legislation was approved.

Savage River Dam Nearer

Approval of a bill creating the Upper Potomac River District and Commission, was regarded as another step toward construction of the proposed $2,500,000 Savage River dam.

Other bills approved by the Governor defined the duties and fixed the compensation of Garrett county election officials; forbid the Garrett County Commissioners from entering into contracts involving more than $300 without advertising for bids.

Golf Committee Preparing To Open Municipal Course

The golf committee of the City Council reported this morning that efforts were being made to have the municipal golf course in condition for official opening on May 1, but if the weather was unfavorable, the opening would be on May 15.

Several golf enthusiasts have been out on the course already knocking the balls around the fairways, but the course has not been completely rolled and the greens are not ready for play as yet.

The golf committee was of the opinion that the fees would probably be the same as last year. Nothing definite has been decided yet on turning over the course to a private committee with a guarantee of six per cent interest to the town on its investment.

THIEVES GET QUANTITY OF GOODS AT TABLE ROCK INN

Merchandise And Cash Amounting to $150 Stolen Sunday Morning

Robbers gained entrance to Table Rock Inn, on Route 50, about three miles east of Red House, early last Sunday morning and removed merchandise and cash amounting to approximately $150.

Entrance to the building was gained by breaking the glass in the door of the basement. Kodak films, cigarets and other forms of tobacco, razor blades and other articles, in addition to a quantity of pennies and nickels and a slot machine were evidently loaded into an automobile without awakening any of those living there or any of the guests.

Charles W. Ream, owner of the Inn, said that there had been a banquet at the Inn on Saturday night and that his employes had not retired until after one o'clock. The robbery was thought to have occurred around three or four o'clock Sunday morning.

The slot machine was later found near the Sunnyside school house, completely demolished.

Authorities were notified, but no arrests have been made as yet.

A thief also entered the garage of Paul Welch at Gortner and disconnected the gas tank from his large school bus and carried it away. The tank has a capacity of 18 gallons and at the time it was stoden it contained about four gallons. This piece of thievery also occurred on Saturday night or Sunday morning. No clue as to the identity of the guilty person has been discovered.

Automobile Stolen

An Oldsmobile car was stolen from in front of Leighton's Garage on Third street last Friday night. The automobile was found by Pennsylvania State policemen at a camp ground near Uniontown and was identified by the dealers' tags on the car. The machine was completely ruined as the thief or thieves had driven the car the distance from Oakland to the point where it was found without water in the radiator.

Commissions for twenty-eight notaries public for the State of Maryland, residing in Garrett county, were received this morning by A. G. Ross, clerk of the Circuit Court. V. Harvey, Miss Mary Louise Helbig, Miss Isabel R. Hamill, Miss Mildred Herring, Mrs. Virgie S. Jones, John M. Jarboe, John A. Khare, Clarence H. Leighton, H. W. McComas, Miss Coral E. McRohie, Asa T. Matthews, Fenton H. Platter, Harold E. Ream, Charles C. Reckard, Mrs. A. H. Rush, Miss Julia A. Rowan, Mrs. Emma I. Spoerlein, Cecil Smith, Walter H. Teets, Frederick A. Four Percent Discount Will Drop to 3 Percent On May First

The discount which taxpayers are entitled to receive when they pay their taxes to Jesse J. Ashby, Jr., county treasurer, will decrease from four to three percent beginning May 1, according to the new discount law passed at the recent session of the Maryland legislature.

The four per cent discount which has been effective during March and April has had the effect of approximately $35,000 in taxes to be paid to the treasurer during the time, according to the officer, and possibly that much or more will be received before the deadline on Saturday.

Observing Ninety-Third Birth Anniversary

Mrs. Mary Busselle, of Mountain Lake Park, a resident there ever since the beginning of that town as a summer resort, is celebrating her 93rd birthday anniversary at her home there today.

A group of Morgantown people were there for the event and also a number of Park residents called at her home during the day.

PIN-BALL MACHINES ARE OUTLAWED AFTER APRIL 30

Between 100 and 150 Machines Said To Be In Use In County

Between 100 and 150 pin ball machines and other games of "skill" in Garrett county, which have been absorbing quite a quantity of nickels from people in all walks of life for the past two years, under a special act of the 1937 legislature, will be illegal, under a new law passed by the 1939 legislature, at midnight, April 30.

The reason they absorbed such a quantity of nickels was because of the occasional payment made to those who played them. The anticipation of hitting the "jackpot", even though mathematicians have pointed out that the chances are mighty slim, seemed to keep the machines busy.

But after midnight, April 30, any person operating, owning or having any interest in any of these machines in the State of Maryland will be subject to prosecution by the State's authorities and confiscation of the devices, according to the new law.

The former law relating to gaming tables, Maryland Code of Public General Laws, Article 27, sections 244 to 259 inclusive will be the rules and regulations to go by, since Section 23A, providing for the licensing of pin ball machines expires.

Sidel, State Director of Vocational Education and Supervisor of Industrial Education, was also in Oakland on Tuesday.

Mrs. Tower reported to Civic Club members later that Mr. Thompson had decided to recommend the establishment of such classes and the appointment of a teacher so that a summer course along special lines could be taken by the appointee before the opening of the regular school term in the fall of this year.

SCOOP'S COLUMN

BY ScoopHimself

The identity of a young lady is withheld, but the memory of her answer lingers on with the science instructor in a large high school. On a written quiz he had asked the class to define a bolt and a nut, and explain the difference between them.

On her paper the young woman wrote: "A bolt is a thing like a stick of hard metal, such as iron, with a square bunch at one end and a lot of scratching wound around the other end. A nut is similar to the bolt only just the opposite, being a hole in a little chunk of iron sawed off short with wrinkles around the inside of the hole."

The startled instructor marked that one with a large "A".

In The Republican just forty years ago a fashion writer advised on how to acquire a graceful walk.

"A woman should walk from the hips, the waist being held stationary save for a gentle, willowly, swaying motion, which is so charming an attribute of a well-poised feminine figure."

In acquiring this pose one was supposed to practice walking every day with something on the head. (It didn't mean the kind of hats they wear today, either).

STUCK, BY GUM!
(A Contribution)

How doth the skilled stenographer
Improve each phrase and clause!
She masticateth chewing gum
Between her shapely jaws.

She rolleth it both fore and aft,
And also to and fro;
And endless motion, like the sea,
When gentle breezes blow.

Its flavor gone, she parketh it
Benath an office chair,
Or casteth it upon the walk;
And he who steppeth there

Curseth and struggleth long to free
The morsel from his shoe.
When woman gummeth up the works
There's little man can do!

The Brookings Institution has recommended that the Federal tax system be drastically overhauled, because, it said, existing levies were choking the flow of private funds into investment channels.

MUSHROOMS

The mushroom, though not of great nutritive value, contributes a great deal in taste and texture to some menus. As often thought, they do not act as a substitute for meat. The nitrogen contained is mainly not in the form of protein.

The shopper buying mushrooms, in season from fall to early summer, needs look mostly for freshness. Mushrooms are more perishable, dry out more quickly than most vegetables because they are made up of an open network of cells and have no protective coating. Freshness in mushrooms, as in other vegetables, shows up in a surface appearance that is not dried out and has no discoloration caused by age.

Cardinal principle of mushroom cookery is "use low heat and do not cook overlong." High temperatures and overcooking cause them to shrivel and toughen. Also, use little water. Mushrooms, themselves, are over 90 per cent water.

Broiled mushrooms are a definite addition to any grilled plate. Served on toothpicks they make interesting tidbits for party refreshments. Or for a more filling dish at the main course of a meal they may be served on buttered toast.

To broil, place the caps, gill side down, under the flame of the broiling oven for two or three minutes. Turn, sprinkle with salt and pepper over the gill side. Place a small piece of butter in each cap. Broil under the flame for a few minutes longer. Lift carefully from the broiler in order not to lose the juice.

Creamed mushrooms have a better flavor if they are floured, then browned delicately before the cream or rich milk is added to make the sauce. There will be more surface to brown of the mushrooms are sliced lengthwise from cap to stem. For soups, they may be cut up in smaller pieces to brown.

Steak with mushrooms is a mealtime favorite of long standing. The mushoooms may be made into a sauce by cooking them in butter or drippings from the steak. Or large mushrooms may be broiled on a grill along with the steak. One of the best of all ways to serve the large mushrooms is to stuff them.

Stuffed Mushrooms

One pound large mushrooms (12 to 14), 4 tablespoons butter or other fat, ¾ cup chopped celery, 2 cups fine bread crumbs, 2 teaspoons onion juice, pepper, 1 taspoon salt, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley.

Wash the mushrooms well, remove the stems close to the caps and chop the steme fine. Melt 2 tablespoons of the fat, add the chopped mushroom stems and celery, cook for 5 minutes and stir in the bread crumbs and seasonings. Turn the mushroom caps gill side up, and fill them with mounds of the stuffing. Place the stuffed mushrooms in a shallow pan, pour around them the rest of the melted fat, cover closely and bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees F. for 30 to 45 minutes.

Toward the last remove the cover and let the crumbs brown slightly on top, or set the pan of mushrooms under the flame of the boiling oven for a few minutes to brown. Serve on rounds of buttered toast.

Paragraph Opinions . . .

Editor Kellogg, president of the California Newspaper Publishers, has given a timely warning when he recently said that the newspaper is the bulwark between democracy and dictatorship, that freedom of the press is a safeguard not for the newspapers but for the public.

The rawest deal ever handed a generation of children—our children and children yet unborn—who must pay for our wastefulness, is shown as follows. Here is the record of what the New Deal government has done for the past six years:

1933, unemployed, 11,000,000.
1939, unemployed, 10,500,000.
1933, taxes, $2,000,000,000.
1939, taxes, $5,00,000,000,000.
1933, cost of government, $3,000,000,000.
1939, cost of government, $9,000,000,000.
1933, public debt, $20,000,000,000.

Can This Be Democracy?

A story in the Cumberland News on Tuesday should give every citizen and lover of democracy cause to wonder.

An Eckhart truck driver was driving his empty truck into Eckhart off U. S. Route 40, when he was halted by a band of pickets who ordered him to get out of the vehicle. He complied, but drew what a man said was a loaded gun. He then continued on his way unmolested, it was said.

Peare Hanna, Frostburg, then made a complaint to State police who arrested James Rephan, said to be the truck driver, on a charge of threatening a picket with a gun. The warrant charged that Rephan "did unlawfully commit an assault with intent to murder by drawing a loaded weapon." A Frostburg magistrate held him under $500 bond, which was furnished.

Can this be democracy? Can a man on the highway no longer defend himself or his property? What's wrong with arresting those who ordered him to halt?

A Pennsylvania truck driver claims pickets held a gun on him and robbed him of $43 after dumping his load of coal last Thursday on the Finzel road in this county. The offense was said to have been committed about midnight.

This sort of un-American activity can be stopped eventually if all people become aroused as the Grantsville citizens have done.

Grabbing Everything In Sight Seems To Be The Favorite Pastime of European Dictators.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Should the United States grab a hunk of Canada and a generous slice or two of Mexico and kid them into thinking we were merely protecting them—well, that would be preposterously obnoxious, wouldn't it?

But over in Europe the favorite pastime of Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini is apparently to determine which of the two can swallow the most territory. Thank goodness, the U. S. sticks to goldfish.

It's a sort of contest over there. Mussolini absorbs Ethiopia; Hitler in turn swallows Austria and Czechoslovakni; Mussolini gulps down Albania, which means that it is Hitler's turn to grab again and render the April map of Europe useless (it is crippled now) and our 1939 edition of school books even more out of date than ever.

Obviously the only individual openly attempting to curb the ravenous craving for new territory, thereby prolonging peace, is F.D.R.

Here's hoping he is successful in checking if not completely arresting the dictators' seemingly implacable, unappeasable tapeworm for expansion and in convincing them of the importance to their health in abstaining from aggression. Maybe he'll even suggest as a substitute for land grabs the favorite American amusement and diet foods—goldfish and phonograph records.

A new fighter-bomber plane is reported to have attained a speed of 575 miles an hour in a power dive during tests at Montreal, Canada.

Keeping the Old Pot Boiling

I SEE BY THE DAILIES THAT

Reichsfuhrer Adolf Hitler has called a special session of the Reichstag for Friday to hear his reply to President Roosevelt's appeal and informed Nazi opinion is agreed that Herr Hitler will reject it.

A Federal judge in Philadelphia has refused to set aside the $711,943.55 strike damage judgment a jury had awarded to the Apex Hosiery Company against Branch 1, American Federation of Hosiery Workers. The workers staged a sit-down strike in the plant two years ago.

The Amcican Federation of Labor had demanded that miners be permitted to decide in a Wagner Act election the character and nature of their collective bargaining agency, which means the Federation was demanding the right to represent some of the 350,000 miners in the Appalachian area and was objecting to the demands of CIO's United Mine Workers Union for either a closed shop or the elimination of strike penalty clauses.

The "American Mother for 1939", Mrs. Otella Compton, says fear of war shouldn't deter women from having children. She said "anywhere between three to six children is the best number for a family".

Great Britain and France are returning their ambassadors to their posts in Berlin.

A fire in the almost fireproof glass industry building at the New York World's Fair, caused damage estimated at one million dollars.

Sharply criticizing the New Deal for failure to make good on its promise to institute a program of business appeasement, the Republicans have offered a 12-point program to restore prosperity to the nation.

Tasker G. Lowndes, Cumberland, was reappointed chairman of the State Board of Education for a term of seven years by Governor O'Conor. His new term begins May 1. Mr. Lowndes is a son of the late Governor Lloyd Lowndes and is a Republican.

A nation-wide coal shortage was being predicted. It was estimated that the supply would be entirely exhausted in another two weeks. About 70 per cent of the total supply is mined in the Appalchian region where there has been n shutdown since April 1 in most of the mines.

Secretary Hull, speaking in Washington, declared there was "not room on this earth" for a nation or group of nations that would enslave all the others.

In this fashion show the home economies students displayed their spring outfits which they themselves have made. Armed Pickets Said To Have Held Up Trucker At Finzel

A Pennsylvania truck driver told Maryland police that pickets held a gun on him and robbed him of $43 after dumping his load of coal last Thursday night.

The driver, William R. Meyers, of Meyersdale, Pa., told police that the robbery occurred around midnight on the Finzel road in this county. Both Maryland and Pennsylvania police are investigating.

Meyers claims that a swarm of some fifty pickets blocked the road when his truck came in sight. When the vehicle came to a stop the pickets gathered around in a menacing manner, he said.

According to Meyers, one of the men produced a revolver and pointing it at the truck driver, shouted: "Roll down the window or I'll shoot it out."

Meyers stated that the pickets ordered him to get out of the truck and hold up his hands. Once out of the truck the pickets relieved him of $43, his coat, a thermos bottle and a flashlight, the driver declared. The pickets then dumped his load of coal and ordered him to get back to Meyersdale and stay there, he declared.

Although Meyers was the only driver to report a robbery, it was said that a number of coal trucks were dumped in that locality last week, and also in the vicinity of Swanton and Bloomington.

State Forester Lauds Work Of CCC Youths In Past Year

More than a half-million dollars of fire-prevention and park improvement work was accomplished by 1,600 youths in eight Civilian Conservation Corps camps in Maryland last year, according to a report of F. W. Besley, State Forester.

Their year's work, he said, was frequently interrupted by forest fires in the Western Maryland region. Besley said labor, at $1.50 a day for the 1,600 odd men, represented the expenditure of $371,880 in the State by the Federal Government. About $200,000 was expended for salaries of supervisory officers, materials and supplies.

Two recreational camps are being developed in this county and work on others is under way in the High Knob Park, not far from Frederick, and the Elk Neck State Park, at the head of Chesapeake Bay.

The two camps in this county, with an artificial lake and rustic cabins to accommodate visitors at the scenic spots afforded by the mountains, are in the Swallow Falls State Forest and the Savage River State Forest.

This Is Why, Mr. Roosevelt

So well was the case against the New Deal recently presented in the Charleston, South Carolina, "News and Courier", a Democratic newspaper in the heart of the Democratic South, that the editorial from that newspaper is reprinted herewit.

In one of his speeches in Alabama the other day President Roosevelt said that the "South should get out of hock to the North," suggesting that the South is not broke, that it can raise money to establish industries and develop trade and commerce.

There is no doubt about it. Money was never before more abundant in the South than it is now. The banks are glutted, swollen with deposits. In 1896 William Jennings Bryan and his followers were lamenting the lack of money. "The country should have $50 per capita for its population." Now the United States has more than $50 per capita for its population. The decade between 1890 and 1900 witnessed the construction of numerous cotton mills in South Carolina. For each and every one painful effort to get the money was required. In the bank of South Carolina at this time is enough idle capital to build fifty or a hundred factories.

President Roosevelt is right. The South can build factories, it can have its own life and fire insurance companies. Why does it not have them?

We shall tell President Roosevelt. The people who "Have" are afraid of his government.

They are afraid of him.

They are afraid of his laws. They are in terror of his new, his strange, his multifarious forms of taxation. They are afraid of the competition of his government with concerns in which they might invest. They see government building houses and renting them. Why should they put money into houses and lots? They see government developing electric power. They steer away from the purchase of bonds and shares in private corporations selling electric current.

They are afraid to take a mortgage on a farm, for they are not sure how long government will permit it to be tilled. For the same reason they hesitate to buy lands.

They cannot lend money at 6 percent, for government as a lender underbids them. They behold government borrowing billions and practically compelling many of the banks to lend it. They hear Mr. Marriner Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board shouting against cutting down government's expenses and advocating debt creation that has no end to which he can point. They interpret him therefore as an advocate of currency inflation, and that means debt repudiation.

Our people read that the United States has 50 percent of all the gold in the world, about fourteen thousand millions of dollars, but they are not allowed to see or to feel a dollar of it. Government does not trust them with gold. Shall they trust government?

These same people look upon government contriving new and harassing taxes with which to pay pensions to the non-producers in that population. That means—if it means anything— that those still producing shall be forced, yes, forced, by government to carry the non-producers on their backs. Before their eyes is the evidence every day that if they buy shares in an industry, they who have sweated, sacrificed, and saved, organizations backed or encouraged by government may destroy its values.

Yes, Mr. President, thousands of our people have thousands of dollars lying idle in the banks. There was never before such a plethora of the stuff. As virtually none of it is metal it may rot in time. Our people, those who have money, are not only without faith in government but are rapidly coming to believe that government is their enemy.

Our people respect you, Mr. President. Great numbers of them have affection for you. None of them is without sincere good wishes for your personal prosperity and happiness. The "News and Courier" is of those who cherish the kindest sentiments toward you and does not question the goodness of your motives.

We tell you this, Mr. President, were you to resign your office, come to South Carolina, announce that you would establish a factory, a bank or insurance company, that it would be under your own active management, and invite subscriptions to the shares or bonds of the corporation, not many of our successful and hardheaded merchants, farmers, bankers, lawyers, doctors, the "men who have got something," would subscribe to a dollar of it. They don't like the way you manage government, and they would be afraid that you would manage a private concern in the same way.

That, Mr. President, is why the South is not developing at the moment. It prefers that its properties be "in hock to the North" than under the club your government swings over them.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS. . . . . .

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by the Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

The Colonel's Dilemma

It is rather a pity that Col. F. C. Harrington, the new head of the WPA, should have felt it necessary to express his feeling that the Workers Alliance, whose Communistic domination is now conceded, is not a subversive organization and that its unrestricted activity in welding together WPA workers for the purpose of gouging more money out of the Government and exerting political pressure on Congress is not to be deplored.

Few detached persons will agree with Colonel Harrington about that. His is not a view easy to sustain in the face of the admitted facts. The trouble is that Colonel Harrington is not in a position to express an independent judgment. To voice the view which the facts make unavoidable would be equivalent to an indictment of the President and that, of course, is too much to expect of him. Colonel Harrington is a superior man to his predecessor, Mr. Hopkins, and an immense improvement upon Mr. Hopkins' aide, Mr. Aubrey Williams.

He is non-political, which is in marked contrast to the first, and he is not addicted to the inflammatory and unbalanced exhortations, which gained the second so much unfavorable notoriety. Also, Colonel Harrington is a good executive, which neither Mr. Hopkins nor Mr. Williams every really was. Primarily they were New Dealers, who believed everything that tended to strengthen Mr. Roosevelt and his policies was right and justified. That, after all, was a natural feeling on their part, as but for Mr. Roosevelt and his policies both Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Williams would still be shrouded in the obscurity from which they emerged in 1933.

Colonel Harrington is an army officer with a good record assigned to a new job. It isn't necessary for him to promulgate his political views and he has not done so, which is fine. Nevertheless, he cannot differ with his Commander-in-Chief and hold his job. Therefore, it is plain that no expression of distaste for the Workers Alliance can come from him. Not only would that be a repudiation of his predecessor, Mr. Hopkins, who flattered and indorsed this Communist organization, but a direct criticism of Mr. Roosevelt, who has received its leaders in the White House, accepted their political support and contributed to their power through public recognition.

It seems reasonable to believe that if Colonel Harrington did not owe an allegiance to the White House he would express a very different opinion of this agency which makes his job so much harder than it ought to be. An indication of this real feeling came in that order some weeks ago prohibiting, under pain of dismissal, any WPA official from taking time off to participate in the Workers Alliance demonstrations for a larger appropriation. That was the spontaneous action of an executive who did not propose to permit professional agitators to exert an influence over the men under him. It was the action of a man who did not propose to have his department run by an organization whose chief idea is to make the work as costly as possible, and which sets itself against any form of economy or cost reduction.

As an intellgent man, it is impossible that Colonal Harrington should not know these facts. It is impossible, too, he should not know—first, that the Workers Alliance was conceived by the Communists, and is now run by Communists and near-Communists.

Second, that it is financed largely by the C. I. O., which is also the heaviest political contributor to the Roosevelt campaign.

Third, that its prime purpose is to force Congress to appropriate more and more money for relief and to raise the WPA wage scale higher and higher.

Fourth, that so far from caring whether its success along these lines bankrupts the nation, actually national bankruptcy and the consequent economic chaos is the principal gaol of the Communist party, which has a strong hand in the Workers Alliance.

Fifth, that the Workers Alliance leaders aim to form its membership, composed of WPA workers, into a mobile political force which can be used to compel concessions from high public officials and threaten Congress with hunger marches on Washington.

These things are not partisan charges. They are facts easy to sustain by the record. They are facts that the head of the WPA ought to know better than anyone else—facts which undoubtedly he does know. The only thing that can be said about Colonel Harrington's soft verbal handling of the Workers Alliance is that he had to choose between saying what he is reported to have said and saying something that reflected upon his superior officer. Under the circumstances, it is perhaps unfair to put the Colonal into a corner and cross-examine him too severely. But, in weighing his words, it would be well for Congress and the public to remember the position in which he finds himself.

PRESIDENT OF NEWSPAPER SOCIETY ADVISES EDITORS

American Journalism The Most Dependable Source of Public Information

At Washington, D. C., on last Thursday, William Allen White advised America's newspaper editors to reserve their "excess steam heat" for Stalin, Mussolini and Hitler and "not emote too heavily" about political issues at home.

The noted editor of the Emporia (Kansas) Gazete and president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors said he was not speaking about old-line political controversies but about fundamental new questions involving property rights.

DEPENDABLE SOURCE

White made the suggestion in a speech prepared for the opening session of the society's convention, during which he called American newspapers "the most dependable source of public information."

"In this country," he said, "American journalism, with all its faults, and there are many, is the only free, unfettered, unbossed, unlicensed vehicle through which one way or another finally and surely the truth comes to the American people."

Property rights, he continued, are being narrowed—a process which he said would continue "as new inventions produce new moralities and require new cheeks to establish a fair balance in the relation between the dollar and the man."

White said the "unconscious attitude toward the property which is the investment in our business, is what makes us seem to be unfair to those who are seeking these new reforms in property rights.

"We can well afford to print both sides, to editorialize after the dictates of our own conscience. But we should also not emote too heavily. Nothing is gained by working up a temperature, by jiggling our hair shirts.

"We can say what we want more convincingly if we are kind than if we are all hot and bothered. We can reserve our excess heat for Stalin, Mussolini and Hitler. We can rage if we will against sin and the sales tax and political corruption and other devices of the devil."

THREAT TO DEMOCRACY

Declaring that "a threat to democracy is abroad in the world," White said:

> "We are developing a class-conscious proletariat. It was bad enough in the days of the big bull market of the twenties to maintain the idle rich. But if, in addition, we of the middle classes have to maintain the idle poor and then the idle rich, sooner or later our resources will be gone."

White's speech set the keynote of the convention. He previously had announced that the major purpose this year would be to analyze reader criticisms of newspapers and try to find out whether the press was falling down on the job.

PAUL CROSSES INTO EUROPE

LESSON TEXT—Acts 15:36; 16:4 15.
GOLDEN TEXT—And after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavored to go into Macedonia.—Acts 16:10.

Guidance is the moment by moment need of every man and woman, boy and girl. The whole of life calls for decisions, many of which look quite innocent and unimportant, but upon which the destiny of an entire life may turn. Who does not recall the poet's lament over the want of an ordinary horseshoe nail which resulted in the loss of the shoe, which disabled the horse whose rider was lost, with the result that the battle went against his people.

Since the great issues of life may turn on the simplest of choices, we need guidance at every point in life. This need has been recognized by those who would make merchandise of their neighbors. Quacks and charlatans offer guidance by every method, from reading the palm, looking at the stars, or consulting the spirits, to those smug enterprises which pose as spiritual and talk much of prayer, but which do not honor the name of Christ nor recognize Him as Redeemer and Lord.

One of the glories of the Christian faith is that the believer is indwelt by the third person of the Trinity, the Holy Spirit Himself, who is ready and willing to give divine guidance in every detail of life from the smallest to the greatest.

We study today the coming of the gospel into Europe, and that means through our forefathers to America. We consider what from our viewpoint was a crucial point in the history of the Church. Thanks be to God that His servant Paul was in that hour obedient to the guidance of the Holy Spirit. Observe that the gospel came to Europe

I. By Providential Hindrance (15:36; 16:4-8).

Not only the steps, but also the stops of a good man are ordered of the Lord. That is not an easy lesson to learn. We may be as much in the will of the Lord when all of our efforts seem to be thwarted as when they prosper. Let us not forget it.

Paul had set out on a second journey to carry out a follow-up campaign in the cities where he had already preached. This was a good plan and had God's blessing (see v. 5). But soon we find that word "forbidden" (v. 6) and then "suffered not" (v. 7). The Holy Spirit began to close doors to the gospel preacher. Now what? Shall he go on in determined self-will? Or shall he become discouraged and embittered in his soul? No, let him wait, for God is guiding him by providential hindrance, which is soon to be followed

II. By Divine Guidance (16:9, 10).

The Spirit spoke to Paul in a vision revealing the divine purpose that the gospel should go over into Macedonia. The Spirit leads in our day, possibly not by visions, but by impelling inward prompting complemented and checked by the teaching of Scripture and by providential circumstances, and a man may know what is the will of God.

A word of caution is needed at this point. Some earnest Christian people go astray by projecting their own desires and purposes into the place where they come to regard them as the will of God, and thus do themselves and others, and Christianity itself much harm. The three things already mentioned should agree—(1) the inner prompting of the Spirit, (2) the teaching of God's Word, and (3) God's hand in our outward circumstances.

III. Through a Faithful Witness (vv. 11-14).

The gospel came to Europe because Paul and his fellow workers were faithful to their calling. When God led, they went to Macedonia (vv. 11, 12), where they sought out those who were in the place of prayer (v. 13). Paul spoke to them about Christ (v. 14). It is one thing to have a vision, it is another thing to be obedient to that vision (Acts 26:19). There are some who talk much of their consecration to God, but who give little evidence of it. The little girl was right (though her grammar was wrong) when she said, "It's better to walk your talk than to talk your walk."

IV. Through a Receptive Heart (vv. 14, 15).

God sent an obedient messenger to the place where He had a prepared heart (v. 14). Space forbids much reference to this godly, successful business woman and housemother, but we do note that she not only received the Word of God into her own heart, but at once gave herself to the task of passing it on. The first thing she could do was to give aid and comfort to the messenger of the truth, and she did that at once. Be assured that from that day on she did all she could to prosper the gospel on its way through Europe and to the ends of the earth. Have we done likewise?

GRANTSVILLE

Double Wedding Solemnized

Miss Hilda Irene Hoffman became the bride of William Henry Karshin, both of Johnstown, Pa., and Miss Thelma Irene Ott Williams, of Windber, Pa., and William Paul Bowman, of Johnstown, were united in marriage in a double wedding ceremony at the Methodist parsonage Tuesday night, April 18, the ceremonies being performed by the Rev. R. D. Carder. The ring ceremony was used. The couples remained at the Livengood Tourist Home here over night.

Grantsville FFA Elimination

Clark Fortney, a senior, represented Grantsville High school in the FFA declamation contest here Thursday evening after winning over five contestants Wednesday afternoon in the local school's elimination contest. Others competing were Carl Broadwater, Robert Glotfelty, John Menges, Dale Miller and James Beachy. The judges were Miss Rachel Holmes, Harry C. Edwards and George C. Houck.

Elementary Teachers' Meeting

A meeting of rural and graded teachers of the northern unit of Garrett county was held Thursday and Friday afternoons in Grantsville. Miss Kate Bannatyne, supervisor, was in charge. On Thursday afternoon Miss Agnes Reed, specialist on reading, taught demonstration lessons to before grades 3 and 6 of the local school. This was followed by a discussion of "Reading in the Grades."

Approximately fifty teachers attended the Friday afternoon session, the purpose of which was to distribute material on State-wide tests which were conducted Monday and Tuesday of this week, and to give instructions regarding them. County Superintendent Rathbun was present and addressed the teachers.

Officers of the Grantsville Home Economics club for 1939-40, recently elected are Mary Robeson, president; Maxine Beachy, vice-president; Thelma Glotfelty, secretary; Helen Glotfelty, treasurer.

Local Nine Downs Salisbury

Grantsville baseball team defeated the Salisbury (Pa.) team 6-2 in a practice game Sunday afternoon, the first game the local nine has played. Herring, Miller and Edwards were on the mound for Grantsville for three innings each, while Thomas, Trent and Robinson shared the pitching burden for Salisbury. Ralph Shumaker got two of Grantsville's eight hits. The locals had no trouble in winning over their opponents. The game was a quiet and unspectacular one, but it showed Grantsville to good advantage.

The Grantsville club has not been handicapped by loss of players, only two of last year's squad having withdrawn—Trent, pitcher, and Tuscano, short stop—both positions being ably filled by other players. The holdovers, in addition to the three who pitched in Sunday's game are Joe Diehl, Logan Wengerd, Allen Rodamer, Paul Orendorf, Harry Modispaw, William Groff, Dewey Yommer, Ralph Shumaker and Ivan Miller. Newcomers will be Critchfield and possibly John Keister, Bill Grimm and William Robinson.

Grantsville plays a return game with Salisbury here Sunday afternoon before encountering Keyser, in one of the first tussels of the Tri-County League schedule the following Sunday —May 7.

Fifteen new uniforms have been purchased through the assistance of local business men.

The Grantsville club is sponsoring an entertainment at Grantsville school auditorium Monday night, May 1, when Cap, Andy and Flip, radio entertainers from Station WMMN, Fairmont, will be the feature artists.

Edwards Elected Councilman

At a special election Monday, the voters chose Harry C. Edwards as the third councilman over Harry L. Yommer, who had served one term on the council and was president of that body the past year. The two men each received the same number of votes at the regular election recently held.

An unusual turnout of one hundred and four voters went to the polls, the number being 44 more than had cast their ballots at the general election. Mr. Edwards received 64 votes and Mr. Yommer 40.

Mr. Edwards will take over the duties of his office at the next regular meeting of Council on Monday, May 1. His term is for two years. Mr. Edwards has been very much interested in the general welfare of the town and in civic improvement. He was a member of the Council when the water supply system was being installed.

J. Glenn, music instructor. One hundred students are in the performance which has a modern plot concerning a group of English people who have difficulty in traveling in Spain during the present time. Admission will be 15 and 25 cents. A new sound device will be used for the first time.

Reader Gives Interesting Program

Miss Gladys Anne Garber, professional reader of Pittsburgh, presented an enjoyable recital at Holmes-Wallace Studios Tuesday night. For her opening number Miss Garber chose a humorous reading of a French girl's idea of drinking tea in England. Included on the program were a dramatic reading, "Child Lost"; a group of dialect numbers, Italian, Negro, and Irish; "How did you die?" by Edmund Vance Cook, and a child's impersonation, "The quarrel." Miss Holmes and Miss Wallace gave incidental music throughout the evening. Miss Garber also took the parts of five characters in "The Florist Shop,"

MT. LAKE PARK

I wandered lonely as a cloud
That floats on high o'er vales and hills,
When all at once I saw a crowd—
A host of golden daffodils—
Beside the lake; beneath the trees,
Fluttering and dancing in the breeze.
—Wordsworth.

And this is quite true in Mountain Lake Park. Every place you look you see them. Its a sorta helpful sign to those up here who have weathered the winter months; it means they can soon stop using fuel. Their gas bills will be lighter—no more will they have to shiver and shake in the early morning hours as they prepare to go to work. Probably Wordsworth never thought of that when he wrote the poem. Just the same that's what these flowers mean to most people. They are not horticulturalists, either. Its just a matter of common sense.

RESTORATION OF C. AND O. CANAL IS NOW UNDER WAY

Project Will Be Completed By 1943 If 400 CCC Youths Stick To Their Present Schedule

PLAN FULL RESTORATION

The historic Chesapeke and Ohio Canal, $15,000,000 project built more than a century ago and in use until fifteen years ago, will be restored by 1943 if 400 Civilian Conservation Corps youths stick to a present work project.

But if restoration is completed pleasure boats and picnickers will ply the ancient waterway in relaxed contrast to the busy commercial traffic the canal carried in its heyday.

Work Already Started

Civilian Conservation camp enrollees already have started on the project, clearing away brush and whacking down small trees from the canal bed between Little Falls and Seneca.

The canal, designed as an outlet for commerce from the Alleghenies to Washington, was opened to traffic by 1830, and was completed to Cumberland, in Western Maryland, by 1850.

Purchased last year by the Government, it is being restored by the Interior Department as a park project.

The purchase included a right of way of about 120 to 160 feet wide for the length of the 186-mile canal, which is being developed as an historical and recreational park site.

Full Restoration Planned

Complete restoration, including the rebuilding of gates, sidewalks and ducts between Washington and Seneca and rebuilding the dam at Seneca Creek, is contemplated. The waterway will be restored the entire length to Cumberland.

Work on the canal has been started by members of two CCC camps in Montgomery county.

Group Of St. Peter's Congregation Making. Some Needed Improvements

In Oakland, S. P. C. A. stands for Saint Peter's Cooperative Association, according to Rev. Fr. William F. Sauer, pastor of the local Catholic church. The men of the congregation give one hundred per cent cooperation when it comes to parish improvements, he stated.

The group has started to construct a new concrete pavements and steps fronting the church on Fourth street under the direction of James Garrett and Edward O'Donnell. The improvement is much needed and the donated services are saving the parish a nice sum. Following the completion of the steps and pavement the men will paint the rectory adjoining. This latter piece of work will be under the direction of Joseph Helbig, Sr., and his brother, George Helbig, both members of the congregation and experienced painters of years standing.

STUDENTS OF O. H. S. WISH TO ENTER TRACK MEET

Mr. Hamill States That Field Will Be Available

The students of Oakland High have expressed their desire to participate in the annual Track and Field Meet by voting overwhelmingly in favor of entering. The ballot was held by the Student Council on April 19.

The Council took this action after receiving a letter from Mr. Stuart F. Hamill, owner of the field which the school wants to use as a practice field. Mr. Bittle stated that though unofficial, it is reported that the deed will be signed in the near future giving the Board of Education title to the property. The purchase was made possible by the County Commissioners. Oakland High school did not enter the track meet last year because students had no adequate place where they could practice for the events.

Up to this time it had appeared as though the school would not enter the meet. However Mr. Hamill's letter and the vote cast by the students dispelled that thought.

The athletic directors and F. D. Bittle, principal, went to work on the many problems which have arisen since O. H. S. is to enter the meet. Practices are now being held daily.

There's Extra good news in this price tag delivered at Flint, Mich.

$894 and up
*Prices subject to change without notice. Transportation, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories—extra.

THERE are a lot of things about this Buick any wide-awake-to-value buyer ought to know, but there's one important point that's worth making especially clear.

That's this: Many an item you'll pay extra for elsewhere is included in Buick's eye-opening prices!

Indeed, so many "extras" are standard on Buick that when you count them in, this beauty costs actually less than more than one car with lower advertised prices!

No other car, for instance, gives you the Flash-Way direction signal for sure, clear, unfailing signaling on turns by a mere touch of a switch—a $10 item right there!

Few have locks on both front doors—or a light in the luggage compartment—or automatic electric lighters in the dash—or ash receivers as numerous and as handy.

And where else, we'd like to ask, may you have your choice of wide running boards or narrow—or get a gas-saving economy gear just for the asking?

No other car, of course, gives you the extra silkiness of the Dynaflash valve-in-head straight-eight engine—none has quite the comfort of the BuiCoil "full float" ride—the security of Knee-Action that hanks on curves plus the safety of rear springs that actually lessen skid-risks.

Naturally, it's the smart white-tie look of this Buick, its agile stepping and wide-paned outlook that are causing most of the talk.

But look into the good news about "extras"—and you'd spot this honey as the car and the value of the year even without its beauty and its brilliance!

NO OTHER CAR IN THE WORLD HAS ALL THESE FEATURES
★ DYNAFLASH VALVE-IN-HEAD STRAIGHT-EIGHT ENGINE ★ BUICOIL TORQUE FREE SPRINGING ★ GREATER VISIBILITY ★ HANDISHIFT TRANSMISSION ★ ROOMIER UNISTEEL BODY BY FISHER ★ TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE ★ TIPTOE HYDRAULIC BRAKES ★ CROWN SPRING CLUTCH ★ "CATWALK-COOLING" ★ OPTIONAL REAR AXLE GEAR RATIOS ★ FLASH-WAY DIRECTION SIGNAL ★ SELF-BANKING KNEE-ACTION FRONT SPRINGING

To Improve Local Cemetery

The local Knights of Pythias lodge is assuming responsibility for the improving and beautification of the local cemetery again this year and is asking for cooperation of other organizations and lot owners.

At the last meeting of the lodge a committee consisting of Irvin R. Rudy, Wade Mason and Albert Kahl, was appointed to be in charge of the project. Mr. Rudy stated that the group was not asking for funds, but cooperation and a little work from individual lot owners in cleaning up their particular plot of ground. It is planned to have the cemetery cleaned and beautified hy Decoration Day, May 30.

CATTLE RUSTLERS GIVEN SENTENCES OF TWO YEARS

Garrett County Men Confess In Allegany County Circuit Court

Three confessed "cattle rustlers," who admitted a series of raids on farms in Allegany and Garrett counties during the past eight months, and stealing a number of calves and several score of chickens, were each sentenced on Saturday in the Allegany County Circuit Court at Cumberland to serve terms of two years in the Maryland House of Correction. The three young men are from Garrett county.

Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan, in imposing sentence, commented that it was the first time the trio had been arrested on any criminal charge, but he cited that farmers were entitled to all the protection the law can give from night raids on their properties. The three were each given two-year terms in three cases of larceny with the sentences in each case running concurrently, while several other indictments against them were dropped by the State's Attorney of Allegany county.

Clemency was asked for Paul Clark Bittinger, 21, by his attorney, who said the youth was married and the sole support of his family.

Elmer Bittinger, 23, spoke in his own behalf, agreeing to make restitution for the chickens and calves he stole. The third member of the trio, Leroy Wilt, also asked a suspended sentence.

The three men were rounded up after months of investigation by State police, who said the gang stole many head of cattle and several score of chickens in raids since the month of August of last year. The stolen livestock was sold in Pennsylvania towns, police said.

Raising Money For College

A number of projects are being conducted which are calculated to raise funds for the Self Help College at Mt. Lake Park. A "Dutch" supper conducted Tuesday evening, May 2, by Mrs. Nettie J. Eichelberger, at her Mt. Lake cottage, netted $21.00.

A number of girls of the college sold tags on the streets of Oakland for the school's benefit last Saturday.

Plans are now in the making for a summer program to be held in conjunction with the school and the money raised will be used for that purpose as well as for improvement of buildings and grounds.

OAKLAND TAX RATE TO REMAIN AT 60 CENTS PER $100

Council Passes Ordinance Prohibiting Itinerant and Transient Merchants

That the city tax rate for Oakland would remain at 60 cents per $100 of assessable property, was announced following the regular meeting of the Mayor and Town Council on Monday evening.

"In order to keep the tax rate at this figure, it is necessary that some drastic reductions be made in the annual cost of government," declared Lawrence M. Fraley, mayor, "but it is our opinion that these reductions can be made without impairing the services which the city government renders to the taxpayers."

The assessable basis for the town is approximately two million dollars.

The town also passed an ordinance against itinerants and transient merchants, solicitors, etc., and also amended another ordinance increasing the license fees necessary for certain kinds of house to house canvassing. This does not affect farmers who call on residents with vegetables, etc., that they have produced on their own land.

The new ordinance declares it a nuisance for solicitors, peddlers, hawkers, and itinerants to be in or upon private residences, not having been requested or invited hy the owner, for the purpose of soliciting orders for the sale of goods, wares and merchandise and disposing of the same. Violation of the ordinance calls for a fine of from $1 to $25. The ordinance is effective May 1.

The other ordinance, which was amended, relates to licenses and provides for fees and penalties. It increases the license for peddling any goods or merchandise, house to house, from $1 to $25 per year for any person on foot, or from $3 to $5 per day; for anyone with wagon or other vehicle, $5 to $10 per day.

These ordinances are designed to give protection to legitimate merchants who have established businesses in the town.

Other Business

The city clerk's report for April showed cash collected totaling $2,943,-33. In this total was $1,749.58 from water rents; $290 in taxes, 1935 to 1938; $508.62 from the State Roads Commission; $63.23 from released funds in the Garrett National Bank; water farm rent of $100, and a refund for telephone service of $184.21, extending over the past several years. Current bills amounted to over $1,600.

Arthur Lawton, clerk-collector, said there was now about $2,000 in the general and sinking funds after April bills had been paid.

A report of the movie tax showed a total of $69.44. This is distributed to the Fire Department, library and the Children's' Aid Society.

The possibility of opening one or more streets in East Oakland was discussed. Members of Council are to confer with C. N. McIntire, owner of some of the real estate in that section.

Council decided to fence the spring and pump station grounds west of Oakland for protective purposes.

The clerk's bond in the sum of six thousand dollars was accepted and recorded.

Miners To Receive Unemployment Checks In Maryland

Unemployment compensation checks are on their way to 1400 idle miners in Garrett and Allegany counties because the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board has ruled that the present mine shutdown is not a labor dispute.

Benefits due miners in the two counties total $120,000, which is an average of $85 for each miner. The actual amount due each miner depends upon his earnings during any quarter of the past year. Weekly benefits will vary from $5 to $15. Pennsylvania and Tennessee have allowed the miners compensation during the current shutdown, but Virginia and West Virginia have not.

KEMPTON MINER FOUND IN WOODS; AWAY FOUR DAYS

J. W. Broll, Sr., Apparently Tried To Commit Suicide, Officers Said; Razor Found Nearby

SUCCUMBS IN HOSPITAL

Missing four days from his home, J. W. Broll, Sr., 66-year-old miner of Kempton, this county, who was found Saturday in the dense woods three miles from Beechwood, Tucker county, West Va., with his throat and both of his wrists slashed, died early Sunday at an Elkins (W. Va.) hospital.

Constable D. E. Crosten, Tucker county official, said a razor was found near the man and that it was apparent he had attempted to commit suicide. Broll was lying in the underbrush with his feet in a small stream, when he was found at noon by Andy Kovach, of Kempton. More than one hundred CCC members and miners had been seaching the woods for the man who had been absent from his home since on Tuesday, April 25. His wounds were infected and he was suffering from exposure and hunger.

Mr. Broll left his home last Tuesday morning, telling Mrs. Broll and other members of the family that he was going to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Foster Helmick, at Beryl, W. Va., near Bloomington. Mr. Broll left his home around eight o'clock and supposedly walked through the woods to the railroad station where he was to take the train. He never reached the train and did not arrive at Beryl, the family discovered after telephone conversations. Members of the family became alarmed and a search for the man was instituted.

Mr. Broil had been suffering from rheumatism in recent months and it was feared that he may have been stricken with a recurrent attack of the disease. He was employed by the Davis Coal and Coke Company, having been in its employ for about forty years.

He had been a resident of Kempton for 25 years. Two of his sons, J. W. Broll, Jr., and Bernard Broll, reside in Kempton, while another son, Roy Broll, resides in Cumberland.

Mr. Broll was a member of the Odd Fellows and the United Mine Workers.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon from the Methodist church in Thomas, W. Va., with Rev. A. F. Richardson, of the Lutheran church, Davis, W. Va., in charge. Rites at the grave were in charge of the local branch of the United Mine Workers. Pallbearers were Harry Wolfe, Claude Corbin, Charles Lewis, Harry King and Charles Miller.

SCREEN FOR ENTRANCE TO LAKE TUNNEL IS SOUGHT

Question Of Need Of Screen To Save Fish Again Brought Up

The controversial question that has been discussed pro and con for some time by conservationists of whether or not a screen is necessary over the entrance of the intake tunnel at Deep Creek Lake dam to prevent fish from going through the turbines of the power house to be killed, has been brought to the attention of the public again hy Fred. C. Dreyer, of Cumberland, who is also a summer resident on the Deep Creek Lake shore.

Dreyer reported he had seen many perch lying along the banks of the Youghiogheny River below the power plant last Sunday, alleging he had been accompanied by C. M. Railey, of McHenry, and Raymond D. Houck, of Oakland, member of the executive board of the Garrett County Sportsmen's Association. He took some of the fish to Cumberland as "exhibits" and had them photographed.

Conservation officials told Dreyer last fall that the cost of the proposed screen would be prohibitive.

At a meeting on December 31, 1938, in the Court House at Oakland, the Deep Creek Lake Association recommended that screening of the tunnel was not necessary and that the loss of fish through the tunnel was greatly over-estimated. C. E. MacMurray, in charge of operations here for the Associated Gas and Electric Company, owners of the Deep Creek Lake property, explained that fresh water game fish would not go more than fifteen feet below the surface because of lack of air in the water at that depth, and therefore would not get into the tunnel.

Mr. Mac Murray had in mind particularly the bass and larger variety. Major E. B. Garey, secretary of the Deep Creek Lake Association, said that to his knowledge no more than four or five large fish had ever gone through the turbines and the fact that thousands of perch were going through the tunnel was evidence that there were millions in the entire lake, which had a shoreline of about 70 miles.

It was silly, he asserted, to assume that all the perch were congregating in the tunnel, the entrance of which was nine feet in diameter. A fine mesh screen necessary to hold back the small perch would cost thousands of dollars and would necessitate a revolving screen to keep leaves and debris from clogging the entrance, a watchman at the entrance at all times, and other expense, Major Garey said he had been informed by engineers.

The Deep Creek Lake Association is composed of lot owners along the lake and interested residents of this community.

There were none, and all were passed. Twenty-nine licenses were issued Saturday and the remainder this week.

SCOOP'S COLUMN

BY Scoop Himself

It's no wonder that for Walter Pitkin, author, life begins at forty. He is the author of the book "Life Begins at Forty," and twenty-two other volumes.

Here's what he was before he was forty: In order to work his way through college he helped train a prize fighter; sold books from house to house; took a census in Detroit; sold walking sticks, and was a time keeper on a sewer gang. After he was graduated from college he became a foreman on a cattle boat, a strike breaker on a French railroad, managed twenty-six exhibitions at the Paris Exposition, taught French and good manners and acted as a guard in an insane asylum.

All that before he was forty! And what is he now? A farmer, a college professor and a writer. Life would begin at forty for anybody who had had such a struggle before forty.

So you farmers take it easy. Life is just beginning for you. All you need to do is be a college professor too.

That "Woman" Again

Proverbs have been written about women the world over. They are viewed differently in different countries:

English—
- The cunning wife makes her husband her apron.
- A widow is as dangerous as a horse that has cast its rider.
- Everyone can tame a shrew but him that hath her.

German—
- A bog of fleas is easier to watch than one woman.
- A woman strong in flounces is weak in head.
- Woman's beauty, rainbows and forest echoes soon pass away.

French—
- A melon and a woman are hard to choose.
- A woman who looks much in the glass spins little.
- A woman conceals what she does not know.
- Widows weep for the lack of a husband, not for the loss of one.

Italian—
- Women, donkeys and hazel nuts need strong hands.
- Weather, smoke and a vicious woman drive men out of doors.
- Who takes an eel by the tail or a woman at her word holds nothing.

Danish—
- A truth-telling woman finds few friends.
- An ill-tempered woman is the devil's doornail.

Dutch—
- A house full of daughters is a cellar full of sour beer.

Spanish—
- No woman is ugly if she is well-dressed.
- Choose neither wife nor linen by candle-light.

United States—
- Fill in your own thoughts.

MT. LAKE PARK

A movement is now on foot here for what we should say was a grand project. The only hitch is that it is purely a local civic proposition, sponsored by those interested in the Park. In other words it is not a Government project but is sponsored solely by those citizens of Mountain Lake Park who have the interest of the Park at heart.

We are referring to the lot across from the Martin store whereon stood the old Hall of Philosophy. There many years ago stood a small rustic building called "The Rest." Old timers will recall it. Just now the plan is to put this back where it originally was—make a park in the remaining space and arrange to have occasional band concerts there. A plan to place suitable shrubbery around and make it attractive is already in motion. It is amazing what people will do to help promote a civic movement. A number of trucks have been offered and a responsible firm has offered to see that the work is well done. This lot has been an eyesore ever since the old Hall of Philosophy was demolished. There is no reason why this should not be made a really beautiful spot.

Mrs. Belle Michael Hipsley is given the credit for setting this movement in motion, and to her all the credit must go if this works out, and we think it will.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

A Correspondent Takes Up A Definition of the Five "Isms" Printed In The Republican Recently, and Expands On Them.

To the Editor of The Republican.

The witty, terse manner in which Scoop in his column recently defined the five "isms", did not alter or deduct from the fact that all five of the explanations contained "more truth than jest."

In the condensed interpretation of the fifth "ism" there is reflected, not without humor, yet with remarkably lucid accuracy the true colors, the spirit, the twisted system which has been adopted and closely adhered to by our own Government.

Within the words, "The Government shoots one cow, milks the other and pours the milk into the river," there is a clear, exact illustration; an excellent, concise portrayal of the queer inept methods employed by our Government in its futile, pathetic effort to bring back something that will resemble, even slightly, the good old days prior to the 1929 crash.

During this mad, haphazard attempt to lure Lady Prosperity around that proverbial corner; during this wild, destructive spending program, whose base or foundation is a virtual sieve with a grinning grafter and his open hillfold standing under every hole, we have, metaphorically speaking, watched the appalling incredible sum of $20,000,000,000 glide like an evaporating apparition into the dusk of obscurity.

That the greater majority of these billions have been spent in vain is obvious; that all our attempts to gain prosperity through nonsensical, destructive wastefulness are useless, is vividly plain. For the dark blot, the scar of 10,500,000 (more than the entire population of the State of Pennsylvania) unemployed remains ineradicable as our medal of reward, our blue ribbon reminder that prosperity and a firm footing cannot be effected or created through absurd waste, unreasonble taxation and the spending of billions as indifferently as though a mere few thousand dollars were being disbursed.

It should, however, I believe, be ungrudgingly conceded that President Roosevelt's ideas, his intentions, his motives are undoubtedly well meant, for it would be difficult to imagine a sane man who would ruthlessly, deliberately push our nation to the very brink of collapse and destruction, yet to the things vitally important and essential to the welfare of our country he is apathetic and apparently unconcerned.

Surely he is aware of the continuously operating network of grafters (the 73 indicted in New Mexico on October 30, 1938, for WPA graft would not be a "drop in the bucket") who are at work all over the United States draining incessantly on the appropriations made through the various alphabetical arrangements to assauge the needs and provide the bare necessities of life for the deserving unfortunate destitute ones.

Even though it is impossible for F. D. R. to determine in advance with accuracy the success, the practicability and the ultimate outcome of any program he might introduce, he could at least make sure that it was a sensible one as near as he was able to ascertain. Then, before launching it upon its nation-wide career he should diligently seek some medium through which the greedy grafters can be successfully and permanently foiled.

What with huge taxes, waste, destruction and our nation's precarious situation in general, the citizens, especially the unemployed, have developed an ever-thickening shell of pessimism. They are anxious, yet afraid, to cultivate courage and optimism because frequent disappointments and prolonged, enforced inactivity have rendered them bitter and readily susceptible to skepticism and cynicism.

Come time for the heads of our nation to again experiment with a new-fangled hizarre "depression cure", let us hope they learn of the value of impartiality, careful planning, good judgment and common sense and that a generous dash of each will be included in the "cure" formula.

AN EX-DEMOCRAT.

TERMS SCHOOL TEACHERS HELPERS FOR DEMOCRACY

Lowndes Addresses 1400 Instructors At Regional Meeting On Friday

Fourteen hundred teachers from four Western Maryland counties heard themselves described as aides to democracy last Friday at Cumberland in an assembly which, they were told, could not be matched in any of the world's dictator states.

Highly qualified and economically independent teachers, free from the dictates of government orders, can be a bulwark of strength in the fight to preserve democracy, the educators were told by Tasker G. Lowndes, recently appointed President of the State Board of Education.

Teachers and school officials from Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties attended the one-day session, a regional meeting of the Maryland State Teachers' Association.

Draws Comparison

Their assembly and discussion of political and economic problems, Mr. Lowndes pointed out, was a privilege denied to the teachers of dictator nations.

Mr. Lowndes reappointment was praised by Dr. Albert S. Cook, State Superintendent of Schools, who said the reappointment was one of two outstanding events in recent progress in Maryland's educational system.

The second outstanding event, Dr. Cook said, was the salary bill passed by the Legislature, providing higher salaries for teachers.

"Hitler On The March"

C. E. Ramsey, lecturer, who recently returned from Europe, advised the teachers to prepare for critical developments abroad in the near future, "because Hitler is on the march."

The elementary teachers were addressed at a separate afternoon session by Dr. James Carroll, head of the speech clinic at Ohio State University. Miss Lillian C. Compton, assistant superintendent of Allegany county schools, presided at the session.

THE LIGHT THAT SHINETH

He, that being often reproved hardeneth his neck, shall suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy. —Proverbs 29:1

LET JOHN L. LEWIS C.I.O. KEEP THE IDLE MINERS;—NOT THE TAXPAYERS

It appears like officials of the United Mine Workers are trying to becloud the issue when they demand that the different states and the Federal Government give the idle miners general relief and unemployment compensation insurance while they are not working.

The mine workers pay so much each month to State and National officers of the C. I. O. and have done so for to these many years, for just such emergencies as now exist. It has always been understood that the dues thus paid were to take care of them when they were called away from their work. And now, when they are away, the union officials keep the dues and demand that the Government keep the miners.

The State or Federal Government has no right to distribute taxpayers' money to people who are idle when it is possible for them to work. They have jobs waiting for them, but they won't work because John L. Lewis tells them not to. Let John L. Lewis contribute out of his reputed wealth of more than a million dollars, to keep the miners, then.

The miners were satisfied with the wages being offered by the mine operators. The only thing holding up the Appalachian miners' contract is John L. Lewis, who wants the right to strike when there is no reason for it and not be penalized. He also demands that every miner who works for the Appalachian operators be a member of the CIO, just so that more dues will come monthly to his coffers.

Organized labor is commendable when regulated in a proper manner. It is certainly getting out of bounds now, with John L. Lewis trying to be more of a dictator to the people of this country than Adolf Hitler is to the people of Germany. People of this nation ought to arouse themselves against any such movement and against any such principle.

The coal business is almost to zero and is affecting railroads and business in general—and only because John L. Lewis wants something that other labor unions see no reason for having. And he demands that business men and railroads, whose businesses are decreasing in volume, pay taxes to feed the miners while they remain idle.

An editorial in the Times Record, Spencer, W. Va., asks a very pertinent question in this respect: "Where is the $7,200,000 collected by Pied Piper John L. Lewis?" The editorial follows:

"We mine no coal in Roane county and have no special interest to serve when we suggest an accounting of the monies extracted from the miners of West Virginia wherein they have membership. It is timely to make this inquiry now when the professional and provisional officers of the mine union, appointees of John L. Lewis, are seeking to divert the public revenue to the support of 100,000 miners who have been forced into idleness without even their own consent.

"The mine union collected a dollar per month from each miner in West Virginia. It is deducted over the mine payroll. Only 15 cents is permitted to remain in the treasury of the local mine union; 35 cents goes to the State organization, and 50 cents to the National union. The total is not difficult to compute. The 100,000 miners pay $100,000 a month, or $1,200,000 a year. In six years they will pay $7,200,000. Half of that sum, or $3,600,000 goes to the Lewis union. In addition since the advent of the CIO the miners of West Virginia have paid three extra assessments of $1.00 each, or another $3,600,000. That means John L. Lewis has collected $7,200,000 for National purposes. What became of the money? We should think the miners of this State would force an accounting.

"The miners of West Virginia have been made the goats for the CIO. They have been milked regularly to support the steel, motor and other new unions of the CIO. And now when Mr. Lewis becomes afraid of Mr. Green, these workers are pulled from the mines and take a loss of $3,000,000 a week in wages. Mr. Lewis demands the closed shop in the coal mines. In other words he forces a loss of $3,000,000 weekly on the same miners who have paid for organization of the CIO because he fears Mr. Green may poach on the pasture where Mr. Lewis keeps his goats."

TEACHERS' BANQUET IS ATTENDED BY ABOUT 125

Dr. Cook Gives Reasons For Advance In Education In Address

Some of the reasons for the progress and advancement in education in Garrett county and throughout the State were outlined last Thursday evening by Dr. Albert S. Cook, State Superintendent of Schools, at the second annual banquet of the Garrett County Teachers' Association. At the banquet there were approximately 125 teachers and guests present, which was served in the assembly room of the Methodist church in Oakland.

Dr. Cook was the only speaker of the evening. He traced the educational history of this county for the past twenty years, showing what legislation had been helpful in bringing about better standards in the teaching profession and the better training of the school children.

He declared that Garrett county had one of the most difficult problems in education because of its topographical conditions and that in spite of this had made more advancement in the past twenty years than any other county in the State. He declared also, however, that there was still much work to be done.

He pointed out that certification of elementary teachers had increased since 1920 from 6 per cent to 98 per cent; that elementary school teachers' salaries had increased from $372 to $1161; that elementary transportation had advanced; that supervision of instruction and improved organization had been effected; that high school salaries had increased from $1192 to $1518; that the average number of pupils over age in various grades had decreased from 47 per cent in 1922 to 17 per cent in 1938, and that the teachers were not "shoving them trough" any more, regardless of their fitness for the next higher grade.

Dr. Cook gave credit for the advance in education to a growing desire of the people to want more education and better conditions; to a board of education and a State organization behind the problem of education, and a well-trained corps of teachers.

Guests at the dinner included Thos. G. Pullen, assistant State Superintendent of Administration and High School Supervision; C. L. Kopp, Allegany County Superintendent of Education, and Mrs. Kopp; former Secretary of State E. Ray Jones and Mrs. Jones; Superintendtn of Schools of Garrett County F. E. Rathbun and Mrs. Rathbun; Miss Kate Bannatyne and Mrs. Caroline Wilson, Elementary Supervisors; W. W. Savage, Friendsville and Mrs. Frances F. O'Donnell, members of the Board of Education of Garrett county; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Hanst, William O. Davis and Frank Kley. Wilbur J. Glenn, Friendsville, president of the County Teachers' Association, was toastmaster.

High school students of the Oakland and the Grantsville schools furnished music and other forms of entertainment during the evening. Mrs. Julius C. Renninger was chairman of the banquet committee.

Names Added To Red Cross Membership Roll

A new total for the Red Cross membership drive for this year was announced yesterday by Mrs. Paul Naylor, roll call chairman. There are now 308 members with $314.15 having been received. The county quota is $400.

Mrs. Naylor said that there were still two towns to report, which would increase the number by about 25. Members whose contrihutions have been received sine the last report include Mrs. William R. Offutt, T. E. Bishoff, Miss Grace Falkenstein, Mrs. Charles Ream and Mrs. James P. Treacy.

Oakland Postoffice Eighth In State In Sale of Bonds

Oakland postoffice ranked eighth in the State in the sale of United States Savings bonds during the calendar year of 1938, with a total sales of $24,356.25.

Approximately 22,000 postoffices throughout the country sell these bonds. Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announced that the total sales of Savings bonds through March 31, 1939, aggregated in maturity value more than $2,437,108,850, since March 1, 1935 when they were first placed on sale. The purchases have been made by over 1,500,000 investors.

Mountain Lake Park ranked 23rd in the State of Maryland for third class postoffices and first in Garrett county for that class office.

Cal Crim To Be Honored By His Friends On 75th Anniversary

Friends of Cal Crim are planning a testimonial dinner in his honor as a veteran detective of the city of Cincinnati, Ohio, when his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary rolls around on May 15. Crim is a native of Oakland and left here when quite a young lad to "make his fortune in the West."

Accompanying Cal on his westward trip were the late Dr. Henry W. McComas and Charles Sweeney, brother of John Sweeney, of Oakland. Dr. J. Lee McComas wired authorities in the west about his son and a policeman hailed him in Columbus, Ohio, and returned him to Oakland. The doctor often related this experience to his friends. Sweeney settled in St. Louis, Mo., while Cal Crim entered Cincinnati barefooted and settled there.

The celebration will be a triple one for Cal. It marks his diamond birthday anniversary, his golden jubilee as a detecteive and his silver anniversary as his own boss. He spent two years as a cop before he became a detective, joining the Cincinnati force in 1886. He was made a detective in 1889. In 1897 he was made assistant chief of detectives and a few years later got the chief's job. Then in 1914 he established the Cal Crim Detective Agency. In rush seasons, Christmas and other big shopping events, he has 105 men and 29 women working for him.

Oakland High Wins Two Games; To Play Frostburg Friday

Oakland High school baseball team, after winning most of its games thus far, will meet Beall High at Frostburg here tomorrow afternoon on the diamond west of town. Oakland beat Beall last week 9 to 7.

This week the local team defeated Aurora 13 to 2 and also trimmed Tunnelton 7 to 3. It was Aurora's opening game and was filled with errors. Oakland started the downfall in the fourth inning and continued until the final inning. Wolf had 12 strikeouts to his credit. Sharps had a two-base hit.

Tunnelton went into the lead early in the game but an Oakland rally overtook the West Virginia outfit and a tightened defense shut them out until the seventh inning when they scored another run.

DEAR GARRETT COUNTY

Where the white pine meets the spruce
And the rhododendrons grow,
Where the hemlocks spread their branches
And the babbling rivers flow;
Where the groundhog views his shadow
On the hillside near the run,
And a burrow near awaits him
When his foe he has to shun.

Where the deer and turkey wander
Round the ledges in the sun—
There they keep a constant vigil
For a hunter with his gun.
Where the mountain springs are flowing
With their waters clear and pure
There is nothing just as tasty
In this wide, wide world, I'm sure.

This is dear old Garrett county,
With its mountains, streams and game,
With the world's most lovely places
Garrett county holds its fame.
If you want a great vacation
In all nature's arms entwine,
You will find it in the shadows
Of this paradise sublime.

While making some alterations and repairs at the Shirer homestead on Oak street, the house having been constructed upwards of a century ago by Peter Shirer, a floor of the building was torn up and beneath it was found a child's shoe which had probably been in the spot where found for seventy-five or eighty years. The shoe was of course handmade, its construction showing that the sole had been pegged on, but these pegs had rotted away leaving the sole and upper in two separate parts. There were no eyelets in the upper, only holes cut in for the laces to enter. Scott Shirer, who occupies the house, is of the opinion that it belonged to an aunt, who if now living would be upwards of ninety years old.

Welfare Board Can't Help Miners, As Funds Are Scarce

At a meeting of the Garrett County Welfare Board on Monday evening, applications for assistance coming from the mine areas at the present time were discussed and it was the decision of the board that because of the lack of funds it would be impossible to assist this group.

Miners have been idle for several weeks awaiting the outcome of the controversy between the operators and the United Mine Workers, and in addition to a number of them requesting direct relief, they have also applied for unemployment compensation. No decision as to whether or not they are entitled to the latter, however, has ever been announced by the department head in Baltimore.

The Welfare Board granted three old-age assistance applications.

Joseph F. Fahey, chairman of the board, and Miss Ethel Miller, executive secretary, are planning to attend the State-wide conference to be held in Baltimore on May 15, for the purpose of discussing recent legislation which affects welfare activities within the State.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS.....

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

The Late Convention Idea

Washington, April 28.

Unquestionably Republican hopes for 1940 are higher now than when this session of Congress began. It may be that some turn of the wheel will change the situation, but as things are today, it is the general opinion that, barring war, the chances favor the election of a Republican President. That, at any rate, is the emphatic view of a majority of supposedly well-informed Washington correspondens recently polled on the subject by a weekly magazine.

That, too, is the conviction of a good many Democratic politicians who do not believe in deluding themselves. Nor is their feeling affected by the buoyant optimism so bravely voiced by Postmaster General Farley in recent dedicatory speeches. It hasn't the 1936 ring at all. The fact is that no one at all realistic in politics can ignore the fact that the conditions seem to make the setup ideal for the minority party. This is reflected in the new virility of the Republican House and Senate leadership, in the greater effectiveness of national committee publicity and the militant determination not to hold their convention until after the Democrats—if they have to wait until the middle of September to do it.

The advantages are obvious. It will enable them to profit by the blunders and bad luck of the other side. In past campaigns it was the Democrats who did that. As things are now, the Republicans can outwit the Democrats and are united on the decision to do so. Without minimizing the encouragement of the New Deal reverse last November, which in a dozen States demonstrated that Santa Claus could be beaten and the tide had definitely turned, undeniabbly the great Republican asset for 1940 is the Democratic split.

Without that the prospect would not be so good; with it, barring war, it hardly could be better. Clearly the Democratic split cannot be closed. It isn't that kind of split. It is much too deep and wide and fundamental. If Mr. Garner and Mr. Roosevelt should kiss, make up and join forces, which is so improbable as to be fantastic, the split would remain. It is a division comparable to that which rent the Republicans in 1912 and elected Woodrow Wilson President. Every political utterance of the President or his aides is a belligerant demand that the Democrats who dissent from their view get out of the party. On the other hand, the attitude of Conservative Democrats is that the New Dealers are dangerous radicals, who have allied themselves with the Communists and threaten national ruin by reckless extravagance and socialistic experiments. Far from getting together, the factions grow more bitterly apart.

Under such circumstances, any action the Democratic convention takes would seem to the Republican advantage. For example, if the conservatives control and nominate Mr. Garner or a man of the same type, New Deal spokesmen already have proclaimed that a million New Dealers would vote for the Republican, whether he be Dewey, Taft or Vandenberg. That statement was made some time ago by Mr. Ernest Lindley, one of the most authoritative New Deal journalists. It was clearly intimated by the President himself and by his aide, Solicitor General Jackson. No one has any more doubt about that than that, if the convention should nominate a New Dealer, conservative Democrats by the million would go Republican.

There are only two other alternatives—one, the selection of a compromise candidate, who likely would not be satisfactory to either faction; the other, the renomination of Mr. Roosevelt, which, in addition to making more complete the revolt of conservative Democrats, would raise the dictator issue and mean an assault upon the oldest and most cherised of American political traditions—that against a third term. Considering these things, Republican cheerfulness is easy to understand. Of course, it is always possible to spoil the best situation through stupidity and there are some very stupid Republicnn politicians. However, at the moment, they do not seem in control.

Governor O'Conor appointed former State Senator Mary E. W. Ristau, of Harford county, to the post of Commissioner of Loans at a salary of $4,800. She is the first woman to hend a department in Maryland.

Undoubtedly the situation in Europe is serious. All the racial hatreds, greeds and ambitions of that unhappy continent over the last hundred years seem again to be coming to a head. The flames of war momentarily may again burst over that part of the world, bringing in their wake horror, devastation and widespread economic maladjustments.

Yet should that conflict come, it will be Europe's war. Most certainly it will not be the war of the American people. There is no reason why this nation should become involved in such a war. A broad ocean separates us from Europe. Its ways are not our ways. We have nothing to gain by participating in those age-old quarrels. We want nothing from Europe. Whatever debt we owed Europe was more than repaid in the World War.

These are obvious truths. There are those among us, however, who insist that Europe's quarrels must directly concern us and become our quarrels. They want us as a nation to take sides among the hostile countries of Europe. They want us to give assistance to one group of European belligerents but withhold it from the other. In effect, they want us to become a party to these quarrels.

Why? Because, we are told, moral principles are at stake—democracy is at stake—the right of men to worship God as they please is at stake—civilization itself is at stake. As a great moral nation, we are told, it is our duty to enforce the sanctity of treaties, put down aggressors and police the world.

Lest We Forget

Not only is such talk poppycock—hut to our sorrow we have heard it before. In 1917-18 we fought to save democracy and civilization—and the world got Communist Russia, Nazi Hitler and Fascist Mussolini. Indeed, there is little idealism on either side of this European conflict. Those that "have not" want to get away from those who "have" some of the resources they possess. It is not even a question of democracy on one side and dictators on the other, as we have been told. Dictator Hitler has no more use for Dictator Stalin than he had for the French, who now embrace the Moscow Dictator, both spiritually and physically.

The American people know all of this and they want none of that mess. But led by President Roosevelt and supported by all the internationalists and those with special interests at stake, the country is being misled by contentions that perhaps if we act belligerent enough a war in Europe can be avoided.

But what assurance is there that belligerent thundering on the part of the President, State Department spokesmen and the internationally-minded press will prevent the threatened war? There was such thundering in 1931 when Japan struck out at China. Did it halt Japan? Hardly. Nor will it deter Hitler and Mussolini now. Only armed force will have that effect. Does President Roosevelt propose to use young American manhood as the force to stop them? It sounds so to listen to him. At least that is the risk we are now taking. But our people never again will agree to that unless cajoled off their guard by noble phrases.

F. D. R. Causes Jitters

At all events, the evidence is clear that Mr. Roosevelt is set on creating a war psycholigy in this country. By a series of statements in the last few weeks he has thrown the country into a state of jitters. Not even the necessity for keeping our domestic economy on an even keel in the fight to promote recovery has deterred the President. He seems not to care what effect his sabre-rattling statements have on business and the commodity and security markets.

You think this is a partisan contention? Then read what two non-partison, objective political commentators, who have been sympathatic with the New Deal, have to say on the subject. Raymond Clapper in the Scripps-Howard newspapers asserts that "if you have been reading the newspaper dispatches from Warm Springs during President Roosevelt's stay there, you may have observed how persistently a feeling of alarm over Europe is being cultivated." Mr. Clapper thinks it would be "the better part of statesmanship to withhold its fire until it is clear what we want to shoot at and then shoot--not wildly in the air but at the target."

General Hugh S. Johnson, former N.R.A. Administrator and a patriotic soldier, in the same issue of Scripps-Howard newspapers, is more blunt. He asserts that "when the President of the United States says on leaving Wnrm Springs that he will return for Thanksgiving if we don't have a war, he might mean that there is at least a considerable possibility that we will have a war before Thanksgiving," and, General Johnson added, "such a hint is enough to chill the average layman into goose pimples."

Says Administration Causes Fear

"One of the principal reasons why we have so many millions unemployed," asserted General Johnson, "is fear or lack of business confidence. It has been a very large by-product of much Administration policy. Hitherto that stagnating insecurity has come from economic and financial actions and attitudes. That was unintended, indirect and perhaps unavoidable."

"But," he continued, "official hints of war and of our participation in it move directly as a cause to effect the same kind of uncertainty—or worse. We all want the hard facts at such a dangerous time but putting too gloomy or awful a face on a fact is just as dangerous as glossing over ugly ones."

Can Mr. Roosevelt be unconscious of the fact that he is precipitating another economic recession? We wonder!

PAUL WORKS A HARD FIELD

LESSON TEXT—Acts 18:1, 4-11; I Corinthians 2:1-5.
GOLDEN TEXT—I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me.—Philippians 4:13.

"Sissy!" That one word uttered with the depth of scorn of which only a school boy is capable, is enough to ruin the happiness of the one toward whom it is directed. The writer of these notes has a manly son of eight years of age who has many ambitions in his young heart, but one great fear, namely, that he may do something that will mark him as a "sissy." It is a commendable thing that boys should feel that way, provided, of course, that they are properly instructed in home and church so that they know that real manly courage does not mean being a ruffian or an ungodly person.

One could wish that more of that spirit were evident in the Christian Church. We really have all too many professed believers who are "soft"—afraid of the hard blows of life. These people tell young folk both by word and deed that Christianity is a religion for the soft-hearted and sentimental, when as a matter of fact it calls for all the red-blooded vitality of the strongest man and woman. Here is a place for the boy or girl, man or woman who has a backbone and the spirit of the pioneer. It is a great and glorious battle in which we are engaged. Paul knew it and lived it. In the progress of his ministry we find him at Athens (Acts 17), where a brilliant appeal to the philosophers of that place brought little result. From thence he comes to Corinth, one of the greatest and most wicked cities of the day. Here he meets a difficult task.

I. Human Inability (Acts 18:1, 4-8).

To call a man a "Corinthian" was to label him as a drunkard and a libertine. The town was really tough and Paul walked right into that impossible situation to preach the gospel. He naturally first went to the Jews in the synagogue, but when he preached Christ they made short work of putting him out. Rather we should say he very definitely separated himself from them. Consider the graphic picture in verse 6. But he didn't go far, he set up his testimony for Christ in the house next door, where God had a believer all prepared to receive him. The preacher of the truth may move, but he does not run away from God's appointed place.

Opposition was evidently keen, and as Paul came and went the leaders in the synagogue would probably meet him and make known their plans to destroy him. This, added to the opposition of the wicked city, was enough to discourage any man. He had some results (v. 8), but on the whole he had to struggle with the heartbreak of an impossible task. But the hour of man's extremity is the time of God's opportunity. There comes

II. Divine Encouragement (Acts 18:9-11).

God never tries His people beyond their ability to bear. It is not always given to His servants to have the assurance of success which came to Paul, but in all probability they do not face such staggering discouragement. In any case, those who have walked in the valley as well as on the mountain top with the Lord testify that He gives strength in the hour of weakness to all those who trust Him.

Paul was assured that no bodily harm would come to him and that he was not to think that he was alone, for there were many of God's people even in that wicked city. Safety and fellowship were thus assured, and none too soon, for almost at once a bitter persecution broke out against him. Read verses 12-17. Note that the assurance of God's protecting care does not mean that we shall escape trials and sorrows, but that we are to be kept in the midst of them.

III. The Secret of Victory (I Cor. 2:15).

Looking back on his ministry in Corinth, Paul writes of the secret of his successful work there. This is a passage that every teacher and preacher of God's Word should prayerfully ponder. Eloquence, human wisdom, and self-confidence may be the basis of success in the things of the world, but not in the ministry of the gospel. How well we know that the most carefully reasoned and well-phrased message may be utterly flat and powerless, while the stumbling utterance from a heart full of the love and grace of God "becomes a fire and a searching and a burning, because the Holy Spirit catches it up and bears it upon the inner consciousness of men" (Morgan). The man who preaches without his soul atremble with the sacredness of his task, his own unworthiness, and an appreciation of the power of God, may be eloquent and learned, but he will accomplish little for God

Republican Recovery Program

Statement by REPRESENTATIVE JOSEPH W. MARTIN, Jr.
Republican Leader of House, April 24, 1939

Two months now have passed since Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins in a speech at Des Moines announced to the country that the New Deal was ready to take positive steps toward a business appeasement program to restore economic recovery. Assumed to be speaking for the Roosevelt Administration, Mr. Hopkins' announcement aroused widespread enthusiasm and raised high hopes in all parts of the country and among adherents of all political faiths.

Since that speech, however, the only specific action taken by the Administration to encourage recovery was the recommendation of the Secretary of the Treasury for cancellation of the increased payroll taxes.

Correction of defects in the Social Security Act, however, is but one step in a necessary business recovery program. Other steps must be taken—and taken NOW—if a solid foundation is to be laid for business revival. The expected Spring improvement in business failed to materialize.

An increasing flood of mail to Congress from all parts of the country complains of conditions. Factory and shop workers write me they are footsore and weary seeking employment. Farmers tell me their condition is desperate. Young men and women, unable to get jobs, beg for a chance to make a start in life. All want to know why their Congress and their Government are doing nothing to restore normal conditions.

The Roosevelt Administration is torn by conflicting opinions of what should be done and is unable to act because of indecision. Therefore Congress must assume the lead in taking steps necessary to guide the country back to economic recovery and restore our millions of unemployed to jobs in private industry at decent wages.

Republicans are ready to support all steps necessary to promote business revival and re-employment. We call on all members of House and Senate to join with us in working earnestly and unceasingly to bring about the following objectives:

1. Keep the United States out of war.
2. Move immediately to curb unnecessary, wasteful and reckless spending.
3. Repeal the repressive tax on undistributed corporate earnings, which has proved so harassing and dangerous to business, large and small.
4. Revise the remainder of the Federal tax structure to eliminate or modify provisions retarding business recovery.
5. Repeal the dangerous discretionary authority which the President now has over the Nation's monetary system.
6. Amend the National Labor Relations Act by clarifying the mutual obligations of worker and employer and the duties of both toward the public in order to end present paralyzing discord.
7. Define specifically the area of government competition with private enterprise so that business may be able to create jobs with some certainty as to the future.
8. Restore American markets to the American farmer and wage-earner and develop new markets for agricultural products.
9. Adopt immediate legislation to rehabilitate the railroads to make secure the jobs of many hundreds of thousands of workers and the investments of savings banks and life insurance companies.
10. Create a special committee of Congress to inquire into the effect of the Reciprocal Trade Agreement policy of American industry and agriculture.
11. Clarify Federal rules and regulations so industry and business may know what to expect.
12. Reject all experimental legislation not clearly helpful in promoting recovery, or, which would subject agriculture, labor or industry to compulsory decrees of a Federal bureaucracy.

We are convinced that no progress can be made toward restoring this country to a sound and permanent prosperity until a program along these lines is adopted and put into effect.

We are convinced if this program in its entirety is adopted by Congress and accepted by the President, our country will immediately take on new life and vigor and will presently begin again to enjoy economic stability and a higher standard of living. Panaceas and short-cut methods have been tried and found wanting. The time has come to go forward to fundamentally sound principles.

Words are not sufficient: action is imperative NOW!

New Train Schedule In Effect On The Baltimore and Ohio

Changes in the schedules of Baltimore and Ohio passenger trains became effective on Sunday, April 30. Aside from the arriving time of train 23, westbound, which now comes to Oakland at 6:15 a. m., instead of at 4:33 a. m., there is little change in the schedule.

The National Limited, eastbound, cuts 51 minutes from the former schedule between St. Louis and New York. The Diplomat, eastbound, cut 15 minutes between these two cities from its former running time.

Trains Nos. 23 and 24 are now being operated between Cincinnati and Jersey City instead of between Parkersburg and Jersey City.

The National Limited, westbound, gers from Washington and points further east, but the Diplomat, both directions, and the National Limited, are not scheduled to stop in Oakland.

The morning accommodation, westbound, runs 20 minutes earlier.

The new schedule is as follows:

Eastbound

No. 4—The Diplomat	6:15 a. m.
No. 30	10:14 a. m.
No. 12	6:56 p. m.
No. 24	10:29 p. m.
No. 2—National Limited	3:12 a. m.

Westbound

No. 29—Accommodation	9:55 a. m.

No. 3—The Diplomat	1:12 a. m.

Eight Counties Have Deficits In Lateral Gas Tax Account

Eight counties have overdrafts totaling $170,000 in their lateral gasoline tax accounts with the State Roads Commission, but for a change Garrett county was not one of them.

William A. Codd, Commission auditor, said that lateral funds and construction funds had to be considered together by counties planning construction work, since the Commission required that credits be used to wipe out deficits, if any.

Garrett county's accounts showed the following: lateral funds, $3,201.91; construction funds, $12,508.15.

Both Allegany and Washington counties had deficits in their lateral roads funds.

OAKLAND YOUTH IS GIVEN $2,500 DAMAGE VERDICT

Jury At Cumberland Returns Decision For Milton Turney, Hurt On Street In That City

WILL CONTEST DECISION

A Circuit Court jury in Allegany county on last Friday found Cumberland's so-called death curve "guilty" in causing a motor vehicle accident in which two Oakland youths were involved, and awarded Milton Turney, 19, son of Oscar Turney, of Oakland, $2,500 damages against the city of Cumberland for injuries received in the crash.

City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett, indicated that the verdict would be contested and that a new trial will be asked or an appeal taken to the Maryland Court of Appeals.

The jury deliberated less than an hour following a two-day trial of the case. Turney had asked $10,000 damages, alleging he was injured on the morning of November 6, 1938, when the car in which he was riding overturned on the curve at the summit of Washington street hill. The machine was being operated by Stanley Stark, also of Oakland.

Former City Attorney Lewis M. Wilson, who appeared in court as the attorney for Turney, charged that the curve was a "death trap" and said the accident was caused because the street at that point had been improperly constructed.

Several civil engineers and city police officers testified for the city that the curve was not hazardous for cars traveling within the speed limits and that it was practically "skid proof." City Attorney Heskett said that the accident was caused because Stark's car was traveling at excessive speed.

The city exhibited pictures of the wrecked car, showing how the front end was crushed and twisted by the impact.

Turney testified that he and Stark had left Oakland to visit an anut of the latter. He said that they could not find the aunt's house and were driving along the street when he approached this curve. He said he was "confused" when the headlights of their machine picked up warning signs as they came to the curve.

In answer to his attorney's question he declared that he and Stark had had no liquor or beer and had been no place that night where it was sold, and that he did not smoke.

He stated that as a result of his injuries, which included fractures of his cheek bones, bruises about the head and body, he was a patient in a Cumberland hospital for several weeks and still suffers with bad dreams, is nervous, has lost weight and at intervals has head pains.

Many Hear Presentation Of Miss Cherryblossom By Glee Club

The Oakland High school auditorium was filled last Friday evening when "Miss Cherryblossom," a three-act operetta, was presented by members of the high school glee club.

Miss Martha Jane Baird and James Chisholm had the leading singing roles while other main characters were James Darby, Stanley Stahl, Hal Schell, John Grant, Mary Emma Chaires and Harry Sanders.

The operetta was termed by many of those attending as one of the best ever to be presented here. Miss Joan Steele was the director, assisted by Miss Willard Conrad. Miss Mary Virginia Cooper was dance director and Miss Catherine Baker, art director.

Between acts three features were presented: a saxophone solo by Frank Junkins; vocal solo, "Redhead", by William Graham, and a piano duet, by Virginia Lawton and Nancy Lou Dawson.

Rowlesburg Takes Oakland 10-1

Rowlesburg High school defeated Oakland High's baseball team at Rowlesburg on Tuesday afternoon, 10 to 1. Adams, Oakland pitcher, struck out 5, while Bolyard struck out 6 for the West Virginia outfit.

Rowlesburg got six runs in the first inning to clinch the contest and added four more during the next six innings. Oakland's only run came in the second frame. Faherty, regular catcher and co-captain, was unable to play on account of an injured finger received in the Beall game and his steadying influence behind the plate was consequently missing.

Fire Causes Heavy Damage To Home Of Mark Gauer

Fire of undetermined origin caused heavy damage to the home occupied by Mark Gauer and his family, just south of Liberty street, west Oakland, on Sunday afternoon about 2 o'clock.

Flames were leaping from the roof of the building before it was discovered as members of the Gauer family were not at home at the time Another occupant of the home was asleep in an upstairs room and had to be awakened. The shingles and tar paper on the roof caught quickly and the flames had gained quite a headway before the Oakland Fire Department arrived.

After a stubborn fight the blaze was brought under control. Many articles of furniture were taken from the downstairs rooms. The damage is estimated at more than $300.

CHARGES AGAINST PICKET DISMISSED AT HEARING

Was Held Several Days In Oakland Jail On Armed Robbery Charges

Charges against Lewis Vernon Hockenberry, of Mount Savage, who was held in the Oakland Jail for several days on a charge of robbing William R. Meyers, of Meyersdale, Pa., a coal trucker, on April 19, at a point on the Finzel road, were dismissed Tuesday afternoon at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Charles F. White, in Oakland.

Meyers charged that a group of nine pickets halted his truck and that one of the number held a gun on him and robbed him of $43, a coat, flashlight and a thermos bottle. The pickets then dumped his load of coal, he said.

Mr. White said that the testimony showed that Meyers was unable to identify Hockenberry as the man who had the gun, even though he was one of the number who halted the truck on the highway about midnight.

The hearing created considerable interest and Justice White's office was crowded with pickets and picket sympathizers.

Charges of tampering with a motor vehicle were field against four men from Zihlman, Allegany county, on Saturday They were arrested by Lieut. Niles G. Falketnstine and Sergt. A. M. Spioch, of the State police, on Friday night on the complaint of Alvin Lichty, Wellersburg, Pa., a coal trucker, who charged that a group of men hurled stones at his truck near Barrelville. He also said that the men forced him to stop his truck and that a helper on the truck was beaten while he ran to a telephone to summon the police.

Frantz Hotel Being Torn Down

The Frantz Hotel, a portion of which was built during the late eighties, and additions made to it in later years by Thomas F. Burke, is being razed, the lumber thus salvaged to be used in the construction of other buildings in Oakland or on farms where such material can be used to advantage. The residence portion of the old structure, facing on Liberty street, which was erected some time during the year 1878 or a little later, will be repaired and probably rented.

The hotel proper contains about 20 bedrooms and has been vacant for several years.

To Attend Divine Worship

Members of the Oakland Fire Department will attend church services, in uniform, at St. Mark's Lutheran church on Sunday, May 14.

Earlier in the morning the group will have its picture taken, the first one to be taken of the company and its equipment since purchasing the uniforms.

WASHINGTON EXPERTS SEE SKI POSSIBILITIES HERE

Pleased With Visit To Slopes In Savage River Forest Over The Week-End

Several skiing slopes, said to rival those in the Adirondacks in New York and New England, were seen in the Savage River forest, this county, over the week-end by A. H. Jackman, secretary of the Washington Ski Club; Edward B. Ballard, engineer and landscape architect, and Walter W. Goodhue, also of Washigton, who accompanied forestry officials on an inspection trip Saturday and Sunday. They camped in a State park log hut at night.

The visitors are all expert skiers and experienced in designing ski trails and were pleased with the outlook for winter sports development in this county. They declared the trails the best south of New England.

Members of the party told officials that the facilities were there and that three long hillside slopes were ideal, with trail work carried out, and that lovers of skiing, coasting and sledding could easily avail themselves of it next winter.

It was thought the easiest way to reach the ski runs would be to go to New Germany.

The Forestry Department is to keep a snow fall record in the winter and advise the ski clubs in Baltimore and Washington when the snow covering is suitable for the sports.

The Deep Creek Yacht club is to be asked to join the Forestry Department in developing the winter sports.

The Washington experts said that a special "snow train" out of Baltimore and Washington could put several hundred snow enthusiasts on the ski run in less than five hours.

GOLF CLUB FORMED WITH D. E. OFFUTT PRESIDENT

New Organization Sets Same Membership Fees As Last Year

At a meeting of those interested in the formation of a golf club held last Friday evening, D. Edward Offutt was named president of the organization. Other officers elected included I. J. Bosley, vice-president; F. D. Bittle, secretary, and Delbert Davis, treasurer.

The club has guaranteed the City Council at least $360 on November 1, and will pay all running expenses of the course through the summer, including the salary of the golf pro.

This agreement between the club members of the City Council will relieve the latter of all responsibility in regulating the course and yet give the city at least six per cent on its investment in the municipal course. If more than the sum of $360 is cleared by the club, then the city will also get the benefit of the additional receipts.

Rates of membership were set as follows: Man and family, $20; single man, $15; single woman, $10; non-resident, $10; beginner, $5 monthly; payments to apply on full membership if desired.

The season is to run from May 1, 1939, to May 1, 1940.

SPORTSMEN SHOW CONCERN OVER LOSS OF LAKE FISH

Discussion Is Held Monday Evening At Meeting of Association

At a meeting of the Garrett County Sportsmen's Association on Monday evening in the City Hall, a number of those present appeared much concerned over the report of a run of yellow perch which went through the turbines of the Youghiogheny Hydro-Electric power house recently. Most of the fish alleged to have passed through the machines were fingerlings and the loss is reported to run into the thousands, according to a number of persons who saw them lying along the banks of the stream below the power house.

The Association is greatly interested in having the Governor appoint a man from this county to the Conservation Commission, according to H. C. Riggs, president of the association.

Bernard I. Gonder, Oakland, has already been recommended by the organization and Mr. Riggs asked that citizens interested in the preservation of game and fish make a personal appeal to the Governor.

The secretary reported 162 members to date. It was announced there would be no further meetings during the summer. A committee was appointed to arrange for the annual meeting on August 28, and to provide an interesting speaker and perhaps a showing of sports pictures.

It was stated that any member or citizen who believed that there should be changes in the methods now in operation for wildlife protection, should make his suggestion in writing to W. R. Browning, chairman of the legislative committee.

For some years, following the death of her husband, Mrs. Moon resided with her niece, Mrs. Ruth Upperman. Alfred Harvey, of Kitzmiller, is a brother of the deceased woman. Burial was made at Short Run, near Kitzmiller, Tuesday afternoon.

State Roads To Be Oiled In Western Maryland

The State Roads Commission is now planning to concentrate its 1939 highway oiling program in Western Maryland and Southern Maryland.

Of the 2,133,841 gallons of oil on which the department has asked bids by May 8, 618,719 gallons will be used in Calvert, Charles, Prince George's and St. Mary's counties, and 565,508 gallons in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties.

Approximately 180 miles of highway in the three Western Maryland counties will be treated and about 209 miles in Southern Maryland.

The work will cover a total of 726 miles and is expected to cost approximately $150,000.

Business And Professional Women Elect Officers

Mrs. Cornelius Gisriel, instructor in Oakland High school, was named president of the Business and Professional Women's' Club of Garrett county when about twenty-five women gathered Monday evening for the organization meeting.

Other officers chosen were Mrs. Leo Helbig, vice-president; Miss Mary Speicher, secretary, and Miss Virginia Kalbaugh, treasurer.

The club's constitution and by-laws, prepared by a committee headed by Miss Mary Harsch, were read and adopted.

The next meeting of the club is called for Monday evening, June 5, when membership in the organization will be the chief object.

A LARGE NUMBER PRESENT AT 4-H CLUB MAY RALLY

Eleven Clubs Represented; A Competitive Style Revue Held

The annual Garrett County 4-H Club May Rally, under the direction of Miss Mildred Barton, home demonstration agent, was held in the band hall at Loch Lynn Heights on Saturday, May 6, with a record attendance of about 150 club girls, parents and friends. Eleven of the 4-H clubs in the county were represented.

As a part of the day's program, each club gave a ten-minute demonstration of some phase of work studied during the past year. In the competitive style revue of dresses held in the forenoon the garments were all placed in first, second or third classes. Mrs. Polly Johnson Hanst, who judged the exhibit, criticized each garment as it was styled and gave helpful suggestions on garments entered in competition. Garments were classed as follows:

First Class — Party dress, Mary Jane Gnegy, Mt. Lake Park; cotton school dress, Mary Jane Gnegy, Mt. Lake Park; Mary Susan Jones, Clara DiGuistino, Kitzmiller.

Second Class—Sport outfit, Arlene Jones, Kitzmiller; cotton school dress, Mary Susan Jones, Kitzmiller; cotton blouse, Mary Susan Jones, Kitzmiller.

Third Class—Cotton school dress, Dotty Kahl, Oakland; silk blouse, Earlene Shank, Kitzmiller.

Miss Sara B. Huff and Rev. Harold Gamblin, Mountain Lake Park, led in the singing, which was a large part of the day's program.

Business Boom In Prospect For Oakland This Week-End

A business boom is Oakland this week-end is in prospect with two of the local stores having huge May sales events.

The one at the Half-Price Stores begins today and is heralded by a four-page advertisement in this issue of The Republican.

A double-spread, also in this issue of The Republican, announces a special sale at the Rudy Department Store, which begins Friday.

Both stores distributed thousands of reprints of these advertisements and although farmers are extremely busy with the planting of their crops and the preparation of their land for the sowing, yet it is held likely that the hunt for bargains will bring many farm people to town during the next few days.

The distributions of the reprints of the announcements above referred to, has also been made in a number of towns in this and adjacent counties, which is calculated to bring the usual large number of citizens from these places to Oakland as their shopping center.

Clean-Up Day At Ferndale

The Pastor's Aid of the Ferndale Baptist church has designated Thursday, May 18, as Clean-up Day for both the church and cemetery. Those who have relatives and friends buried in the cemetery are urged to be present on that day to assist in cleaning up the graves and beautifying the grounds.

CORRECTION

In the list of graduates of the high schools of this county that was published in last week's issue of The Republican, the name of Miss Bonnie Jane Bills was omitted from the list of graduates of the Grantsville High school in the academic course. This omission is regretted.

Philip Nordeck of Buckhannon, visited relatives in Oakland and at Terra Alta on Monday.

LEGION AND THE K.'S OF P. PLAN MEMORIAL SERVICE

Will Be Parade On Tuesday, May 30, With Services In Local Cemetery at 10:30 O'Clock

SPEAKER TO BE CHOSEN

Plans for the proper observance of Memorial Day on Tuesday, May 30, were partially completed at a special meeting of the American Legion on Monday evening, when a committee to have complete charge was appointed. The committee includes Richard Shaffer, chairman; Irvin R. Rudy and H. C. Riggs.

A member of the committee stated this morning it was planned to have a parade starting from the City Hall at ten o'clock, marching to the cemetry, where services would be conducted at 10:30 o'clock.

Services will be conducted jointly by the American Legion and the Knights of Pythias lodge. The elementary and high school pupils, members of the fire department, Boy and Girl Scouts, and the band have been invited to participate in the parade in addition to the Legionaires and members of the Knights of Pythias. All ex-service men are also being invited to take part with the Legionaires.

At the cemetery Proctor Kildow Post members will assemble about the tomb of the unknown soldier for their ceremony and all members will decorate graves of all soldiers of all wars. The Knights of Pythias will gather round their memorial shaft, which was dedicated last year, for their program. The speaker for the occasion has not yet been selected.

Last week the Knights of Pythias lodge assumed responsibility for improving and beautifying the cemetery and the committee as well as a number of citizens have been at work this week carrying out the program and thus making the cemetery presentable.

At the Legion's meeting Monday night a committee to have charge of the sale of poppies was appointed and included Earl Selders, Harold M. Dawson and Donald R. Sincell. Poppy Day will probably be either on Saturday, May 27, or Monday, May 29.

EIGHTEEN ARE EXAMINED AT TUBERCULOSIS CLINIC

Early Diagnosis Campaign To Be Continued In Maryland During The Present Year

Eighteen persons were examined yesterday morning at the regular monthly tuberculosis clinic, conducted in the office of the County Health Department, Court House. The examinations were made by Dr. A. V. Culden, superintendent of Hopemont Sanitarium, near Terra Alta, West Va. Fourteen of those examined were recommended for x-ray.

This was one of the largest clinics of that nature held here, and is in line with the continuation of the early diagnosis campaign throughout Maryland this year.

During April, in every State, an educational campaign was conducted to impress people with the necessity of finding tuberculosis early in order to prevent advanced disease from developing. This work is considered so important that the Maryland Association plans to continue it throughout 1939.

Early diagnosis not only prevents development o fadvanced disease in tubercular persons, but also helps to check the spread of the disease to uninfected persons.

The bids were opened Tuesday in the office of the State Roads Commission in Baltimore.

A TRIBUTE TO "MOTHER"

Although the editor of the Grant County (West Va.) Press and the editor of The Republican have never met, we—The Republican editor—can readily visualize that Mr. Arch Welton, editor of the Press, is a man of keen perception, with a mind that is always thinking good of his fellowmen and has a kindly disposition as is a philosopher.

This much as an introduction to our readers. From a recent issue of Mr. Welton's paper the following editorial is taken and upon its and others of its kind that have come to our notice leads us to believe that the West Virginia editor is worthy of a place in the hearts of every mother and son in the nation.

Mr. Welton's editorial follows:

Going along the street the other evening we noticed a nice looking girl go to a car full of young men and tell one of them, "Mother wants to see you a minute." A youngster got out, pushed his hair back, straightened up and with the girl crossed the street. We passed on, but the picture we drew was this:

A car full of happy, hilarious youngsters, not too loud, but enough to make one think the "spirits" were working. A mother not far away who was worried about her boy. She did not expect him to be perfect, made allowance for the modern trend, tried to be liberal in her views—yet we imagine she felt she must give him a word of caution, hence her message, "Mother wants to see you," and to his credit he willingly answered her call.

Only too well could we see her side of it. She had gone into the valley of death to give him life. Held him to her breast and lovingly stroked his face as a babe, saw him grow into boyhood, his school days, his joys and sorrows, making her sacrifice along the way that life might be easier for him, picturing on the horizon glorious castles of hope. Manhood comes in a wild and reckless era, the old life she had known has passed away—yet 'tis her boy and the devotion enshrined in her heart as she held the child close to her will always be there and your man is ever her boy. Youngsters, we wish you could get this in your head—you'll never be grown to her, her happiest moments are among the thoughts when she drew you to her bosom and she was your world—all you cared for. Now that maturity has come, don't turn your back on her. Her days are numbered; you owe a debt you must pay. Make her declining years her happiest, for her lot has not been one of roses. Take her hand in yours and tell her, "Mother, we'll go to the end of the trail together, and when you come to the great divide look at me and say I'm worthy." To me this is life's greatest tribute.

We believe to us all when we do the things that will injure us in life, tho she remains only in memory, somehow comes the message, "Mother wants to see you", and with it appears a sad, hopeful face, tender with tears but strong with the lines of faith, confidence and courage. I don't profess to know much about such things, but I believe the door to the throne of the Almighty is always open to a mother's prayer. I knew a mother whose son, a mere youth, had gone away to school, following her wish, tho she was ill and knew she might never see him again. He disliked the school, left and came home, causing her intense grief, for she feared he had turned his back on an education. She prayed in the quiet of her room that her boy would see aright, improve his mind and prepare for the battle of life. He did and is now, in the language of his wife, "One of nature's noblemen." He is a fine fellow and we think all the credit is due to the thought—"Mother sees me."

Price subject to change without notice. Transportation, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories extra.*

CAST your eye just once on the passing traffic and you spot this stunning Buick as the one car of the year you can instantly identify.

It's the pattern—no mistaking that—and you'll find plenty of admiring glances following wherever you travel.

But if attention had been all we were after, we might have got merely that with a lot less pains than we took.

What we were shooting for was something a heap more important than attention: a picture that does you justice—and mister, look how gloriously we hit the bull's-eye!

You try out the driver's seat—it fits. You take hold of the wheel—it seems molded to your hand. There's the gas treadle, right where it should be . . .

So you ease down on the gas—and pronto, you've got rhythm! You fingertip the wheel—presto! there's control!

You wing down the straightaway, cruise around curves, swoop up the hill. Eagerly, instantly, amiably, your car does what you want—it's almost a part of you, your wish is its action!

So, you happily discover, here's where you belong!

It isn't the big and powerful wallop in that big Dynaflash straight-eight alone. It isn't only the level skimming comfort of soft-coiled BuiCoil Springing. It isn't simply the visibility—though those extra 412 square inches come in mighty handy.

It's the feel of this great car you'll go for, the way you feel at home!

Now such a car is worth plenty. But this Buick actually costs less than a year ago, less than you think—less than some sixes.

Surely, that leaves nothing else to settle except when you can get delivery. Why not see your Buick dealer and get the answer?

Native of Grantsville Takes Life

George L. Brown, 57, one of the most prominent business and civic leaders of Johnstown, Pa., was found dead Saturday, May 6, in the basement of the Cambria Equipment company, at Johnstown, of which he was president. Mr. Brown, who had been in poor health the past year, was a native of Grantsville, a son of the late Charles and Lillian (Stutzman) Brown. He was a brother of Miss Isabelle Brown, Hagerstown, and Mrs. Barriet Bickel, Chambersburg, Pa.

Mr. Brown took his own life by slashing his wrists, according to Deputy Coroner J. A. Conway. He was a director of the Johnstown Chamber of Commerce, the Y. M. C. A., and the Western Pa. Creditmen's association. His widow, two sons and two daughters also survive.

Keyser hopped on C. Edwards, Grantsville's starting hurler for a total of four runs in the first inning. R. Miller pitched the remainder of the game. D. Yommer, right fielder, accounted for the locals' lone hit. The home team plays this Sunday at Flintstone and the following Sunday Barrellville will meet the local team here.

Between twenty and twenty-five Woodmen from here attended the initiation at the Cumberland Camp, No. 6, W.O.W., this Wednesday night. The Cumberland camp also dedicated their new headquarters.

SANG RUN

In response to the recent request of Mr. John F. Friend, friends and neighbors gathered at his home and sang sacred songs which Mr. Friend enjoyed and appreciated immensely. Mr. Friend's age is slightly more than four years from the century mark. Although he is not just as active as he was a year ago, he is still quite capable of walking around without assistance.

Miss Helen Sollars, principal of the Sang Run school, attended teachers' meeting at Accident on Wednesday of last week.

Harrison Casteel spent some time Tuesday visiting with Wilbert N. Savage. Mr. Savage, who suffered a severe attack of his heart last autumn, resulting in an organic condition, and who has been confined to his room practically all the time since, is now somewhat improved.

Paul Hoye, an industrious young grammar school boy of this community, whose trading traits would put to shame those possessed by Tow Sawyer as portrayed by Mark Twain, found not long ago an old, worn billfold in a bureau drawer in his home. Of course young Paul was always rummaging around, boy-like, for "tradin' stock", so simultaneously with the discovery of the discarded billfold his nimble brain immediately conceived a plan whereby he would be able to dispose of it and acquire in its place a much newer, more attractive looking pocketbook. Had he not seen a vain youngster display with pride a shiny boy's pocketbook just a few days previous?

Having formulated his procedure of "striking up" a trade he set off to school the following day and successfully negotiated the transaction without having to pay any "boot", for so impressed was the juvenile owner of the new pocketbook by the appearance of such a large man-size billfold, that despite its worn condition he readily consented to an "even swap".

Upon Paul's return home he was greeted by his father's anxious question:

"See anything of an old brown billfold, Paul?"

Paul, having never looked in the billfold and not knowing its value, answered honestly and enthusiastically that he had traded the old worn out one for a much better and newer one.

But his father and owner of the billfold, Justice of the Peace Fred Hoye, did not congratulate him on his wisdom as a trader. Instead he escorted Paul rather swiftly toward the home of the lad to whom the inferior billfold had been traded. After the boys had reluctantly "traded back" Paul learned why his father anxiously insisted that the "swap" be amended. The billfold, even though well worn, contained $55 in crisp greenbacks, while the new one contained--not a cent!

Among those who called on Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Savage last week were Stephen DeWitt, of Accident; George E. Bond, of Hoyes, and Edward Goss, of Mountain Lake Park.

A dinner in honor of Mr. N. C. Browning, whose eighty-third birthday anniversary was celebrated on Sunday, May 7th, was prepared and served by his daughter, Mrs. M. L. Savage. A gas tank, disconnected from the school bus of William Welch, and carried away a short time ago, was found a few hundred yards downstream from the Cherry Creek bridge on Route 219, by a lad who was fishing in the steam and restored to the owner. At the time the tank was carried away there was approximately four gallons of gas in it. The gas, evidently, was all that the thief wanted, for he had carried it but a comparatively short distance, emptied it of its contents and then tossed the tank overboard at the bridge, from which point it naturally floated down the stream until it became full of water and sunk.

MT. LAKE PARK

Last week Mountain Lake had the making of another fire, this time a very small one, but it could have caused a great deal of damage. The Oakland Fire Department responded quickly. Result of the fire, no damage. Mr. and Mrs. George Hipsley, through this column desire to thank the fire department members for their work and their kindness.

We sometimes wonder if Mountain Lake people realize just what this department means to the Park. There are times when we think they do not. Certainly any help the Park can render the firemen should be given and given freely since they give so much to us here.

A great many inquiries are coming in regarding cottages for the summer months. This is surprising insomuch as there is apparently no particular program for the summer. A very great number of queries also come from people desiring to rent or purchase property for the year around.

Neighborhood Club Meets

The Neighborhood club met on Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert White. A luncheon was served and later an interesting program was presented. Mrs. William Bitzer gave a review of Buck's book, "The Exile." A Mother's Day program was carried out when the roll call was responded to by each member with a quotation on Mother. Assisting Mrs. White were Mrs. Walter Ready and Mrs. C. A. Shoup.

Inaugurate The Perpetual Novena In St. Peter's Church

There was inaugurated in St. Peter's Catholic church, Oakland, on Thursday, May 4, the Perpetual Novena, in honor of "Our Lady of the Miraculous Medal." Today (Thursday), May 11, there is being held the solemn investiture with the medal, as directed by Rev. Fr. Joseph A. Skelly, C.M., director of the association.

This devotion, according to Rev. Fr. William F. Sauer, pastor of St. Peter's church, had its origin about 1930 when Blessed Catherine Laboure had a medal struck bearing the image of the Blessed Virgin Mary, to encourage devotion among members of her religious community, the Sisters of Charity in the city of Paris, France. Since that time the custom has spread to various parts of the world.

MEADOW MOUNTAIN

Sunday school sessions are now being held regularly at the local church with fine attendance and much interest shown.

On next Sunday evening the members of the Sunday school are planning to present a short program suitable for Mother's Day observance and cordially invite the public to attend.

The regular Sunday school session will convene promptly at 6:45, after which the program announced above will be presented, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

This mis-named New Deal administration now seems destined to hang up a new record in American history as the only 8-year Presidential regime to keep this country on its knees for its entire administration and to rule from its inauguration to its exit without a single example of the traditional American prosperity of which we have always had at least a taste during other octennial intervals.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS. . . . . .

Tough On The Country

Washington, May 6.

As Congress enters its fifth month it is clear not only that nothing has been done to improve general conditions, concededly bad throughout the country, but unless there is a big change, nothing will be done. The session will end in futility. Little beyond a defense program will have been accomplished.

The high hopes of those who thought that with an independent Congress and a conservative trend, the more glaring New Deal mistakes might be corrected and the obvious steps to free business from hampering restrictions be taken, are now very wet, indeed. This is due partly to the war atmosphere which magnifies the wrong things and minimizes the right ones. But there are other reasons. The chief of these is that President Roosevelt cannot be brought to admit there are any mistakes that need correction. For example, he will not concede that industry is handicapped either by the character of the taxes devised by the New Deal economists or by the operation of New Deal regulatory laws and agencies, which have raised the cost of doing business to a point where the margin of profit is so small that the risks of expansion are prohibitive and the odds against success for new enterprises heavy, indeed.

Unaffected by experience, he still holds the belief that public spending, regardless of debt and deficit, must continue, that there is nothing basic the matter with the WPA system of relief, that governmental economy is a thing to avoid. While in Congres, as in the country, there is strong sentiment to the contrary, without White House leadership nothing really can be done about it. By itself Congress is futile, because although a majority of its members differ with the Presidential attitude, they are not welded together under a single leader and, except infrequently, do not act as a unit. Without Presidential support, the power to resist the organized pressure groups is lacking.

It is too much to expect of a Congress divided between New Dealers, anti-New Dealers and Republicans to register effectively against the Democratic President. Hence, those who are realistic in these matters do not now believe there is much chance of the following things being done, all of which most people not tied up some way with the New Deal will agree should be done — first, adequate amendment of the Wagner Labor Act so as to correct its more glaring injustices; second, revision of the taxation system so as to broaden the base and remove the two most offensive features of the present act—to-wit, the capital gains and undistributed surplus taxes; third, a revamping of the relief system, putting its administration back in the hands of the States and eliminating not only waste and inefficiency but the subversive influence of the Communistic party; fourth, a cessation of spending and a real drive to get back to national solvency.

For all these things there is an undoubted majority in Congress just as there is an undoubted majority in the country. But the uncoalesced majority in Congress cannot function effectively so long as the White House weight is against it and is supplemented by the organized lobbies of the C.I.O, the Workers' Alliance and kindred pro-New Deal agencies. It is a bad state of affairs. Here are things which the country clearly needs and which a majority of the people clearly want. Yet they cannot be obtained because Mr. Roosevelt conceives that any moves toward them constitutes a repudiation of his policies and a confession of error.

In private conversation, and in some cases publicly, Mr. Roosevelt has been recorded as favoring all these proposals, excepting only the revamping of WPA. Probably he would have moved himself in their direction, but for the radical group which insists that to do so means stultification and surrender. Certainly at one time he was strongly in accord with the tax-revision plan of the Messrs. Morgenthau and Hanes, whom he mortifyingly left out on the limb to be laughed at. But now, absorbed with the European situation, his plain desire is to check any Congressional action that could possibly be construed as a concession to his opponents.

So far as the Democratic party is concerned the thing upon which he has set his heart is strong platform indorsement of him and his Administration by the 1940 convention. That, regardless of the nominee, is his basic political purpose. To achieve it Congress clearly has got to be prevented from undoing his mistakes and he has got to keep the pose of not having made any. As much as anything else, this accounts for the scuttling of the Morgenthau-Hanes proposals and his imperviousness to reason on the subject of either modification or adjustment of the awkward and unworkable laws for which he is responsible. Resigned and resentful, anti-Administration leaders say there is nothing to do but wait for another President. That is probably true, but it is pretty tough on the country.

We whipped the redskins to get this country, the redcoats to keep it, and if we don't watch out the Reds will take it over.

He governs land and sea;
He wields a mighty scepter

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 63. OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND, MAY 18, 1939. NUMBER 12.

FORMER CITY CLERK IS HELD FOLLOWING AUDIT

Is Accused By Mayor And Town Council of Misappropiation Of Funds; Hearing Is Waived

SUM SAID TO BE $2,931

Charged with misappropriation of funds of the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, J. Frank Browning, former clerk-collector for the town and at this time acting postmaster, was apprehended last Friday afternoon by Sheriff J. W. Owens upon a warrant issued by Magistrate Charles F. White based upon information furnished by city officials.

Taken before Magistrate White, he waived a hearing and was held under $1,500 bond for his appearance at the September term of the Circuit Court at which time the grand jury will take the matter under consideration.

The warrant, sworn out by Mayor Lawrence M. Fraley, and Irvin R. Rudy, president of the Town Council, specifically charged Browning with embezzling $597.38 of the Council's funds on or about December 1, 1938.

Mayor Fraley stated that the actual shortage as shown by the auditor's report, was $2,931, having taken place over a period from September, 1935, to February 28, 1939. Browning was covered by a bonding company for the first two years of that period, but the bond was not renewed when due, and the town had no protection during the remainder of his term in office.

An audit of Browning's books was completed last Thursday by Zebulon Hewitt, Cumberland certified pubiic accountant, following three weeks of studying the records, and was presented at a special meeting of the Mayor and Council the same evening. Being present before the town's officials that evening the accused man denied charges of being short in his accounts and refused to make any restitution of funds alleged to be missing.

Amounts from the County Treasurer for the town's share of the automobile tax and bank shares tax, receipts from the municipal scales and a check for the redemption of property, were included in the specific items which he is charged with misappropriating.

The accused man has been acting postmaster since February 28, and is one of twelve applicants for permanent appointment to that position. He is a former member of the Garrett County Board of Supervisors of Elections.

Mayor Fraley intimated that Council would take joint civil action with the bonding company to recover the alleged shortage.

Boy Scouts Need Funds For Scout Camp Repairs

A drive for at least $250 is being made by the troop committee of Oakland Boy Scout Troop No. 1, to make necessary repairs and additions to the Boy Scout camp on Deep Creek Lake.

Plans were made at a meeting of the committee last Thursday night at the home of Rev. D. C. Trimble, which include a combined kitchen and screened dining room, repairs to the barracks and the purchase of a stove and mattresses.

The present camp site has been in use for a number of years and the owners have informed the troop committee that the ground will be available as long as scouting remains active in Oakland.

The Oakland troop plans to camp during the latter part of July and the first of August. Letters are being sent to former scouts asking their assistance and members of the troop committee are also planning to seek help in a financial way from the residents of town.

At last Thursday's meeting Dr. W. W. Grant was elected chairman of the troop committee, succeeding George H. Hanst.

State Tax Officials Confer With County Officials

Harry O. Levin, chairman of the Maryland State Tax Commission, with M. J. Lindsey, chief supervisor of assessments, Baltimore, were in Oakland on Monday for a conference with the Board of County Commissioners and R. C. McComas, supervisor of assessments for Garrett county.

A number of routine assessment matters were discussed. The State tax officials also visited in Allegany county where completion of the re-assessment in that county is in progress.

Gun Explodes Prematurely During Alleged Attempted Suicide; Result: One Finger Shot Off

What was declared to have been an attempt at suicide last Sunday night resulted in the loss of a finger for Cecil W. Paugh, 30, when the gun he was contemplating using exploded prematurely.

Paugh resides in the Thorne property adjacent to Monte Vista, south of Oakland. In the dwelling with him are his mother, several brothers and two sisters. Reports are to the effect that the man was discouraged. He is in the employe of the WPA and is unmarried.

Sunday night it was said he decided to end his life and was engaged in placing the shotgun in a position so that he could pull the trigger with his toe. The gun exploded when he had his hand over the end of the barrel.

He told members of the family after the occurrence, "I am glad it happened this way instead of the way I had planned."

LIVESTOCK BEING TESTED HERE FOR BANG S DISEASE

Department's Aim Is To Make County A Modified Accredited Area

Plans have been completed and work already started in the testing of all livestock in Garrett county for bang's disease, according to an announcement by John H. Carter, county agent, this morning.

This area was tested about two years ago, but in order to get the county listed as a modified accredited area it is necessary to make another complete test, Mr. Carter said.

Dr. S. Richman and Dr. George Green, Jr., veterinarians, are working at the present time in District No. 8 and the work will move northward as progress continues. Five additional veterinarians are expected to arrive in the county in a day or two to assist and complete this work as soon as possible.

Mr. Carter said that anyone who had any particular problem to discuss prior to having their herds tested, should contact him at his office in the Court House. It was Mr. Carter's hope that all farmers would cooperate with the Livestock Sanitary Service in making the test. Having the county listed as a modified accredited area for bang's disease and T.B. would raise the general price level of all livestock in this area, he said. The county is already listed as an accredited area for T.B.

Farm Bureau Directors Have Meeting Last Friday Night

A meeting of the board of directors of the Garrett County Farm Bureau was held Monday evening, May 15, in the Accident High school, at which a roundtable discussion on the everyday problems of farmers was the feature.

John H. Carter, county agent; R. O. McCullough and Charley B. Miller were appointed to work with other groups on a county picnic, being sponsored by the Farm Bureau, Grange, Homemakers clubs and the Extension service.

A membership campaign was also planned for the week of September 18, and several directors arranged to attend a meeting in Cumberland on May 31.

It was explained that all wool growers who cared would be given an opportunity to market their wool through the wool pool.

Harvey Gortner To Build Home At Grantsville

Harvey Gortner has sold his brick and frame bungalow in Grantsville to Mrs. C. C. Beachy, who for many years has resided on a large farm near Bittinger. Possession is to be given September 1. Mr. Gortner has purchased the interest of Samuel U. Yoder in the four-acre tract jointly owned by them at the east end of Grantsville, a block north of the National Highway near Community Park, where he plans to erect a new modern home. Mr. and Mrs. Gortner made a trip to New York City recently to inspect model homes displayed at the World's Fair and selected the plans for their proposed new home from among these exhibits. The house is to be of brick and glass construction and of Georgian style, and to be equipped with all the newest ideas for home convenience and comfort.

COUNTY-WIDE FIELD AND TRACK MEET TO BE HELD

Events Will Take Place Thursday, May 25, At Accident

The twenty-third annual field and track meet of the Garrett county public schools will be held next Thursday, May 25, at Accident, for the fifth consecutive year at that place.

The meet is being held for the second consecutive year under the supervision of Thomas C. Ferguson, State Supervisor of Physical Education. Meets were formerly held under the direction of the Playground Athletic League of Baltimore.

Oakland High school is planning to be represented at the meet this year. The school did not enter last year as those in charge decided there was not adequate space for training the students in the various events. This year prospects for obtaining a permanent athletic field are about complete and the students voted in April to participate in the county-wide event.

The games committee this year includes Foster O. Speicher, Friendsville chairman; W. J. Glenn, Friendsville; Frank J. Getty, Grantsville; B. O. Aiken, Accident; F. D. Bittle, Oakland; Asa Lewis, Kempton; O. P. Jones, Kitzmiller; Mrs. Iva B. Walker, Kitzmiller, and Mrs. Charles W. Ream, Oakland.

More than 2,000 boys and girls of the county usually participate in the meet. All schools have been practicing for the past several weeks in preparation for the event and keen competition is anticipated.

New State-wide events this year are: Girls—Elementary school 220-yard relay; elementary 50-yard dash; elementary dodgeball throw and high school standing broad jump; girls and boys elementary softball.

First place winners in individual boys' track and field events, boys' relay events, tourney winners in boys' dodgeball, high school softball and high school volleyball, and girls' high school softball, will be eligible to compete in the Western Shore Championships to be held at Frederick, on Friday, June 9.

Convicted Of Firing Upon Wm. R. Harvey, Federal Agent

Dewey Dalton, 39, farmer of near Reedsville, Preston county, W. Va., was fined $200 and sentenced to six years in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta on charges of assaulting a federal officer and for possession of untaxed liquor, by a Federal Court judge in Wheeling, West Va.

Dalton, father of eight children, was accused of shooting at William R. Harvey, investigator of the alcohol tax unit, when the latter approached the man's home after seizing liquor and mash nearby. Harvey was about 170 feet away when Dalton fired with a shotgun.

The shooting occurred January 17. Dalton was arrested April 24 in Morgantown and was held under $10,000 bond.

Officer Harvey is a former sheriff of Allegany county and was a federal agent in charge of operations in this section for some years. He is now stationed at Martinsburg, W. Va.

DIED

JOHN MENHORN

John Menhorn, aged 76 years, died last night about 11:40 o'clock, Wednesday, May 17. He had been in ill health for several months.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete pending the arrival of several of his children from Ohio.

Mr. Menhorn was born at Accident, this county, and for many years was a blacksmith in Oakland.

BENJAMIN SCROCK

Benjamin Schrock, aged 67 years, died at three o'clock yesterday morning, May 17, at his home near Bittinger. He had been ill a week and his death was quite sudden. Pneumonia and a heart complication were given as the cause of his death.

Mr. Schrock was born near Bittinger, a son of Moses and Catherine Schrock. He was a farmer and spent practically his entire life in the community in which he died. Thirty-five years ago he married Miss Susan Orendorf, also a native of the community. Three children were born to them, two of whom died in infancy. One son, Noah Schrock, at home, survives. Mr. Schrock also leaves his widow and a brother, Christ Schrock, Greenwood, Del. He became affiliated with the Conservative Amish Mennonite church in early boyhood and was a devoted and ardent worker in the church.

Governor O'Conor announced he would veto the Jones "ripper bill" which would have replaced State Employment Commissioner Harry C. Jones, Republican, by a three-man board.

GOVERNOR O'CONOR SIGNS 104 BILLS ON WEDNESDAY

One Bill Returns $357,254 In Lateral Gas Tax Funds To Counties

Governor O'Conor last night signed 104 acts of the 1939 legislature, including the Statewide bills returning $357,254 in gas tax funds to the counties and reforming the state magistrates' system.

The lateral gas tax refund will benefit all counties in the State. Receipts on the one and one-half percent lateral gas tax exceeded expectations and the excess will be returned to the counties on a pro-rata basis computed on the ratio county mileage bears to the State's road mileage. Garrett county will get $18,898.

The Governor also signed H. B. 379 which returns future lateral gas tax collections to the counties for road maintenance. The counties ceded their rights to the State in 1935 and the present measure returns the setup to its prior status.

Other bills signed included Bill 306, permitting Garrett County Commissioners to borrow funds at certain seasons of the year; S. B. 105, relating to expenses of Garrett County Commissioners; S. B. 307 relating to the duties of the County Treasurer of Garrett county.

High School Nine Trims Rowlesburg 17-3; Lose To Kitzmiller

Coach Thomas Baucom's Oakland High baseball tossers, cheered considerably after trimming Rowlesburg here Thursday 17-3 in a return game after losing to the West Virginians 10-1, were down in the dumps again, the result of dropping a 5-4 decision to their county rivals, Kitzmiller, on the winners' field Friday.

Kitzmiller clinched the game in the first inning when it scored four runs. In the next frame, Melavic, Kitzmiller centerfielder, hit a homer.

Oakland tallied twice in the third on Wolfe's triple, a hit batsman, single and two flies, and added two more in the fourth on another three-bagger, double and single by the first three men up—Faherty, Root and Kley.

A mistake on the part of Rowlesburg as to the date of its return game resulted in the playing of last Thursday's battle. The West Virginians, scheduled to come here yesterday, showed up nearly a week ahead of time but Coach Baucom, rather than disappoint the unexpected visitors, threw together a team and proceeded to polish them off by a 14-run margin.

Aurora High school defeated Oakland 11 to 5 on Monday afternoon with a slugging fest in the fifth inning when 10 runs were scored. They knocked two of Oakland's pitchers out of the box in this inning. Oakland scored in the first, third and fourth innings.

Well Known Instructor In Crafts To Be Here May 26

Miss Ruth Hallen, instructor in arts and crafts at Arthurdale, W. Va., will be in Oakland on Friday afternoon, May 26, for a meeting with those under the recreation program of the WPA and others interested.

Miss Hallen has studied craftwork in Sweden and has had several years' experience in instruction. She taught several classes last year in camps at the West Virginia State 4-H camp at Jackson's Mill.

Although she is coming to Oakland to speak especially to teachers in the recreation program, Mrs. George H. Hanst, county recreation supervisor, announced that the meeting would be open to all. Homemakers groups throughout the county have been invited to attend. Miss Hallen will also have illustrative material made by her students at Arthurdale. The place of meeting will be announced later. It is scheduled to begin at 1 o'clock p. m.

Local People Met With State Grange Officials Last Friday

For the purpose of stimulating interest in the work of the grange here and pointing toward the reorganization of the groups formerly active, a dinner meeting was held last Friday at the home of Mrs. Harry White, Oak street.

T. Roy Brooks, State Master, and Mrs. Brooks, John H. Carter, county agent; Miss Mildred Barton, home demonstration agent; Charley B. Miller, O. T. Graser and Marvin G. Callis, vocational agriculture instructors; Cecil Kight, Paul M. Friend, Miss Catherine Foley and C. M. Calhoun were present at the dinner.

At one time there were eight or nine active granges in the county, but during the post-war period and the depression they became defunct. Formerly there were granges at Pleasant Valley, Shady Dell, Ryan's Glade, Sunnyside, Keyser's Ridge, Mellenry, and probably in other communities.

GARRETT COUNTY MINERS PRODUCE COAL IN EXCESS

Local Men Have Steadier Work Than Those In Allegany

Garrett county miners apparently had much steadier work than the miners of Allegany county during 1938, according to a preliminary estimate prepared by the Maryland Bureau of Mines.

Bureau figures show that 1,184 miners in Allegany county produced 783,153 net tons of coal last year, while only 644 Garrett county miners produced 528,534 net tons.

The Allegany county miners averaged 661 tons during the year. The Garrett county miners averaged 821 tons for the same period.

Allegany county mines also employed 106 drivers, 203 inside laborers and 138 outside laborers. Garrett county mines employed 79 drivers, 110 inside laborers and 93 outside employes during the year.

The fire clay mines of Western Maryland produced 42,816 tons during 1938 and employed 21 miners, 8 drivers, 79 inside laborers and 21 outside laborers.

Improvements Being Made At Deer Park Episcopal Church

The congregation of St. John's Episcopal church at Deer Park is seeking to accumulate a memorial fund for the improvement of the interior of the church building.

Already, according to Rev. D. C. Trimble, rector, a pulpit and prayer desk have been donated and a church school class will probably donate a new oak altar.

Kneeling rests and panelling for the walls and ceiling are desired. The chancel will be redecorated and refinished by the Women's Auxiliary as a memorial to three of its former members—Mrs. P. J. Lohr, Mrs. Oscar Harvey and Mrs. Henry Bobet.

It is the desire of the committee in charge of the matter that many will make contributions, large or small, to the fund. The names of the donors and those for whom the memorials are given will be permanently recorded upon a framed document to hang near the entrance to the building.

Payments may be made to Oscar J. Harvey, the church treasurer, Deer Park.

After 35 Years A Fireman, Is Placed On Inactive List

Ernest Townshend, after 35 years as a volunteer fireman in Oakland, was placed on the inactive list at the recent meeting of the company.

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department has not been organized that many years, but Mr. Townshend was a member of the first group in Oakland which organized to fight fires in the community and is a charter member of the present organization, which has been effective for twelve years or more.

Being placed on the inactive list merely means to a fireman that he doesn't have to rush to the firehouse every time an alarm is sounded. His position is more of an honorary nature.

GOVERNOR VETOES SPECIAL DISCOUNTS BILL ON TAXES

County Treasurer Advertises That Original Discount Rates Prevail On Tax Payments

HAD COLLECTED $75,000

Senate Bill No. 78, introduced at the late session of the General Assembly by Senator Clifford Friend, which provided a discount of from 3 to 5 per cent on county taxes, was vetoed by Governor O'Conor yesterday because it conflicted with the State law relative to the collection of taxes. Taxes had been collected here for several weeks under the provisions of what was presumed to be the law.

According to an advertisement in The Republican today authorized by Jesse J. Ashby, Jr., county treasurer, that officer will now be forced to collect all future county taxes at the rate of discount shown on the original tax bill of the present year, which does not permit a discount greater than two per cent at any time during the tax-paying period.

A paragraph in the vetoed bill stated that interest on state and county taxes would start October 31, whereas a state-wide law fixes the interest on state taxes starting October 1. The governor, in vetoing the measure, said the bill would have given Garrett taxpayers additional grace not enjoyed by citizens of other counties.

Mr. Ashby announced last night that about $75,000 in taxes had been collected thus far this year and people who had paid had been given as much as four percent discount, if the payment was made in March or April. Three percent discount was being allowed during May and June under the law which has been vetoed.

Mr. Ashby said that the law now in effect is Chapter 199, Acts of 1937, which allows 2 percent discount to June 1, one percent June 1 to July 31, and no discount after July 31. Interest would start after October 1, 1939, at one-half percent per month.

Mr. Ashby said he had understood that William C. Walsh, attorney general of the State, had noticed the discrepancy and conflict with the statewide measure when the bill was enroute through the legislature, and that he had prepared an amendment to take care of it. What became of the amendment is not known.

E. Ray Jones, former secretary of State, said this morning that Chapter 287, a state-wide measure, which had been signed by the governor, authorized the County Commissioners to fix the rate of discount by resolution. Whether or not the County Commissioners would take advantage of this law to keep the interest rate from 5 to 3 per cent up to July 1, was not known this morning.

According to Mr. Ashby's announcement, the rates of discount as printed on the original bill this year, are now in effect.

Injured In Automobile Accident

Randolph Rush, aged 29, of this county, was seriously injured about 11:00 o'clock last Saturday night when an automobile in which he was riding plunged off the National Highway, near the Johnson farm, while descending Savage Mountain, ten miles east of Grantsville, and rolled down the side of the mountain. Rush was taken to Miners Hospital, Frostburg, with a fractured nose, a puncture wound behind his ear and multiple cuts and bruises about his head and body.

Rush said the car was operated by Lester Durst, also of this county, who apparently suffered minor injuries and left the scene of the accident. A passing motorist, Joseph Horton, Frostburg, took Rush to the hospital. Rush said the car ran off the road in a dense fog.

Plans For July 4 Celebration Are Progressing Rapidly

Plans for the Oakland Firemen's annual celebration during the week of July 4, are progressing rapidly, a member of the committee reported this morning. Advance information from a carnival company promises twelve rides and twelve shows for the week of July 3 to 8, inclusive. Invitations have already been sent to about forty fire companies and bands.

As an added attraction it was decided by the committee to present five free trips to the World's Fair, which is an all-expense plan. Awards will be transferable.

You can no more spend yourself into prosperity than you can drink yourself sober. That is just a reminder to the New Dealers that a balanced budget is necessary.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, when Governor of New York, admonished the voters that those who continued to spend more than they earned would end in the poorhouse.

The United States Government is spending $15,000 every minute of every 24 hours. It is taking in only $8,000 for every one of those minutes.

"Gold in Them Thar Hills"

"Thar's gold in them thar hills," might well have been in the mind of Eddie Frye, of Deep Creek Lake, on Monday morning, when in the course of getting out some limestone at his quarry he broke a rock which had what looked like a streak of gold running through it. Wanting to be sure he brought the specimen to town, only to find it was "fool's gold," simply a chemical element containing sulphur which had been deposited in the limestone probably for centuries.

Had it really turned out to be gold, how the people would have flocked to the lake and to Garrett county. And yet, even though there is no metallic gold here, tha tis no reason why people should not flock to this county.

The United States is off the monetary gold standard, but Garrett county has a "gold standard" of its own. There's really gold in these hills of Garrett county, if one only takes the trouble to look.

We have pure air, pure water, bracing climate. beautiful mountains, a gorgeous lake, beautiful streams, and peaceful surroundings.

Some of the best farms and the richest land in the state are in Garrett county, although we may not have as much as some other counties.

The majority of our people are good and substantial. We have an ideal set up for a summer vacation spot. We have rhododendron and laurel thickets, and hundreds of wild flowers that abound in the stately forests, about which the lovely book, "Wild Flowers of the Alleghanies" by Harned, was written.

We have gold in these hills, but one has to find it for himself. We even have the nuggets of peace and contentment if you desire to find them.

Right now, however, there won't be any peace or contentment for me until I get rid of the Johnson grass and its million or so roots that is all through my garden.

Ye Olde Nightie Shirtie

There are many evidences that the trend of wearing apparel for bedtime is toward the old fashioned nightshirt, the only article that allows free and easy sleeping, according to the veteran users, and not my own reflections. It is a lowly garment but bottomless.

Several days ago a columnist wrote that "the coming of warm weather aggravates the discomfort of pajamas. It is foolish enough to bind up one's arms and legs and shoulders and tie a rope around one's middle in winter time, but to pitch and toss about in the heat of a summer's night in the same restrictive garb is mayhem and approaches murder."

A lot of people, it seems, have never faced the problem of pajamas squarely before. Sometimes they kick away the bottoms and sometimes they pull off the tops, but sleeping in the "without any" is evading the issue.

But the nightshirt is starting a comeback. as the garment is holding its own in department store sales, and when enough people muster up courage to venture into the stores to buy a night shirt, the sales trend is going to move upward still more.

In order to offset the return to the old-fashioned kind, department stores are now advertising a number of varieties. The Baltimore Sunday Sun carried an ad showing six styles: sleep shorts, merely an apology for pajamas; demijams, with tailored shorts and tops, short sleeves; sleep slax, pants only but full cut and equipped for comfort; regular pajamas with pressureless waistbands; a sleep suit which is merely the demijams extended in both arms and legs; and the sleep coat, for gentlemen with rebellious legs, which is merely a glorified nightshirt, no bottoms, but the coat coming to the knees.

This is all very enlightening to me and probably thousands of others who never learned the facts of night life sleeping from their nightgown-wearing ancestors. For a long time I have been looking for someone to open a "Pajama Top" shop, but now it won't be necessary.

They say Hitler wears a nightshirt, although this information isn't first hand, and I never have seen a picture of him thus attired. He might look human in a nightshirt. And how about Mussolini, John L. Lewis, and others? Their snorting and tearing around would seem absurd if you had a picture of them in a nightshirt.

Maybe the entire world would be better off in nightshirts.

Paragraph Opinions . . .

They Pick On Motorists

A nation-wide investigation conducted by the United States Bureau of Public Roads discloses that only 4.52 per cent of the county's 25,300,000 passenger automobiles are owned by families with an income exceeding $5,000 annually.

Another disclosure recently made is that the slower a car is operated the more economical the operation. Aside from the hazard of high speed, it costs more in gasoline consumption.

Figures obtained by the Government show that driving on concrete pavements at 40 miles per hour, gasoline consumption is 0.0575 gallon per mile. At 60 miles per hour, it is 0.082 gallon per mile. With gasoline at 18 cents per gallon the cost per mile would increase from 1.03 to 1.47 cents per mile, or a cost of 0.4 cent per mile higher for the high speed, just for gasoline.

Ownership of cars is centered in low income groups, with more than half of all family cars owned by families with an annual income of $1,500 or less. The temptation to add to motorists' tax burdens is very common among legislators. Motor car owners are already contributing more than their share.

Scouting Builds Character—

For a number of years the Oakland boy scouts have had use of a camping site on Deep Creek Lake which was made available by the generosity of five men of Oakland. Funds for building a barracks, the dining hall, and cook house were contributed by a number of citizens.

This camp site is now owned by three of the five original owners and they have assured the present scout leaders that the site is available to them as long as there is active scouting in Oakland. Oakland scouts are still active and most of them will want to go to camp again this year.

However, there is some needed repair to be done before any camping is possible and it's going to take $250 and possibly more to put a floor in the barracks, build a new cook shack and screened dining room combined. A new stove and new ticks for the bunks are also needed.

Former scouts and citizens of Oakland are being asked to raise this amount. Scouting has directly influenced, since its orgaaization in 1924, more than 150 boys who have been members of the troop, and has probably influenced as many more who have been in contact with the organization. They are better young men and men for having been boy scouts.

The scout organization is entitled to assistance by the citizens of town.

AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY

In these days when democracy is being forced to take stock of her resources, lovers of human freedom will read with encouragement the releases from the annual report of the American Bible Society, whose 123rd annual meeting has just been held and whose sole purpose for a century and a quarter has been to make the Bible available to all men of all nations, however little they may have with which to purchase it. Wherever this great book has been seriously read human freedom has flourished and democratic institutions have been born.

Earl Baldwin, in an address at Toronto, recently expressed his belief that Britain's disposition to attempt the solution of the international problems by honest deliberation and conference roots back into generation upon generation of Bible reading by the people of England. Even in the face of the dictator's edict the Bible outsold Mein Kampf in Germany last year by 200,000 copies. Latin America for whose trade and friendship dictators are strenuously bidding, has a hunger for the Scriptures that is apparently insatiable.

China with all her appalling needs bought more complete Bibles from the Society than ever in her history. Japan likewise increased her purchases by about ten per cent over the year before. Meanwhile the Scriptures moved into a dozen new languages in 1938, bringing the total number of tongues in which some part of the Scriptures have been translated to 1021. It is now conservatively estimated that nine-tenths of the people of the world might hear some substantial part of the Scriptures read in their own language. No book in the world ever fairly approaches this record. As long as this continues human freedom has a great ally.

I SEE BY THE DAILIES THAT

Challedon won the Prekness at Pimlico last Friday. Johnstown, winner of the Kentucky Derby, came in fifth. The track was muddy.

Regardless of race, people all over the world have fundamentally the same intelligence, a nationally known authority on race psychology announced at Denver recently. Differences are due entirely to environment and opportunity, not heredity, he said.

The jumbo of all agricultural appropriation bills in history passed the Senate last Friday with only 11 votes against it. It carried $1,218,666,572 of new money for the farmer in the coming fiscal year.

A bill revising existing taxes on corporations is expected to be introduced in Congress and pressed to a vote. Senator Harrison said that the undistributed profits tax must be removed from the law.

The "Family Circle" Among WPA Workers Has Been Broken After Almost Two Years To Do The Trick, Says A Correspondent, An ex-Democrat.

To the Editor of The Republican.

I reckon most everyone knows or has heard, at least, one humorous and perhaps exaggerated narrative in regard to some particular phase of inefficiency in the operations and functioning of the great WPA machine. I suppose too, that this machine has been the object of more sarcastic, jocular stabs than any other alphabetical arrangement that has appeared thus far on the scarred, faded Democratic "depression cure" menu card.

The intended purpose of this much-discussed WPA may be alright, but it is conducted in a queer, lax manner and it lacks the proper helmsman at the controls to regulate and keep the march of millions of dollars on an undeviating course that should lead to the poor and needy, and not the rich and greedy.

Local WPA officials have, for almost two years, been aware that one of Garrett county's WPA projects was controlled by a group of brothers who had a virtual exclusive monopoly on the operations of the project.

Eventually one of the brothers applied for and was accepted on a better position (not WPA) and he, through subtle, careful manipulation of the situation succeeded in having appointed to his position as timekeeper another brother.

The most peculiar feature of this brothers' league was that they weren't content to retain within the "family circle" all the soft better-paying jobs, so through the gracious benevolence of a pompous WPA official, influential Brother No. 3, who had taken Brother No. 2's position, initiated as an addition to the ever-expanding fraternity a very near in-law, who was appointed sub-foreman and who was to take instructions directly from Brother No. 1. This appointment of in-law No. 1 to a better paying job drove home and clinched the final nail in the lid of the "family circle's" prized "pot of power." For many, many months everything was held on an even keel by the supreme iron hand of Brother No. 1, backed, of course, by brother-loving officials.

Now is where the humorous part of the narrative comes in.

Through some mysterious source the lid was blown off that "pot of power." Probably the big guns at Frederick learned of the monopolized project. Anyhow the "family circle" was rudely torn asunder.

Local officials, having been instructed, (of course, in turn broke the sad and alarming news that it wasn't and never had been permissible for two brothers to sign the same time sheet. This announcement aroused much squirming and quibbling, but to no avail. Obviously some invisible hand was determinedly and persistently pushing the family cart toward a change in the "good job" status.

The ultimate culmination of the odd situation was that Brother No. 1 was transferred to another project and in-law No. 1 was, by dint of rigid instruction, reduced to manual labor.

And so much to the discomfiture and chagrin of the somewhat arrogant, imperious brothers, the "pot of power" was completely and entirely disrupted.

But gosh! It took almost two years for our alert, efficient, industrious and conscientious officials to do the trick!

AN EX-DEMOCRAT.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS. . . . . .

The Great "Demand" Idea

Washington, Dec. 13.

Around Mr. Roosevelt there is a group of bright young men who are earnest but inexperienced in public affairs and with no record of achievement in either the business or professional world. No previous President ever had so many men of this type in quite so intimate and influential a relationship.

More than any other factor, they have flavored his Administration and are responsible for its steady course to the Left. From them have come most of the regulatory laws and radical experiments attempted in the last six years. From them has come the steady insistence upon keeping the spigots of the Federal Treasury wide open. From them has come the opposition to economy, to budget balancing, to tax revision, to any form of business encouragement.

Their closeness to the President has given them a power utterly out of proportion to their mental stature—a power in which they literally revel and which they wield with extraordinary effectiveness. When the history of the Roosevelt regime is finally written, one of the most incredible chapters will be concerned with the individuals of this group and their ability to affect the lives of millions of people and set the direction of a great nation. The fact that they have swayed and do sway Mr. Roosevelt has been proven many times—proven very lately, indeed, when they slammed the door on business appeasement, cast the die for further spending and killed the Treasury tax-revision program.

Prior to 1933 the members of this group had not been heard of. When Mr. Roosevelt leaves the White House obscurity again will claim them. If in some way another term could be obtained for him or, barring that, if a man regarded as "one of us" could succeed him, these bright young men would continue to be clothed with power, to draw good salaries and have a glorious time. But if neither of those things occur, then the bright young men are completely through. They naturally dislike that thought and struggle against it.

So far their efforts have been wholly futile. There was, first, the great purge campaign of last spring and summer. Inspired and managed by these amateur strategists, it resulted in a striking political rebuff for the President and a significant triumph for the Democratic Senators who had opposed him. However, it was well conceived because had he been successful in "liquidating" the nine Democrats who became his targets, the control by the President of his party would have continued and his ability to nominate the convention candidate could hardly have been questioned. But when the purge failed, both control of the party and the convention went "out the window" not to return.

Actually, the question of whether the President or the anti-New Deal Democrats were in control was settled in those 1938 primaries. The defeat of many New Deal candidates in the fall election made that so additionally clear that few men in politics could fail to see it. The subsequent collapse of booms for Mr. Harry Hopkins, Solicitor General Bob Jackson and Justice (Call Me Bill) Douglas, all congenial souls and "liberal" to the eyeballs, accentuated the fact that the party sweep is away from the President. Anyone in even casual touch with them knows the bright young men are concerned about that. So great is this concern that they now have fallen back on the somewhat desperate idea that the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt one way or another must be forced. They do not suggest that he will be drafted. That also is too absurd. On the contrary, the theory is that the President will "demand" the nomination of the Democratic convention, and that this will so scare the controlling conservative Democrats, by making it clear any other course would be fatal, that they will at once surrender.

This brilliant scheme, evolved by the "inner circle," is now being promoted by journalists who habitually reflect their views. It is, of course, ridiculous. Mr. Roosevelt is no fool in politics. As well as anyone he knows the silliness of "demanding" a third nomination or even of conniving in a "draft movement." With the sort of split he has created in the Democratic party a man would have to be quite crazy to want a third nomination. There exist two alternatives for Mr. Roosevelt in 1940. One is that he will support the ticket—at least on the surface—no matter how disgruntled his radical friends may feel. The other is that in the event of the nomination of an anti-New Deal conservative, he will either lead or support a third-party ticket.

These are the only logical courses open to him. Neither will prevent him from doing what he has indicated he plans to do—namely, devote himself to profitable political writing after 1941, thus keeping in position to have another go at the Presidency in 1941, when the third-term issue cannot be made. Either of these alternatives make sense. The idea of "demanding" the Democratic nomination does not. It makes even less sense when one considers that the "demand" has already been made for him by Mr. Browder, head of the Communist party.

In a contest between the old Haymaker rifle team and the Frostburg rifle team, at the latter's city, the Oakland team was defeated by four points. The Haymakers scored 874; Frostburg, 878, out of a possible 1,000. It was the first defeat for the Haymakers in its history, but Capt. P. A. Chisholm was taken ill during the shooting and his usual accuracy was missing. On the Haymaker team were Arthur Chisholm, Mayor R. S. Jamison, Capt. P. A. Chisholm, Sheriff Jerry Lee, George D. Browning, Nathan C. Browning and John M. Browning.

Deposits in the Garrett National Bank were nearly $169,000, while total assets amounted to more than $205,000.

At this meeting also the annual ladies' night dinner was postponed until in the fall.

Oakland probably never before had as many birds or as many kinds of birds within its limits as it has this year. One day recently in the dooryard where they were being fed by a woman of the household there were orioles, cardinals, robins, wrens, meadowlarks and a sprinkling of English sparrows. All of the feathered beauties were enjoying their morning meal until a saucy English starling appeared and that bird not only scattered those who had gathered for something to eat, but proceeded to eat every morsel left by them. At another time two or three different kinds of birds were seen in the same dooryard.

Alterations in the auditorium of the church have been under way for some time and will be completed, it is planned, by May 28, at which time the pastor will deliver his final sermon in the local parish, having accepted a call to become pastor of a charge in Pennsylvania.

That was an exceptionally fine looking body of men who attended the morning service Sunday in St. Mark's Lutheran church—the local firemen—thirty-seven all told, with only four of the enrolled membership absent, and these were out of town for the day. Also present at this service were a number of the members of the Pythian Sisters of the local organization. Dr. Leamer, pastor of the church, was the speaker. His sermon was impressive and informative.

A number of dwellings in Oakland have been or are now being covered with a composition commonly known as ashestos shingles, coming to the workmen engaged in strips approximately two by three feet, which are easily applied over a waterproofing and cold resisting lining first applied over the exterior of the framework or weatherboarding. Mr. and Mrs. George M. Brown, of Loch Lynn Heights, who spent the winter months in Lynn Haven, Florida, returned to their home for the summer in recent days. Mr. Brown brought to his home some Florida potatoes which he grew on his property in the south, the seed having been planted in the month of February and maturing a short time before they started on their return trip homeward.

What is believed to be the largest red oak tree in West Virginia has been cut down and hauled to the Morrison and Gross saw mill at Edwin, just a few miles over the State line from Garrett county. The tree stood on the Morgan Nine farm, about seven miles east of Rowlesburg. At the stump the tree measured 42 inches in diameter. There were two logs 16 feet long, one log 12 feet long and one log ten feet long. It has been estimated that it will cut more than three thousand feet of lumber.

SERVANTS OF JESUS

(Tune: "Living For Jesus")

Servants of Jesus, your lives have been true,
Striving to please Him was always the rule,
Yielding allegiance, wholehearted and free—
Such was your motto, now blessing on ye.

Servants of Jesus, all down thru these years
They have been serving, not looking for cheers.
'Twas love that constrained them to answer the call,
Follow His leading and give Him their all.

Servants of Jesus, life's evening draws nigh
When you will leave us for mansions on high.
And when you meet Him in Heaven's great hall
He'll crown and bless you for answering His call.

Chorus:—

O Jesus, Lord and Master, they gave their lives for Thee,
For Thou in the Atonement didst die to make them free.
They owned no other Master, their hearts have been Thy throne,
They gave their lives, these years to live,
O Christ, for Thee alone.

Adapted by the Rev. Samuel D. Sigler.

The familiar saying, "Give flowers to the living, don't wait 'till they have passed away," was foremost in the mind of Rev. Samuel D. Sigler, pastor of the Lutheran church here in Grantsville on Sunday morning, May 7, when he delivered an appreciative sermon in honor of the untiring service and steadfast loyalty of the older members of the congregation. It was at this time, too, that the poem, "Servants of Jesus," which heads this column, written by Reverened Sigler and set to the music of that beloved hymn, "Living for Jesus," was sung by the choir. This is an embodiment of what was brought out in the course of the sermon. The Reverend Sigler is now serving his fourteenth year as pastor of the local Lutheran church.

Pupils of the third grade of the local Elementary school presented the program at assembly Wednesday morning under the direction of Miss Ruth Keefe, teacher. Two plays, "The Kitten Who Forgot," and "May In The Woods", were given.

Prizes for the local essay contest, sponsored by the Garrett County Bankers' Association, were awarded to Mary Schaefer, first prize, $5, and Ruby Buckel, second, $2.50. Miss Schaefer's essay was judged second in the county.

Members of basketball, fieldball and soccer squads of the local school were honored at the assembly when athletic awards (lettes or hars, if letter had already been awarded) were presented as follows:

MT. LAKE PARK

Sale of United States Savings Bonds

A recent report from the Postoffice Department placed the Mountain Lake Park postoffice as being twenty-third in the State of Maryland in the sale of United States Savings bonds and first in the third-class offices of the county. The period covered by the report was for the year 1938.

There is some good news we can report today: Mr. R. F. Boening, who recently moved to Mountain Lake Park, and the Rev. Harold Gamblin, of the Methodist, both of whom are musicians of recognized ability, have organized a choir for young people. We were warned by Miss Emily Jones, one of the members, that it was strictly a young people's choir. Anyhow it should be worthwhile with two such instructors.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Fouch have returned from Baltimore where Mrs. Fouch was receiving medical attention by a specialist.

The Women's Bible class of the Methodist church will hold their regular monthly and social and business meeting on Friday night at the home of Mrs. Chance. Assisting Mrs. Chance will be her daughter, Mrs. B. F. Selby, of Oakland, and Miss Ethel Turney.

Another bit of good news comes to us, namely, that the Mt. Lake Water Company is contemplating the laying of new water pipes and thus improve the water system. We trust this report is true.

Dr. and Mrs. Logan Carr arrived in the Park on Tuesday and are at the Allenhurst Cottage. They will return to Baltimore this week but expect to open their home here early in June.

Homemakers' Column

Edited by Miss Mildred Barton, Home Demonstration Agent, Oakland

The Foods Dollar

Every homemaker is interested in satisfying family needs, in so far as possible, with her foods dollar. Following are suggestions as to how to do this:

1. Plan meals several days in advance. This results in better balanced meals and less monotony. It saves time in food preparation, since double amounts of food may be cooked at one time, half to be used, in a different form if desired, on the following day.

2. Make out a market list at the beginning of each week. This saves time in shopping. Fewer trips to the store are necessary. Keep a record of past purchases and on this basis plan future ones. A budget helps to keep within the family income. It is also helpful in proportioning the foods to the needs of the family.

3. Buy fruits and vegetable in season. Some fruits and vegetables cost less at certain seasons than others. Prices are usually higher when the supply is scant and lower when it is prentiful. Use canned fruits and vegetables when less expensive. They have the same food value as the fresh. Dried fruits are usually inexpensive.

4. Remember that home-cooked foods cost less than those ready to serve when purchased, such as canned soups, prepared cereals and desserts. Cole slaw, potato salad, macaroni and cheese, and similar foods are less expensive when prepared at home.

5. Watch for week-end sales or end-of-the-day bargains in case of perishable fruits, vegetables and fish. However, to avoid waste, perishable foods should be purchased only in quantities for immediate consumption.

6. Buy in bulk if storage permits, since large amounts of non-perishable foods cost less per unit. Buying in small quantities is expensive because the grocer must charge more, in proportion to the amount purchased, for handling and bookkeeping. Many pennies may be saved by buying a peck of potatoes instead of a few pounds, three tins of canned goods for twenty-five cents rather than single cans at ten cents, and butter in pounds instead of quarter-pounds.

7. Read weights on labels of cans and packages to compare costs. A good rule is to purchase by weight. Since packaged foods are usually more expensive, buy bulk goods when cheaper.

8. To have a varied food supply at minimum cost divide the food money into five parts and spend it thus:

a. About one-fifth for milk and cheese.

b. About one-fifth for fruits and vegetables.

c. About one-fifth for bread, flour and cereals.

d. About one-fifth for lean meat, eggs, fish or poultry.

e. About one-fifth for fats (including butter), sugar, coffee, tea, seasonings, etc.

MARYLAND MY MARYLAND NOW OFFICIAL STATE SONG

At Last Adopted By Legislature And Approved by Governor

By VIRGINIA Y. McNEILL

In the Baltimore Sun, April 30, 1939.

At last Maryland has her State song—officially, legally, she has made "Maryland, My Maryland" her own.

Beloved by Marylanders for generations, this song, long accepted as the State song, was legally adopted by the Legislature and approved only this year. It has long been considered official, but for one reason or another the necessary legal steps had never been completed. Now in this one hundredth anniversary of James Ryder Randall's birth, this poem completes the accoutrements of the State—flag, seal, flower, song.

The Great Seal of Maryland was the first bit of paraphernalia to be formally adopted by the Legislature. There is just pride in that great seal, different from the seals of all other States, bearing as it does armorial markings of a heraldic character rather than mere allegorical emblems of agriculture or commerce. The seal as now used is according to the exact description given in Lord Baltimore's commission to Gov. William Stone on August 12, 1648, being restored to this form by a joint resolution of the Maryland Legislature in 1876, as from time to time, changes had been made in it during the intervening years.

The Maryland Seal

The seal carries on one side an escutcheon with the Calvert and Crossland arms quartered—Baltimore's paternal and maternal arms—under an earl's coronet and full-faced helmet with the Calvert crest surmounting it. This helmet indicated Baltimore's rank as a Count Palatine in America, a distinction conferred by no other American Colonial Charter. Two figures support the escutcheon, symbolizing Maryland and Avalon, and beneath all the Calvert motto: "Fatti Maschii Parole Femine."

The obverse of the seal represents Lord Baltimore in full armor on a charger, galloping along the seashore. Around are all his name and titles, "Cecelius Absolutus Dominus Terrae Mariae et Avaloniae Baro de Baltimore." The gold and black of the Calverts contrasts with the Crossland red and silver. This seal is affixed to all official acts. In the colony every deed to land by the Proprietary bore a wax seal with the impression of both sides of the Great Seal.

Informal Adoption

The Maryland State flag, like the song of the State, was evidently first adopted by common consent. Until 1904 there was no formal record of adoption, although it was in use in 1638. It, also, bears a Calvert and Crossland arms quartered and is the only State flag to bear a strictly heraldic design.

Fourteen years later, in 1918, the Black-eyed Susan, carrying in its petals the gold and black of the Calvert colorings, was chosen as the flower of the State.

Last of the list to be formally passed on, the song, "Maryland, My Maryland," has had an interesting history. It was written just seventy-eight years ago by James Ryder Randall, at that time a young instructor in Poydras College, at Pointe-Coupee, La. Randall had been born in Baltimore of old Maryland stock and educated at Georgetown.

Inspired By Clash

On the evening of April 23, 1861, Matthew Page Andrews reports, Randall read of the clash that had taken place four days before on Pratt street in Baltimore, between Massachusetts troops and the citizens of the town.

He was profoundly moved and at about midnight dashed off the poem, in his words "under what may be called a conflagration of senses, if not an inspiration of the intellect."

The next morning he read his poem to his classes and was persuaded to send it to the editor of the New Orleans Delta, who published it two days later. It was immediately reprinted throughout the South. In time it reached Maryland and was printed on May 31 in The South.

Spread Like Wildfire

The words spread like wildfire, thrilling the entire South. In Maryland people began to sing it, at first to the tune of the familiar Freneh "La Normandie." But in Baltimore there lived two sisters, Miss Jennie and Miss Hettie Cary, who felt that the song should have a perfect musical setting, and, finally after some search, hit upon the song "Lauriger Horatius." One evening Miss Hettie played it, adapting it to the words of the poem, while Miss Jennie sang it, adding an additional "My Maryland" to the second and fourth lines to fit the rhythm of the music. Before they had finished everyone in the room joined in with enthusiasm.

A few days later Miss Rebecca Lloyd Nicholson, granddaughter of the Rebecca Lloyd Nicholson who, nearly fifty years before, had been instrumental in adapting the "Star Spangled Banner" to the tune of "Anacreon in Heaven) took Randall's words and the music to Miller and Beacham in Baltimore, and asked them to publish it.

In this publishing house a young German-born music teacher, Charles Ellerbrock, restored the statlier measures of the original of the "Lauriger" song, "Tannenbaum, O Tannenbaum," and to that it has been sung ever since.

Sung By Confederates

The Fourth of July that year, the Misses Cary, their brother and some friends, "ran the blockade" to Orange Courthouse, Virginia. In the evening they were serenaded by the Washington Artillery of New Orleans who in return asked to "hear a woman's voice." So Miss Jennie Cary sang "My Maryland," which was "caught up and tossed back by hundreds of 'rebel' throats."

Randall received no direct compensation and very little credit for his stirring poem during his life. One friend sent him, as author, $100 in Confederate currency, but by that time that was hardly pocket change. He never tried to push or sell his own works, preferring merely to leave them to the tender mercies of his friends. As a result, many of his poems, even "My Maryland", were falsely attributed to other writers, and Maryland remained curiously neglectful of her own son.

Guest Of City

Finally, in 1907, Gov. Edwin Warfield suggested a plan for official recognition and material support of the poet and Randall came home to Baltimore as a guest of the city. One year later the poet died in Augusta, Ga., and is there buried under a well-marked grave.

Maryland is unique in her State song as in her flag and seal, in that it is probahly the best known of all the songs of all the States. Governor Ritchie published a folder with pictures of the Great Seal, the flag, the flower and a short account of each, and included the music and the three most generally used verses of the Maryland State song. But it remained for the Maryland Federation of Music Clubs to set in motion the proper legal machinery to accord it the official recognition it already received without legal authority.

In 1935 a bill of adoption was passed by both houses of the Legislature, with only one dissenting vote. However, Governor Nice vetoed the bill, explaining that he would not sign unless "the offensive verses were removed." A few months later, however, the folder first got out by Governor Ritchie was reprinted and reissued over Governor Nice's name, in which the same song and heading, as before used, appeared.

This year, centenary of Randall's birth, under the guidance of Mrs. B. S. L. Davis and Mrs. Louise Criblet, the Federation tried again. A bill was presented by Charles F. Argabrigut and passed by the Legislature and last week the Governor's signature was added, so that now, just seventy-eight years from the date of its birth, "My Maryland" occupies its rightful place among the State's honored symbols.

MARYLAND, MY MARYLAND

The despot's heel is on thy shore,
Maryland. My Maryland!
His torch is at thy temple door,
Maryland, My Maryland!
Avenge the patriotic gore
That flecked the streets of Baltimore,
And be the battle-queen of yore,
Maryland, My Maryland!

Hark to an exiled son's appeal,
Marvland, My Maryland!
My Mother State, to thee I kneel,
Maryland, My Maryland!
For life and death, for woe and weal,
Thy peerless chivalry reveal,
And gird thy beauteous limbs with steel,
Maryland, My Maryland!

Thou wilt not cower in the dust,
Maryland, My Maryland!
Thy gleaming sword shall never rust,
Maryland, My Maryland!
Remember Carroll's sacred trust,
Remember Howard's war-like thrust,
And all thy slumb'rers with the just,
Maryland, My Maryland!

MONONGAHELA SYSTEM

THE FIRST MOTHER'S DAY SERMON PREACHED IN 1908

Dr. H. C. Howard and L. L. Loar, Former Oakland Resident, Co-originators of Observance

[illegible] from Weston, West Va., on Sunday morning, a history of the Mother's Day service, in May, [illegible] printed in The Sun. The [illegible] in charge of that service was Rev. Harry C. Howard, pastor of the Grafton Methodist church. In his [illegible] that day there was associated with him the late L. L. Loar, former resident of Oakland, and at the time Sunday school superintendent. But here is the story as written by Mr. Cornwell:

By CREEL S. CORNWELL in The Baltimore Sunday Sun, May 14

A slight cheerful looking little man will step to the pulpit of the Methodist Church, of Weston, W. Va., today to deliver a Mother's Day sermon, as will thousands of ministers in every part of the country. But it will be more than just another Mother's Day sermon by Dr. Harry C. Howard.

As preacher of the first Mother's Day sermon thirty-one years ago, it will be the annual observance of a promise to mothers he helped to establish in that smoky town, Grafton, W. Va., the second Sunday in May, 1908.

Reading above the confusion of noises from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad yards less than a hundred yards away, the high-pitched bell in the [illegible]-blackened tower of St. Andrew's Church called Grafton folks to [illegible] the first Mother's Day service [illegible] more than a quarter of a century ago.

Met By Cooriginator, L. L. Loar

Railroaders, merchants and laborers and their wives and children, were met at the door by L. L. Loar, superintendent of the Sunday school and cooriginator of Mother's Day, who had a word of greeting, a handshake and a smile for all.

With the close of the opening hymn, the women smoothed their cassocks and fiddled their hands while couples sheepishly filled the seats. After a moment's pause a young man arose from his seat in the center and came forward. He looked lightly at his son, [illegible] in a front pew.

"Our text for today will be 'Honor thy father and thy mother,'" he announced in a quiet voice. Explaining that the sermon would be dedicated to all mothers of the church, young Mr. Howard began the services that have become an annual observance in the churches of all faiths.

A letter from Miss Anna Jarvis, of Philadelphia, asking him to deliver a memorial sermon for her mother who died two years before, first suggested the Mother's Day service, the mother, Mrs. Sarah Ann Jarvis, had taught a Sunday school class at St. Andrew's for twenty-eight years.

An Excellent Idea

Mr. Loar and the Rev. Mr. Howard had an excellent idea.

Mr. Loar was especially enthusiastic. Mr. Howard modestly declared it was a great idea.

West Virginia University campus leaders, "It has been enthusiastic work that [illegible] spread of observance of Mother's Day has come about. It was decided that the services be [illegible] to all mothers of the living and dead."

Mr. Loar sent 500 carnations to [illegible] orders of her mother's Sunday school class and members of the congregation. The next year, Mr. Loar introduced the idea of wearing red carnations as tribute to living mothers and wearing of white carnations for those who were dead."

Although she never came to Grafton to attend the services, Miss Jarvis continued to send carnations for several years.

Philadelphia Next

Churches all over the country gradually took up observance of Mother's Day on the second Sunday in May. The idea spread outside of Grafton to [illegible] the observance of Mother's Day were those in Philadelphia. Miss Jarvis made the suggestion and most of the churches cooperated.

Not content to stop with Philadelphia, Miss Jarvis became the national promoter of Mother's Day observance. She contacted Governors, Congressmen and other public officials. She finally succeeded in having the day given official and national recognition. Today it is rapidly becoming international in observation.

Of the three originators of Mother's Day, only Miss Jarvis and Dr. Howard are still living. Mr. Loar died at Cockeysville last month.

The Real Force

"The real force behind establishing Mother's Day," Dr. Howard said, "was due to the enthusiasm and interest of the annual event through [illegible] of the people of Grafton that started Mother's Day on its way to its present recognition.

"We had no idea we were starting a national movement, though. It was originally intended to be strictly local. Yes, and if I were to have anything to do with starting it again, I would pick this, the prettiest time of the year, when all the flowers are in bloom."

Smiling and shaking his head, Dr. Howard refused to reveal his age, but he has the energy and appearance of a man twenty years his junior.

"What would happen if the rest of the Methodist preachers found out how old I am," he laughed.

He was just a young man fresh from Ohio Northern University when he accepted his first charge at Kingwood, W. Va., in the hills of Preston county thirty-five years ago. From his church he went to Grafton four years later, and it was during his first year at St. Andrew's that he preached his first Mother's Day sermon.

FIRST STAGE OF CANNING VENTURE IS SUCCESSFUL

Practically All Of 300 Peagrowers Agee On Cooperative Arrangement With Canning Co.

PLANT THOUSAND ACRES

The first step in the peagrowers' cooperative canning venture, that of signing an agreement, has turned out successfully, with practically every grower acquiescing. The results of the remainder of the project, however, will depend upon the future developments in production, canning, marketing and sale price.

The cooperative arrangement between the growers and the Mount Airy Canning Company was entered into early in April, by which the farmers were given an opportunity to grow peas and market them at the cannery again this year. The price per ton, however, will depend upon the net profit received by the canning company after expenses of canning and marketing have been deducted.

The canning company officials had previously decided not to operate at Loch Lynn this year because of an oversupply last year, but because a number of peagrowers did not wish to lose this early cash crop they worked out a plan with company officials to operate on a cooperative basis.

The first step needed was to have all peagrowers sign the contract. It was estimated that there were approximately 300 peagrowers in the county interested in production. Clifton E. Sponseller, manager of the canning company plant at Loch Lynn, stated this week that practically every one had signed the agreement and that 4,000 bushels of seed had been distributed and planted during the latter part of April.

Mr. Sponseller also said there are now about 1,000 acres of peas planted by the nearly 300 growers. This acreage is less per grower than last year.

The next step in the agreement is up to Mother Nature, and after that the marketing problem will be the one upon which the success or the failure of the project really depends.

It was estimated that growers received last year $100,000 from the sale of their peas to the canning company, with the latter contracting for peas at $52.00 per ton. This year the growers may receive much less or they may possibly receive more, depending upon conditions this fall.

A Growers' Committee, cosisting of one member from each of four sections of the county—Grantsville, Accident, Gortner and Mountain Lake Park--and a member at large, is having charge of the details, and which is the contact between the remainder of the growers and the canning company.

START OF WORK ON SAVAGE RIVER DAM EXPECTED SOON

WPA Head's Signature All That Is Now Needed, Is Report

The approving signature of Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator, representing the "go ahead" sign for work on the Savage River dam, is momentarily expected, according to a recent report circulated in Cumberland among directors of the Chamber of Commerce of that city.

A WPA project has been fully drafted and approved by F. W. Springer, of Frederick, regional director of the WPA. Formal signed copies, seven in number as required by law, now rest on Colonel Harrington's desk at general WPA headquarters in Washington. He and his aides are examining the project in detail, and his final acceptance is expected to be forthcoming within the next few days.

The estimated cost of the project is $2,800,000 and its time of completion is thirty-five months. As one of its chief purposes will be to take up unemployment slack, between 800 and 900 jobless persons in this section will be provided with work.

Approximately two-thirds of the cost will be borne by the Federal Government, that portion representing the labor cost. Allegany county will supply the supervision and the supplies and material. It receives credit for the $20,000 it has already expended for the survey, which has been completed.

ANNUAL TRACK AND FIELD MEET BEING HELD TODAY

Event Is On At Accident For Fifth Consecutive Year

The twenty-third annual field and track meet of the Garrett county public schools is being held today, May 25, at Accident. Again it is being held under the supervision of Thomas C. Ferguson, State Supervisor of Physical Education.

All high schools and graded schools are being represented in the meet this year, and in addition a number of one- and two-teacher schools will have entries. At least 500 young people will be entered in the track and field events while many hundreds more will participate in the games. Last year for the first time in a number of years, Oakland High school did not enter the meet, because officials here stated the young pople had no adequate place in which to practice. This year with an atheletic field available and prospects for its ultimate purchase, the Oakland High school students voted to enter the meet and officials gave their consent.

The meet is held by authority of the County Board of Education and Foster O. Speicher is general chairman of arrangements, with principals of high schools and two graded schools as members of the general committee.

It is the fifth consecutive year for the meet to be held at Accident.

Oakland High Wins and Loses

Last Friday at Oakland, however, Oakland defeated the West Virginia Deaf school, Romney, 9 to 8. Both teams errored in crucial places. The winning run for Oakland was scored in the final inning when there were two already out.

FRALEY BRANDS AS FALSE CHARGE OF WALTER QUICK

Deputy Forester Had Asserted State's Attorney Had Not Cooperated In Dealing With Incendiarists

STATEMENT BY FRALEY

The statement of Walter J. Quick, deputy state forester, who asserted on Tuesday that State's Attorneys of several counties had failed to cooperate with the forester's office in enforcing laws dealing with incendiary fires, naming especially Neil C. Fraley, Garrett County State's Attorney, brought an emphatic denial from Mr. Fraley this morning.

Mr. Quick named Fraley particularly saying Fraley had "gone back" on a promise to take to the grand jury evidence against persons suspected of setting wood fires. A check-up of the records showed that the Grand Jury adjourned March 23 and that the suspect mentioned was not brought before Fraley for questioning until March 31 and again on April 4, making it obviously impossible to break that promise, even if he had made it, which Fraley denies. The next grand jury is not until September.

Mr. Fraley's statement was as follows:

"The statement appearing in the Cumberland News under date of May 23, quoting Walter J. Quick, deputy state forester, stating that I had gone back on a promise to take to the Grand Jury evidence against persons suspected of setting fires, is absolutely false. I have never failed to bring to the Grand Jury any evidence that was ever submitted to me in a case investigated by the employes of the State Forestry Department.

"The latter part of March, a case was reported to me by the local forest guard and as a result of information furnished me I questioned twice a suspect. This information was not brought to me until after the March Grand Jury had just adjourned and obviously I had no opportuntiy to bring any evidence that was submitted to that Grand Jury.

"If there is the great number of forest fires of incendiary origin as claimed by Mr. Quick, he would do much better to come to Garrett county and make an effort to ohtain evidence against those guilty of setting out fires instead of sitting in his office in Baltimore and giving out interviews to the Press containing false and misleading statements."

Mr. Quick reported last Friday approximately thirty forest fires were set in Garrett county, burning 350 acres of timber. They were set, he said, by two groups, the first starting blazes on a man's property to force him to sell timber to be used as coal mine props. The other set fires to clear land for grazing purposes, Quick said.

He also said that this spring Garrett county fire wardens consulted the federal department of justice about means to gather evidence. They began to take foot prints found near fires. Several weeks ago they had footprints taken from those made by Jerome Kelly, 81, of near Sang Run, who was seen near where some fires occurred. Mr. Kelly was twice questioned but released for lack of evidence.

"Being guilty of setting fires is a criminal offense," Mr. Fraley said. "Simply because a man is seen in the vicinity of a fire is not evidence he is guilty. There must be proof for a criminal offense. My position as State's Attorney is to protect the innocent as well as to prosecute the guilty."

Compliance Work For Conservation Program Is Diseussed

For the purpose of planning and organizing compliance work for 1939 in the conservation program, the county committee of the Agricultural Conservation Association met Monday morning. The committee discussed and analyzed the 1939 program in detail in order that compliance work will start July 15, according to John H. Carter, County Agent.

The compliance work this year is to be done by the use of aerial photography maps, Mr. Carter said. The farm supervisors will meet July 7 and 8, at which time officials from Washington will give detailed instructions.

Anyone desiring to participate in the 1939 program is asked by Mr. Carter to register his farm plan for 1939 at an early date, as no farm will be visited unless the farm plan has been filed with the association and it will be too late when check-up work starts. Those desiring to register their farms may do so by writing to the office of Mr. Carter, Court House, Oakland.

Weather Worries Farmers

Hot weather and lack of rain are worrying a number of Garrett county farmers but the situation is not searious by any means.

The temperature rose to 85 yesterday in Oakland and vicinity, with several more degrees added in the sunlight. Rain has been spasmodic with several sections getting nice showers while others were passed up for the time being. The ground remains dry however.

Headed That Way

The story is told of a Dutchman who was dining in the restaurant car of a German train and when the waiter approached with the usual "Heil Hitler" he made no reply. The waiter, annoyed, snapped: "Every time I say 'Heil Hitler' to you, you must say 'Heil Hitler' to me."

"Hitler? He doesn't mean a thing in Holland," remarked the Dutchman.

"Maybe not now," said the waiter, "but one day you'll get our Fuhrer in Holland, too."

"Perhaps so," smiled the Dutchman. "We already have your Kaiser."

This Ought To Get The Order

75 Bucks Per New Car

The National Consumers Tax Commission, a non-partisan organization seeking to arouse tax consciousness among women and to expose hidden taxes, has given out figures that buyers of cars in Maryland paid about $709,000 in taxes during the first three months of the year. Taxes included in the cost of the car are those against metal, rubber, leather and glass producers and manufacturers, against cotton and wool growers, cloth manufacturers, railroads, automobile manufacturers and dealers.

This cost is passed on to the buyer which is about 9.4 of the selling price, or $75.20 on an $800 car.

So that people might become tax conscious is one of the best arguments for the retail sales tax. As long as taxes remain hidden, people won't become aroused, but if they were put out in the open where people realized the percentage of their purchases going to taxes, then there would be some swift action for tax revision. The National Consumers Tax Commission has organizations in 4,600 communities. More than 80 are in Maryland. These groups should have some effect. We hope they do.

Who Knows The Answers?

When is the site for the community building going to be selected, and where will it be?

What is the discount rate on county taxes this week?

What will be the verdict of the assessors on Senator Friend's holdings around Kaese's Mill? Will it be higher or lower than when he made his complaint?

Are there any liquor law violations being committed rather openly in the county?

Are slot machines pin ball machines? Which kind is back in Oakland?

Who will the P. O. Department and the Democratic State Central Committee name as Oakland's postmaster?

Where's Elmer?

How's your Aunt Fanny?

Softball League

Two or three people have expressed themselves as to whether or not there is enough interest around Oakland to start a softball or speedball league. Games could be played in the late afternoon or early evening. Teams could be sponsored by churches, organizations, business men, or anyone who has the ambition could gather up a team of his own.

No ball gloves would be needed. The expense would be very slight. There would be some spirited but friendly competition aroused here this summer.

If there is any interest for such a league, talk it up with your friends and let the action begin.

MT. LAKE PARK

Regarding Streets And Their Names

Last week it became necessary for us to name the street on which we resided. We did not know. After calling five neighbors, all of whom said they did not know, we asked if they knew the street they lived on. The answer was no, and all of these people have lived in Mt. Lake for the past forty years. Beat that if you can. Finally, as a last resort, we called the Monongahela West Penn office and Mr. Kley got out his charts and told us where we lived. It seems to us that one of the necessary things in an incorporated town is that the streets should be marked. It's pretty bad when their own citizens cannot tell where they live. At least a worth while thought—mark the streets.

THURSDAY, MAY 25, 1939

Paragraph Opinions . . .

THE FACT—

Statistics tell us that today 22 per cent of a man's salary goes to his government. That's an average of $317 a year for each employed person. Statistics — obvious ones — show that taxes do not now cover governmental expenses.

We have a national debt of over $40,000,000,000—unpaid bills. In other words, despite income, estate, business and all other forms of taxtion the government is still not taking in enough to foot its yearly bills. That has been true ever since the New Deal took office.

It is certainly time to set the National house in order.

The individual spendthrift ultimately reaches the bankrupt court. Governments have many of the weaknesses of individuals, and when the credit of a government is impaired, it occupies a dangerous position.

These are the words of Senator William H. King, Utah Democrat, taken from the Congressional Record.

President Roosevelt was prevented by Congress in the past few days from ordering Argentine canned beef for the navy, because the price was lower than that for the American beef.

There is no great mystery as to why Argentine beef packers could bid lower on canned beef needed for the U. S. Navy.

As the Cumberland News editor recently said:

"In the United States everything connected with the production, transportation, processing and marketing of that corned beef is boosted in cost by government interference and regulation. Government prescribes the hours of labor and regulates wages.

"Government taxes increase the cost of everything used in the industry from the ropes on the steers to the cans and cartons for the beef. And, finally the government takes its toll of gross profits without considering whether that last deduction may not push the true balance over into the red.

"In contrast, the Argentine packers have the advantage of the cooperative system and instead of having constant government interference, are government-subsidized."

No, it isn't hard to guess why they could be the low bidders.

And, with Mr. Roosevelt's methods of dealing with business only too well known, it isn't hard to guess why he would try to give Argentine beef-raisers the preference. Everything he does seems like he tries to bring the people of this country into subjection, where they all will be dependent upon his generosity in handing back to them their own money.

Too Quick On The Trigger—

Apparently Walter J. Quick, deputy state forester, was too quick on the trigger when he stated to the press that the Garrett County State's Attorney had failed to keep his promise about bringing information about incendiarists before the Grand Jury.

Fraley's statement on page one shows that Quick, sitting in Baltimore, doesn't know all there is to know about Garrett county.

In every report of the Forestry Department they state that at least 70 percent of all fires here are incendiary. Quick made the statement that last Friday there were 30 fires, all incendiary. If he has proof that they were incendiary, why doesn't he present it as evidence? If he is only suspicious, why don't they concentrate on running down the offenders. But instead they accuse our county officials of not cooperating.

For uninformed people to read these reports they get the idea that all Garrett countians do is to run around and set the woods on fire. A man in Oakland just two weeks ago from Baltimore, when taken on a motor trip around the lake, expressed amazement that there were farms in this county. He thought it was all woodland, and the people all illiterate mountain folk.

It gets our "goat" to learn the impressions people have of this county who have never been here, and the ones usually responsible for creating these impressions are in positions where they should use a little sense—and don't.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS. . . . . .

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

Mr. Hopkins Joins Church

Washington, May 20.

When the ballyhoo about Mr. Hopkins and his plans for putting business on its feet, which preceded and followed his appointment as Secretary of Commerce, is recalled, it does seem that this is a gullible nation which cares little about either consistency or sincerity in its public servants.

Apparently the stage has been reached where they can say one thing and do another with complete impunity. Certainly no man ever exemplified this better than the President himself, whose great spending policy inaugurated in 1933 and pursued ever since, is in direct conflict with the platform upon which he was elected and in complete contradiction of his own speeches and statements. For a variety of reasons Mr. Roosevelt "got away" with this extraordinary contradiction, and it is perhaps natural that his subordinates should feel that they too can afford to talk one way and perform in another. Nevertheless, it seems worth while to call attention to these departures if only for the sake of the record and in order to discourage their spreading still further down the line until no one's word in politics means anything.

Therefore, it is here recalled that Mr. Hopkins by press conference, propaganda and personal oration proclaimed himself the friend of business, determined to remove the handicaps under which it has labored and restore its health. There was vast publicity about his elaborate plans for doing these things. He was announced as in favor of the Morgenthau-Hanes revision proposals. He was understood to be against any further regulation. It was said that his "great influence" with the President would be used to turn him toward the right and avoid radical appointments and actions.

Litterally hundreds of inspired columns were printed to this general effect and one of Mr. Hopkins' business stooges went so far as enthusinstically to assert that he would be the "greatest Secretary of Commerce we ever had." That's the record—now look at the results. Mr. Hopkins has folded up and faded away. Perhaps a little publicity like this may bring him to the front again but the fact is that his department is not functioning vigerously at all. Within the last three weeks two resignations of business men, put in the department with the idea of aiding in the great Hopkins program, have taken place because, it is stated, they despaired of getting anything done. Another resignation for the same reason is said to be pending.

To some extent this may be due to the fact that Mr. Hopkins has been away on sick leave. There is, of course, due sympathy with him on that score, though it does not seem to prevent his regular attendance at the race tracks. In the main, however, it is credited to the fact that his Chief, influenced by the radical White House economists and his own personal dislikes, balked at the "business appeasement" program. Apparently that ended Mr. Hopkins' "plans." If he had evinced anything like friendliness to the business of the country since the balk, it has not been made public.

However, he has not been idle in other directions. For one thing he has rejoined the church. The facts are presented in a dispatch from Grinnell, Iowa, printed in the Des Moines Register on May 11. It reads as follows: "Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins is now a member of the Methodist church here. He belonged years ago but recently asked to be reinstated. The Rev. Charles R. Rowe, pastor of the Methodist church, said action had been taken on Hopkins' request to affiliate himself with the church of his boyhood and he is now a member of the local congregation. Secretary Hopkins informed the pastor that his request was in line with his desire to renew his interest in Iowa and his announced intention of making his home here. The closer linking of Mr. Hopkins with Grinnell and Iowa adds fuel to the rumor that residence in Iowa might serve as a boost to any ambitions he might have to succeed Mr. Roosevelt in the White House."

Thus, it seems that Attorney General Frank Murphy is not the only eminent New Dealer whose piety is to be publicized. It is interesting to note that Mr. Hopkins does not ascribe his desire to rejoin the church to personal religious reasons, but frankly says that this is in line with his wish to "renew his interest in Iowa." The Grinnell correspondent mentions that White House ambitions are possibly behind that move. In any event, Mr. Hopkins is again a Methodist in good standing. If anyone brings up his race track activities, of course, he can always deny them.

PRINTING, THE MOTHER OF PROGRESS!—

The printed word has preserved for us the lessons of history that we might pattern a better life. It has stirred the ambitions of men to new endeavors and to conquer new frontiers, thus speeding our whole development. It has handed down to us not only the words of the Declaration of Independence but the philosophy and spirit of the Revolution without which liberty and freedom probably would not long have endured. Through printing we have been given the knowledge to go forward in science, industry, finance and other fields. And through the printed pages in magazines, books and newspapers the millions of people in this country today are informed of happenings in the most remote corner of the world which may affect their welfare.

But most of all printing has preserved the lesson that our whole progress has sprung from the basic American principle that we go forward only as we encourage private initiative and provide an incentive for human endeavor. That is the theme of our story of progress.

What better example of this can one imagine than the fact that from that one little press and that handful of type in Cambridge, Massachusetts, has developed an industry which today gives a living, directly or indirectly, to millions of persons annually. Of equal importance is the fact that printing annually contributes $675,000,000 to other industries through its purchases of goods and materials, most of which amount eventually is translated into wages of workers to increase purchasing power in this country. But more significant, and of far greater importance, is the influence that the more than $2,000,000,000 worth of printing turned out annually by this industry has had in moving goods from producer to consumer, from farm to family and in bringing about the higher standard of living which we all enjoy.

B. & O. R. R. CELEBRATINS ITS 109TH ANNIVERSARY

First "Brigade of Cars" Operated From Baltimore to Ellicott's Mills, A Distance of 13 Miles

Yesterday (May 24) was the 109th anniversary of the First American Railroad Train. It ran from Baltimore to Ellicott's Mills, Md., and return, over the first 13-mile section of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad then building westward. But there was no sound of bell, nor toot of whistle on America's first train, because the engine was a horse.

Nor was it called a train, but a "brigade of cars." The B. & O.'s president, Philip E. Thomas, had published the first railroad time-table a few days before. In it he advertised "A brigade, or train of coaches, will leave the Company's Depot on Pratt street, and return, making three trips each day—starting at the following hours precisely, viz:—

Lv. Baltimore at 7 a. m. and Ellicotts, 9 a. m.
Lv. Baltimore at 11 a. m. and Ellicotts 1 p. m.
Lv. Baltimore at 4 p. m. and Ellicotts 6 p. m.

The price for the trip of twenty-six miles, will be seventy-five cents for each person. Tickets to be had at the Depot. Should the demand be found to exceed the present means of accommodation, passengers will be under the necessity of going and returning in the same coach until a sufficient additional number of carriages can be furnished. As soon as this can be effected, of which due notice will be given, provision will be made for travelling a shorter distance than the whole trip.

P. E. THOMAS, President
Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co.
May 20, 1930.

The editors of the National Intelligencer and Telegraph, Washington, will publish the above three times.

In 1841, fourteen years after this event to the day—another great chapter in American history began, then the first telegraph message in the world, "What Hath God Wrought" tapped out by Prof. S. F. B. Morse in Washington, was received in the same B. & O. Pratt Street station in Baltimore, from which the first horse-drawn train departed.

Added distinction was given this same day in 1931, when the Baltimore and Ohio inaugurated the first completely air-conditioned train in the world, the "Columbian", between Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

The first horse-drawn train is now being operated in Railroads on Parade, historical railroad pageant, at the New York's World's Fair.

WHAT we're concerned about is simply this: Lest you admire the size and swiftness and smartness of this trim Buick—and mistakenly decide it's a car you can't afford.

Lest you figure, since it's an eight and an eight of a hundred-and-thensome horsepower, it might cost more to run than you'd like to pay.

Lest you listen to all you hear about its wondrous comfort, and the smoothness of its BuiCoil ride—and class it as luxury beyond your reach.

All of which, of course, is wrong!

This is an eight—a valve-in-head straight-eight—but it's also a Dynaflash eight, and it gets more good out of every drop of gasoline.

Mileage figures that owners report to us even beat some of the sixes!

And it's certainly a luxurious carriage to ride in—not only in size and comfort but in the completeness of its equipment. Every model has two horns, two sun-visors, two windshield wipers, plenty of ash receivers, an automatic electric lighter—not to mention automatic choke, Handishift transmission and the Flash-Way direction signal.

Even so—the list prices still run less than a year ago—less than some sixes—and probably considerably less than you think!

We'd hate to have you miss out on a whale of a lot of fun simply because you didn't have the whole story. So—since your Buick dealer doesn't know how to reach you—why don't you call on him?

Don't worry about his pressing you to buy! When you see how little this honey costs—and how much it does for that little—you'll be pressing him to hurry delivery!

ONLY BUICK HAS IT! This sure-fire direction signal that flashes warnings of turns at a flip of a switch! Shows day or night. Standard on all models!

"Better buy Buick!"

OAKLAND HIGH WINNER AT 23RD ANNUAL FIELD MEET

Scores 224½ Points; Grantsville Is Second With 208½ Points; Accident Is Third

ONE RECORD IS BROKEN

Oakland High school captured the twenty-third annual field and track meet at Accident last Thursday, scoring 224½ points. Grantsville, last year winner, was second with 208½ points; Accident school was third with 126 points. Next in order were Oakland elementary, Kitzmiller High, Kempton, Kitzmiller Elementary, and Friendsville, with twelve other schools registering points.

The meet was one of the most successful yet held, Mr. Ferguson stating it had been "bigger and better than ever." Approximately ,500 pupils participated in the different events.

HOW THE SCHOOLS FINISHED

Oakland High	224½
Grantsville	208½
Accident	126

Oakland High, after being absent from the track last year, came back strong to best Grantsville, last year's winner. Oakland did not compete in 1938, because there was no practice field available.

The day was hot and clear and one record was broken, according to F. O. Speicher, Friendsville, general chairman of the games committee. J. Weicht, a Kitzmiller boy, made a new high record in the broad jump, with a lead of 20 feet 1½ inches. The meet was held under the supervision of Thomas C. Ferguson, State Supervisor of Physical Education.

The addition of the girls events this year in running and softball was received with interest and the separation of events in elementary and high school classes gave the one and two-teacher and graded schools more of a chance to score. Totals were combined, however, at the conclusion of the meet, with the exception of Kitzmiller and Oakland schools.

Quite a number of the county winners eligible to compete in the Western Shore meet at Frederick on June 9, expect to go to that city and participate. Arrangements are being made for transportation. A few of the teachers are scheduled to act as officials in the meet.

The cost of the trip will be divided, one-third to be born by the county, one-third from the school from which the participant comes, and the remaining one-third to be born by the individual participant.

All records are not complete, but those available are as follows:

OAKLAND WILL BE BETTER LIGHTED IN THE FUTURE

Proposition Will Give Town More Light For Same Amount Of Money

A reduction in rate for electric current has been proposed by the West Maryland Power company to the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, which would be applicable to giving the town more light for the same amount of money, but which could not be used to reduce the monthly bill.

The matter was presented at a special meeting of the Town Council on Monday evening and action on the matter will be taken at the regular meeting on Monday evening.

The proposition would give the town 88 250-Watt lights instead of 100-Watt lights now in use, and in addition would give 7 400-Watt and 10 600-Watt lights in the business section. This would give Second street, from the William-James hotel to the railroad crossing, Third street, Alder street and Green street, in the business section, almost a "great white way" at no additional cost to the town, according to those who have looked over the proposition.

More Than A Hundred Marriage Licenses Issued Here In May

One hundred seven marriage licenses were issued at the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court in Oakland during the month of May, indicating that although the number is not as great as before the compulsory 48-hour waiting period law went into effect, there are still quite a number of people who come here to be married regardless.

As far as cash receipts are concerned also, the decrease is only slight in comparison to what was expected when the law went into effect last December.

Last May there were 168 licenses issued, which, at $2 each, brought in $336. This May there were 107 licenses at $2, and in addition 110 applications at $1 each, making a total for the month of $324.

RECEIVERSHIP OF THE OLD GARRETT BANK IS ENDED

Shareholders Receive Remaining Assets At Meeting Held Yesterday

The receivership of the old Garrett National Bank came to an end yesterday when a majority of shareholders held a meeting and received all the remaining assets from John H. Hoffman, receiver, and appointed A. T. Matthews as shareholders' agent, to protect their interests and eventually get back a portion of the assessment, levied some time ago. There were 750 shares represented in a total of 1000.

The bank had previously paid 107.66 percent to all depositors, the last payment being made on April 15. The bank had been in the process of liquidation since March, 1933, with J. H. Hoffman in charge since June 10, 1937. Over $875,000 has been paid to depositors and over one million dollars collected.

An advisory committee consisting of F. E. Rathbun, Henry M. Speicher and D. Edward Offutt was appointed to assist Mr. Matthews as agent. Mr. Hoffman said that there were turned over to the shareholders yesterday $24,000, face value, in notes, $9,800 in stock assessments not yet collected, and about $14,000 in cash. Out of these amounts the stockholders will be reimbursed to some extent for the $100,000 assessment made upon them to repay depositors in full.

Roy O. Winters Injured When He Is Pinned Beneath Tractor

Roy O. Winters, dairyman and farmer, of near town, was painfully injured last Thursday afternoon when a tractor which he was driving turned over on a steep embankment, pinning him beneath the machine.

The tractor was raised sufficenently by his two sons, Clayton and Harvey, and Hagan Frazee, who were working with him at the time, so that he could be extricated but it was not until his shoulder, arm, and part of his face had been burned by ashes of a brush fire.

They had been engaged in pulling thorns from a field on his farm and were hauling the last bush to the fire when the accident occurred.

Mr. Winters sustained also a broken rib and was otherwise bruised. The tractor had rubber tires, otherwise it was stated the accident would have been fatal.

The procession was an unusually long one.

At the cemetery both the Legion and the Knights of Pythias held appropriate ceremonies honoring their dead, after which E. Ray Jones, attorney of Oakland, delivered the memorial address at the tomb of the unknown soldier.He was introduced by Legionnaire Neil C. Fraley. Mr. Jones' address concerned the ultimate peace between all countries.

The cemetery was made presentable through a program of beautification inaugurated by a committee appointed several weeks ago by the Knights of Pythias lodge. Many property owners also assisted in the work.

Throughout the remainder of the day citizens observed the day quietly by remaining at their homes or by taking short motor trips to beauty spots near town.

PAUL PLEADS HIS OWN CASE

LESSON TEXT—Acts 21:40—22:4; 24:14-16; 26:19-23.
GOLDEN TEXT—I have lived in all good conscience before God until this day.—Acts 23:1.

"They say. What do they say? Let them say!" So reads the inscription over a doorway of one of the great schools of England. What does it mean? It bespeaks the confidence of a life lived so nobly that the barbs flung out by wicked and slanderous tongues may be faced without fear, in fact, ignored.

The best defense against the attacks of men is the testimony of a good life. Paul had lived such a life, and consequently when the hour came for him to speak in his own defense, he needed but to point to the record. It is significant that his enemies did not deny the facts. They could only cry out, throw off their garments and throw dust in the air while they shouted, "Away with such a fellow from the earth!" (Acts 22:22-24). They did, indeed, manufacture accusations against him, but even the heathen officials knew enough to throw these out of court. The impotent rage shown by wicked men when they run up against the consistent testimony of a true Christian life is one of the strongest of testimonies to the genuineness of faith.

At first glance the portions assigned for our lesson seem somewhat unrelated though taken from the same general narrative. A little study reveals a surprising unity.

I. A Matter of Conviction (21:40—22:4).

Many men and women have no real convictions. They are Republicans or Democrats because their fathers were, and often they have not the remotest idea of what it all means. They are members of a certain denomination because they were brought up in it, and have little knowledge of its teachings and no definite convictions relative to them.

Paul was a Christian because of strong personal convictions of the deepest kind. He was reared in a tradition which made him a bitter persecutor of the followers of Christ, and it was a personal experience of the regenerating grace of God in Jesus Christ which made him into the bond slave of the One he had persecuted. We need more of that kind of know-so and say-so type of faith. Joining a church as one might join a social club means nothing—but following Christ in full and free devotion is everything.

II. A Matter of Authority (24:14-16).

Just as Paul's life was built on faith which was inward, based on personal convictions, it was also a faith that was Godward, based on the authority of His Word. The Jews might call it heresy, but Paul stood on "all things which are written" (v. 14); he had a "hope toward God" (v. 15), and "a conscience void of offence toward God" (v. 16).

Those who ridicule Christianity would have it that faith is really credulity. They say we believe things which we do not know to be true, while hoping that they may somehow prove to be so. A man who reads these notes in his hometown newspaper recently wrote to ask me if I was fool enough to believe the things I wrote. The fact is that we, even as did Paul, have the strongest of all foundations for our faith, namely the Word of God. Men act in faith on the word of their fellow men—their very existence is all bound up in that faith in men whom they hardly know. They believe them, but they will not believe God. I suggested to my correspondent that he read I Corinthians 1:18-25 and 2:14.

Christian faith calls for a personal belief, but that belief is not in any word of man, but in the Word of God, which abideth forever.

III. A Matter of Witness (23:19-23).

Inward, Godward, and now outward in witness—these are the three relationships of Paul's good life. He could plead in his own defense the record of his life, for he had not selfishly cherished a fellowship with God which had lighted and warmed his own soul and then left his fellow man to sit in the chilling darkness of sin. He was obedient to the heavenly vision (v. 19), and preached repentance, faith, and good works to both Jew and Gentile (v. 20), continuing to do so with God's help even in the face of severe persecution.

Some people are just so good that they are "good for nothing." Such men do not reflect the goodness of God. Every attribute of God is an active one. He is love and He does love. He not only is good, but He does good. His children should be like Him. They are not saved only that they may escape hell and enjoy the peace of God. They are saved to serve in the winning of others to Christ. Let us covet such a good life as that which Paul lived. Our bewildered age needs the sanctifying and stabilizing influence of such lives!

Locals Win In Twelfth Inning

An infield single by Paul Orendorf in the last of the twelfth inning, scoring Modispaw from third base, gave Grantsville a 6-5 victory over the Cumberland Exports here Sunday afternoon in a pitchers' duel between Ray Herring, of the local nine, and Dorl Keller, of the Cumberland team. It was Grantsville's second loop victory in four starts and puts the locals tied with the Barrelville and Cumberland clubs for second place in the Tri-County Baseball League. The visitors outhit the locals 13 to 8 and held a 5-2 lead going into the last of the sixth, but in that inning Grantsville pushed three runs across the plate, tying the score. Each team advanced runners as far as second and third during the remaining six innings, but expert handling prevented any score until the 12, when Modispaw singled, stole second, moved to third on a sacrifice, and scored the winning tally on Orendorf's hit. Herring struck out 16 batsmen; Keller, 11.

The locals were defeated by Salisbury, of Will's Creek Valley League, in a Memorial Day game at Salisbury Tuesday afternoon. Grantsville goes to Paw Paw, W. Va., this coming Sunday for its fifth game of the Tri-County League schedule.

PRECAUTIONS ARE URGED AGAINST WOOD TICK BITE

Some of These Pests Spread Spotted Fever Among People

quently called, in humans. Five cases of the disease have been reported to the State Department of Health, so far, this month; two were reported earlier in the season, all from widely separated parts of the State.

As weather conditions seem to have been specially favorable for the development of the ticks this year, Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health advises fishermen, owners of camps and shores, and other persons whose business or pleasure takes them into tick-infested areas, to use all possible precautions against being bitten by the insects; to remove any found on the body as soon as possible, and to take great care not to crush the ticks in handling them. Tick-bite fever is contracted, he explained, either from the bite of the disease-carrying ticks or through absorbing the infectious material through a break or scratch in the skin. The disease does not spread from person to person.

"The tick responsible for the spread of the disease in this part of the country," Dr. Riley continued, "is the American dog tick, that is specially active in the early spring and that attaches itself to cattle, horses, and humans, as well as to dogs. Fortunately not all ticks are infected, but as they all look alike, it is better to regard all ticks as possible carriers of infection and to treat them accordingly. Prompt removal of the insects is of the utmost importance."

Other specific precautions urged by Dr. Riley include the following:

1. Look out for ticks on your body or clothing. Make a careful inspection at least twice a day if you are picnicking, camping, or, are employed in a tick-infested area. Pay particular attention to children who play in uncleared land. Children are likely to be bitten back of the ears, or on the head hidden by the hair, or on the neck. Don't overlook these or any other hiding places in your inspections. Examination of the whole body is necessary.

2. Be careful in removing any ticks found on the body, or in taking them off of dogs or other animals, not to crush the ticks between the fingers. If the insect is deeply embedded use small forceps, or protect the fingers with a bit of paper or cotton. Swab the place from which the tick was withdrawn with iodine. Dip the fingers and the forceps in alcohol, afterwards, and wash the hands thoroughly with soap and water. A drop of crude oil or motor oil may be of help in withdrawing ticks from dogs or cattle.

3. If ticks are very abundant near permanent camps, spray the area and trails around the settlement with creosote oil; cut grass very short around dwellings, along paths, and near bathing pools and shores; cut out and burn undergrowth.

A brief statement giving information and advice as to precautionary measures to be used by those whose business or pleasure takes them into tick-infested areas, has recently been issued by the U. S. Public Health Service and is available on request from the National Institute of Health, U. S. Public Health Service, Washington, D. C.

STRAWBERRIES

Strawberry Sun Preserves

These preserves can be made only if there is sufficiently hot sunshine to cause rapid evaporation.

Prepare choice strawberries as in the recipe above. For each pound of these choice berries allow a pound of sugar and one teaspoon lemon juice. Prepare a sirup from the juice of less perfect berries and sugar. To do this crush small berries, then stir them while cooking for about three minutes. Strain. To each pound of choice berries allow one-fourth cup of this juice and one pound of sugar. Add the sugar to the juice, stir, and heat slowly until the sugar is entirely dissolved. Add the berries to the sirup and simmer for 3 to 5 minutes.

Drain the berries from the sirup and place about an inch apart on shallow enameled pans or china platters. Boil the sirup until it is fairly thick; that is for about ten minutes, and pour the sirup in a thin layer over the berries. Cover with window glass propped up about one-fourth inch from the pans. Place in the sun for two or three days or until the sirup has jellied. Take inside at night, and after each day's sunning turn the brries over. Without reheating, put the preserves into hot sterilized jars and seal.

Strawberry Preserves

Pick out smaller, less-perfect berries for juice. Crush them, then stir while cooking for about three minutes. Strain. To each pound of choice prepared berries allow one-fourth cup of this juice, and one pound of sugar. Add the sugar to the juice, stir, and heat slowly until dissolved. Drop the berries into the juice, simmer for 3 to 5 minutes. Boil rapidly 10 to 15 minutes, or until the fruit is somewhat clear. Remove the scum. Allow the preserves to stand about 8 hours or overnight in a glass or porcelain bowl. Fill hot sterilized jars three-fourths full with the drained berries, without reheating them. Boil the sirup rapidly until fairly thick or to 221 degrees F. Pour the hot sirup over the berries and seal.

IN DAYS OF OLD

FORTY YEARS AGO

The future of Oakland was the subject of an editorial. People were seeking points more accessible than this section and nearer the larger cities. The location of a manufacturing concern here was given as a solution to the problem.

The county levy for 1899 provided $9,000 for county roads; $14,000 for public schools. The total levy was $58,-684.41, and the tax rate was 82 cents. The State tax rate was 17¾ cents.

A. F. George, fish commissioner for the Western Shore, distributed brook trout and rainbow trout in the county. He distributed 27,000 brook and 1,000 rainbow in various streams. The commissioner placed 500,000 fish in the Western Shore streams against 79,900 distributed by previous commissioners.

The Dennett Hotel property at Mountain Lake Park was sold for the sum of $7,200.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

The full quota in the Victory Liberty Loan was accepted by the banks in the county, relying on the citizens to purchase the bonds before May 10. The quota was $271,900.

The county tax rate was set at $1.42. The State tax rate was 36 31-72. The county levy totaled $198,048.40. For public county roads $20,000 was appropriated and for special roads $27,-000 was appropriated. Public schools were to have $66,000.

Townshend Naylor was home from St. John's College for a brief vacation.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Jas. P. Treacy.

H. A. Loraditch, Oakland Garage proprietor, secured the ageney for International tractors and trucks.

Paragraph Opinions . . .

"NO PLOW, BIG PAY"

It was only a minor news item, coming from Canning, S. D., and concerning one Amos Shield, a Sioux Indian. Amos had been known in the community for years; his usual apparel was overalls. But according to the story, vouched for by the Associated Press, he recently appeared in the little city dressed in the latest style, even wearing a necktie. Questioned about the apparent properity, Amos replied:

"No plow, big pay."

This might be just a story, but unfortunately, it is the truth.

"No plow, big pay."

That is, if anything is more unfortunate than another about the New Deal, the most unfortunate. Pay for doing nothing; premiums for idleness, citer of person or of soil.

"No plow, big pay."

What a commentary upon the New Deal psychology, coming from one of the first Americans. What a commentary on the ideals being planted by the New Deal among young and old. Raise less and earn more. Work less and prosper to a greater extent. Do nothing and go forward. Cheat and succeed. Plant nothing and gather all. Give nothing and expect everything. Sleep all day and laugh at your neighbor who works in the sun. Save nothing and retire on a pension. Be lazy and thumb your nose at your energetic neighbor.

"No plow, big pay."

Garrett County, According To This Correspondent, Is A Providentially Blessed Part Of The Earth, And In This Surmise He is Not Far Wrong.

To the Editor of The Republican.

To hear some grumble oftimes and complain about Garrett county in general (incidentally Scoop shouldn't have mentioned his Johnson grass in his recent column, 'cause bean and cucumber beetles are worse) one would never suspect that it possessed even one good or commendable feature.

Most of us occasionally, if not frequently, are inclined to be captious and querulous in regard to the weather and our surrounding climate as a whole. It's too wet or too dry to suit us; too cold or too hot or perhaps too much snow in winter to please us. We fret because the advantages provided through industry and big business aren't perched permanently on our doorsteps. We're susceptible to, and perhaps when we feel extraordinarily morose and dejected, we actually do cultivate and encourage the opinion that Garrett county is backward and that it never receives a "break" financially, socially or otherwise.

Yes indeed, our criticism of our county as a whole would indicate and lead to the conclusion that the Omnipotent Power had neglected to endow Garrett county with so much as one tiny semblance of sublimity and natural geographic grandeur, which Scoop in one of his late columns referred to as "gold in them thar hills." This natural gift presented to Garrett ages ago by Mother Nature herself is in a sense a golden treasure and it can justly be termed thus, for no amount of gold could purchase or construct the many infinite spots of beauty as they exist today.

We have numerous rugged, majestic mountains, an abundance throughout the entire county of pure, sparkling drinking water, turbulent, typical mountain streams, our two outstanding beautiful and well known waterfalls (Muddy Creek and Swallow Falls), clean air with its exhilarating tang and pleasant, healthy agreeable surroundings. These and many other fine and interesting features combine together to create that exclusive something that proclaim Garrett county as not such a bad place after all, and that her many scenic, august places of endless interest should be prized and appreciated and not nonchaJ0ofte nored.

As for our climate, should it be made possible for us to experience the general climatic conditions elsewhere we dissatisfied ones would undoubtedly be content where we are.

Sometimes we long to live elsewhere though, despite the fact that the citizens of the very section of the United States in which we desire to live are perplexed with adverse living conditions that far surpass those of our own county.

Thousands of the farms in the Western section of the United States are virtually being lynched by hordes of voracious uncontrollable grasshoppers, Other States beyond the Mississippi are plagued with long droughts and dust storms which convert once productive land into vast areas of barren wasteland which produce nothing but worthless cactus, soapweed and scattered sagebrush. Some parts of the west, especially California, are subject to destructive earthquakes which cause many citizens there to exist in suspense, fearing a repetition of the quake in 1906 at San Francisco in which 25,000 buildings were destroyed and hundreds of lives taken.

Would we like the South as a permanent home? I doubt it. States located near the Gulf of Mexico are quite often the victims of tornados which destroy many thousands of dollars worth of property with one fierce, twisting puff.

Disease is more prevalent and pests are more difficult to combat and control in Southern climates, not to mention its almost unbearable hot summers and the accompanying hands of merry mosquitoes that rival the west's grasshoppers for greediness.

The North Central States, such as the Dakotas, Minnesota, etc., have winters that would disgrace Maryland any time in a competitive race for cold weather and frequent blizzards.

What sort of weather does New England have? Well, here's what a well known writer of the eighteenth century said about it:

"I reverently believe that the Maker who makes us all, makes everything in New England but the weather. I don't know who makes that, but I think it must be raw apprentices in the weather clerk's factory who experiment and learn how, in New England, for board and clothes, and then are promoted to make weather for countries that require a good article, and will take their custom elsewhere if they don't get it. . . . there is a sumptious variety about the New England weather. . . . It's always getting up new designs and trying them out on the people. . . . Every year they kill a lot of New England poets for writing about "Beautiful Spring." . . . I've seen one hundred and thirty-six different kinds of weather up there in twenty-four hours."

Of course this great writer is only joshing, or rather using a humorous method in depicting New England's weather. Nevertheless all these disadvantages elsewhere unite together in reiterating and showing us that we could have selected a worse county than Garrett and a worse State than Maryland to be born in.

HATCHERIES TURNING OUT MANY QUAIL AND TURKEY

Two Farms Operating At Full Capacity, With New Equipment For Young Birds

The most unusual hatcheries in the State—game farms owned by the game division of the State Conservation Department—are operating at capacity, propagating bobwhites, partridges, ducks, geese, wild turkeys, pheasants and grouse in captivity.

Looking to the production of a record number of birds this year, extensive improvements are being made to the hatcheries, E. Lee LeCompte, State game warden, recently disclosed.

Brooders To Be Installed

The major project calls for the installation of the most modern brooders of the so-called battery type, consisting of six metal pens fitted one above the other in a steel frame.

The brooders are designed for baby chicks. They are being modified for the raising of bobwhites. The equipment is being added to the game farms at Gwynnbrook, Baltimore county, and Salisbury, Wicomico county.

One of the difficulties in the past has been the inability to hold over until the spring as great a number of young birds as is desirable because of lack of housing facilities.

Accordingly, twenty-five field pens, variously known as "holding" or "finishing" pens, are being built at Salisbury and Gwynnbrook. These pens, which are wire enclosed, also include a frame house to protect the birds from severe weather.

House 25 Chicks Each

Designed to house about twenty-five birds each, the pens cover an area about eight by sixteen feet, providing sufficient space to carry over all the birds raised during the summer until the next spring.

The first pheasants were hatched two weeks ago. This week the first Chukor or Asiatic partridges this season will be hatched, and within a few days bobwhites will be breaking through their shells.

Eggs are being provided by about 150 partridge hens at Salisbury and 210 hens at Gwynnbrook. They are collected once a week and promptly put into great automatically controlled incubators.

Hatches are looked for each week from now until well into the fall. By fall the earlier birds will have attained good size and weight.

Half To Be Libereted

Present plans call for liberation of about one-half the young birds this fall and holding the others for release next spring.

At the Washington County Game Refuge wild turkeys are being grown, while at the Washington County Game Refuge bobwhite, pheasants and ducks will be raised this season.

Good results in propagating Chukor quail are reported by Mr. LeCompte. Indigenous to the Himalaya Mountain region, the full-grown birds, which look very much like bobwhites, run from one and a half to two pounds in weight, thus approaching the size of grouse, which weigh about three pounds each. The bobwhite averages about eight ounces.

The scheduled production this year calls for 11,000 bobwhites, 600 wild turkeys, 2,500 pheasants and 500 of the Chukor quail.

Value Estimated

The game propagation plants and other land and equipment for the division now has an appraised value of approximately $140,000, Mr. LeCompte reported, following a survey.

In 1916 the value of land and buildings owned ran to $511, he recalled. All of the money invested has come from the sale of licenses.

Moreover, the 1933 Legislature passed an act requiring all departments to share relief costs. Accordingly, in 1934 and 1935, $63,339.98 of State game funds went for relief.

SUMMER CAMPS TO HAVE HEALTH STATUS CHECKED

Careful Maintenance Of Public Grounds Ordered By Department Of Health

Camping grounds and picnic locations along Maryland's miles of highway are going to be safe for the tourist this year if the State Department of Health knows anything about it.

Rigid rules affecting the maintenance of all camps and picnic places in Maryland have been put in effect by the Health Department which aims to make sure that such centers meet necessary sanitary requirements.

And it won't be long now until many families will be loading into their automobiles and setting forth on happy trips to picturesque roads. Its lots of fun but State Department heads realize that one cup of unsanitary drinking water can often lead to disastrous results.

See Seal First

That's why Dr. R. H. Riley, department director, is advising all summer travelers to stop at camps that have been inspected.

The placard showing that the camp has been inspected by the State Health Department is the symbol of security, he states. It means that the camp ground has been duly inspected and meets the necessary sanitary and healthful requirements.

Dr. Riley explained that no camp or picnic ground in Maryland that is used for six days or longer and that accommodates ten or more persons may be operated without a permit from the State Department of Health. Applications are usually made in the early spring so that the required inspections may be made and any needed improvements may be gotten under way before the season opens.

Flies Are Taboo

To be duly certified each camp must comply with the regulations prescribed by the State Board of Health with regard to the water supply, toilet facilities, disposal of sewage, garbage and other waste; protection of foods sold on the premises from pollution and from flies; sources of supply and methods of handling milk, cream and ice cream, and the general cleanliness of buildings and grounds.

Here are some of the specific requirements. You can take a look around and see whether they have been met:

WATER SUPPLY—The drinking water must conform in quality to United States Treasury Department standards. The use of a common drinking cup is prohibited. Drinking fountains must be of an approved sanitary type. Wells or springs must be more than 200 feet away from cesspools or privies. Construction must be such as to prevent surface drainage.

SEWERAGE—Privies or other toilet facilities must be of an approved type, and must be maintained in a sanitary condition. Adequate facilities must be provided for washing hands. The use of common towels is prohibited. Sewage and other waste must be disposed of in such a manner as not to create a nuisance or be a menace to health.

Mosquito Protection Required

PREMISES—Buildings and grounds must be kept in a neat and sanitary condition. Care must be taken to protect against flies and mosquitoes. Garbage must be kept in metal cans with fly-tight metal lids and must be disposed of in an approved manner, preferably by burning or burying. Receptacles for the disposal of other waste, such as paper, etc., must be maintained at convenient locations and the contents disposed of promptly by incineration or other approved methods.

PROTECTION OF FOOD—Premises where food is handled must be satisfactorily lighted and ventilated. Rooms in which food is prepared, and if practicable, those in which it is served, must be screened, or other means must be provided to prevent access of flies to food. Scrupulous cleanliness must be followed in washing utensile in which foods are cooked or served.

OPERATING PERMITS Permits must be removed each season and are not interchangeable. A permit for the current year must be on display at all times during the operation of the resort.

ROADS COMMISSION FACES DEFICIT FOR FISCAL YEAR

Construction Fund Will Be Behind $3,005,011, Codd Asserts

The State Roads Commission faces a deficit of approximately $3,005,011 in its construction fund at the end of this fiscal year, Commissioner Auditor William A. Codd revealed last Saturday.

Codd said about half of the overdraft about $1,500,000 would be cleared up promptly September 30 by application of certain gasoline tax revenue, but that the remainder probably would be carried on commission books until early in 1941.

Construction funds are for major state highway construction projects, he explained. Since 1937, construction costs have exceeded anticipated income as a result of expanded building programs launched by the commission, Codd said.

To balance the overdraft the commission must set aside excess revenue from the one-half cent grade crossing elimination tax.

Net result of the financing, after half of the deficit is paid up September 30, would be a loss of $1,500,000 in anticipated income from major highway work during 1940-1941.

At the end of 1940, an additional $1,100,000 in surplus gasoline taxes will be applied to the overdraft, leaving approximately $40,000 to be wiped out in the early months of 1941.

Largest item in a dozen construction accounts expected to show red when the books are closed is $725,000 the state had to put up to obtain its $2,061,000 share of Federal grade crossing elimination funds.

Codd pointed out the Federal funds could be used solely for construction. The state had to buy all rights-of-way and pay all preliminary costs on grade crossing work.

He estimated the construction fund would total $5,700,000 for the 1940 fiscal year beginning October 1, and $5,800,000 for the 1941 fiscal period. Most of the overdraft must be paid out of 1940 funds.

Instead of $11,500,000 for construction during the biennium, the commission will have but $10,000,000 to be used after the last half of the deficit is wiped out, Codd said.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS. . . . . .

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

The Great Corcoran Drive

Washington, May 27.

In the last two weeks a vigorous and, on the surface, effective effort to galvanize a third-term-for-Roosevelt idea has been made. The first publicity came from selected journalistic mouthpieces of the "inner circle." It was, as such things are, taken up by others. Altogether, considerable success has been achieved in nullifying the general acceptance that, in accord with the oldest American political tradition, Mr. Roosevelt would retire at the close of his second term.

Naturally the facts about this "drive" are of interest, but they have yet to be clearly stated. The basic one is that back of it is that ingenious young man, Mr. Thomas Corcoran. And when you say that Mr. Corcoran is back of it you mean that Mr. Ben Cohen is back of it, Mr. Leon Henderson, Mr. Bob Jackson, Mr. David Cushman Coyle, Mr. David Niles and the other bright young men whom Mr. Roosevelt brought out of obscurity and whose one chance of avoiding return to that state is to continue Mr. Roosevelt in the White House.

You also mean that back of it are Mr. Lasser, of the Workers Alliance; Mr. Lewis, of the C.I.O., and the great press agent army of the Government departments. It isn't, of course, necessary to mention that Mr. Earl Browder, head of the Communist party, publicly plumped for a third term some time ago, nor that the Federal jobholders are a unit in such a movement. It is with them a matter of obvious self-interest. Take all these forces and a rather impressive performance can be put on if staged by a skillful director. That is exactly what has been done, and Mr. Corcoran is the bright boy who has done it.

The point which ought to be understood, however, is that it has not changed the actual situation in any way. The Democratic leaders who were against Mr. Roosevelt are just as much against him now as before. They will continue against him. There has been no change in public sentiment on the subject. The Gallup and other polls still show a definite majority against a third term. The best political judgment has been that a third nomination could no more succeed than a third-party movement can succeed. That is still the judgment of the experienced politicians. Nor have these changed their view that Mr. Roosevelt will not run again in 1940.

What then, it is asked, is the idea of the great Corcoran drive, which now has reached the point where the inspired journalists are filling the ticket out with Attorney General Frank Murphy, painting him as a "Super Dewey," a holy man, who reeks with righteousness and is untouched by sin? The idea is simple enough. In the first place, Corcoran and Company do not believe these things. They are convinced that the people are still not only with the President but with the New Deal. They think that the anti-third term tradition is absurd and the practical politicians are wrong when they warn that the American people do not want any man to hold the Presidency more than eight years.

In the second place, these amateur political strategists believe they can put enough pressure on Mr. Roosevelt to let Mr. Farley, now in the West, very definitely know that he wants a renomination. This, they think, will compel Mr. Farley to deliver to Mr. Roosevelt all the delegates he has been so carefully putting in the bag for himself. And that would be a splendid joke on Mr. Farley, whom they do not like, at the same time putting Mr. Roosevelt in position where he could enforce a demand on the Democratic conservatives to do his will in the convention. Perhaps they are right, but not many detached observers think so.

Their reasons are clear. Chief among them is the fact that there is no possibility of Mr. Roosevelt being "drafted" for the nomination or supported by a united party. His most partisan friends do not claim that. He probably could be nominated by openly conniving in the movement and driving it through on a rebellious convention by the weight of the Federal administration. But there is no other way. [illegible] by one practical [illegible] of politics takes an [illegible] stock [illegible] have. It would mean that then [illegible] split the Democratic party [illegible] wider than ever Mr. Bryan did.

The Corcorans, Cohens and others were in their cradles when Mr. Bryan was the peerless leader of exactly the same elements to which the New Deal now appeals. Naturally, the parallel means nothing to them, but it would make no difference. Their one chance of holding power is a third term and they would continue to urge it if the party risk were twice as great. The question is whether they can sufficiently inflame Mr. Roosevelt. It is true they have had immense influence with him in the past, but unless he is very greatly influenced he will not go the distance on this. The best guess is that he may use the third-term threat as a convention club to compel enforcement of his policies and possibly the nomination of some personally satisfactory to him. Actually, no one does not need to threaten to get both of those things. There is little the convention can do but give them.

LOOKING FORWARD

By FRANKLYN WALTMAN

Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

In his message to Congress asking relief for the fiscal year starting July 1, President Roosevelt gave his unqualified blessings to the Works Progress Administration. He said that WPA in the next fiscal year "should be carried on much as at present.

May Heaven forbid!

Mr. Roosevelt either does not know what a mess the WPA has become—due in large part to the lax administration of the fair-haired Harry L. Hopkins—or he has become insensible to decency in government. Of course, the Federal Government should and must appropriate funds to take care of those in distress, but the WPA should not be permitted to "carry on much as at present." Indeed, the time has come for creation of an entirely new system and agency for Federal relief.

Were the Presidential olfactory organs functioning, Mr. Roosevelt would have taken warning last summer when Thomas L. Stokes, writer for the New Dealish Scripps-Howard Newspapers, revealed disgraceful playing of politics with WPA in the Kentucy Democratic primary. Instead Mr. Hopkins undertook to laugh it off and deny the Stokes' articles, but the Scripps-Howard reporter was fully vindicated by the Sheppard Committee Investigating Campaign Expenditures.

Awarded Pulitzer Prize.

Now, as is justified, Mr. Stokes has been awarded the coveted Pulitzer Prize of $1,000 for excellence in reporting for his series of stories. This award to Mr. Stokes at least indicates that the newspapermen of the country, irrespective of their attitude toward Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal, have lost faith in WPA as it has been administered.

The House Committee investigating the WPA likewise has been turning up some smelly business. This committee, as reported here several weeks ago, revealed that the Workers Alliance—the so-called union of WPA workers—was under the control of Communists and that its loquacious president, David Lasser, had used dues wrung by the organization from the hard-earned pay of WPA workers to take a trip to Moscow as an official delegate to celebrate the twentieth anniversary of the Bolshevist Revolution.

The Committee brings to light more shocking revelations. Lest anyone think we are guilty of exaggerating or overdrawing the picture presented to the committee, let's turn to the Democratic Baltimore Sun and there read the account of one day's session of the committee, as written by Charles P. Trussell, one of its staff Washington correspondents, chairman of the Standing Committee of Correspondents and an exceptionally able newspaperman.

Startling Story Told

Excerpts from Mr. Trussell's story follows:

"Henry G. Alsbery, national director of the WPA's Federal writers' project, today was accused from a Capitol witness stand of instigating a sit-down strike against his own organization to 'impress' Washington against cuts in fund allotments and personnel.

"He was charged, further, with refusing to take steps to rid the project in New York of Communists—fourteenteen of twenty-three of his supervisors named in the course of a day of startling testimony were identified as members of the Communist Party—and with resorting to personal reprimand and denying of promised promotion to a supervisor who had testified, in response to Congressional subpoena, regarding conditions in that governmental agency * * *

"From New York came a battery of project supervisors, some in good standing and others who swore they were under punishment for having given voice to complaints and charges

Taking turns on the witness stand, they alleged that—

"'Membership in the Communist Party or the Workers' Alliance of America, left-wing organization of WPA project enrollees and unemployed, was an aid in obtaining appointment to WPA jobs.

"'Material for the New York guide book was assembled at a cost rate of $51.09 per 1000 words, not including overhead expenses .

"'On the theatre project costs as high as $250,208.30 have been run up in the presentation of a single production.

"'On the arts project a large staff of models, white and Negro, is retained and may be selected from large catalogues containing poses in the nude for assignment to WPA-sponsored art project.'

Attention: You Reporters!

"As the day's hearing recessed there was read into the record the 'previous experience' history of one Donald Thompson, who between August 10, 1936, and April 15, 1937, rose from junior newspaperman at $21.50 a week in the writers' project to an assistant State director at $3,400 a year.

"His previous training, as recited by H. Ralph Burton, committee investigator, was: stationary engineer, Carnegie Steel Works; machinist repairman; locomotive repairman for the New York Central Railroad; chauffeur and employe on a newspaper Sunday supplement (six months)."

Another witness at the hearing was Oscar Goll, former managing editor of the Writers' Project. He said the three assistants assigned to him were a former book seller, a former manager of a collection agency and a "Yiddish translator and pamphleteer for the Communist Party," as Mr. Trussell reported. He said eighty per cent of those assigned to the project were not equipped with writing background.

But, why go on? These quotations from the Baltimore Sun story—which continued for three columns—are sufficient to demonstrate what has been happening on at least one important WPA undertaking. And Mr. Roosevelt wants WPA to carry on "much as at present"!

BEAR CREEK IRON WORKS

An Early Industry Located At Friendsville, Garrett County

"The Youghogany Iron Company" went out of business just about one hundred years ago and its activities are almost forgotten, but the remains of its blast furnace and chunks of glassy cinder still litter Mr. Doolan's garden on Bear Creek, above Friendsville.

The old furnace stood on the west side of the Creek near the present highway and about a mile above the town. Patrick J. Doolan resides on the site; his home is said to stand on the foundations of the company store and part of his cellar is built of stones taken from the furnace walls. Below the furnace site is the house of E. C. Ryland, which was originally built by (or for) John Raymond, once manager of the plant. It was a fine dwelling home in its day. It has been twice rebuilt.

The forge and foundry, where some of the pig iron was used in manufacturing implements, tools, kettles, etc., was located on the west shore of the Youghiogheny, a half mile below the Friend settlement. A "race" carried water from the river to furnish power for the great hammers of the forge. About 1895 Leslie E. Friend repaired the old race and built a small power plant on the forge site, which supplied Friendsville with electricity until the present electric system was installed.

Iron ore of good quality was mined among the clay and rock of the hills on both sides of Bear Creek near the blast furnace.

There is also coal in this neighborhood; probably both coal and charcoal were used—coal to melt the ore in the furnace and charcoal in the foundry.

The Bear Creek enterprise flourished for a few years and provided work for a hundred men or more. A village grew up at the mouth of the Creek and on January 7, 1830, a post office was established under the name of "Friends," with Gabriel Friend as its first postmaster.

But the iron works operated only bout ten years. In 1920, Rev. D. A. Friend wrote:

"Sixty years ago the greater number of the houses were still standing and many of them in good condition. The reason assigned for closing out the works when they did was that the cost of transportation at the time was so heavy that it consumed most of the profits, so that the enterprise was no longer self-sustaining."

Competition with larger and better equipped plants in localities more favorably situated also doubtless hastened the end. Debts were not paid and in 1839 the whole property was sold by the Sheriff.

Most of the pig iron manufactured at Bear Creek was hauled by wagons to Brownsville, on the Monongahela River, and shipped thence by boat. Boating down the Youghiogheny was also tried; flat boats could be sent down to the National Road at Somerfield, but it was extremely difficult to pole or tow them up-stream. A man named Patents is said to have built a boat and to have floated it down the river successfully, but in towing it back with his horse the animal was drowned.

The Youghogany Iron Company

It appears that the promoters of the iron works began operations in 1828, when a company was incorporated under the name of "Allegany Iron Company." This was probably the first company incorporated to do business in what is now Garrett county. We here qnote from an Act of the General Assembly of Maryland, passed March 14, 1828:

"WHEREAS, It is represented to the General Assembly by Henry P. VanBibber, Wm. D. McKim, Columbus O'Donnell, John McHenry, John Hoye and Upton Bruce, that tney are the proprietors of tracts and parts of tracts of land situated on and contiguous to Bear Creek in Allegany county; that on said lands they have extensive water power capable of being advantageously used for various manufacturing purposes; that they have already erected thereon suitable buildings for a furnace and a forge and contemplate prosecuting an extensive manufacture of pigs, castings and bar iron or any other manufacture which they may deem proper to connect therewith; and that they are desirous of increasing their capital stock for the purpose of extending said improvements . . . the above named persons are created a corporation by the name of—Allegany Iron Company."

A supplementary Act passed February 11, 1829, changed the name to "Youghogany Iron Company."

The corporation was authorized to purchase not over 10,000 acres of land. Capital authorized was $40,000 in 400 shares of stock at $100 per share; the officers to be a president and five directors.

The three first named incorporators were of Baltimore, where most of the capital was subscribed, while John McHenry, John Hoye and Upton Bruce were of Allegany county.

The company purchased "Mill Seat," a part of the tract "Friend's Fortune" or "Salem", and Lot 3301 on the west side of the river, and in the Bear Creek valley various tracts, including "Friend's Choice", the "Orme's" tracts, "General's Wish" and "Bear Creek Iron Works," in all about 2700 acres.

But in 1836 Alex. Ewing obtained a court judgment in Baltimore for $5,000 against the company for failure to perform a certain contract and the sheriff was ordered to seize the goods, etc., of the said Youghogany Iron Company. In 1838 the Chesapeake Bank also obtained a judgment for $6,000, and in 1839 Robert R. Moore, Edward H. Stabler and John Leadbeater obtained judgment for $2,000. Finally, on October 10, 1839, the sheriff sold all the lands and buildings of the defunct company for $3,600 to John S. Gittings.

Since the days of the iron works the virgin timber round about Friendsville has been cut, but most of the coal, the iron and the never-failing water power await the hands of men to be used in making Friendsville one of the leading manufacturing towns of Maryland.

LITTLE SHADES OF DEATH

When General Washington Passed This Way

The old Braddock Road, with its winding ways,
With its tangled undergrowth and sod,
Is to us most dear, for in bygone days
Here a nation's hero's feet have trod.

—Sara Roberta Getty.

In the "Journel" of his trip to the Ohio, General Washington wrote that on September 10, 1784, he "lodged at Tumberson's" and the next morning took "breakfast at Mounts or Mountains."

"Tumberson's" is a misspelling of "Tomlinson's", and referred to the Tomlinson Red House Inn near the present Stone House, east of Grantsville. The General's party consisted of himself, Bushrod Washington, his nephew, Dr. Craik and son William, and servants.

Rising early on September 11th, the little party rode west over the Braddock Road from Tomlinson's, by the site of old Grantsville, through the "Little Shades of Death" on Shade Run and up Negro Mountain a short distance to "Mounts or Mountains"—about five miles, requiring one hour at the pace the General usually rode.

We may be sure the travelers arrived at Joseph Mountain's log tavern with good appetites after their ride over the hills through the crisp September air. And doubtless Joseph and his wife Elizabeth had been advised the pervious evening of the coming of their distinguished guest and had a savory breakfast prepared when he arrived.

On his return in October, Washington traveled the McCullough Pack Horse Path and lodged with Charles Friend, south of the site of Oakland. The old hunter was taken by surprise and had "only parched corn" to offer his guests; had he been warned, he surely would have served fresh venison or wild turkey.

The Little Shades Of Death

Grantsville is on the hill between the Little Crossing and Shade Run, which drains the valley called "The Little Shades of Death." "The Great Shades of Death" was the forested country east of Meadow Mountain, along the Braddock Road, of which Sargeant, in "Pioneer Roads," wrote:

"Such were those dark forests of enormous white pines that shadow the region beyond the Great Savage Mountain. The loneliness and perfect monotony of such a scene are not readily to be described; it more resembles the utter stillness of the desert than anything beside. No bird chirps among the foliage, or finds its food in these inhospitable boughs; no wild creature has its lair beneath its leafy gloom. Like the dark nave of some endless dream-born cathedral, the tall columns rise before, behind, on every side, in uncounted and bewildering multiplicity, and are lost in the dark mantle that shuts out the light of heaven. The senses weary of the confusing prospect and imagination paints a thousand horrid forms to people its recesses. At every step the traveler half looks to find a bloody corpse or the blanched skeleton of some long-murdered man lying across his pathway through these woods, so aptly named 'The Shades of Death.'"

John McKane of the Little Shades of Death

On June 19, 1755, General Braddock's ill-fated army camped in the Little Shades of Death, and a few years later John McKane squatted on the old army camp ground. The survey of "Cornucopia," the site of the town of Grantsville, on March 31, 1771, refers to "where John McKane lives on Braddock Road."

Whence came John McKane and where he went, we do not know. Doubtless he entertained travelers at his house on Shade Run until the Revolutionary War began and the Indians became dangerous, then moved back to the safety of the settlements eastward.

The old Fuller house, built of white pine logs, stands on or near McKane's settlement on Braddock's fifth camp ground.

Joseph Mounts or Mountain

The next settler in this neighborhood was Joseph Mountain. In 1787 he claimed as a settler Military Lots 2201 and 2204, which were patented to him in 1797. We have already noted that he was living here in 1784. Doubtless he was host to many travelers over the old Braddock Road, which crossed Shade Run, thence up and over a small hill. Near the western foot of this hill, on the south side of the road was "White Oak Spring," at the edge of a spruce forest—a part of the Shades of Death. Here at the White Oak Spring Joseph Mountain had his log cabin and here General Washington breakfasted in 1781.

Later this was the home of William and Archibald Thistle, who built a large two-story house on the site of Mountain's cabin. The Thistle house was torn down about 1885.

Henry Miller built the present frame house, which stands just back of the site of the Thistle home, by the White Oak Spring, still flowing strong.

George Sloan now owns this part of the Mountain farm and resides in the Miller house. This historic place is only a quarter of a mile south from U. S. Route 40, from which it may be reached by a county road turning south at Joel A. Beachy's.

In 1808, Joseph Mountain and wife deeded Military Lots 2201, 2203 and 2201 to William Thistle. Prior to this time the Mountains had moved to a new home on the Braddock Road in Pennsylvauia, near the Maryland Line. Thistle paid $300 for the property, which indicates that Mountain had a fair log cabin and other improvements on the land.

It is probable that this pioneer Joseph "Mounts" or Mountain was a son of Joseph Mounts, Sr., who resided on "Sugar Tree Bottom", on the Potomac about 18 miles above Cumberland. Joseph Mounts, Sr., died there in 1797.

The Scotch-Irish Thistles and Thistle's Hotel on Negro Mountain.

William, Thomas, Sempson, Archibald, John and George Thistle emigrated from North Ireland to Allegany county, Maryland. William Thistle, Sr., appears to have been the father of the family. In 1813 he signed an agreement to deed his land—Lots 2201, 2203 and 2204—and all his personal property to Archibald in consideration of Archibald's promise to pay his (William's) debts and support him "in a decent manner for life."

In 1797, William Thistle, farmer, and Thomas Thistle, "student-at-law," with six others, were the first aliens naturalized in Allegany county.

In 1798, John Thistle was assessed with two ounces of "silver plate," two horses, ten cattle, the Joseph Mountain lots and "White Oak Spring."

In the census of 1800, he was listed as head of a family of ten, residing on Negro Mountain.

Archibald Thistle resided on his farm in what is now Garrett county. The farm is now owned by George Sloan. He reared a large family of daughters. He was justice of the peace for many years and was County Commissioner, 1825-1829. In 1839, Archibald Thistle and his wife Julia A. Thistle deeded their property, then 301 acres, to Daniel Miller, of Somerset county, Pa., for $6,000. They then moved to Missouri.

The Thistle Hotel.

Thomas Thistle was admitted to the bar in Cumberland nt the July, 1809, term of Court. Jacob Brown wrote of him:

"Not finding the practice of law congenial, he withdrew from it and embarked in the mercantile business in Cumberland. . . . after that he again went to the mountains and for many years kept a famous hotel on the National Road about three miles west of Grantsville. As such he was well known to all the great statesmen of the West. Clay was his favorite. He was a Whig of the bluest kind."

The Thistle Hotel was on the South side of the National Road (U. S. Route 40), about twenty feet west of the present residence of Joel A. Beachy. The Beachy house was built by Aaron Beachy in 1872. Thistle's tavern was a large two-story building of white pine logs with a frame annex. It had a stone chimney on the South side and another on the East side. The foundations were hand-dressed stone. There was a wide porch along the whole front facing the Pike. Water was brought from a spring across the road and from a dug well by the tavern. The old Mountain tavern was a short distanse South of the Braddock Road.

When the Thistle tavern was torn down in 1890, the pine logs were in a good state of preservation.

It appears that Thomas Thistle never owned the Thistle Hotel. It was probably built by his brother Archibald about 1816 when the National Road was completed through this neighborhood. Of Thomas it was said:

"With a name somewhat rasping in its import, Thistle had a smooth tongue and mild manner, and furnished excellent entertainment for the traveling public." But Mr. Beachy's large modern house on the same site furnishes even better entertainment today than Henry Clay enjoyed there a hundred years ago.

The Thistle Family.

Thomas Thistle, in 1808, married Juliana Cresap (1791-1851). They had thirteen children, of whom Minerva, Emily and Lucretia married Cresaps. His son, Archibald Braddock, married Margaret Tomlinson. Rebecca married her cousin, George Thistle. Lavinia went to California, and Harriet to Mississippi. Of the three sons, Loxley, the oldest, was finely educated and became a member of the county bar, but like most young men with indulgent and comfortable parents, he was not a success as a lawyer. He left home and went to Louisiana, where he married the daughter of a wealthy planter. They had eleven children. Today the Thistles grow well in the South.

Thomas Thistle, of the Inn, died about the year 1856 in Cumberland. Ofh is brother John we have no further record. Sampson went to Virginia on the Ohio and married a Tomlinson.

In 1797, George Thistle bought a house and lot in Cumberland. One of his three sons was George P. Thistle, who married Rebecca Thistle and died in his seventy-third year, in 1886, at his residence in Grantsville.

The Dehaven Hotel

We have already noted that in 1839 Archibald Thistle sold out to Daniel Miller, of Pennsylvania. Possibly Thomas Thistle continued to operate the hotel until 1849, when Gabriel and Jacob Miller, of Pennsylvania deeded 65 acres of the property, including the hotel, to William Dehaven, for $2475. Dehaven operated the hotel, then known as the Dehaven Hotel, until 1851, when he and his wife, Sarah, deeded it to Aaron and Catherine Beachy, parents of the present genial owner, Joel A. Beachy.

So endeth the story of the Thistle Hotel.

The Thistle Graveyard

One of the old abandoned graveyards of Garrett county is South of the Braddock Road, just across the hollow from the site of the Mountain and William Thistle homes at the White Oak Spring, where Washington refreshed himself in 1784.

Several of the hewn sand-stone grave markers are dated, the oldest being "J. T., 1805." Another is "W. T., October 12, 1825." This probably marks the grave of the pioneer William Thistle. Other markers dated are:

"Thomas Selby, died April 25, 1825."

"S. Selby, August 13, 1819."

"Daniel McCoy, who departed this life June 18th, 1816, aged 35 years." (Probably a traveler).

"G. T., May 10, 1807."

A Masonic square and compass above a name which appears to be "Dehaven."

The Selbys buried here reminds us that Jane, a daughter of William Thistle, in 1796, married Samuel Selby III, one of the early lawyers of the Allegany county bar, and, if our memory serves us well, once a judge of the Circuit Court.

Sold Down South

Many of the early slave-holders in Western Maryland freed their slaves: comparatively few were sold to the plantation owners farther South. But in the summer of 1818 W. D. Baker, who married Drusilla Tomlinson, and was residing in Adams county, Mississippi, while visiting his father-in-law, Benjamin Tomlinson, of "Wills Town," near Cumberland, bought several Negroes for his plantation.

Jacob Hoffman and David Hoffman, of Cumberland, sold Baker three "mullatto" children, viz.: a boy, aged 17 years, for $650; another boy, aged 11, for $420, and a girl, aged 9, for $315.

From Thomas Thistle, of the Inn, Baker bought a mulata woman named Harriet, aged 20 years, and her two children, to-wit: "A mulata girl named Mariah, aged 5 years, and a black boy named Charles, aged 1 year, all for $700," "which Negroes," wrote Thistle, "I warrant to the said W. D. Baker . . . sound in body and slaves for life."

Also Benjamin Tomlinson, "in consideration of the love and affection" he had for his daughter Drusilla Baker, and for the nominal sum of $5, sold Drusilla "a certain Negro man named Perry, thirty-one years old."

Nemesis, The Negro, Enters The Shades Of Death.

"The History of the Cresaps," by Bernard Cresap, tells the story of Negro Mountain as follows:

"Colonel Thomas Cresap again set out (from Oldtown) with his volunteer rillemen, his two remaining sons, Daniel and Michael, among them. Colonel Cresap owned a Negro of giant stature called Nemesis. In mustering his company, the Colonel said: 'Nemesis, you are a good shot; won't you go with us this time and help us conquer the Indians who are murdering and scalping women and children and burning their cabins?'

"Nemesis considered for a few minutes, and then said: 'Yes, Massa Tom; I go but I won't come back.'

"'Why, Nemesis, why say you that? You are a sure shot and fearless.'

"'Massa Tommie, Nemesis sure shot and afraid of nothing, and he not come back. I say I go and I not come back.'

"His premonition was correct. In the mountains west of Cumberland they encountered a band of savages and the brave slave was among the first to fall, and now and forever the mountain where he died is called Negro Mountain."

According to Cresap, this fight with the Indians took place in 1756, during the French and Indian War. Nemacolin's Path, widened by Braddock's Army the previous year, passed thru the Little Shades of Death and over Negro Mountain. Nemesis was killed near the foot of the mountain. He entered the Shades of Death and did not come back.

LOCAL MEN VISIT FORD ROUGE PLANT

H. H. Speicher, Wm. Winterberg, Scot Holiday and Fay L. Miller, of Motor Service Company, local Ford dealers of Grantsville, are shown here in front of the Ford Rotunda in a group with some of the other 200 Mercury dealers and salesmen from Pittsburgh territory who participated in a mass driveaway of 185 new Mercury cars recently. The Ford Rotunda is the hospitality building for the tens of thousands who visit the Rouge plant each year. Before driving the new cars back home the party also toured famous Greenfield Village and the Edison Institute Museum.

ANOTHER LAME DUCK

By appointing New Dealer David J. Lewis of Marylaud to the National Mediation Board, President Roosevelt has found a safe refuge for another lame duck. Former Representative Lewis was badly defeated last November in his race against Democratic Senator Millard Tydings, despite the fact that President Roosevelt himself made several speeches in the interest of Mr. Lewis' candidacy.

The appointing of 100 per cent New Deal "yes men" who have been rejected by the voters at the polls to high and lucrative government offices has become a habit with the President. The people of New Hampshire turned down Senator Fred H. Brown in favor of Republican Senator Chas. W. Tobey, but President Roosevelt gave him the $10,000 a year job of Comptroller General of the United States. Frank Murphy, who was defeated for re-election as Governor of Michigan, largely on his stand during the sit-down strikes, was made Attorney General of the United States—the supreme law enforcement officer of the land.

In addition to these men, the President has, since November, put James P. Pope, former Senator from Idaho, into a place on the Board of the TVA. He has appointed Edward C. Eicher, former Congressman from Iowa, to the Securities and Exchange Commission; Alfred F. Beiter, former Congressman from New York, as Special Assistant Works Progress Administrator; William G. McAdoo, former Senator from California, appointed Chairman of the Board of Government controlled Dollar Steamship Lines at $25,000 a year; and Thomas R. Amlie, former Congressman from Wisconsin, appointed, but not confirmed, to a place on the Interstate Commerce Commission.

And, in view of the verdict of last November's elections on "politics in relief," the selection of Harry L. Hopkins as Secretary of Commerce, might be termed the lamest duck appointment of them all.

Germany was without Whitsunday religious programs on the air. The country has banned radio broadcasts of religious services and the Nazi government also is putting a curb on the sale of Bibles and church tracts.

MT. LAKE PARK

Tuesday—Decoration Day—was a very quiet day in the Park. Many out of town folks spent the day here with friends and relatives. The weather was ideal and there were many cars on the Park roads.

Town Election Coming

In July, Mountain Lake Park residents and those owning property will vote for members of council and a mayor of the town. We understand that there are already two tickets in the making. One ticket, so reported, to be supported by the present administration; another being a new group. This group will no doubt have the names of two women on its ticket to run for members of council. At least that is what we are told. Things are certainly starting early in the campaign.

Improvements at the Postoffice

The postoffice building is getting its share of the spring renovation—both inside and outside. More space has been made for the handling of mail and the building is being painted. It has a new green roof and new approaches, not to mention the grounds around the building which Miss O'Donnell is beautifying. It all looks very, very nice.

Woodmen Of The World

Garrett Camp, No. 44, W. O. W., will celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary on Tuesday evening, June 6 at 8 o'clock in the I.O.O.F. Hall. A feature of this meeting will be the presentation of honor badges. These are given in recognition of twenty-five years' service and membership in this lodge. The following members will receive these honors: Henry L. Gibson, Willie S. Friend, R. O. Friend, B. H. Friend, John W. Ream, Joseph Cook, R. E. Bittinger, O. W. Bittinger, T. C. Bittinger, John Savage, B. H. Long, E. S. Sombower, George O. Sweitzer, Albert T. Shockey. The principal address of the evening will be made by E. A. Olsen, Washington, D. C. Mr. Olsen is State manager of the organization.

U. B. Church Notes

There will be a joint meeting of the members of all the appointments on the United Brethren Circuit on Sunday, June 4, at 7:30 p. m. at the U. B. church in Loch Lynn. Mr. B. L. Barton, of Clarksburg, will speak.

Anti-Tuberculosis Campaign To Continue In Maryland

Completed Christmas Seal Sale returns from the various counties of Maryland show that the last winter's sale was successful enough to assure every county in the state its regular chest clinics and anti-tuberculosis program. The state-wide work of the Maryland Tuberculosis association will be continued without curtailment.

William B. Matthews, managing director of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association, said "The tuberculosis death rate in Maryland is still high in comparison with the death rates of the majority of our states.

Senator Vandenberg, Michigan Republican, announced he would accept the nomination for president, if it comes to him, but would not actively seek it. The next Republican nominee should be pledged to one term, he states.

Wilbur Shaw, veteran Indianapolis driver, won the 500-mile auto race over the speedway on Memorial day. Floyd Roberts, another driver, lost his life when his car wrecked.

Governor O'Conor, in a Memorial Day address at Denton, urged Marylanders to be "eternally prepared" and to be "alert to . . . subversive doctrines."

ATTENTION WOOL GROWERS!

It is a fact that with over 500 sheepmen in Garrett county it is impossible for a member of the Cooperative Marketing Committee to see each one individually, which makes it necessary to use this means of contacting you.

All wool will be loaded at Oakland, Md., June 12 and 13, and sold directly to the United Wool Growers Association on a non-profit basis.

The wool will not be graded except for reject fleeces, which consist of black fleeces, wool tied with binding twine, dead wool and burry wool.

This wool is sold on direct sale and you will receive your check on one of the Oakland banks at the car door.

Due to a number of reasons, prices will not be given out until the June 8th issue of this paper, but you are assured of the highest possible market value due to the direct non-profit sale.

You are urged to tie your wool with paper twine, but this is not compulsory. Sacks and twine may be obtained direct from me at Gormania, W. Va., or from Charley Miller, Friendsville, or Orval Stark, Avilton; or you may use your own bags and exchange at car door.

If you have any further questions call or write any of the above.

GARRETT COUNTY FARM BUREAU.

VOLUME 63. OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND, JUNE 8, 1939. NUMBER 15.

FULL FESTIVAL PROGRAM JULY 2-9, IS ANNOUNCED

Starts With Peace Jubilee On Deep Creek Lake; Balance Of Program at Mt. Lake Park

CHOIR CONTESTS LISTED

Starting with the Peace Jubilee on Sunday, July 2, at McComas Beach, on Deep Creek Lake, and continuing until Sunday afternoon, July 9, the sixth season of the Mountain Choir Festival Association will bring a noted musical program to this area.

The Peace Jubilee is being sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake Association, and some of the music to be sung by the Festival choir was used in the World's Peace Jubilee in Boston in 1872. At McComas Beach at sundown, July 2, one will hear choral music relating to world peace, introduced by a brass choir playing medieval chorales on the opposite shore. Choral units from Johnstown, Pa.; the Potomac Valley and the Tableland will sing under the direction of Rev. Felix G. Robinson. The Matin choir, Johnstown, Pa., under Harriett Weigle Nicely, will sing a group, and Rabbi Morris Lazaron, Baltimore, will make the address. COUNCIL APPROVES RATE FOR ELECTRIC CURRENT

Town Will Get More Lighting for Amount of Money Now Paid

Approval of the proposition of the West Maryland Power Company for a reduction in rate for electric current which would give the town better illumination for the same amount of money, was given by the Mayor and Town Council at their regular monthly meeting Monday evening.

A contract covering this rate reduction will be drawn up within the next few days. The contract will protect the town, providing the general rate through the territory is ever reduced within the next twenty years.

The matter of lighting was presented to Council at a special meeting recently. The proposition would give the town 88 250-Watt lights, instead of 100-Watt lights now in use. In addition there would be 7 400-Watt and 10 600-Watt lights in the business section, making it considerably lighter than at present, with no additional cost.

Council named John J. Sweeney as day policeman and extra policeman on Saturday nights. The new officer was instructed by Council to enforce the two-hour parking law.

The treasurer's report showed on hand $4,511.76, of which $2,200 was in a sinking fund. Bills amounting to $3,055.23 were ordered paid. This item includes one water and sewerage bond of $1000 and interest coupons amounting to $835 on the water bonds still outstanding. Current bills amounted to $1,220 and the clerk's report showed a balance of $1,100. Collected items of the month were $570 for delinquent taxes and for the 1939 taxes $482.86, while city licenses and beer licenses brought to the treasury $522 each.

Funds received from the Sunday movie tax for May amounted to $64.55.

MAN LEAPS TO SAFETY AS FRANTZ HOTEL COLLAPSES

Clifford Smith, Only Workman In Building, Jumps Thru Window

By leaping from a second-floor window of the Frantz Hotel, Clifford Smith, employed in razing the structure, narrowly escaped possible death or serious injury Tuesday afternoon about 1:30 o'clock, when the partially demolished building collapsed and fell with a loud crash.

As it was feared there were other workmen in the building the Oakland Firemen were summoned, but fortunately Smith was the only person at work at the time. He related of hearing the timbers in the lower part of the building crack, attended by a swaying motion of the structure, and as he was near an open window he used this method of escape only momentarily when the collapse came.

The falling timbers covered a small portion of the westbound tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and a portion of the platform, but this was soon cleared away.

The work of razing the building is in charge of A. C. Winters, and some of the lumber had been removed, while there were several stacks of it on the second floor.

HELPING (?) SMALL BUSINESS

The New Deal is currently manifesting heart-breaking solicitude for the little fellows in the business world. If motivated by something more than fear for 1940, this is laudable, if belated. But if it is a stripe with New Deal "cooperation" with big business, the little fellows may devoutly pray to be delivered from their "friends."

Small business has every reason to be skeptical of this sudden New Deal interest. And this skepticism will not be abated by the parading of New Deal stooges before the Monopoly Committee which involved economic theories which are Greek to the small business man.

The little fellow knows that the New Deal long since could have bettered his lot by revision of the intricate Federal tax structure. He knows that the President has consistently refused to take the lead in this. He also knows that even at this late day the President has done nothing more than to "consent" reluctantly to tax revision when pressure from business and the Congress made any other course impossible.

Business men, big and little, are not opposed to an equitable corporation tax. They have become familiar with it; they find it relatively simple and easy to compute. But they are heavily burdened when on top of the corporation income tax they are required to compute and file returns on an undistributed profits tax, a capital stock tax, an excess profits tax, an unemployment compensation tax, an old age pension insurance tax and various sales and nuisance excises and other levies, Federal, State and local.

Because of the complicated Federal tax requirements, the heads of large corporations find it necessary to keep lawyers and accountants at their elbows and consult them on nearly every management decision.

Many medium-sized corporations spend more money on tax accounting, legal advice and extra bookkeeping than they pay in taxes.

The real "little fellows" can't afford all of this extra high-priced help. They have to do their own wrestling with the multitude of tax problems and returns—and that doesn't leave them much time to devote to their job of running their businesses.

They are not interested in prolonged committee investigations which get nowhere. They are demanding the removal of obvious handicaps NOW!

MARRIED

KELLER—MOON—Mr. and Mrs. J. Timothy Moon, of Mountain Lake Park, announce the marriage of their daughter, Sarah Louise, to Mr. Arnold L. Keller, on Saturday afternoon, May 27, 1939, at their home. Rev. Gregory Bleakly, of the Methodist church, was the officiating minister, the ceremony being performed in the presence of the immediate members of the bride's family.

The bride was gowned in a rose print dress with black accessories and carried a corsage of gardenias.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Keller left by automobile for Norfolk, Va., and from there they traveled by boat to New York City to visit the World's Fair. Upon their return they will make their home in Morgantown.

Mrs. Keller attended State Teachers College at Harrisonburg, Va., for two years and was graduated from West Virginia Wesleyan College, at Buckhannon, class of '37, with a bachelor of science degree in Home Economics. She was a graduate of Oakland High school.

Mrs. Keller had been employed as home economist of the Elkins division of the Monongahela West Penn Public Service Company for more than a year, going to Elkins from Morgantown, where she was similarly employed for several months.

Mr. Keller received his bachelor of science degree from Ohio State University and his master's degree from West Virginia University or Morgantown. He is a member of the faculty of West Virginia University as State Extension Horticulturalist.

STANTON—RICHTER—Miss Mildred Richter and Paul Gnagey Stanton, both of Brooklyn, N. Y., were quietly married at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Urban Stanton, Grantsville, on Sunday evening, June 4, at 8:00 o'clock. The Rev. Alvin J. Forry, who officiated, used the ring ceremony.

The bride came down the stairway at the home on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She was attired in a gown of white satin and carried a bouquet of white calla lilies and larkspur. Her waist-length tulle veil was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. Mrs. Harvey Stanton, sister-in-law of the groom, served as matron of honor. Her frock was of peach colored taffeta and she carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses and blue larkspur. Harvey Stanton was his brother's best man.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Pearl Hershberger sang "I Love You Truly." She was accompanied at the organ by Norman Hay Gnagey, cousin of the groom, who also played the wedding march, "The Bridal Chorus," from Lohengrin.

The bride and groom stood beneath a bower of mock orange blossoms to take their vows. Orange blossoms and larkspur also provided the decorations for the remainder of the house.

Only the members of the immediate family and intimate friends were present. A reception was held following the ceremony.

Mrs. Stanton is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Richter, Brooklyn, N. Y. She attended the Brooklyn schools and for some time has been employed by a refrigerating company at Long Island City.

Mr. Stanton is a native of Grantsville. He attended Grantsville schools, graduating from the high school in 1924. For the past twelve years he has been connected with the Western Union Telegraph Co. at New York City.

After the reception the bride and groom left for a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., and points in Maryland and Pennsylvania. They will make their home in Brooklyn.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. August Richter, Albert Gingrass, John Gingrass, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Harold E. Stanton, Jersey City, N. J.; Mrs. W. H. Powell, Sr., Fayetteville, N. C.; Captain and Mrs. William H. Powell, Hot Springs, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Stanton, Aurora, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. A. Ernest Livengood, Miss Jane Livengood, Mr. and Mrs. Byard Maust and daughter Betty and Patty, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey H. Maust, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Keim, all of Salisbury, Pa.; Miss Pearl Hershberger, Meyersdale; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Gnagey and family and Mary Hay, St. Paul; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stanton, Mr. and Mrs. Byron H. Bender, Mrs. Lena S. Bender, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Loechel, Mr. and Mrs. Casper Loechel, Mrs. C. C. Beachy, Mrs. Ollie E. Loechel, Miss Ruth Stanton, Mrs. T. D. Maurer, all of Grantsville.

Card Of Thanks

We desire to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our neighbors and friends who were so kind and helpful following the sudden death of our husband and father, the late Duncan D. Adams.

We also want to extend our thanks to those who gave flowers and donated the use of their automobiles for the funeral service.

Her Marriage Announced

MRS. ARNOLD L. KELLER

GRANTSVILLE

Sermon To The Graduates

Rev. Alvin J. Forry, pastor of St. John's Reformed church, delivered the sermon to the graduates Sunday morning in the school auditorium. The chief thought of the sermon was that altho knowledge, health, wealth and intelligence are essentials in this life, a pure heart and a willing mind are more important. "Only when we have these two qualities of personality, a pure heart having right motives and a willing mind earnestly seeking for Truth which only God can reveal, does one get genuine satisfaction, only when we put our all in Jesus, surrendering ourselves to Him."

The graduates wore navy blue caps and gowns. The stage was decorated with flowers and ferns.

Class Night Program

Rodney Patton was master of ceremonies at the "radio" program at the Class Night Tuesday, at which many attended. The class jester, Vernon R. Reichenbecher, featured prominently. Talks were given by Bonnie Jane Bills, president; John Baumgarten, Grace Swauger, poet, who introduced each member in rhyme; Ralph Swauger, historian; Grace Hanft, prophet; Paul McKenzie, class athlete; Lucille Patton, class artist, who distributed cartoons of each of the graduates; and Carl Broadwater, testator. There were also other features.

Keyser Here Sunday

The Grantsville ball club will be host to the Keyser Reds on Sunday at 2:45 at Little Crossings. Keyser was the champion last year, decided after a play-off game with Grantsville. Again Keyser is leading the loop. At the end of the first round of games Grantsville has been defeated by Keyser and has won two out of five games. The locals are out to win.

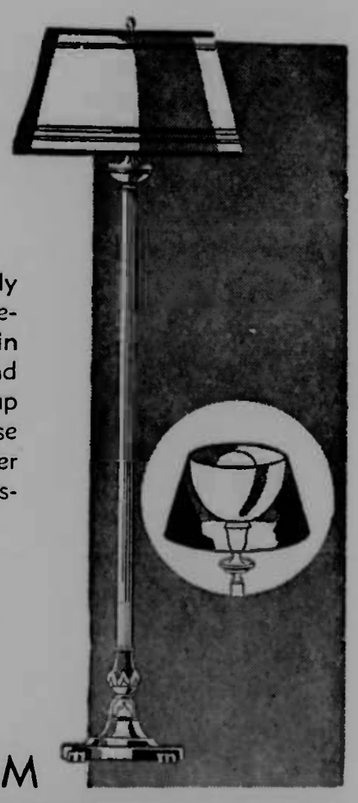
I. E. S. BETTER SIGHT LAMPS

These long evenings of "half-light" can be very bad for eyes. Don't make the mistake of using old, or dim lamps during these long evenings. Total darkness comes so slowly now that it is very, very easy to strain the eyes before one notices that the natural light has faded. Be sure your I. E. S. Lamps are lighted before you fatigue your eyes.



I. E. S. Better Sight Lamps are scientifically designed to spread a flood of strong, but glareless light throughout the room. They come in floor and table models, in several designs, and at a wide price range. There are also pin-up styles that are low priced and attractive. These are ideal for supplementary use with the larger lamps. See these lamps at any Monongahela System store or at your dealer's showroom.

SUMMER'S COMING! Warm sun — deep shade — buzzing bees — long, lazy days inviting you to take it easy!

Gonna fall for that? Well, maybe — if that car in your driveway is just a run-of-mine job. But suppose it's a Buick — then what?

Then, good sir, you're in for an active summer. A summer of going places, seeing sights — and having some honest-to-goodness fun!

You'll boss around a brilliant Dynaflash straight-eight engine as thrilling to handle as a flyrod.

You'll go exploring over the little-traveled back trails — and soft springs of coiled steel will cradle every jolt and jar. You'll look out to the far horizons through windows wider, and bigger — there's as much as 412 square inches more space to make your outlook easier.

Yes, you'll pilot a carriage that's staunch and snug and firm beneath you — yet every nudge of your treadle foot gives instant-quick action that'll bring a grin of deep delight.

This far-ranging beauty is not only the car of the year for performance, but the value of the year. It's priced lower than a year ago — lower than you'd think to see it — lower even than some sixes!

Mrs. Grace M. Sprague, of Purcellville, Va., came to Oakland last Thursday to remain during the summer with Miss Daisy Harrison at her home on the Mountain Lake road. Miss Harrison, after being in Washington, D. C., during the winter, arrived in Oakland the first of the present week.

Mrs. Nell Boardman and her son William, who have been residing in Buckhannon, W. Hearing that fish—big fish—can be cnught in the State of Montana, Bruce Smouse and Skippy May left Oakland last Thursday for that section of the United States, all set to remain for some time. Now the reason why these Nimrods went so far to fish is easily explained. The other day Skippy was fortunate enough to catch a fourteen inch brook trout in one of the streams feeding Deep Creek Lake, but it was not as large one hooked a few days previous by Harry Mickey. In other words Skippy wants to outdo Harry as an angler, but he has gone a long way from home to do it.

Mrs. Clift P. Berger left Oakland on Tuesday morning for a visit of several days with her mother in Waterford, Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kley and two sons were in Elkins, West Va., over Sunday where they visited Mrs. Kley's parents.

MT. TOP APPARENTLY IS IN FOR A BUSY SEASON

Appeal Of Climate And Scenery, Augmented By Planned Activities, Expected To Draw Many

SUMMER PLANS OUTLINED

Garrett county still has its strong appeal to vacationists and tourists, and the activities planned for the mountain top this summer all combine to give indications that many thousands will visit here during the next three or four months.

When the mode of the vacationist changed, early in the century, the summer activity on the mountain top remained at a standstill for a number of years, but there are many evidences now that the modern methods of travel, along with the advantages the county already had to offer, plus Deep Creek Lake, are bringing a "renewed birth" to this area.

While there are quite a number of summer visitors who still come early and spend the entire season here and at Mountain Lake Park, yet the majority of visitors use their automobiles and drive to this area on weekends and for special occasions and holidays.

During one Sunday last year it was estimated that over 15,000 visitors were on the mountain top to attend a beauty contest on the Lake, see the Swallow Falls area and to participate in a camp meeting at Mountain Lake Park.

Following the reassessment of real estate and improvements made thereon it was declared that valuation of property around Deep Creek Lake had increased $80,000 during 1938, much of this due to the erection of new cottages and other forms of construction. There are now nearly 300 cottages on the lake shore which are occupied most of the summer.

Sailboat races are held weekly on the Lake and commercial places along its shores and in Oakland are continually improving their properties for the purpose of attracting visitors.

Summer camps have their part in making this area more widely known. Camps for boys, for girls and for adults are held annually at Thousand Acres, under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Winslow. Their season opens this year July 1. Camps Minnetoska and Whitethorn, for girls and boys, located near Hutton and owned by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hansen, of Baltimore, attract about 75 campers each year who remain until early in September. These camps will be open on or before July 1.

The opening of cabins by the Forestry Department in the Savage and Potomac forests is calculated to attract many, while Muddy Creek and Swallow Falls will continue to entice their quota of thousands each week. Since the CCC enrollees made this spot more accessible, many hundreds visit it each week.

Besides the climate, pure air and one hundred per cent pure water, with gorgeous mountain scenery on every hand which attract people to this area there are other activities expected to assist materially in this.

A bathing beauty contest, boat regatta and water carnival are scheduled to be held nt Stone Tavern and Cabin Lodge, Deep Creek Lake, on Sunday, July 16. A peace jubilee is scheduled for McComas Beach, Deep Creek Lake, on July 2, followed with a week's program of the Mountain Choir Festival at Mountain Lake Park, culminating in the various choir contests on Sunday, July 9.

At Mountain Lake Park also will be held the Interdenominational School of Missions, July 19-26, which brings to the mountain a large number of interested young people and many older ones.

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department is planning for a week of celebration during the week of July 3 to 8.

Oakland's municipal golf course, opened last year, is continuing to attract more and more people and is open daily throughout the season with a competent pro in charge.

Taken as a whole the mountain top appears to be in for a busy summer. And there are very few permanent residents who will object to that.

A reunion of the Snyder family will be held on Sunday, June 25, at the home of Solomon Snyder, about one mile from the Sunnyside school house. Everybody is invited to be present, Mr. Snyder said this morning.

SEARCH IS BEING MADE FOR ELLWOOD HINEBAUGH

Disappeared From His Home In Oakland last Thursday; Family Fear He May Have Drowned

WAS TAKEN TO THE LAKE

Ellwood Hinebaugh, about 38 years old, has been missing from his home in Oakland since last Thursday evening and members of his family are greatly concerned over his whereabouts.

He was reported to have been depressed and melancholy for some time and it is feared he may have attempted to take his life. He is known to have asked several people to drive him to Deep Creek Lake on Thursday evening and finally found Paul Jordan who consented to take him to Cabin Lodge.

Jordan then returned to his home here and apparently no one about the Lake has seen him since that time. Becoming greatly alarmed his family began a search early this week, and on Tuesday people began to scan the shores of the Lake around Cabin Lodge. Yesterday and today quite a number of local people augmented by members of the CCC have been searching that vicinity, along the shore and in boats.

A business man reported this morning that he felt sure he had spoken to Mr. Hinebaugh either Monday or Tuesday morning about 8 o'clock, on Second street, but on one else seems to have seen him and he hasn't been at his home since last Thursday.

BASS SEASON OPENS JULY 1 THROUGHOUT MARYLAND

Trout Fishing Ends At Same Time, Except In Parts of County

Trout fishing ends in all sections of Maryland except in parts of Garrett county, at sundown on June 30, and the fishing season for bass will then be opened.

The special exceptions in trout fishing are in force in Garrett county because the water here is cooler and a longer time is thereby required for the fish to become active and self-protective following the spawning season.

It will be lawful to fish for trout in Deep Creek Lake until October 31, and in the Youghiogheny River below Swallow Falls until November 30. The bass season, which opens on Saturday, July 1, will continue until midnight, November 30, except in Deep Creek Lake, where it will close on October 31. The lake is closed to all fishing from November 1 to April 15.

Trout taken from Deep Creek Lake must be not less than 8 inches long and bass 9 inches long, while in other streams trout must be not less than 7 inches and bass 10 inches. Fishing is permitted in Deep Creek Lake on Sundays.

Garrett County Competitors Score Seven Points In Meet At Frederick

Garrett county youths scored seven points in the Western Shore track and field meet at Frederick last Friday with a first and third place in the junior unlimited jumps.

Frank Kley, Jr., won the high jump with a leap of 5 feet 2 inches, while Raymond Chaney won third place in the broad jump. Both winners were from Oakland High school.

Anne Arundel county piled up 76 points to win the meet and Allegany county was second with 71½ points.

Seventeen records fell as 1500 of Maryland's youths competed.

Third place went to Baltimore county with Montgomery county fourth. There was a new record set in the junior unlimited running broad jump, Schnebley, Washington county, winning with a leap of 19 feet 6¼ inches.

About a hundred winners of boys' and girls' events at the county track meet at Accident went to Frederick to participate in the events there.

Local Strawberries Plentiful

During the past week or ten days locally grown strawberries have been on the market and the supply seems to be average or better.

Most of the berries are of good size and the flavor is unexcelled. It is the concensus of opinion among Oakland people that locally grown berries are much better flavored than those coming from a distance.

Bushels of the berries have been brought into Oakland where they are finding a ready sale at ten cents per quart and homemakers have been taking advantage of the quantity and prevailing price to preserve what they need for this coming winter's table use.

Of course the strawberry shortcake has not been forgotten, and many of the berries are being consumed in the usual manner—with cream.

Yacht Club Races Marked By Thrills On Deep Creek Lake

Yacht club races on Deep Creek Lake Sunday were marked by thrills as four of eight entries capsized on account of the stiff wind. The Lollypep, owned hy Paul L. Geer, Pittsburgh, and Catalog II, owned by John B. Mordock, Cumberland, divided honors at the program of races.

All in all, ten yachtmen, most of them juniors, were dumped into the white-capped waters of the lake, but were promptly picked up by Dr. Frank M. Wilson's cruiser.

YOUTH DROWNS IN SILVER LAKE; FRIEND IS RESCUED

Edward Blizzard, 22, Bayard, W. Va., Sinks Suddenly Beneath Surface After Boat Capsizes

HAROLD FULK IS SAVED

Edward Blizzard, 22, a native of Bayard, W. Va., but who has been employed recently at Shriver's garage in Cumberland, was drowned yesterday afternoon in Silver Lake, 15 miles south of Oakland, on route 219, when the motorboat in which he and a companion were riding capsized.

Blizzard suddenly sank out of sight following the upset, although he was reported to have been an unusually strong swimmer. His companion, Harold Fulk, also of Bayard, and also employed in the Shriver garage, was rescued by Roy Shank, who was on shore and who immediately went to the rescue of Fulk when he saw Blizzard strike out for shore with strong, sure strokes.

While Shank was engaged in saving Fulk, people on the shore saw Blizzard falter while swimming toward shore and suddenly sink. He failed to come up.

Boats were rushed to the spot where Blizzard disappeared and a number of swimmers dived repeatedly for the youth. The Oakland Fire department was finally called but the body had been recovered by the time it arrived. Blizzard disappeared at 3 p. m., and the body was not recovered until 6:50 p. m. The Oakland department was called at 6:30.

It was believed that the youth either had cramps or a heart attack. The body was taken to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Blizzard, at Bnyard.

According to Mrs. Ora E. Sounders, Blizzard's landlady in Cumberland, the youth left her home Tuesday night contemplating a trip to the lake with his buddy, Fulk. Wednesday is their day off. It was reported that both Fulk and Blizzard were fond of going to the little lake. The Cumberland News reported this morning that although Blizzard had not been in Cumberland very long he was popular and well liked both at his rooming house and at the garage where he worked, being known to many people including truckers, state troopers and members of Cumberland's police force.

The school will be under the direction of Dr. W. S. Patterson, with Dr. A. B. Leamer in charge of the worship services. The school will continue for two weeks, closing on Sunday, July 2, with a special program.

There will be no registration fee, but an offering will be taken as in previous years during the last week of the school. The work is supported in the main by the offerings taken in in the churches at the time of the union Lenten services. A fine corps of teachers will direct the work of the classes and the leaders are confident that the school will be one of the best. All children are invited and parents are being urged to cooperate in sending their children next Monday at 9 o'clock.

New Germany Resident Injured In Automobile Accident

Lorraine Otto, of the New Germany community, sustained a badly fractured right arm in an automobile accident Sunday afternoon, as Matthew E. Martin, Jr., driver, was attempting to drive through the gateway into the baseball field at Little Crossings, east of Grantsville.

The automobile for some unaccountable cause skidded over an embankment and overturned in the overflow from the Stanton mill race. The car was badly damaged.

Martin, the driver, and Ellis Durst, another occupant, escaped with only minor cuts and bruises. Otto was taken to the office of a Grantsville physician, who reduced the fracture.

Another accident occurred in the same locality early Sunday morning when a car in which Raymond Failinger and James Schaefer, of Grantsville district, were riding, struck a culvert head near the Motor Service Company's Garage in Grantsville. Neither occupant was seriously injured, but the car was damaged to the extent of approximately $250.

Headlines on Monday told that the King and Queen of England ate hot dogs and drank beer at Hyde Park at the Roosevelt home.

Now wasn't that a dainty dish to set before a king—or queen?

Seems like the Queen and Mrs. Roosevelt never could agree on the kind of dress to wear—at least that is what pictures in the newspapers show. Whenever the Queen wore a long dress Mrs. Roosevelt would have on a short one, and vice versa.

A Vacation Thought

If your nose is close to the grindstone rough,
And you hold it down
there long enough
In time you'll say
there's no such thing
As brooks that babble and birds that sing.
These three will all your world compose:
Just you, the stone and your darned old nose.

An Important Local Item

Russ Brown attended a circus in Uniontown last Wednesday. Since that time he has been going around with his right foot bandaged.

Although he says he banged it against a rock in front of his home, circumstantial evidence would tend to make us believe that perhaps he was playing with the monkeys at the circus and an elephant stepped on his foot.—Or he may have been watering them, and keeping some yearning boy from getting into the performance in that way.

Oakland Wins Final Game

In the final game of the season, Oakland High school's baseball team defeated Kitzmiller 5 to 4 on the local diamond on Tuesday afternoon. Kitzmiller took a 2-0 lead early in the game, but Oakland tied the score in the third, and three additional runs in the fifth inning clinched the game.

Oakland ended the season with an even break with all six schools played, winning and losing one game with each school.

ADVICE GIVEN TO KEEP BABIES WELL IN SUMMER

Regular Visit of Doctor Suggested, Even If Baby Appears Well

As the thermometer shows signs of climbing higher and higher some of the ways by which babies may be kept well and comfortable during the hot weather and may be safeguarded against "summer complaint" and other summer illnesses are outlined below by Dr. J. H. M. Knox, Jr., chief of the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the Maryland State Department of Public Health.

"The best way to keep your baby well," Dr. Knox said in his message to mothers, "is to take your well baby to your doctor regularly for advice and supervision, and to follow the doctor's instructions carefully and very faithfully. If your baby develops any digestive trouble, call your doctor, at once. He'll tell you what to do.

"Summer complaint, or cholera infantum, as it is sometimes called, and other digestive diseases that are so dangerous for babies are germ diseases. The germs that cause the disease get into the baby's food or in the water given the baby to drink. Babies who are nursed by their mothers and who are given cooled, boiled, water to drink, are protected from these sources of danger. Care should be taken not to wean a baby in hot weather except under a doctor's orders.

"If mother's milk is not available, the best substitute for it is fresh cow's milk or unsweetened evaporated milk mixed with an equal quantity of water. If sugar or additional water is needed, it should be mixed with the milk according to your doctor's directions. All milk or milk mixtures given to children up to two years of age should be boiled. The feedings should be kept in individual bottles and kept on ice until used. Each feeding should be warmed as needed.

"Always wash the hands thoroughly before preparing the baby's food, and before handling the baby's bottle. All dishes, pans, pots, bottles and nipples should be sterilized by boiling.

"Throw out any milk left in the bottle after feeding. Don't leave the bottle in the baby's crib or carriage. It will only attract dirt or flies. Rinse out the bottle; put the nipple aside, and see that both are sterilized by boiling before using again.

"Be very careful to protect the baby and the baby's food against flies. Flies are great sources of danger. They are often carriers of the disease germs that cause some of the most serious illnesses babies have. Keep a supply of clean mosquito netting on hand to throw over the baby's crib or carriage while the baby sleeps.

"Some of the diarrheal diseases that grown-ups have are catching. Keep the baby away from people—both children and grown-ups—who are suffering from such diseases.

"If your baby is suffering from diarrheal trouble, don't let it run on. Call your doctor. If you haven't a doctor, ask your County Health Officer to send a public health nurse to your home. She will be glad to assist you in every way possible."

VACCINATION AGAINST TYPHOID FEVER ADVISED

State Health Officer Riley Thus Addresses Vacationists

"If you have not been vaccinated against typhoid fever within the last year or two, go to your doctor or the nearest health officer and have him give you the three 'shots' that will protect you against that disease." This advice comes from Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, and is addressed especially to young people—boy and girl scouts, camp fire girls, hiking clubs, campers, and trailer tourists—but it also applies to all others, not protected against against typhoid, who are making plans for out-of-doors, away from home, activities, for auto trips or for holiday tours by boat, but, train and even by airplane.

"You take typhoid by way of the mouth," Dr. Riley continued. "Each case comes directly or indirectly from some previous case. You eat or drink the germs that cause the disease, in food, water or milk contaminated by the discharges from persons who are ill with the disease or who have had it at some time.

"The protection of public water supplies from pollution; the pasteurization of milk; inspection and supervision of food supplies; the cooperation of individuals and communities in the sanitary disposal of sewage; the steady improvement in household sanitation and hygienic habits; the careful medical supervision of every case of the disease; study of sources of infection and follow-up of 'carriers' of typhoid, have greatly reduced the danger from the disease. It is much less of a menace than it used to be. But there are still sources of infection to which individuals are exposed that can not be reached by public measures, and for which vaccination affords the only protection.

"Persons who are apparently well, but who have had the disease at some time, may continue to discharge the disease germs. Such persons are known as 'carriers' and if they are not careful in their personal habits—if they do not wash their hands thoroughly after they have been to the toilet, and always before handling or preparing food for others to eat—they are likely to contaminate any food they touch. Flies carry germs from contaminated sewage to food and are another source of danger.

"Health departments, State, city and county, are waging constant warfare against typhoid all the year round. Special efforts are made during the vacation period through the sanitary supervision of summer camps, picnic grounds and public eating places, to reduce any possible danger of vacation typhoid from such sources. Vaccination gives personal protection against the disease.

"So go to your doctor—or the nearest health officer—if you haven't been protected recently against the disease and have it done. It takes some little time for the vaccine to take effect. Don't wait until you are ready to start off. Have that attended to first; then go ahead with your other preparations for your trip."

Ants May Be Controlled By A Number Of Methods

Summer brings problems as well as pleasures and not the least of the problems is the black and red ant which moves in upon the average household at this season of the year. According to Dr. George S. Langford, specialist in Insect Control for the University of Maryland Extension Service, these insects may be controlled in a number of ways.

If the nest can be located by following the rail of the workers to the point of disappearance, the inmates may be destroyed by injecting a little carbon disulphide, kerosene or gasoline into the nest by means of an oil can or small syringe. Still another method is to punch several small holes in the nest or mound with a hoe handle, place two tablespoons of the liquid in each hole and close the opening with moist earth.

Ants in the garden, lawn or home may be controlled with poison baits or mixtures, although it takes longer to effect control by this method. One easily prepared and inexpensive ant poison can be made with one quart of water, 1 pound of sugar, 125 grains of arsenite of soda and 25 grains of tartaric acid. These materials should be boiled together until the arsenite of soda has dissolved. Honey added to the mixture will make it more attractive.

The poison should be placed in a small container which has had holes punched in it; waterproofed pill boxes, clean tin salve boxes, or even small mayonnaise jars make good containers. The pill boxes are waterproofed with hot paraffin on the inside. A sponge or a little excelsior placed in the container will help the ants to reach the sirup and escape with their load of poison. This is a weak poison and will be taken by most house-frequenting ants.

Sometimes the little red ant will not take the poison bait, in which case a mixture of one pint of water, 1 pound of sugar, 3 ounces of honey, 27 grains of Thallium sulfate and 15 grains of Tartaric acid will be found effective. This mixture should be brought to a boil while stirring vigorously.

It also happens that the large black ant will not feed on the bait and Dr. Langford suggests using a piece of ham rind, scored on the inside and covered with poison sirup. Dusting sodium flouride around the entrance places, base boards or crevices is frequently effective in preventing entry of these ants.

In all cases, it should be remembered that these materials are poisonous to pets and human beings and should be properly labeled and kept under lock and key. It should be remembered also that carbon bisulphide, kerosene and gasoline are inflammable and are injurious to the roots of plants. Dr. Langford emphasizes that it is well to have a druggist weigh out the exact amount of the ingredients to be used, but, if you compound the poison yourself, make sure to clean all utensils thoroughly.

Brother of Slayer of Jesse James Is Dead At Elkins

An Associated Press dispatch from Elkins, West Va., under date of June 2, says a dying father called his two sons to his deathbed today and told them, the sons said, that he was Fay Ford, brother of Bob Ford, who killed Jesse James.

The sons, Lenville and Darnell Howard, related their father, 81-year-old Pearl Howard, said that Bob Ford was killed at Lumberport, W. Va., 16 years ago where he engaged in lumber operations. The father declared Bob Ford lived under the name of James Ross and posed as his (Fay's) brother-in-law.

The Howards quoted their father as saying:

"I am dying a slow death. I have something to tell you boys. My real name is Fay Ford."

The sons said their father came to the Elkins district 50 years ago and had been employed in the lumber business. His wife died 21 years ago, they said.

Those Envious Hens Again

Seems like the hens of W. A. Hauser, of near Oakland, are never satisfied with their accomplishments, but on the other hand (or wing) are envious of all the other hens of the county.

These hens have produced eggs shaped like golf balls, bullet-shaped eggs, half eggs and eggs bordering on the size of turkey and goose eggs.

Every time some other farmer's hens lay a peculiar one, Mr. Hauser's chickens get busy and produce another sensation in the hen family.

The latest one is an egg one and three-fourths inches long and not over three-fourths of an inch thick at the thickest part. Mr. Hauser brought it in last Saturday. It was just a good-sized jelly bean.

Several times heretofore eggs of various shapes of large size have been exhibited at The Republican office by poultrymen and farmers, but it remained for Frederick Reis, of Deer Park, to bring in his exhibit of what he terms is the smallest and most unusual egg.

This almost perfect looking egg came from inside the yolk of a regular egg, and Mr. Reis almost lost his exhibit when he prepared to eat it unawares. Happening to bite into the yolk, however, his teeth struck something that should not have been where it was, and a close investigation revealed the miniature product. It is the smallest yet seen.

GIRL WEDS BROTHER'S STEPSON AT WINCHESTER

To Reside In Cumberland; What Is The Relationship Existing?

Miss Maxine Zella Oss, Cresaptown, daughter of George Oss, North Liberty street, Cumberland, and Kenneth Harrison Swartzwelder, Potomac Park, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Oss, Harrisburg, Pa., were married May 20 at Winchester, Va., according to an announcement made last Saturday. Mr. Swartzwelder is employed at the Celanese plant.

The bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Oss by a previous marriage. His stepfather is a brother of his wife, so his brother-in-law is also his father-in-law. L. W. Oss, a son of George Oss, Cumberland, married Mrs. Swartwelder, who thus becomes the mother-in-law of her husband's sister, her sister-in-law.

George Oss, employe of the Liberty Theatre, Cumberland, becomes a step-grandfather to his son-in-law, because his son is the bridegroom's stepfather. Mr. Oss admitted Saturday night that the relationship was considerable of a puzzle to him and that he would need a little more time to figure it all out. The extent of the mixed family connections by reason of the marriage is almost inexhaustible.

Mr. and Mrs. Swartzwelder will reside at Cumberland upon their return from a visit to the groom's home in Harrisburg.

Are YOU fed up on phoney claims, too?

Do motor car advertising claims make you groggy? Are you suffering from "adjectivitis"? Man, there's just one way to learn the TRUTH about the low-price cars for 1939 — and that's to get your information FIRST-HAND!

Stop in at one of our showrooms. Say to us: "I want you to PROVE to me that the Ford V-8 is the biggest motoring value in the low-price field! I want you to PROVE that beneath Ford's style leadership there's QUALITY LEADERSHIP! I want you to SHOW me the extra equipment I get in a Ford, that I'd pay extra for in other low-price cars!

"I don't want CLAIMS — I want PROOF — FACTS — FIGURES! I don't want fancy adjectives and fast talk on performance — I want to drive the car MYSELF! Brother, I'm from MISSOURI!"

When you leave that showroom, you'll know a lot more about cars than you know now. You'll be able to "appraise" an automobile advertisement, same as we're able to appraise an automobile.

Mark it down in your little black book right now—"See my Ford dealer today." There's one of us located near you!

Notwithstanding his almost seventy-seven years, Joseph P. Helbig, yet a splendid painter, scaled high ladders almost all of last week and completed the painting of the parochial residence of Rev. Fr. William F. Sauer, and he made an excellent job of it. Of course Mr. Helbig had help on the work but none of the younger men would attempt the ladder scaling, hence "Joe" had the hard part of the work which he did not shirk.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS.....

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

Helping Coerce Congress

Washington, June 11.

Most thoughtful men with any political knowledge or experience will agree that among the things that make it most difficult for our democratic form of government to function efficiently are the various organized groups which exert pressure upon Congress in favor of the special interests they represent.

Formed into country-wide associations these pressure groups maintain elaborate and expensive lobbies in Washington which bear down on members of Congress to support the particular legislation to which they are committed. Aside from the merits of the measures they advocate, the weapons they use make their advocacy offensive and dangerous. Chief among these weapons is the political club which supposed control of a large block of voters in districts and States enables them to swing over the heads of members of Congress.

Their appeal is not to the reason, but to the fears, of the legislator. He is threatened with political annihilation if he refuses his vote, promised support if he delivers. Such is the nature of our politics that it is extremely hard for a man who wants to hold his seat in House or Senate to ignore the possible consequences of offending any considerable group of voters. There are always opponents eager to capitalize his antagonisms. The result is that members of Congress, under threats, open or implied, often support proposals which, if freed from apprehension, they would vigorously denounce.

Everybody in politics knows this to be true. It is one of the worst growths of our political system, dating back many years. Among the larger lobbies there is now a considerable degree of cooperation. For example, the farm lobby will support a labor measure in which it has no interest because it wants support from the labor lobby for its own bill. It is easier for a President to resist this kind of pressure than for the individual member in a close State or district, because the former's appeal is to the nation as a whole and he cannot be coerced by district or State. That makes the present unprecedented situation all the more discouraging.

The simple fact is that this Administration is the first in history the heads of which actively encourage, indorse and promote these organized minorities whose sole aim is to coerce Congress. Instead of encouraging it to resist, the Roosevelt Administration encourages the bullying groups which threaten it. The amazing exhibition of the Government cooperating in its own coercion afforded by the Administration support of the Workers' Alliance has already been commented upon here. Mrs. Roosevelt is to be one of the speakers this week at a meeting of this organization, the primary purpose of which is to force Congress to provide more money for WPA workers.

The active support of the Allianee by the Administration is an indefensible thing which members of Congress who have to submit to the bullyings of its leaders have every reason to resent. However, an equally extraordinary incident has just been disclosed by the Scripps-Howard papers, which point out that county farm agents of the AAA in Alabama are appealing to farmers to join the American Farm Bureau Federation in order "to insure continuation of AAA payments." "There is," says a letter from one county agent sent out to farmers on franked envelopes of the Department of Agriculture, "only one way to continue to receive these payments; it is through membership in an organization which is strong enough to tell Congress what you want. The AFBF is the largest farm organization in the world, and only through it have you been able to receive these payments."

Here is the Administration, through its accredited agent, soliciting membership in a lobbying organization the purpose of which is to get more money from the Government. It was this organization which brought pressure on Congress for the $400,000,000 parity payments, put into the farm bill a few weeks ago. The President had not recommended these increases. He and the AAA were supposed to be against them. Various columnists and others assailed the Sennte for passing the increase nnd insist that as a result the economy bloc has collapsed. It is not true that it has collapsed, although it is true it could have made a better fight to prevent this raid on the Treasury.

Nevertheless, what is to be said of a President who publicly deplores this action but permits his own Administration agents actively to solicit membership in the organization which had forced it? With no disposition to excuse the Senate for yielding to pressure, it does seem that those who so indignantly leaped upon the economy bloc might find something to say about this utterly astonishing Administration encouragement of the pressure group which makes economy impossible.

LOOKING FORWARD

By FRANKLYN WALTMAN

Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

Glory Hallelujah! Let there be rejoicing throughout the land!

President Roosevelt has ended his "sit-down strike against business. Somewhat grudgingly, but nevertheless affirmatively, the President has given the sign that he is willing to have Congress undertake the task of undoing some of the damage inflicted on business by punitive taxation.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, at long last, has appeared before the House Ways and Means Committee and called attention to the necessity of revising the Federal tax laws along lines which Republicans of Congress have advocated for the last three years.

Thus the Republicans have again demonstrated the wisdom and constructive nature of their criticisms of certain New Deal laws. Now Mr. Morgenthau, as he did several months ago in respect to the Social Security payroll taxes, admits that the Republican position was well taken and was not, as New Dealers are so fond of saying, just obstructive tactics.

It Was Tugwell's Idea

One of the "tax irritants" which Secretary Morgenthau now agrees should be eliminated is the tax on undistributed corporation profits. It will be recalled that Professor Rexford Guy Tugwell first proposed such taxation in his book "Industrial Discipline", written before the New Deal was inaugurated. Dr. Tugwell, it also will be recalled, aspired to "make America over." His idea was to subject industry and business to government discipline —the "planned economy" idea. Some people now call it the "planned poverty" idea, since such schemes are responsible for the present 11,000,000 unemployed and distressingly low level of farm prices.

Anyway, Dr. Tugwell sold his tax idea to another academic brain-truster, the late Dr. Herman Oliphant, who was general counsel of the Treasury. Dr. Oliphant sold the idea to Congress and in 1936 it was written into the law. The Republicans of the Ways and Means Committee did all they could to prevent enactment of the undistributed profits tax, but their warnings—which were accurately prophetic—were brushed aside.

Look At The Record

Not to say "we told you so" but to keep the record straight, it might be well to call attention to the objections raised in their Minority Report in 1936 by the House Republicans against this tax. They follow:

"1. It will discourage and possibly prevent the accumulation of adequate rainy-day reserves and constitutes a direct threat to the security of business, employment and in investments.

"2. It will cause corporations to restrict the distribution of their existing tax-paid reserves, which can only be rebuilt under penalty.

"3. It will discourage business rehabilitation and expansion and have a retarding effect upon recovery and unemployment.

"4. It will hamper the growth of small corporations, impede the development of new enterprises, and foster monopolies.

"5. It puts a penalty on prudence and a bounty on improvidence and constitutes an unwholesome interference with the exercise of sound judgment in the management of business.

"6. It will accentuate the extremes of future booms and depressions.

"7. It will oppress businesses burdened with debts and will result in a restriction on corporate credit.

"8. It will drive capital out of productive enterprise into tax- exempt securities.

"9. It violates every sound principle of income taxation, is arbitrary and oppressive in its application, and will be unequal and discriminating in its operation.

"10. It will crucify financially weak business enterprises, while permitting the strong to minimize or entirely escape the tax.

"11. It will create inequitities and unfair competitive situations which are far greater and more real than the imaginary ones it purports to correct.

"12. It will result in the double taxation of all dividends paid out of reserves, whether accumulated in the past or in the future.

"13. It will cause untold confusion and add bewildering complexities both in the computation and administration of the tax.

"14. It abandons an assured revenue of $1,100,000,000 annually for one purely speculative and uncertain, and which promises to be most disappointing in amount, thereby further jeopardizing the Federal revenue."

Warning Materialized

Think back over the last three years and you will find that all the things which the Republicans in 1936 predicted would happen if this tax were enacted materialized. So unfavorable were the results which followed enactment of the tax that Congress a year ago, against the wishes of the White House, greatly modified its provisions.

But even then Mr. Roosevelt refused to admit his New Deal had made a mistake. Before a bewildered graduating class in the little town of Arthurdale, West Virginia, he severely arraigned the changes made and announced he would let the bill become law without his signature. Now Secretary Morgenthau, speaking for the Administration, admits that the tax may as well be wiped off the law books altogether.

Thus we make progress—yet if the New Dealers had listened to the Republicans three years ago we might not today be in our present sad plight, and perhaps some of the millions now unemployed would have jobs in private industry. Neverthelee, we repeat: Glory Hallelujah!

PAUL WRITES PERSONAL LETTERS

LESSON TEXT—II Timothy 1:1-6; Philemon 1-7, 21, 22.

GOLDEN TEXT—Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth.—II Timothy 2:15.

Letters—what interest we all take in them! We go to town to get the mail, or we stop our work at the familiar signal of the postman. Too little thought is given to the possibility that our letters may be a means of blessing in God's hand. Paul has given us model Christian epistles.

In considering our lesson it is difficult to indicate specific verses, but the reader can readily identify the truth taken from the lesson under each division.

I. Remembranee.

Paul did not write letters which were impersonal and distant in spirit. The warmth of a loving heart, the refreshing recollection of past fellowship, a genuine interest in the joys and sorrows of his brethren put love into every sentence of his letters.

We need to learn the art of writing letters. Even so-called business communications may often carry a touch of encouragement or inspiration. Personal letters should certainly be a constant medium of keeping bright the flame of affection between parents and children, brothers and sisters, and Christian friends separated by distance.

Observe that the remembrance of Paul had to do with both personal and spiritual matters, and note how naturally and easily the two blend. There should be no need of being offensively "preachy" in writing letters. The personal and spiritual interests of our lives should be so close together that we normally and without effort can put them forth as one in spirit.

II. Inspiration.

Who has not had the unforgettable experience of receiving a letter just when its cheering word was needed. Many a man has been saved from despair and possible destruction by such "a word fitly spoken" which is "like apples of gold in pictures of silver" (Prov. 25:11). "A word spoken in due season, how good is it!" (Prov. 15:23).

We enjoy receiving such letters—do we make an effort to write them to others? Or do we excuse ourselves by saying, "You know I am sueh a poor letter-writer!" when the fact is that we are probably lazy or indifferent to the needs of our friends?

Notice that Paul's inspiration and instruction to his friends revolved around two points—his constant prayers on their behalf and his faithful presentation of the teaching of God's Word. If we would follow his example we must first really pray and then study God's Word for ourselves before we shall be ready to pass it on to others.

III. Admonition.

Scolding has no place in a letter, but kindly admonition is quite in order. Paul improved every opportunity to urge his readers to personal piety, Christian fellowship, attendance upon the means of grace, prayer, and the study of God's Word. He also urged his young brother in the Lord's service to "stir up the gift of God" which was in him. The influence of the world, the pressure of work, or some burden of spirit might cause a man to bog down in the slough of despond or of mediocrity. A letter from a true Christian friend at such a time might well be the means in God's hand of renewing holy resolves and of stimulating renewed endeavor. Do you think of someone who is waiting for that kind of a letter from you?

IV. Co-operation.

Friendship and fellowship are not one-sided. The very words demand the existence and interaction of two personal beings. "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly" (Prov. 18:24). Paul recognized this, and when he wrote to Philemon he gave him opportunity to respond in loving obedience to a request while at the same time he showed the highest degree of Christian consideration and courtesy toward Philemon. The epistle is a "masterpiece of persuasive tact and delicacy and an enduring model of truest Christian courtesy" (Ellicott).

No right thinking person is satisfied to be the constant recipient of the love and thoughtfulness of another with no opportunity to reciprocate. The smallest child or the humblest individual who must receive help wants to show his loving appreciation. A considerate friend will therefore open such an opportunity, not as a command or in a spirit of expecting something in return, but as an act of Christian courtesy.

God's Own Spirit

To believe, not because we are learned and can prove, but because there is a something in us, even God's own spirit, which makes us feel light and truth as truth—this is the blessed faith.—F. W. Robertson.

GRANTSVILLE

High School Graduation

P. E. King, principal of Triadelphia High school, of Wheeling, W. Va., came back to the school over which he was principal 33 years ago to deliver the address at the graduation exercises of the local high school on Wednesday night, to a class as large as the whole school back in that day. After reminiscing Mr. King presented his subject, "Tomorrow, What?" "Life that is most effective is carefully planned," the speaker stressed particularly. "Stop, look, and listen, then go," he advised. "One fourth of your life is gone," Mr. King continued, "and as you go into the second quarter, think of the needs of the world and then of yourselves."

Walter W. Savage, member of the County Board of Education, presented diplomas to the 44 graduates. Principal Frank J. Getty presented to Bonnie Jane Bills, senior class president, the citizenship medal awarded by the Maryland Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. Rita Blocher received the Balfour medal. A scholarship fund of $40, which had been raised by Grantsville alumni of Frostburg State Teachers College, was divided equally among Mary Schaefer and Laura Durst, who had identical grades. A tuition scholarship for home study offered by the International Correspondence School of Scranton, Pa., was won by Ruby Buckel.

The Senior class this year has undoubtedly a record in that of the 56 students who enrolled as freshmen four years ago, only twelve withdrew, five of whom have moved from the community.

School's Final Assembly

Certificates and awards in attendance and physical achievements were presented by F. J. Getty at the final assembly Friday morning. Grace Hanft, a Senior, made the highest attendance record over the four-year period, having missed only two and one-half days. Fourteen high school students and twelve pupils from the grades received perfect attendance certificates for the entire year. They are: Seniors, Virginia Baker, Laura Durst, Grace Hanft, Jane Wiley, Cecil Edwards; Sophomore, Russell Opel; Freshmen, Betty Beachy, Bernice Broadwater, Edna Carey, Marjorie Miller, Corlista Murphy, Lottie Patton, Elmira Meerbach, Alice Simpkins; 7th grade, Raymond and Betty Carder, Joseph Layman, Flora Rodeheaver; 6th grade, Betty McKenzie; 5th grade, Ruth Walls, John Patton; 3rd grade, William Beachy, Harry Pope, Joan Butler, Clara Meerbach; and 2nd grade, Mary Helen Miller. One hundred fifteen students, 46 from the high school, and 69 from the elementary, received certificates for regular attendance, not missing more than five days. A total of 65 students from the grades through the high school classes were awarded badges for physical attainments.

Elementary Closing Exercises

Grantsville school auditorium, which has a seating capacity of between six and seven hundred, was filled to overflowing at the closing exercises of elementary schools in the Grantsville unit, Friday night. Miss Kate Bannatyne, supervisor, presided. The seventh grade of Grantsville elementary school presented a one-act play, "The Gypsy's Secret," augmented by gypsy dances by grades two through seven, instrumental music by John Failinger and Austin Warne, and a vocal solo by Flora Rodeheaver. Principal F. J. Getty, of he local school, presented certificates of graduation to 99 seventh graders, 29 of this number being in the local school.

ASHBY'S DISCOVERY: THE ASHBY SETTLEMENT

The Ashbys were the first permanent settlers in the Great Glades. They share with the Friends on the lower Youghiogheny and the Tomlinsons at Little Meadows, the honor of having been the first settlers of Garrett county.

On August 3, 1773, William Ashby leased of Lord Fairfax, for life, Lot 37, of 55 acres, on the South Branch of the Potomac River in Hampshire county, Va. He may have been residing here for some years before he secured his lease. But on January 2, 1781, Ashby—then of Washington county, Md.,—for £10 sold to Samuel Hornback "all his rights and privileges to said land, houses, buildings, orchards." This land is near Fort Ashby, on the South Branch.

The year of the migration of the Ashby family from Hampshire county to the Glades of the Youghiogheny is not definitely known, but while residing on the South Branch, William Ashby doubtless traveled westward over McCullough's Pack Horse Path and explored and hunted in the Glades.

In 1772, Captain John Ashby went from his home in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia to take possession of the land granted to him in Kentucky for services in the Indian Wars. William Ashby may have been a member of the Captain's party.

There is a tradition in the Ashby family that about this time a large party—including the Ashby and Williams families—were on their way to Kentucky, but when they arrived in the Youghiogheny Glades they were met by a messenger from the West who informed them that the Indians were hostile and that it was dangerous to proceed; so the party camped on Cherry Creek and built a blockhouse and stockade, known later as "Ashby's Fort."

After waiting here for some time more favorable news arrived from Kentucky and the leaders of the party decided to move on westward. But Sarah Ashby, wife of William, a woman of decided opinions and strong will, informed her husband that the Glades country in which they were camped, was good enough for her and that she would go no further West. Her argument and will prevailed: William Ashby and his family remained in the Glades of Maryland.

There is doubtless a basis of truth in this story, but it may be the story refers to Fort Ashby on the South Branch instead of the Ashby Settlement on Cherry Creek. We have noted that William Ashby leased land near Fort Ashby in 1773.

However, William Ashby appears to have had some early claim on the Cherry Creek Glade. In 1774 Lord Baltimore opened his lands "Westward of Fort Cumberland" to settlement and among the tracts surveyed was:

"Ashby's Discovery"—1000 Acres surveyed April 6, 1774, for Hugh Scott. "Beginning at a white oak on a point of land in the Great Glades on the East side of Cherry Tree Creek about 1½ miles from Archey's Spring on McCullough's Path." This magnificent tract lies just east of the village of Gortner and is now divided into the Slabach, Swartzentruber and Beachy farms.

It is probable that William or some other Ashby "discovered" this tract before 1774 and had a cabin there or some other claim to it; otherwise Scott would not have surveyed the tract, since it was already included in the survey of Lord Baltimore's Manor.

Hugh Scott was a land speculator, who probably made the survey at Ashby's request and on his promise to pay when patent issued.

It appears certain that William Ashby was living on his "Discovery" in 1776, because in August of that year he was one of the volunteers who went to Oldtown and enrolled in a militia company to defend the State from the British. Five other pioneer settlers from what is now Garrett county enrolled in this company, viz.: Aaron Parker, John Friend, Augustine Friend, Jacob Forman and Jesse Tomlinson.

At the time of the Revolutionary War, the Ashbys appear to have been the only family settled in the Youghiogheny Glades, and it is probable that, when the Indians became hostile, they returned to their former home in the South Branch settlement and did not return to the Glades until near the end of the War. We have noted that William Ashby sold his lease in 1781, but he was already "of Washington County," now Garrett.

The Ashby Fort

At the time the Ashby family settled in the Great Glades, it was necessary for the settler to protect his family from possible Indian attacks, and his stock from wolves and other predatory animals. Ashby's Fort was built in the open glade on the north side of Cherry Tree Creek just below where the Ashby (now Douglass) Run empties into the Creek. The fort site is unmarked, but the beginning corner of "Ashby's Discovery", about 600 yards southeast, has a stone bearing the initials and date "A. D., 1771", placed where the ancient white oak once stood by citizens under the direction of Alexander C. Mason and Surveyor C. Milton Sincell.

Like most of the smaller pioneer "forts", Ashby's Fort consisted of one or more log cabins, loop-holed for riflemen, a log barn or sheds for livestock, all joined or enclosed by a stockade of split logs or saplings, driven side by side into the ground.

Apparently the Ashby home was never attacked by the Indians, but Mrs. Ashby used to relate that when the family observed the red men spying on the fort from the surrounding woods, the children would build at night great fires of wood within the stockade, fed with buffalo fat to frighten the savages.

Life on Cherry Tree Creek in those early years, when the scattered settlers were liable to Indian attacks, and the woods and glades were full of wild animals—life there was often exciting and sometimes dangerous, but always interesting.

One of the few stories of those days which have come down to us is of—

The Last Buffaloes

One day in early winter an Ashby boy and a neighbor were searching for the neighbor's cows, which had strayed away. They tracked some animals in the light snow until they came to what is now the J. J. Ashby farm, near Crellin, when the boy noticed that one of the beasts had rubbed a snag, leaving some woolly hair. He said to his companion: "Have your cows grown wool?" The man replied, "They have been gone so long damned if I know what they have grown."

Following the tracks to the top of a hill they found four buffaloes. The men shot the two bulls and the buffalo cows ran westward. These were the last buffalos seen in the Glades, where so many grazed in summer before—and for some years after—the coming of the white men.

The Cherry Tree Creek Indian camp ground was up the valley above a small lake or pond in which the buffaloes used to wallow; here also came deer and elk to drink the brackish water. Many arrow tips and flint chips were found there, and William R. Mason dug up the stones of what he supposed to be an Indian sweat house or hearth.

The Ashby Mill

After the Revolution, when other settlers came into the Glades, the Ashbys built a small dam across Cherry Tree Creek near the fort and a grist mill below, operated by an undershot wheel. They are also said to have built "the block house", a two-story log structure, loopholed for defense, in the field below the present Daniel J. Swartzentruber house; but this blockhouse may have been built by a later settler.

The foundation stones of the Ashby Fort were in place until 1934, when they were removed. Its site is now unmarked, but may be seen from the Swartzentruber house.

In 1788 William Ashby was allotted as a settler Military Lots 1540 and 1542, adjoining Ashby's Discovery."

The Ashbys At Piney Bottom

For some unknown reason William Ashby abandoned his settlement on Cherry Creek. In 1795, Thomas Hall, of Harford county, Md., in consideration of the sum of £175, "lawful money of the State," deeded to William Ashby "Piney Bottom," 270 acres, which had been surveyed for the noted Maryland patriot, Samuel Chase, in 1774, beginning where Cherry Creek empties into the Youghiogheny.

On the edge of this fine pine swamp the Ashbys built a log cabin into the river bank, and about 1795 moved there; later they constructed a large two-story log house nearby, now the Luther Nine homestead.

At Piney Bottom the family prospered. William and Sarah reared a family of six daughters and four sons. William Williams, born in 1783, is said to have been the first native white child of the Glades country. When the pioneer William Walton Ashby made his will in 1803, he provided for his wife and left to his ten children lands aggregating 1285 acres, most of it in nearby West Virginia. His wife was Sarah Williams, daughter of a Welch immigrant. Their great-grandchildren are numerous and prosperous in Maryland and other States.

William and Sarah Ashby, your ashes rest in unmarked graves on your beloved Piney Bottom, but you left your mark in the history of the Great Glades of Maryland.

Generously butter the pie pan, pat or place the graham cracker mixture over the bottom and sides of the pie pan. Bake in a moderately hot oven (100 degrees F.) for ten minutes. Soften gelatin in cold water; heat over hot water, stirring until dissolved; add to berries and juice, mixing well and chill until slightly thickened. Meanwhile combine cheese and whipped cream, spread lightly over bottom of graham cracker crust. Slice remaining berries in halves, sprinkle with sugar and place on top of cheese mixture. Cover with chilled strawberry mixture, place pie in refrigerator until firm. Garnish with whipped cream.

FIREMEN CONTINUE PLANS FOR JUBILEE JULY 3 TO 8

Mammoth Parade To Be Held Tuesday, July 4, With 11 Cash Prizes To Be Given Away

SAM LAWRENCE'S SHOWS

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, with committee meetings each Wednesday evening, continues planning for the celebration which is to be held in Oakland throughout the entire week of July 3 to 8. The announcement was made several weeks ago, but definite arrangements have just been completed by those in charge.

The celebration is to be held on the old Glades Hotel property, the same place as last year, and Sam Lawrence's Shows have been engaged for the full week. This attraction will have a number of rides and shows.

The tentative program also includes a mammoth parade on Tuesday, July 4, at one o'clock p. m., when eleven cash awards will be distributed by the parade committee. Invitations have been sent to many fire companies in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and in Maryland. A fireworks display is also scheduled for 10:30 p. m. on July 1th.

Five all-expense tours to the New York World's Fair are to be awarded before the celebration concludes.

Emroy Bolden has been named general chairman of arrangements with Edward A. Shaffer assisting. H. P. Stuck and R. W. Lohr are in charge of finance and publicity and the chairmen of other committees include the following: Robert Stanton, parade; W. W. Dawson, parade prizes; Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, first aid; Richard Glotfelty, programs; E. Townshend, Sr., fireworks; Abraham Lawton, lights and water; William Gower, grounds; E. I. Baumgartner, tickets; A. G. Gortner, carnival awards.

Scholarships Are Offered

By advertisements appearing in The Republican today, two Senatorial scholarships are being offered—one by Western Maryland College at Westminster, and the other by Washington College, at Chestertown. Competitive examinations will be held to determine who shall be awarded the scholarships, both of which are for boys with high school doplomas.

Examination for Western Maryland College will be held Thursday morning, July 6, at ten o'clock, at Westminster, while those for Washington College will be held at Fort Hill High school, Cumberland, on Thursday afternoon, July 6, at 1:15 o'clock.

A scholarship apparently is also available for a boy at Charlotte Hall School, Charlotte Hall, Md., which has a value of $380 per year for three years, covering board and tuition, although no official announcement has been made.

Today Is First Day Of Summer And Longest Day Of Year

Today is the longest day of the year and the first day of summer, according to the World Almanac.

The sun rose today in Oakland at 5:40 and will set at 7:23, after having furnished fourteen hours and forty-three minutes of daylight.

Summer officially came in at 2:40 this morning when the sun reached the summer solstice—the point in the ecliptic at which it is farthest from the equator.

To the people of this section today was just another rainy day on the week's schedule. It hasn't failed any day this week, and Sunday, Monday and Tuesday provided 2.12 inches of rainfall. Already this month, according to the government record at the Weber station, there has been more than 7 inches of rainfall. That amount is about twice as much as normal.

Moratorium Declared On Over-Due Library Books

A moratorium has been declared on overdue books at the Oakland Public Lihary and those books you've been intending to return for months and even years can now be returned with no fines to pay and no questions asked as to the whys and wherefores.

The moratorium period will be for two weeks and possibly more, and no fines will be charged against any volumes brought back during this period, Miss Elizabeth Leary, librarian, announced this morning.

Miss Leary said possibly two hundred books were overdue, some of them being held out by persons for more than two years.

MARRIED

HUTCHINSON—GRAHAM—Miss Janice M. Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Graham, of Crellin, and the Rev. James P. Hutchinson, of Morgantown, West Va., a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hutchinson, of Crellin, were quietly married last Thursday evening at 8:00 o'clock in St. Paul's Methodist church, Oakland. The ceremony was performed by Dr. W. S. Boyd, pastor of the Methodist church, Morgantown.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a street length gown of blue and a white hat and other accessories. She carried a bouquet of pink rosebude and baby's breath. There were no attendants and only members of both families and a few close friends were present.

The bride was graduated from Oakland High school, class of 1933, and received her degree of A.B. from West Virginia Wesleyan College at Buckhannon just two weeks ago. While at college she was a member of Sigma Pi Delta, president of the Y.W.C.A., and a member of the Haught Literary Society.

The groom is director of the Wesley Foundation and assistant pastor of the First Methodist church at Morgantown. He was graduated from Philippi High school in 1928, where he won the State oratorical contest.

At West Virginia Wesleyan College, where he was graduated in 1932, he was a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity, the Y.M.C.A., and the debating squad. After teaching a year at Terra Alta High school he attended the Garrett Biblical Institute in Chicago, Ill. Since 1935 he has held his present position in Morgantown.

Following the wedding ceremony the couple left for a motor trip that will take them to Detroit, Niagara Falls and the New York World's Fair.

BARNARD — POTTER—Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Potter, of Emmerton, Va., have announced the marriage of their daughter, Charlotte Pauline Potter, to Mr. Lester Thomas Barnard, Bloomington.

The wedding took place on Saturday, June 10, at 6:00 p. m., at the Mt. Zion Welsh Baptist parsonage. The Rev. W. D. Reese performed the ceremony.

The bride was attired in a gown of aqua blue with white accessories. Mrs. Barnard is a teacher in the elementary schools of the county.

VanSICKLE—HOYE—Mary Elizabeth Hoye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hoye, Sang Run, and Everett VanSickle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis VanSickle, Cranesville, West Va., were united in marriage on Sunday, June 18, at 12 o'clock noon in the Methodist church at Sang Run. Rev. S. E. Ryan, Brandonville, West Va., a former pastor of the Sang Run congregation, officiated.

To the strains of the Briday Chorus from Lohengrin, played by Miss Louise Savage, the bridal party entered the church. The bride was attractively attired in navy blue with white accessories. The groom wore a plain grey business suit. Only a few friends and members of the immediate families witnessed the ceremony. The young couple will reside with the groom's parents while their home is being completed.

Maryland's CCC Quota For July Reduced To 618

J. Milton Patterson, director of the State Department of Public Welfare, has announced that Maryland's quota for the July CCC enrollment period has been cut to 618, about half the quota originally requested for the State. Garrett county's quota is 28. The day for enrollment in Oakland has not been set.

Mr. Patterson stated efforts would be made to fill the allotment from an age group ranging from 18 to 23, leaving the 17-year-old applicants as alternates. Enrollment will occur July 6 and 7, except in Garrett and Allegany counties.

Robbed Third Time In Year

For the third time within a year the property of Hans W. Friedberg, along Deep Creek Lake, near the breast of the dam, has been robbed of money and articles of clothing and furnishings.

Last Saturday evening while members of the family were bathing in the lake some unknown person entered the building and stole money and articles to the extent of about $60. Losses of about $150 were reported previously.

AUTHORITIES STILL SEEK FORMER MT. LAKE CLERK

Is Charged With Embezzling Town's Funds; Other Offenders Are Tried and Sentenced

County and State authorities are still seeking Walter L. Killius, former town clerk of Mountain Lake Park, for the purpose of placing him under arrest on a warrant charging him with embezzlement of funds of the corporation of Mountain Lake Park. The alleged shortage is $626.70. Reports are to the effect that Killius left the Park on June 10 and that his present whereabouts are unknown.

The warrant charging Killius with the alleged crime was sworn out before Magistrate Charles F. White by H. L. Bittner, Mayor of the town; Jamie Elliott, M. L. Calhoun and J. L. Fitzwater, members of Council, on Saturday, May 10, the day he is said to have disappeared.

Given Sentence In Jail

At a hearing Wednesday morning before Magistrate White, William W. Miller, a youth of Loch Lynn, was given a jail sentence of ten days on charges of stealing an automobile pump from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad station at Mountain Lake Park. The pump had been shipped into the Park by freight and had been unloaded from a car one evening, but had not been placed in the station.

When arraigned Miller entered a plea of guilty.

Fined For Assault

Bear Hill is again on the map!

Charles Fazenbaker and Adam Fazenbaker, of Bear Hill, near Jennings, were accorded a hearing on Monday, June 12, before Magistrate White and found guilty of assault and battery. Each were fined $10 and costs or ten days in jail. Charles paid his fine, but Adam did not and was committed to jail.

Noah Fazenbaker and Lewis Fazenbaker, also Bear Hillers, arrested on the same charge, were acquitted.

New State And County Maps Give Vast Amount Of Data

Whether it be a church, an athletic field, a CCC camp, a bathing beach or a railroad stop, it will be included in one of the county highway maps being completed by the Maryland Highway Planning Survey.

The new maps furnish material interesting to engineers, tourists, State officers and the Federal Government, real estate operators, public utilities and many other bureaus and individuals, according to F. W. Childs, survey director. The old maps were revised in 1905.

Five types of county maps and four sets of state-wide maps will be made. There will be base and general highway maps of the counties and of the State. The county base maps include churches, athletic fields and other points, while the general highway maps have this material plus a more detailed description of the roads, whether they are improved, unimproved, concrete or macadam. The other three county maps will include all of this material, in addition to other features. One map will have school bus routes, another the rural post routes, still another the traffic flow.

A New Law, With Teeth, Safeguards Court Clerks' Eyes

No more will Clerks of the Circuits or Registers of Wills in Maryland have to puzzle over illegible signatures on documents offered for recording.

A law passed by the last legislature which became effective June 1, requires that persons offering documents for record "shall cause the name or names of every person, firm or corporation attached to said document or instrument to be typed or printed directly above or below the signature of said persons, firms or corporations."

And the law has teeth in it, too, notices in the Clerk's and Register's office warn:

"For failure to comply with the requirements of this section, the clerk is required to charge an extra fee or charge of one dollar." the notices say.

Alumni Dance To Be Held Tomorrow Night

The Oakland High school alumni association will hold its annual dance tomorrow night at the Manhattan Hotel. Jay Van and his orchestra from Cumberland will furnish the music. There will be special entertainment during the intermission. The public is invited to attend.

IMPROVEMENT OF STREETS AND LIGHTS IS APPROVED

City Council Makes Decision For $70,000 Street Improvement Project At Special Meeting

LIST OF STREETS MADE

Improvement of a number of streets in Oakland, which will extend improved roads into the outskirts, and approval of the location of the additional lights within the city limits, were decided upon at a special meeting of the Mayor and Town Council last night.

A blanket project of the WPA, amounting to about $70,000, for repair and improvement of streets was approved. Work is expected to begin on July 5, and the first extension will be that of Center street, westward, to the city line, leading to the golf course.

Other streets included in the project include the following:

Extension of Pennington (Crook Crest) to golf course road;

Gilmor street, between Liberty and Center;

Widening of Second street, from corner of Crook to end of street at Omar;

End of Second street on Omar street to State road, or Fourth street;

Extension of Third street, north, to Omar;

First street, from Oak to Water;

Alder street, between Sixth and Seventh;

Seventh street, between Alder and Green, and between Green and High;

Green street, Sixth to Seventh;

Bartlett street, from Pennington to Center.

Members of Council stated the extent of the town's expense would be furnishing a truck to haul material and providing a roller to be used when construction work is completed.

Lights Are Located

Council also approved the location for new lights and the placing of the 600-Watt lights, according to the plan now being drawn up by the West Maryland Power Company. Frank Kley, manager of the local power company's office, stated this morning the contract which the town has approved, will give the town $590 more light annually, according to present rates, for the same amount of money as the town is now paying.

Mr. Kley said that some new poles and lighting fixtures are to be erected on Second street. The proposition gives the town 88 250-Watt lights, instead of 100-Watt lights now in use. In addition there would be 7 400-Watt and 10 600-Watt lights in the business section, making it considerably lighter than at present, with no additional cost.

New Telephone Directories to Be Delivered To Subscribers Soon

The new issue of the Oakland and vicinity telephone directory will be delivered to subscribers in this area about July 14, according to G. A. Hinds, manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City, here. This directory also includes listings of subscribers at Avilton, Blaine, Kitzmiller and will include this year the listings for Accident, Friendsville and the people along the Lake shore.

James L. Barrow, manager, Cumberland, stated yesterday afternoon that the book this year would be in different form, with the material rearranged and in different type face. The directory went to press on June 16th.

Will Aid Rev. Trimble in His Field During Summer Months

Trimble in the work of the Episcopal Parish during the summer months, it has been announced by Rev. Trimble. Mr. Best arrived in Oakland one day last week.

COUNCIL ENDEAVORING TO HAVE INSURANCE RATE CUT

Improvements In Water System Expected To Result Favorably

An attempt to have the fire insurance rates again reduced in Oakland is being made by the Mayor and Town Council through Henry W. McComas, Jr., chairman of the Water Committee of Council.

Councilman McComas recenty was in correspondence with Carlyle H. Hill, manager of the Middle Department Rating Association, Philadelphia, stating that the Council had completed the connection of water mains on Third street which gave that part of the town east of Second street a guarantee of water should the main on Second street leading from the reservoir be put out of commission by breakage or otherwise. Previously a break in the Second street main would have entirely cut off the supply of water from any part of the town east of Second street.

In reply the insurance companies' representative stated that he was arranging to have one of his engineers conduct a resurvey of the town just as soon as current work would permit, and that upon receipt of the engineer's report the town officials would be advised as to results of the survey and whether or not it would result in a reduction of the fire insurance rates.

The rate, which was reduced a year or so ago because of improvements made in the water system here, is now 29 cents per hundred on dwellings and 33 cents per hundred on the contents. Any reduction in the insurance rate would benefit materially any person who carries fire insurance either on his property or on its contents.

Relief Expenditures Were Less During Month Of May

Maryland's relief expenditures last month, $748,181, were the lowest this year, the State Department of Public Welfare reported, but that the reduction resulted chiefly from a shortage of direct-relief funds in Baltimore, which necessitated the dropping of a number of cases.

Of the four classes of relief only the expenditures for the old-age assistance program increased. The aged received $312,862 last month; dependent children, $240,710; needy blind, $13,- 617.

For the four types of assistance, expenditures in Garrett county in May were $11,362. The direct relief expenditure in Garrett county was $1,161.

The Public Welfare Board also announced that food and clothing valued at $86,975 had been distributed in the State last month. The articles were made available through surplus commodities.

Postmaster Applicants Are Receiving Grades Today

Those of Oakland who took the examination for postmaster of the town on February 25, are receiving their marks this morning, but it was impossible to learn who the three highest are from whom the selection will be made.

The list of the three eligible for appointment to the place will be sent to the Democratic State Central Committee of the county, and as its chairman is in Cleveland, there will be no action taken until his return.

SEARCH STILL CONTINUES FOR ELLWOOD HINEBAUGH

Change In Story Of Youth Who Took Him To Lake Points To Fact That He Jumped From Glendale Bridge

County authorities and relatives of Ellwood Hinebaugh are still in the dark as to his whereabouts following a week of intense investigation and search, although indications point more strongly to the fact that he may have taken his life by jumping from Glendale bridge into Deep Creek Lake.

Placed under intense questioning, Paul Jordan, who reported last week that he had driven Hinebaugh to Cabin Lodge on Thursday night, June 7, told a different story to Neil C. Fraley, State's Attorney.

Jordan now admits that he drove Hinebaugh to Glendale Bridge where he (Hinebaugh) asked that the car he stopped and alighted on the bridge. Jordan then returned to Oakland. This story was corroborated by Corporal Thomas Currie of the State Police, and Clarence Spear, deputy sheriff, who were en route to Meadow Mountain CCC camp about that time and remember passing a car just a few hundred feet west of the bridge. When the two officers crossed over the bridge a moment or two later, there was no trace of Hinebaugh or anyone on the bridge, Corporal Currie said. Jordan is still being detained by county authorities until there are further developments.

This turn of events has led authorities to believe that Hinebaugh really did jump from the bridge, as he was reported to have threatened several times to do. Prior to his disappearance he had been greatly depressed and melancholy for some time and had been suffering intense pain as the result of sinus infection.

A large number of people have continued to search in the vicinity of Glendale bridge and up and down the Lake. The State boat as well as a number motor boats and row boats manned by local firemen, with grappling hooks have also been used, but up to this hour no trace has been discovered of the missing.

W. V. U. MUSICIANS WILL PRESENT PROGRAM JULY 7

Will Be One Of The Features Of Mountain Choir Festival

The program of music, to be presented in the amphitheatre at Mountain Lake Park on Friday evening, July 7, at 7:30 o'clock, by well known artists from the Department of Music of West Virginia University, Morgantown, will be one of outstanding merit, according to Rev. Felix G. Robinson, director of the Mountain Choir Festival, under whose auspices the program is being given.

The three artists are Prof. Frank Cuthbert, head of the department; Prof. Kenneth Wood, head of the violin instruction, and Prof. Volney Shepard, head of piano instruction.

Prof. Cuthbert, bass-baritone, sang in New York for twelve years where he was soloist at St. Bartholomew's church, and has appeared in numerous cities. He was also soloist at Shadyside Presbyterian church, Pittsburgh, and is now soloist and choir director of the East Liberty Presbyterian church, Pittsburgh, apart from his other professional duties at the University. He was a pupil of Ernest Lunt, Adelaide Gescheidt and Leon Rothier, and at the Juilliard School of Music.

Prof. Shepard studied piano under Rudolf Ganz and Alexander Raab, and is a graduate of the Chicago Musical College. He has been soloist with the University Symphony and the Wheeling Symphony, and has appeared in numerous recitals in the east and west.

Prof. Wood, a pupil of Carl Flesch and Alexander Fieldemann, of Berlin, Germany, is a graduate of Syracuse University, Eastman School of Music. He has also appeared as recitalist on many occasions.

Prof. Cuthbert will be accompanied by Miss McWhorter. All will be dinner guests of Mrs. Ellwood Offutt preceding the concert.

MT. LAKE PARK

Election Day Approaching

There isn't much one hears these days except election. On July 1st the municipal primary will be held. There will likely be quite a number out for the offices. It was impossible today to learn the names of all of those candidates who have filed their nomination papers. Dr. C. Oscar Hall has his name in for Mayor with a group back of him for members of Council. So far there seems to be a bit of timidity on the other side as to just who will be candidates.

Personally, this writer has no choice exeept for some one who will help Mountain Lake (and it needs help). We want to see Mountain Lake Park on the map again. With all of the natural resources and the advantages here it seems a pity that we should deterioate as we have in the last few years. There is everything here to work for and with. God has given us much, but what are we doing with it? That is a question which each and every one interested should ask themselves. Let's' do something about it.

The Band Comes To Town

Last Friday night all of Mountain Lake was thrilled. Why? Mickey's band "came to town". By that we mean that it really did give an honest to goodness concert on the streets of the Park. Just what caused it we cannot say, but we are willing to go on record that the band should be encouraged to play ever so often. It is really a good organization and they have had a great struggle to keep going. They are a splendid group of young people and they are putting out good music. Let all help who can.

A Resume

Nearly all cottages are rented for the summer; boarding houses and hotels are receiving inquiries for summer rates; several property sales are recorded; the usual "petty" rows are in progress; no programs of special mention other than the camp meeting and the School of Missions, which has a great program; Rev. Felix Robinson's Music Festival is a bright spot in Mountain Lake Park, and we need many of those spots.

It is still Mountain Lake Park and it takes a lot to kill that name. There have been times when we thought it was all over—except the funeral rites—but perhaps we can bring it back. Anyhow, it's worth trying. Many generations have come and gone in Mountain Lake Park and there is still another generation growing up. We should endeavor to make Mountain Lake Park worth while for them. It is something to work for.

Philanthropy In The Right Direction

A gentleman of Oakland, who has no property interest in Mountain Lake Park, who has seen the town grow to its present proportions from a pasture ground away back in the early eighties and who has no axe to grind, but who senses the need of an atmosphere for right living and a place provided on this mountain top that will have a good influence on the after life of all who may come along in the years following, is spending quite a sum of money on the public buildings that have been permitted to deteriorate in the years following the presentation of the buildings, grounds and other property to the organization that so recently turned it over to others. Oakland residents, to a great extent, had much to do with the transfer of the property by the Association by furnishing the bulk of the money necessary, and now it seems that this lone Oakland resident is determined to keep the town going. He is of a retiring nature, hence his name is not given in this story that may mean much to the community.

Father's Day—Papas Survived

Last Sunday was Father's Day, and as far as could be learned, all Oakland papas survived the occasion in good shape, in spite of the fact that most of them received neckties.

I was out of that class for once, and didn't get a necktie, but due to my observing sons who saw how nearly worn out my old tennis shoes were, I received a new pair. And just as a father will get his son an electric train for Christmas, so he himself can enjoy playing with it, so my sons turned the trick and bought me a pocket knife—and it wasn't two minutes until they wanted to carry it.

There must be a lot of interest around here in softball or speedball. Only one person has ever said anything to me about forming a league in town since I mentioned it two weeks ago in this column.

A most interesting innovation, especially for country lassies, and could be for some of the city lassies, too, is a practice started by a feed company in having their flour and feed sacks made of toweling and fancy prints.

Many's the time (so they tell me) that the girls have used these to good advantage as the little unmentionables and although not as sheer as rayon or silk, they served the purpose.

And now they are making the sacks in all kinds of prints and designs.

It's hard to find two alike, however, so don't try to make a dress out of them now—that is, if you wear a size forty-four or above.

Comparison

Compare Henry Ford who has made work for hundreds of thousands and put the highly efficient automobile within the price range of most every American, with John L. Lewis, whose position rests upon his ability to exact a tax out of the daily toil of other men, and then ask under what conceivable theory should the first type of man be pilloried by a government and the second type be coddled. Since when has the parasite become more valuable to a community or a nation than the creative genius?

ELECTRIC COOKERS

will keep foods hot

It's rarely you find a man who really enjoys typical picnic food. But try the men in your family on an electric cooker picnic, and see him change his mind about them. Cook the kind of meal he likes, in your roomy electric cooker. Take the meal right in the cooker out to some cool, attractive spot. Open it, and there is a savory, hot meal, cooked to perfection. You'll like this kind of cooking for home meals, too. It needs no watching and it doesn't heat up the kitchen.

A LOT of folks have had their eyes opened wide by a ride in a 1939 Ford V-8. They just didn't realize how much more value and how many improvements we've put in this car the last few years.

Today's advanced Ford is a product of progressive engineering, fine materials and honest construction. It is backed by an experience of building far more cars than anybody else in the world.

One ride in today's Ford—with its smooth 8-cylinder engine, stabilized chassis, hydraulic brakes—will prove it's the modern car in the low-price field.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS.....

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

A Question Of Shine

Washington, June 17.

For the moment, Attorney General Frank Murphy, the Great Crusader, whose recent declaration urging extension of the civil service and a twenty-five per cent reduction in the number of Federal jobholders has a distinct humorous side which will be dealt with later, seems to have slightly slowed down in his much-publicized campaign to "clean up" the judiciary, elevate the administration of justice and purify the body politic in the United States.

So immaculately pure himself that, his friends insist, even remote contemplation of the impure is painful to him, for weeks Mr. Murphy charged about the country exuding warm and oily press statements concerning the noble nature of his drive. Prompt results were expected—and still are—from the advance publicity, and the present appearance of stagnation which the drive wears is said to be misleading.

There has, it is insisted, been no diminution in zeal upon the part of Mr. Murphy in this holy war. On the contrary, he is more determined than ever to eradicate corruption and rout the forces of evil. Those scoffers who hint that "the forces of evil" are somewhat magnified for publicity purposes are soon to be confounded. Very shortly now three—perhaps four—other Federal judges, whose records are as unsavory and iniquitous as that of the convicted Manton, will be exposed. Their prosecution will be relentlessly conducted by Mr. Murphy, in person—if necessary. Every one is to be driven off the bench and put behind the bars. Such at any rate is the Attorney General's program as outlined by his friends.

No one wants to handicap by criticism a man engaged in a fight against corruption and neither the fact that Mr. Murphy's personal piety is too publicly paraded nor that his statements have an unctuous flavor justify disparagement of his efforts or his results—if he gets results. However, it is certainly true that the White House politicians who were enthusiastic about the Murphy crusade because of their belief that he would outshine District Attorney Dewey, whose strength as a Presidential aspirant is largely due to his success as a prosecutor of New York crooks, are slightly disappointed.

The conviction of the Kansas City Ross, Tom Pendergast, for example, did not redound to the personal credit of Mr. Murphy, although Mr. Murphy personally flew to Kansas City at the time of the trial. The credit went largely, as it should, to Governor Stark, of Missouri. Nor has the Manton conviction resulted in any lessening of the political availability of Mr. Dewey. Perhaps, within the next few weeks the scheduled exposures will make the Dewey record against racketeers look small and stand Mr. Murphy out as the shining hero he was expected to be. Just now, it is sad to report, there is a feeling that he does not shine very brightly.

The disappointment of the Administration politicians who are managing the third-term movement, has been shown in two ways. First, they have stopped the publicity about Mr. Murphy as the running mate for Mr. Roosevelt in 1940. Through their journalistic friends the names of Paul McNutt, of Indiana; Senator Wheeler, of Montana; Henry Wallace, of Iowa; Postmaster General Farley; Senator Schwellenbach, of Washington; Senator O'Mahoney, of Wyoming, and Representative Rayburn, of Texas, are being pointedly mentioned. There is a double idea in this: first, to show Mr. Murphy that he has not become the outstanding Administration figure forecast by his press agents; second, to create strength for their "draft" movement by holding out the second place on the ticket as bait to a number of well-known Democrats in and out of the Senate.

The other way in which disappointment in the Murphy crusade is manifested is in the concentration of Administration writers on the effort to show that Mr. Dewey is an ungrateful fellow and no true liberal because he has broken with the bumptious Mr. Simpson, who gave the impression that he not only had made Mr. Dewey but owned him. Certainly the attack upon the young District Attorney by Administration propagandists of the last few days exhibits every evidence of being inspired. Chiefly the allegations are that now there is great political opposition to Mr. Dewey in New York, and that he has personal friends in Wall Street, which automatically makes him a villain.

Coming from Administration sources, this planned assault upon Mr. Dewey is something of a tribute to him. Certainly it does him no harm to be singled out at this time, and the Administration strategists are enjoying their game of preliminary smearing. The one deplorable feature is that it leaves the noble Mr. Murphy out of the picture. He was to have been the boy to spoil the Dewey shine. Now he isn't in it at all. However, he will be. Just watch, his friends say, for what is coming soon!

NEW BUILDING COMPLETED AT SCOUT CAMP ON LAKE

Will Give Campers Enclosed Dining Hall and Convenient Kitchen

A new kitchen and enclosed dining room, combined, and a decided improvement in the sleeping quarters, will greet the Boy Scouts of Oakland Troop No. 1, when they begin their summer encampment the latter part of July, at the scout camp on Deep Creek Lake.

For the first time in their fifteen years of camping they will have an enclosed and screened place to eat, with ample facilities for preparing meals. The combined building takes the place of an open-air mess hall and an open shack formerly used as a kitchen.

The new building was practically completed early this week, with the exception of the screening. The portion for the dining hall is 40 feet. The stove formerly used in the Frantz hotel has been secured, and a large ice-box is also being donated, solving two problems for those in charge. A floor has been built in the sleeping quarters, and for the first time the campers will be out of the mud on disagreeable days. The floor was put down one day this week by Dr. W. W. Grant, chairman of the troop committee, his three sons and Howard C. Riggs, scoutmaster.

Funds to pay for the material and construction of the building was donated by citizens of town, but Dr. Grant reported this morning that although $242 had been pledged, that expenses would probably run to $300 and that there was still ample opportunity for those who had not yet helped out, to do so. He asked the parents of scouts, contributors and anyone interested to drive to the camp to inspect the work already done and to see the improvements made.

ELWOODHINEBAUGH'SBODY IS RECOVERED FROM LAKE

Oakland Man Had Been Missing Since June 8; Medical Examiner Gives Verdict of Suicide

DRIVER OF CAR RELEASED

Searchers recovered, last Thursday afternoon, June 22, the body of Elwood Hinebaugh, 38, who presumably dived off Glendale bridge into Deep Creek Lake on Thursday night, June 8. The body was in about 50 feet of water.

Dr. N. I. Broadwater, county medical examiner, pronounced it a clear case of suicide, and Paul Jordan, 17, held for questioning as the driver of the car hired by the unfortunate man to take him to the lake, was released from custody the following day.

The recovery of the body ended more than ten days' intensive search. Placed under questioning Paul Jordan, who at first reported that he had driven Hinebaugh to Cabin Lodge, in another section of the lake, told a different story to State's Attorney Neil C. Fraley, and admitted that he drove the man to Glendale Bridge, where his passenger directed that the car be stopped. He alighted on the bridge and told Jordan to return to Oakland.

This story was corroborated by Corporal Thomas Currie of the State Police, and Deptuy Sheriff Clarence Spear, who were enroute to Meadow Mountain CCC camp about that time and remember passing a car just a few hundred feet west of the bridge. When the two officers passed over the bridge a moment or two later there was no trace of anyone on the bridge, Corporal Currie said.

This turn of events led authorities to believe more firmly that Hinebaugh really had jumped from the structure as he was reported several times to have expressed his intention to do.

Prior to his disappearance he had been greatly depressed and melancholy for several months and had been a great sufferer as the result of a sinus infection.

A large number of people searched for several days in the vicinity of the Glendale bridge, and motor boats and row boats were brought into us.

The body was brought to the surface downstream from the middle pier of the bridge by a group who had been using grappling hooks. In the party were his brother, Joseph Hinebaugh, Joseph Littman, Wellington Hill and Daily Sines.

The body was brought to Oakland late Thursday afternoon and funeral services were conducted on Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock from the Bolden Funeral Home. Dr. A. B. Leamer, pastor of the local Lutheran church, was the officiating minister. Interment was in the Oakland cemetery.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Mary Friend Hinebaugh, and one son, Jack Hinebaugh; and the following brothers and sisters: Guy W. Hinebaugh, Joseph Hinebaugh, William Hinebaugh, Oakland; Arthur Hinebaugh, Parsons, W. Va.; Miss Mary Hinebaugh, Cumberland, and Mrs. Edwin C. Haggerty, Middleport, Ohio.

From this same structure, on April 4, 1930, William R. Harvey, civil engineer, of Frostburg, jumped into the lake and was drowned. His body was not recovered until April 29, and was about 500 yards above the bridge.

Among those from out-of-town attending the funeral service were Mrs. Edwin C. Haggerty, Middleport, O.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Lester Friend and three children, Mr. and Mrs. Commodore Fike and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. Keys, Connellsville, Pa.; Miss Mary Hinebaugh, Cumberland; Mr. and Mrs. William Fike, Uniontown, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hinebaugh, Parsons, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Alvin Friend, Miss Marjorie Friend, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Casteel, Ralph Hoye, Mrs. Boyd DeWitt, Mrs. Betty DeWitt, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert DeWitt, Mr. and Mrs. Alva DeWitt, all of Sang Run; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rodcheaver, Hoyes; Mrs. George Glotfelty, Mrs. Hubert Bowman, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Savage, all of Mellenry.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Naylor returned Monday from a visit of several days at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Wareham, at Mount Vernon, Ohio. They were accompanied to Oakland by Dr. and Mrs. Wareham and their two sons. Dr. Wareham returned to Mt. Vernon, Mrs. Wareham and sons remaining here for a longer visit.

PARTIAL DISGUISE NOT SUFFICIENT FOR KILLIUS

Arrested Saturday Night; Was Wearing Scarf and Dark Glasses

In spite of a partial disguise, Walter L. Killius, of Mt. Lake Park, former town clerk of the Mayor and Council of that town, and charged with embezzlement of funds of the corporation, was arrested Saturday night by Constable Harry Hinebaugh, near the Manhattan hotel.

Killius was riding around Oakland in an automobile with a woman's scarf around his head and wearing dark glasses. Recognizing the car Hinebaugh noted the two occupants, both of them apparently women, and thought that perhaps Killius was concealed in the rear seat. Upon approaching the car he suddenly recognized Killius beneath the scarf and glasses and placed him under arrest.

Killius tried to escape but Corporal Thomas Currie suddenly appeared and assisted Hinebaugh in bringing him into custody.

The warrant charges Killius with embezzling funds amounting to $626.70.

FIREMEN JUBILEE PLANS COMPLETE FOR JULY 3-8

FIFTEEN FIRE COMPANIES

With prospects for one of the largest parades ever held in Oakland and with a number of features scheduled to appear with the Sam Lawrence Shows, plans for the Second Annual Jubilee Week of the Oakland Firemen, July 3 to 8, are complete.

It was announced last evening that there would be at least fifteen fire companies from Pennsylvania, Maryland, and West Virginia here on Tuesday, July 4, and also six bands from Grafton, Parsons, Romney, Mt. Lake Park, and Oakland. Grafton was sending two bands for the parade.

Coming from Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey, the famed Billy Siegrist Troupe of Aerial Performers will make their Oakland debut with the Sam Lawrence Shows opening on Monday for the Firemen's Jubilee. The Shows will be here the entire week.

The trapeze rigging for this act is said to be one of the largest used out of doors at the present time.

Other attractions featured are the Headless Soldier, a wild man confined in the snake show, Baby John, featured by Ripley in the Chicago World's Fair exhibit, who weighs 697 pounds. Several shows and eight rides are included in the Shows which are designed to give entertainment to the many who are expected to be in Oakland during the week.

The celebration will be held on the old Glades hotel property. The tentative program includes a mammoth parade on Tuesday, July 4, at one o'clock p. m. when eleven cash awards will be distributed. Five all-expense tours are to be awarded during the week. A fireworks display is also scheduled on July 4, at 10:30 p. m.

Boy Saved From Drowning

Charles Wilson, Jr., nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles "Leech" Wilson, of Crellin, was saved from drowning last Friday morning, June 23, when he was rescued from the Youghiogheny River by Morgan C. Adams after he had sunk the second time.

A number of young boys were engaged in playing along the river bank when the Wilson lad in some manner fell or was pushed into the water accidentally. Young Adams jumped into the water and renched the boy after he had disappeared beneath the surface the second time. The Oakland Fire Department rescue squad was called but it was found unnecessary to use the inhalator.

REMINDERS AND WARNING ISSUED FOR JULY FOURTH

Fireworks and Exposives Not Needed To Express Patriotism

Last year, in connection with the celebration of the Fourth of July, 306 persons in Maryland were injured by accidents due to fireworks; 295 persons were injured in similar accidents in 1937—a total of 601 from the two celebrations.

In the 1938 total were 190 children under fifteen years old. One little girl—five years old—died of burns when her dress caught fire from a lighted sparkler.

A boy of twelve was terribly injured—both arms and legs torn off—in the explosion of a cannon made of a piece of pipe and powder from firecrackers. The boy died within two hours. Two of his companions were seriously injured in the same accident. One, a boy of thirteen, had his toes amputated; the other, a young man of 25, had his left leg blown off and lost the fingers of his left hand.

For several years, the State and City Departments of Health have cooperated with the Maryland Society for the Prevention of Blindness, in assembling information concerning injuries reported over the Fourth due to the irresponsible use of fireworks or other explosives. As a reminder of actual happenings and a warning that similar, or even more serious, accidents are likely to follow this year's celebration, unless great care is taken to prevent them, Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, gives these facts:

"The records of 1937 and 1938 show", Dr. Riley said, "that 601 persons suffered injuries sufficiently serious to require medical attention. There were probably many more whose injuries were not reported. Of the 306 injured in 1938, 285 were white and 21 colored; 224 of the reported accidents occurred in Baltimore City and 82 in the counties.

"There were two deaths, one—the little five-year-old girl referred to above—in Montgomery county; the other—the boy of twelve—in Wicomico county.

"Firecrackers were responsible for injuries to 260 persons; sparklers, to 6; sky rockets, to 5; roman candles, to 4; miscellaneous, to 23.

"Of the 190 children injured, 10 were from one to 5 years old; 88 from 6 to 10, and 92 from eleven to 15. The 116 in the older groups ranged from 16 to 70 years old. Of the total, 41 suffered injuries to the face; 8, the neck; 20, the eyes; 171, hands or arms; 35, feet or legs, and 31 to other parts of the body.

"Figures like these can give no idea of the physical suffering involved or of the anxiety of those threatened with loss of sight or of permanent crippling or injury of some part of the body. Neither do they give any idea of the danger of lockjaw—tetanus, to give it the medical name—that is always present in injuries from fireworks or other explosives.

"There are many safer and saner ways of expressing patriotism than through irresponsible indulgence in fireworks or other explosives. If your celebration of the Fourth is incomplete without them, limit your indulgence in fireworks to adequately safeguarded community displays, under properly qualified direction."

Someone recently asked me if I could write $40,000,000,000, the approximate amount of the nation's debt, using Roman numerals. I replied, after considerable head-scratching, that it would require a lot of M's. In fact, it would require 40,000 M's, each a dash over each, which multiplies its value by 1,000, while the M with a dash over it, equals 1,000,000. For example, the unemployment volume in the United States would be written with eleven M's with a dash over each.

Jumpin' Colorado grasshoppers! It's easy for Washington and the Democratic Administration, from an exalted and unemployment recording standpoint, that the Arabic numeral system came into existence!

THURSDAY, JUNE 29, 1939

Paragraph Opinions . . .

BE CAREFUL—

Fireworks will be sold again this year, and again there will be a number of children and even adults who will be injured by this method of celebrating the Fourth of July. Throughout the nation quite a few will be killed or will die as the result of powder burns.

The anti-fireworks bill was defeated at the last session of the General Assembly, although sponsored and endorsed by more than fifty organizations interested in child and general public welfare.

Citizens should be vitally interested in this problem. They should watch the outcome of this year's celebration. They should caution members of their families about the use of them, and if use them they must, then the greatest of care should be exercised.

A finger blown off, an eye put out, a deep powder burn that gives the victim lock-jaw, are happenings to be avoided if possible. Be careful of fireworks!

27,000,000TH FORD AUTO IS BROUGHT TO OAKLAND

Oakland was visited last Saturday by a party of Ford officials from Pittsburgh and other cities of the nation, having in their charge the twenty-seven millionth Ford passenger automobile and other types of vehicles, the product of the Ford organization.

A picture of the car alongside of which is a product of the Ford factory made in 1911, was taken while the new 27,000,000th Ford was in Oakland and which is owned by W. W. Shaffer, its factory number being 421HH, hence twenty-six and a half million Fords have been manufactured since it, in all of its brass fittings, squeeze horn, oil lamps and other high-class accessories was placed upon the road—and much admired by hundreds.

The photograph above referred to was sent to an engraver for reproduction and was expected to be returned to The Republican as an illustration to go with this article, but for some reason it has not arrived, but will be printed in next Thursday's edition.

The latest Ford was on exhibition for an hour or more at the Reckard and Glotfelty Garage in Oakland on Saturday where it was seen by a large number of interested men and women It was almost literally covered by tags specially made and bearing the number 27,000,000, issued by the various motor officials of the States through which is passed. Leaving town following a luncheon served at the William-James hotel the caravan headed for Pittsburgh.

This Ford car was assembled on February 15, 1939, at the Richmond Branch of the Ford Motor Company in California and was immediately placed on exhibition at the Golden Gate International Exposition. On May 28, Ford Day at the San Francisco Fair, it left on tour, scheduled to be at the New York World's' Fair, for Ford Day, June 16, which marked the 36th anniversary of the Ford Motor Company. Leaving New York June 22, it is due back in San Francisco on July 14.

The thought of 27 million Fords manufactured in the relatively short time of 36 years is impressive. But behind the production of this great output is another thought equally impressive — the almost incalculable number of jobs created for those who directly built these cars and those who produced the raw materials.

For just one million cars, the consumption of farm products alone is enormous. The Ford Motor Company uses approximately 3,200,000 pounds of wool, 1,500,000 square feet of leather, 20,000 hogs, 350,000 pounds of goat's hair, 728,000 gallons of tung oil, 89,000,000 pounds of cotton, 450,000 bushels of corn, 2,400,000 pounds of linseed oil, and 2,500,000 gallons of molasses.

The social significance of 27 million cars is hard to estimate. Millions of families housed and fed and clothed through the employment they created. Thousands of children reared and started in life—a multitude of related businesses developed, oil fields opened, roads built, farm products given new outlets. When one thinks of the broadening effect of travel, the opening up of rural areas to a greater horizon—it is impossible to measure the social force of these 27 million cars!

In the caravan that visited Oakland there were twenty cars and trucks.

Driving the 27,000,000th Ford were Jimmy Rooney, of Detroit, and Jack Doyle, of San Francisco. From Pittsburgh were C. R. Mullan, branch manager; F. C. Phillips, assistant branch manager; while others in the party, all from Pittsburgh, were Paul Lee, Joe Bara, J. C. Alexander, L. E. Powers, W. H. Fulton, T. C. McGee, A. J. Appel, Don Sweeney, J. B. Schlosser, G. J. Garnify, L. A. Deyo, B. C. Hahn, and Fred. Higgins. The party, with the following local guests, were served luncheon at the William-James Hotel: Charles Reckard, Mason Glotfelty, Oakland, and Harvey Gortner, Grantsville, Ford representatives; I. R. Rudy, Lawrence M. Fraley, H. C. Riggs and Benj. H. Sincell.

The Mayor & Town Council, of Mt. Lake Park, Md.

DR. C. OSCAR HALL,

Candidate For Mayor of Mt. Lake Park, Makes The Following Statement:

"There is a statement that I wish to correct—I am not on any certain ticket, or back of any certain party or of any special councilmen. The thing that I am interested in is that those councilmen elected will work for the good and the welfare of the Park, and that they will become real public servants of the citizens of Mountain Lake, and will do all in their power to aid the Park and its residents.

I am greatly in favor of bonding any public official who handles the public funds. I have made no promises to anyone regarding positions in the Park, and if I am elected it will be up to the council to recommend any appointments.

In reference to the taxation, the tax rate is set by an Act of the Legislature and therefore cannot be raised by your town council or your Mayor.

DR. C. OSCAR HALL.

"Spring Chicken Season Here Again"

Although the month of June sees the start of the spring chicken season, it really reaches its peak in July and August and extends into September. The larger roasters and stewing fowl are, of course, equally available throughout the year.

Country Friend Chicken.

Choose a fryer weighing 2 to 3 lbs. dressed weight. Cut fowl into legs, thighs, wings and back (two pieces), and breast (two pieces). Dip each piece in one of the following:

One cup flour mixed with 2 teaspoons salt, and ¼ teaspoon pepper; or one cup cornmeal, 2 teaspoons salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Melt ½ cup lard and ¼ cup butter in frying pan over moderate flame. Let chicken brown slowly in the fat, turning often to brown evenly. When brown turn fire low and continue cooking to complete a total time of 45 to 50 minutes. Remove to hot platter. Fowl may be finished in a 350 degrees F. oven the last 30 minutes, if desired.

Cream Gravy

Measure three tablespoons flour, and add to fat and crumbs in frying pan. Add 1½ cups top milk or thin cream gradually, stirring until it becomes thick. Season with pepper and salt to taste.

Broiled Chicken

Choose a broiler weighing 1½ to 2 lbs. dressed weight. Split fowl down back and breast bone and lay skin side up on broiler rack. Brush all over with melted butter. Place 3 inches under a moderate broiler flame and broil without turning until well browned. Season skin side, turn skin side down, and complete the broiling under a reduced flame. Total broiling time, approximately 30 minutes. Before serving, brush with additional butter.

Giblet Stuffing For Chicken

Chicken giblets, ¼ cup butter, ½ cup chopped celery, 1 tablespoon of chopped onion, 2 teaspoons salt, 3 cups small bread cubes, ¼ cup hot water.

Cut giblets fine and brown in frying pan with butter. Add chopped celery, onion and salt. Add bread crumbs which have been toasted lightly in the oven, and hot water. Stir lightly into bird.

Card Of Thanks

We desire to express our sincere thanks to all our friends who gave their untiring efforts in recovering the body of Ellwood Hinebaugh from Deep Creek Lake, and who were so kind and helpful since our great bereavement.

We also wish to thank those who gave flowers and donated the use of their automobiles for the funeral service.

His Wife, Son, Brothers and Sisters.

PROGRAMS THIS WEEK-END TO CLOSE CHOIR FESTIVAL

Entertainments Scheduled Friday, Saturday and Sunday In Amphitheatre at Mt. Lake Park

FEW AT PEACE JUBILEE

The concluding sessions of the Mountain Choir Festival, which began with the Peace Jubilee at McComas Beach, on Deep Creek Lake, last Sunday evening, will be held Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoon.

On Friday, July 7, at 7:30, the Department of Music, West Virginia University, will sponsor a concert, the artists to appear to be Frank Cuthbert, bass-baritone; Kenneth Wood, violinist, and Volney Shepard, pianist. Saturday, 7:30 p. m., the Washington Irving High School A Capella Choir and Orchestra will present a program under the direction of Prof. Clarence C. Arms.

Sunday, July 9, choirs from a number of communities will participate in the choir contest and also sing as a Festival unit under the direction of Dr. Harvey Gaul, Pittsburgh composer and choirmaster, favorite anthems. The Festival anthem for this season is "My Star Angel," by Matthew Linquist, of Niagara Falls, New York.

A convocation on worship and church music has been conducted this week at Mountain Lake Park.

Dr. Nat T. Frame, of Martinsburg, former West Virginia Extension Director. The Hon. Jennings Randolph, of Washington, D. C., will speak briefly.

The following choral organizations were announced by Rev. Felix Robinson, director, as participating:

The Matin Choir, Johnstown, Pa.; The Oakland Community Choir and the Keyser Choral Union; Tri-Towns male chorus; Grace Hampstead Glee club; First Presbyterian choir, Morgantown, W. Va.; Asbury Methodist, Uniontown, Pa.; Civic Choral society, Connellsville, Pa.; Washington Irving High school a cappella choir; Clarksburg Women's Ensemble; Homestead Choral, Homestead, Pa.; Methodist junior choir, Kingwood, W. Va.; Trinity Lutheran junior choir, Keyser; Bethel Methodist junior choir, Mt. Lake Park; West Virginia Legionettes of Keyser; the Griffon quartet, Johnstown, and the Brass choir, Mt. Lake Park.

A crowd of less than 300 persons gathered on the Lake shore at McComas Beach last Sunday evening as a choir of some forty voices sang from a flotilla anchored near the shore in West-Maryland's first peace jubilee, held at sunset.

Those who attended, however, were enthusiastic in their enjoyment of the setting and the beauty of the sunset across the water. The worshippers were scattered over the hillside. Participating in the program were the Matin Choir of Johnstown, the Griffin Quartet of Johnstown, the Oakland and Keyser community choirs and a brass choir directed by Rev. Howard Gamblin, of Mountain Lake Park.

Speaker of the evening was Rabbi Morris S. Lazaron, who pleaded for tolerance and cooperation among the various religious faiths in America, pointing out that each sect had acceptable qualities and all had a common goal.

Rev. Fr. William F. Sauer, pastor of St. Peter's Catholic church, Oakland, offered the prayer at the conclusion of Rabbi Lazaron's address. The part of the Festival program was sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake Association.

Irvin R. Rudy Now Serving as Acting Postmaster

Having received notification of his appointment as acting postmaster, Irvin R. Rudy assumed his new position in the Oakland office this morning, succeeding Mrs. Frances H. Matthews who accepted that position temporarily until the new appointment was made.

Last week the Democratic State Central Committee recommended Mr. Rudy from a list of ten applicants, and the recommendation was forwarded to Congressman W. D. Byron, of this district.

The appointment of postmaster is expected to be approved soon by the president, and until that time Mr. Rudy will serve as acting postmaster.

Recovering From Accident

Mrs. Arnold L. Keller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Timothy Moon, of Mt. Lake Park, is recovering in the City hospital, Morgantown, W. Va., from injuries sustained in an automobile accident one day last week which occurred near Elkins, W. Va.

Mrs. Keller was giving up her position as home service representative of the West Penn Power company just two hours prior to her accident. She sustained two fractured vertebrae and her neck must remain in a cast for several weeks, according to hospital officials.

Driving the automobile at the time was Pauline Woodford, another West Penn employe, who was only slightly injured.

The highway was slippery from a heavy rain and the car left the road and turned over after going down an embankment. Mrs. Keller was able to crawl out through a window and summon aid from a passing motorist.

Mrs. Keller was just married on May 27 and planned to move into her new home with her husband this week at Morgantown.

MANY PEOPLE HERE FOR JULY 4TH CELEBRATION

Colorful Parade In Afternoon Marred By Downpour, But Was Completed Between Showers

CASH PRIZES AWARDED

Although marred by a sudden downpour, what was considered the most colorful and attractive parade of organizations ever held in Oakland, took place Tuesday afternoon, July 4, when five bands several Legion drum corps and at least sixteen fire companies from Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia marched through the streets of town as the feature attraction of the week's celebration making the second annual jubilee sponsored by the Oakland Fire Department. The celebration will continue throughout the week, concluding Saturday night.

Cash prizes totaling $180 were distributed following the parade to the following organizations:

Best fire company, Westernport, 1st; Ryneal fire department, Martinsburg, W. Va., 2nd.

Best band, Parsons, W. Va., 1st; Keyser, W. Va., 2nd.

Best drum corps, Piedmont, W. Va., 1st; Grafton Sons of Veterans of Foreign Wars, 2nd.

Best appearing organizations, Rowlesburg Fire Company and Mickey's Band Mt. Lake Park, 1st; Westover fire department, 2nd.

Best float, Ralph Pritt's Garage.

Other bands participating in the parade included those from Thomas, West Va.; Parsons, West Va.; Bloomington, Md.; Tri Towns, West Va.; Blacksville, West Va.; Romney, West Va.; Mount Savage, Md.; Kingwood, West Va.; Friendsville, Md.; Confluence, Pa.; Grantsville, Md., and Meyersdale, Pa. Neither the Oakland Boys' Band or the Oakland Fire Department competed for prizes.

Every street in town was crowded with spectators and many of them remained in Oakland during the day and evening. A fireworks display concluded the day's activities.

The Sam Lawrence shows are remaining for the entire week on the old Glades Hotel lot, adjacent to the Manhattan Hotel. A jitterbug contest is scheduled for Friday, July 7, at 10 p. m. On Thursday evening at 10 o'clock one all-expense tour to the New York World's Fair will be awarded, while two other such trips will be awarded Friday evening at 10:30 and two additional ones on Saturday evening at ten o'clock.

High School Has Playground

According to records in the Court House, the County Commissioners now have a deed to the property, corner of High and Eighth streets, which was purchased through an arrangement with Stuart F. Hamill, for use as an athletic field and playground for Oakland High school.

It is understood no actual outlay of money was required. The field has over five acres and will be ample for a ball field, track and other necessities of a playground.

The citizens of Oakland and alumni of Oakland High school have been requesting and urging the acquisition of an athletic field for the school for a number of years, and the outcome will be welcomed by many of those interested in the welfare of the students.

The Loysville Band Coming

On the evening of July 19th, the band of Tressler Orphans' Home, of Loysville, Pa., will give a concert on the Court House lawn. This band, consisting of 36 pieces, is made up of boys who are making their home at Tressler's and they give a fine presentation.

There are 292 children in the home and, through the years, many excellent young men and women have been sent out into the world fitted to do good service for themselves and the communities into which they go. There will be a free will offering for the benefit of the home that they represent.

Home Damaged by Fire

The home of Mrs. Sallie Wooddell, Green street between Sixth and Seventh, was damaged by fire on Wednesday morning at 6:30, when an overheated stove in the wash house in rear of the home fired the room and quickly spread to the residence.

In the wash house was a quantity of clothing, which was destroyed, along with a washing machine and other equipment. The rear of the residence was also on fire but the Oakland Fire Department was called and prevented further spread. The house had been newly painted and the loss in considerable for Mrs. Wooddell.

Several Receive Minor Burns From Use of Firecrackers

At least six persons were injured from the use of firecrackers over the holiday period in and around Oakland, none of them seriously, however. All received minor burns either on the hands or face except one CCC youth who received a burn on the leg when someone threw a firecracker under his feet. He was treated by a local physician.

Others receiving minor injuries included James Bell, Jack Glotfelty, a son of Nay Wilson, Bobbie Groves, of Mt. Lake Park, and Guy Gregg, of Deer Park.

2 NEW DEPARTMENTS IN LOCAL SCHOOLS CREATED

Oakland High to Have Industrial Art Department; Special Classes Planned in Elementary School

SCHOOL BOARD MATTERS DECIDED AT MEETING

That a department of industrial arts in Oakland High school, and a special class for pupils needing extra help in the Oakland Elementary school would be inaugurated this fall was announced by F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools, following a meeting of the Board of Education last Friday, June 30.

Present at the meeting were Walter W. Dawson, president; Walter W. Savage, vice-president; Stuart F. Hamill, associate member; and Mr. Rathbun, secretary. Mr. Hamill was recently appointed member of the Board for 6 years, until May, 1945.

The Board appointed the following teachers: Tipton Sheets as assistant teacher in Oakland High school; Merne W. Kloss as assistant teacher in Oakland Elementary; Rachel Hughes, principal of Bear Hill school; Helen M. Comer, principal Lageer school; Helen Gibson-Merat, principal of Combination school.

Mr. Sheets will establish a department of industrial arts and general shop in the local High school.

Mrs. Kloss was appointed to conduct a special class of pupils who may need extra help in meeting the requirements of their usual grade. Mr. Rathbun stated. "Many pupils are unable to carry on or keep up with their classes due to absence from school frequently from illness, defective vision, hearing, and other reasons," he said. "The number of children in this special class will be limited to about 20, enabling the teacher to give more individual attention to each pupil. The addition to the Oakland elementary school of four modern classrooms has helped greatly to make possible this additional facility."

Mrs. Kloss has had special training and preparation for this type of classroom instruction and has had successful experience in this particular field of instruction. Mr. Rathbun pointed. Pupils are to be selected principally from the first, second and third grades and more particularly from those who have failed in being promoted.

The Federal and State funds for the payment of the salary of such a special teacher can only be secured for teachers in the largest elementary schools in the county, and then only where the best possible type of room is available as also where other rigid requirements can be complied with. When such instructors are employed and these re-

Succumbs To Heart Attack While At Work In Cornfield.

James M. Bowers, of near Swanton, died of a heart attack while at work in his cornfield on Tuesday morning, July 4. He was aged 60 years. Mr. Bowers had undergone an appendectomy about a year ago and had not been in the best of health since that time.

His son, Paul Bowers, was working with him in the field but had gone to the house for a few minutes. Glancing out toward the field he noticed the horse standing alone in the field and upon investigation, found his father dead.

The deceased was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bowers and was born in this county December 26, 1878. On March 9, 1903 he was married to Emma Riley. Surviving are his widow and seven children, Neva Bowers, of Morgantown, W. Va.; Ivan Bowers, Cassville, W. Va.; Herbert Bowers, of Canton, O.; John Bowers, and Mrs. Wilma Mason, Morgantown; Paul Bowers, at home; and Oliver Bowers, Cassville; also six grandchildren and the following brothers and sisters, Mrs. Lilly Clark, Martinsburg, W. Va.; Mrs. Gus Naylor, Canton, O.; Mrs. Jerry Flanigan, Scottdale, Pa.; Mrs. Harvey Brenneman, Friendsville; Mrs. W. G. Riley, Deer Park; George Bowers, Vindex; Garfield Bowers, Deer Park; Harry Bowers, Texas; Harley Bowers, Oakland; and Cecil Bowers, Canton, Ohio.

Funeral services are being conducted this afternoon, July 6, from the White Church, with Rev. Burkhart, Elk Garden, W. Va., officiating, assisted by Rev. Harold Gamblin, Mt. Lake Park. Interment will be in the White Church cemetery.

Governor's Daughter And Two Cubans At Hutton Camps

Camps Minnetoska and Whitethorn, near Hutton, opened for the season of 1939 on July 1. The camps are under the personal supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hansen, of Baltimore, who have had charge for a number of years past.

Among the campers this year are two Cuban boys and the daughter of the Governor of Maryland.

The Governor's daughter is Miss Patricia O'Conor, 14. This is her first trip to this part of Maryland. Her father, Herbert R. O'Conor, was here during the campaign last fall and appeared enthusiastic about the recreational facilities of Garrett county.

The two Cubans are Oscar Mestre and Sergio Aguero, of Santiago, Cuba. Mr. Hansen said the two boys, neither over 12 years of age, had come to the camp to enjoy the mountain air and to learn to speak English, but apparently the boys were teaching the rest of the campers how to speak Spanish, as Spanish songs were being sung there constantly.

PLACING FIRECRACKERS IN MAILBOX BRINGS ARREST

Robert Utterback Accused Of Malicious Destruction Of Government Property And Mail

MAIL CAN BE DUPLICATED

Charged with malicious destruction of U. S. Government property and United States mail, Robert Utterback, 24, is being held in the county jail pending a hearing before the United States Commissioner, at Cumberland.

Utterback is alleged to have dropped a firecracker in a mailbox at the corner of Second and Green streets about 4 o'clock on the morning of July 4, which blew away the front, mutilated a dozen or more pieces of mail in the box at the time, and otherwise damaged the box.

The charge was made by R. E. Moyer, U. S. Postoffice inspector, who happened to be in Mt. Lake Park on Tuesday investigating a case there. Utterback was arrested at one of the farm homes around Deep Creek Lake later that morning.

With him at the time of the incident was Guy W. Gregg, of Deer Park. No charge has been placed against Gregg, but he will probably be called before the U. S. Commissioner for questioning when Utterback is given a hearing.

Mrs. Frances H. Matthews, postmaster, said all mail in the box at the time could be replaced. Tampering with a mail box is punishable by a fine of $1,000 or three years imprisonment.

Utterback, former Mt. Lake resident, is a son of F. R. Utterback, and since the death of his mother, has been residing in Chicago with an aunt.

He has been visiting friends in this vicinity for the past two or three weeks.

Charged With Larceny

William Schroyer and Joseph Biggs, 23 years of age, both of Friendsville, were arrested late last night by Sheriff J. W. Owens, charged with the larceny of a motor from a boat near Cabin Lodge about two weeks ago. The boat and motor were owned by a man from Pennsylvania.

Neil C. Fraley, State's Attorney, and Corporal Thomas Currie of the State police, accompanied Owens to Friendsville. The two young men admitted the theft and led the officers to where they had hidden the motor, a mile or more from Friendsville.

Carl Martin, Red House, was fined $1 and costs by Magistrate C. F. White on a charge of unlawfully exploding firecrackers on the streets of Oakland.

A man who gave his name first as John Doe, and later as Byran Gosh, was held for action of the grand jury when it was discovered he was giving away wine with an alcoholic content of 21 percent, at a tent show at Accident recently. He furnished a cash bond of $100 and was released.

Rev. and Mrs. William B. Orndorff, of Mountain Lake Park, are leaving Sunday afternoon for Braddock, Md., where they will attend the annual session of the Maryland Baptist Summer Assembly.

Walter E. Dawson and Thomas O'Neill, of Baltimore, were guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Dawson, over the Fourth. Mr. O'Neill is a political writer on the staff of the Baltimore Sun.

VINDEX MAN KILLED AS HE EATS WITH ANOTHER'S WIFE

Floyd Harvey Is Slain July 4th; William Thomas Cooper Will Be Charged With His Murder

ARRESTED NEAR ALTAMONT

A 52-year-old Vindex coal miner will be arraigned in Oakland tomorrow for the Fourth of July slaying of a fellow miner who was eating a chicken supper with the slayer's wife.

Neil C. Fraley, State's Attorney, said this morning that William Thomas Cooper would be charged with the murder, and that the warrant would be issued upon the information furnished by Sheriff J. W. Owens.

Owens said that Cooper admitted the shooting of Floyd Harvey, 54, in Harvey's three-room cabin along the railroad tracks a mile from Vindex toward Chaffee on the Western Maryland Railroad.

Cooper was taken into custody at daybreak near Altamont by Sheriff Owens, who with State's Attorney Fraley and Deputy Sheriff Clarence Spear had trailed him to that point and found him walking along the roadway near the home of his son.

Mr. Fraley said he had obtained a statement from Cooper concerning the slaying. "I didn't mean to shoot anyone; I just meant to shoot out the light," Fraley quoted Cooper as saying. A lighted lamp was on a table between the couple as they were partaking of a chicken supper at the time of the murder.

The shooting took place between 9:00 and 9:30 p. m. in the kitchen of Harvey's home while Harvey and Mrs. Cooper, 41, were dining. Cooper said he stood outside the house watching the couple for about fifteen minutes, heard them in conversation and said he saw them embrace several times. He then shot once through the window screen with a twelve-gauge shotgun, the missiles striking Harvey in the back of his neck and head, toppling him from his chair and killing him instantly. Mrs. Cooper was not touched but the lamp was blown out and she started to run out the door, then stopped and hid in the darkness of the cabin. A few minutes later she went to a neighbor's home to give the alarm. Hiawatha Harvey, no relation, ran to Vindex and called Constable Roy Sowers at Kitzmiller, who in turn called the Sheriff's office in Oakland.

Hunts For Wife

Cooper told the sheriff that he walked back to his home in Vindex after the shooting, cleaned his gun, undressed and went to bed. Later he got up and walked to Altamont to see if his wife had gone to the home of her son there. He was walking back home at 4:30 a. m. when the sheriff picked him up and brought him to the Oakland Jail. He was not armed at the time.

Cooper said that he and his wife had gone to call on Harvey earlier in the day but that Mrs. Cooper refused to return with him at dusk. It was then, he said, that he went home for his shotgun.

Deputy Sheriff Spear said neighbors of Cooper had heard him threaten to shoot Harvey previously and this morning State's Attorney Fraley said that Harvey and Cooper had been in a fight on Christmas Day, at which time Cooper had received a cut on the cheek, and that the scar resulting from this encounter is still visible.

Mrs. Cooper is being held pending the completion of the investigation, but no charges have been placed against her.

The Coopers have three children: David, 15; Junior, 11, and Clifford, 8. Clifford accompanied his father and mother to the Harvey home on the 4th but returned home with his father.

Harvey was twice married. His second wife, friends said, has been living for several years in Ohio. Also surviving are his mother, in Ohio; three daughters and a son in Detroit; several brothers and sisters in Ohio, and a brother, William Harvey, near Altamont.

Cooper will be arraigned before Magistrate Charles F. White.

Mrs. Thomas A. Gonder and son Richard Gonder have returned from Milton, Mass., where they went last week to attend the wedding of Thomas A. Gonder, Jr., to Dr. Sarah H. Bowditch, which occurred on Friday, June 30th.

JEROBOAM: A MAN WITH A GREAT OPPORTUNITY

LESSON TEXT—I Kings 11:26-31, 37-40.
GOLDEN TEXT—In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths.—Proverbs 3:6.

Strength of personality apart from good character will not assure success but will, on the other hand, cause only intensified failure and disaster. We may even add divine promises of blessing which are given on condition of right living, and the man of courage and strength without good moral or spiritual character will only dissipate both promise and power and will become what is even worse than a failure—a bad example and a leader of wickedness.

I. Opportunity and Treachery (vv. 26-28).

Opportunity misused may become a curse, but that is the result when a man takes what might be a blessing and turns it into a blight. The life of Jeroboam is a warning against such sinfulness and at the same time it offers us an occasion to encourage young people to make the most of their opportunities for the glory of God.

That which commended Jeroboam to Solomon was that he was a man of courage and industry (v. 28). That combination will carry a man or woman to unlimited heights. The world is so full of timid and lazy folk, that the one who has a heart of valor and a willingness to work hard stands out in bold relief. Every sensible employer knows that fact and is quick to lay hold of and advance such an individual. Times are hard and work is scarce, but opportunity still knocks at the door of the boy or girl, man or woman who is brave and diligent.

The sad thing was that there was treachery in the heart of Jeroboam. Had he been willing to wait God's time he would have received all that he did ultimately receive and more, but his strength of personality did not include good character, and he at once began to plot against the king who had given him his chance to develop and advance. Let us teach our young people to be loyal and true, as well as to be brave and ambitious.

II. Promise and Condition (vv. 29-31, 37-39).

God had reached the end of His patience with Solomon. He who had begun on his knees in the house of God, seeking wisdom that he might rule his people aright, had come to the end of his life in apostasy and in wicked indulgence of the wishes of his heathen wives. Through His prophet Ahijah, God made known the purpose to divide the kingdom into ten tribes and two—a separation which knew no reunion while Israel was in the land.

Jeroboam was promised the ten tribes with the assurance of the great blessing which had been given to David, but this was definitely on the condition that he would "hearken—walk—do—keep" (v. 38) God's statutes. The fact that he failed only emphasizes the folly and wickedness of the man, for he went on his way to destruction in spite of opportunity and blessing. Men are doing the same thing today. Oh, that we who teach this lesson might be enabled to stop some such prodigal on this coming Lord's Day.

III. Danger and Exile (v. 40).

Although Jeroboam in accordance with God's promise did ultimately come to his throne, it was by way of danger and a flight into Egypt. Solomon determined to destroy him and Jeroboam had to flee into exile. If he had gone God's way to the throne and had abided God's time, he might have spared himself both danger and exile in a heathen land.

Perchance some one who reads these lines is just now languishing in the exile of an Egypt of despair because he has failed to obey God. To such a one we say, do not follow Jeroboam who went from exile on into greater sin and sorrow. Turn back now, seek God in confession and contrition, and if need be, in salvation. Get back to God's way and enjoy His blessing.

In making application of the lessons learned from the life of Jeroboam, let us not fail to point out that all down through the historical records he is referred to repeatedly as the man "who made Israel to sin." "Jeroboam's sins were not the sins of a common man. It is only kings, and kings' counselors, and popes, and bishops, and ministers, and elders, and such like, who can sin and make nations and churches and congregations to sin. But they can do it. And they are doing it every day . . . The commonest and meanest man among us has more than enough of this terrible power of both sinning himself and making other men to sin" (Alexander Whyte).

To Be Saved

When a man is saved he is saved from something that does him harm. But that isn't all. He is saved to something that is good for him and everybody he comes in contact with.

The West Virginia Newspaper Council has the right idea for taking care of everybody in the proper manner, no matter what their politics or beliefs.

Each year this group has a summer outing when no serious problems are discussed. An invitation received at The Republican office from Calvin Price, editor of the Pocahontas Times, Marlinton, West Va., gives us an idea what to expect. He says: "You will be bedded down in private homes, hotels, summer resort park cottages. I allow it might be a good idea to divide as to radicals, liberals and conservatives. Send the radicals to the woods, the liberals to hotels and conservatives into private homes. Trust us to do our poor best by you, and forego the inherent American right to raise sand until all returns are in and the worst is known."

Going To Church

Persons who don't go to church always like to make it satisfactory with their own conscience and invent a reason—or excuse.

The latest reason heard this week is this: A woman says she can't go to church because of a hypocrite that stands there and sings the hymns and says the Lord's Prayer.

Now the real reason for going to church isn't to look at hypocrites, because if it was, ones eyes would be strained constantly, perhaps. People go to church—or at least they should—to worship their God and try to do their soul some good. Practically everyone admits that he sins in some respects — some people more than others.

So the person who can't go to church because of hypocrites in the congregation, is to all appearances, one of those things herself, as she is trying to make people believe she wants to be a Christian and can't—because of other hypocrites.

And then there is the quotation in the Bible that says: "Judge not, that ye be not judged."

Account Squared

From Meadow Mountain came the following bit of verse, attached to which was some "coin of the realm", The Republican:

Here in my log cabin shack
By candle-light, turning back
The pages of memory's leaves
I find a record for which I grieve.

In days gone by,
When I was flying high,
Some stationery of The O. R. I did buy.

By some hook or crook
Your bill dropped into a nook
And there since has laid,
Forsaken, forgotten and—unpaid.

But as this year's crop of rattlesnakes has been fairly good,
And having sold a few I am now in the mood to pay your bill.

FRIENDSVILLE

The Oakland baseball team defeated the Friendsville team at Accident on Sunday, the score being 6-3.

Firemen Visit Westernport

The local fire department won a prize of $20 at Westernport on Wednesday for having the most members from the longest distance present in the parade. There were 22 firemen attending. The convention next year will be held in Friendsville.

A STUDY OF INSECTS IS NECESSARY FOR CONTROL

Bugs Becoming More Numerous Each Year and Are Man's Competitor In Struggle For Existence

COUNTY AGENT ADVISES

[illegible]s are becoming more numerous from year to year and therefore it is of the greatest importance for all people to make a study of them if effective control is to be accomplished, advises John H. Carter, County Agent.

"It is important that town and urban people be familiar with insects and their habits as well as producers of raw materials," he continued.

"The insect inhabitation has become man's greatest competitor in the struggle for existence. They destroy crops and buildings, kill animals and actually feed on the human race. They not only feed on these things, but spread diseases and germs which threaten to destroy plant and animal life. While insects are one of man's greatest enemies there are, however, many insects which are beneficial, because they are parasitic in nature destroying many of the pests that would otherwise have to be destroyed by man. Therefore it is important that before an effective control can be established for any insects it is necessary to know the type of insect and how it feeds. Insects are all divided under two classes: chewing and sucking.

"The chewing insect lives by eating or chewing up the parts from which its food is derived. Therefore to control this type of insect it is necessary to use a poisonous spray or dust. This brings in another problem, because many poisonous sprays or dusts are injurious to certain plants. Therefore, to bring about efficient control it is necessary to contact specialists determining the right kind of material to use for each particular crop. Some of the poisonous sprays are lead arsenate, calcium arsenate and many other commercial preparations which are always marked poison.

"The sucking insect does not chew the plants or whatever it feeds on. It sucks the juices from plants or blood from animals. Therefore, it would not eat any poisonous spray that might be applied. To control this insect it is necessary to use what is called a contact spray. That is some kind of material that will kill the insect when it comes in contact with it. Some of the contact sprays are red arrow, nicotine sulphate, evergreen and a derris spray. The derris is on the market today in the form of rotenone.

"From the above it is easily understood why it is necessary to be familiar with insects if money and time spent is to accomplish results. At the present time the County Agent is having more inquiries as to control of the Mexican bean beetle and other garden insects. Rather than attempting to use a spray of different strength for many garden plants, it is recommended that a spray of 4 to 5[illegible] be used for all plants spraying at about ten day interval.

"To control the Mexican bean beetle requires a most thorough job of spraying. That is the beans must be sprayed all over, being sure to give the underside of the leaves a good coating.

"For cucumbers it is important that the vines and runners be sprayed as well as the leaves. The small white worms or borers found in the cucumber which causes it to wilt is the larvae stage of the cucumber beetle. To control this worm it is necessary to prevent the beetles from appearing.

"To control the cut worms and slugs or snails it is necessary to use poison bran bait. This is made by one pound of bran, three ounces of calcium arsenate, four tablespoons of syrup or molasses, 2½ pints of water. It is important that this be thoroughly mixed as each particle of bran must carry some of the poison to get a good kill. The bait when finished should make a good crumbly mass. This material should be applied about the base of the plants late in the evening, since both feed during the night."

There are many other insects and methods of control, and should anyone have any problem of controlling them specific recommendations can be obtained from the County Agent's office.

Yough Bottomland Was Favorite Spot Of The Red Men Long, Long Ago

By WILBERT N. SAVAGE

On a farm near Sang Run, in Garrett county, adjacent to and practically on a level with the Great Youghiogheny River, there has been found over a period of more than three-fourths of a century virtually every type of Indian arrowhead and various other miscellaneous incidentals characteristic of and essential to the Indian's existence.

All of these interesting curios were found in a sandy "bottomland" plot consisting of three fields, and the man to whom this farm belongs has a remarkable collection of these old historic novelties and relics that includes one Indian peace pipe, many, many arrowheads of every shape and size imaginable and other odd, unique Indian trinkets.

While engaged in the regular routine task of spring plowing recently, the owner of this farm exposed quite by accident part of what appeared to be a very old grave. A little excavating in addition to the soil already thrown aside by the plow revealed the remains, rather well preserved, of what was undoubtedly at one time a native American—an Indian warrior.

I regret that it is imperative that I might refrain from disclosing the name of the person to whom the property belongs, but it is, and very few people in the community are aware of the somewhat grotesque, yet interesting discovery.

Other than close scrutiny and a general display of interest by those who knew of the unusual find, the remains were not disturbed, but reverently and carefully replaced and covered to the original depth of burial.

That it was absolutely an Indian and not a sixteenth or seventeenth century pioneer who perhaps resembled the redmen, could not be asserted or definitely determined without some knowledge of the fundamental principles of the methods used by archaeologists and anatomists in segregating and determining racial classifications. So, other than candid opinions, combined with the fact that the remains were exposed to view in a field where many curios and ancient looking stone implements had been found from season to season, and that the body had been lain to rest in the traditional and customary Indian manner—facing the East—no exact proof of ancestral lineage is available.

Evidently this parcel of ground was a one-time favorite with the redmen for no other burial or surface indications of any significance have, to my knowledge, been found in this section.

The land is very fertile and it is highly probable that this favorite spot was farmed on the Indian scale by the wives of the crafty redmen while their fleet-footed husbands roamed the surrounding hills in seach of game which certainly must have been abundant, and the quality of either fish or game obtained undoubtedly depended on the patience and cunning of the noble, wily redskin.

Unique Project Puts Old Toll House Back On Map Of American Motorists

Says the Cumberland News, in a recent issue: The quaint little toll house between Cumberland and Frostburg, which has seen the comings and goings of men and women who built the West, will soon go on exhibition itself.

"This historic landmark of a historic past has always attracted the eye of tourists and visitors speeding past, but a project is now under way which will give visitors a chance to really know the toll house and appreciate its place in American history.

"The project has been initiated by Rudolph Nickel, of Frostburg, one of the owners of the building. His plan is to refurnish the big front room of the house, where the gatekeeper sat and watched for the oxen of the pioneers and the wagons of the early freighters, as nearly as possible like it was in the days before the railroads came.

Friends Assisting

"Mr. Nickel is undertaking this work, with the help of friends, as his contribution to the campaign to stimulate and develop historic interest in Western Maryland.

"When he is finished, he feels sure he will have something that will make the tourists stop, look and remember Cumberland and the surrounding territory and the part they played in winning the West.

"Already the toll house, the only one in Maryland, Mr. Nickel says, has been whitewashed, repainted and otherwise improved. The grounds, also, have been made neat and attractive.

"When the refurnishing is completed, the door and windows of the front room will be thrown open, so that all who stop can see inside. The public will not be allowed inside, the arrangement in this respect being the same as those in effect at Mount Vernon, Arlington and similar points of interest.

Mural Painting Planned

"The octagon-shaped front room will be decorated, too, by a large mural which will be painted there next week by Roy Seaber, gifted Westernport artist, who is contributing his time to the project.

"The picture which Mr. Seaber will reproduce on the room's east wall will be copied from a historic painting supplied through the courtesy of Miss Mary G. Walsh, of Cumberland Free Public Library. It will show four spirited horses drawing a Conestoga wagon westward past the toll house.

"Mr. Nickel will furnish the room with handsome walnut furniture of the period, which he has already collected. The G. C. Murphy Company, of Cumberland, will supply drapes of the period. Sleeman Brothers, of Frostburg, will furnish a screen for the front entrance.

Mrs. Eaton In Charge

"The toll house is occupied now as a dwelling by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Eaton. Mrs. Eaton, who was Cumberland's New Year's baby of 1916, and who now has two attractive youngsters of her own, will be in charge of the property.

"The idea back of the whole scheme, the promoters say, is simply to dress up one of the historic spots of Western Maryland so that the million or so tourists passing through this summer just can't miss it.

"And promoters of this section who realize that the area has lots of history, but little to show of it, will be happy to know that the historic old toll house, once so important, is going back on the map of the traveling American public."

Everything comes out deliciously cooked, with its full natural flavor retained by this cooking process. And when the meal is cooked, you can serve it right from the roaster at the table, out on the porch, or at a picnic. See the cookers on display at your dealers or at any Monongahela System Store.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS . . . . . .

Another China Egg

Washington, July 3.

Couched in the erudite language of the White House economists and employing the novel terms lately inserted in the New Deal lexicon which take the place of spending, pump-priming, debt, deficit and other words grown unpopular with the people, the President's recent proposal that Congress authorize a "self-liquidating program involving $3,600,000,000, is plausible only on the surface, and only there to the non-discerning.

Actually, it is as phony as the well-known china egg. Stripped of such phrases as "stimulative investment" and "compensatory fiscal policy" and "contributive charges" (instead of taxes), all of which have been recently coined by the bright boys of the "inner circle" operating on the idea advanced generations ago by the great Talleyrand, who wrote "an important art of politicians is to find new words for institutions which under their old names have become odious to the public"—stripped of these phrases, what has been handed Congress is another spending program greater than any that has preceded it.

Neither the elaborate argument offered in his letter to Senator Byrnes nor the specious pleas about buying equipment for the railroads, nor the emphasis laid on "Government investment", or the utterly absurd statement that in the end this program may not cost the Government anything, alter the fact that here is simply a gigantic proposition to squander more billions in the desperate effort to conceal the failure of the billions already squandered either to reduce unemployment or restore the economic health of the country.

In brief, it is an Administration move to hide the tragic failure of 7 years of futile expenditures and carry the New Deal through the 1940 election. It comes from a man whose sole remedy for everything today is to spend. Literally, that is all that is left. At a moment when the vital thing is to regain control of the Federal finances; at a time when we are about to wind up the fiscal year with the ninth consecutive annual deficit, estimated at $3,400,000,000 with another in prospect for next year even greater—at such a time as this, Mr. Roosevelt presents to a bewildered Congress and a debt-ridden country a spending program which, however, it may help certain groups, will carry us still further away from national solvency and impose the Government weight still more heavily on private business.

The things that make this program worse than the others are—first, experience has already demonstrated the complete futility of spending to do more than temporarily stimulate business; second, it is part of the 1940 strategy of the palace politicians; third, there is no suggestion that new taxes be levied so as to balance the new spending with new revenue; fourth, the facts are not frankly presented, are hidden under the new words, and, if authorized, will be kept from the public by a deliberately deceptive setup.

The argument is made that these new billions will not increase either debt or deficit, which is, of course, nonsense, and the phrase "self-liquidating" is used to convey the idea that no loss will be incurred, which is grossly misleading. If a private corporation were to make such statements with as little foundation, it would find itself hauled before the SEC, fiercely denounced, severely penalized. It is almost incredible that after the experience of the country it can again swallow the story that because business will not expand and banks make loans the Government must take over the job. That is the alibi and the new spending proposal is in line with the main political issue which the New Deal advisers expect to force next year.

The appointment of Mr. Jesse Jones, in whom business generally has confidence as head of the new Federal Loan Agency, and the effort to make this new scheme bear a resemblance to the well-run RFC, are expected to give it strength in Congress. It is, however, a fake resemblance and while Mr. Jones is in no position to say so, no one knows better than he that the type of loans mentioned in this program are anything but "self-liquidating"; that if they were sound loans, there is available for them ample private capital anxious to get to work; that to keep these expenditures off the debt and out of the deficit can't be done—that it can only appear to be done by setting up a double budget and adopting deceitful bookkeeping methods. In the present state of the nation to present so unendid a program demonstrates the plight to which the New Dealers are reduced. It does seem that members of Congress who still retain hope of averting inflationary disaster, would be justified in going the limit in opposition to this extraordinary proposal.

This Correspondent Does Not See Much Encouragement Ahead For The Youth Of The Nation In Seeking An Education To Fit Them For Worthwhile Jobs.

To the Editor of The Republican.

To our boys and girls of today, it is a vast, confusing and disheartening problem when they know they must, in obtaining employment, incessantly compete with millions of unemployed, among whom are hundreds of thousands of high school and college graduates and other specially trained men and women who are perfectly eligible and well qualified for even the most complicated positions in the employment world.

In struggling along through the jumbled, enigmatic maze of jobless millions, the youthful conception of education and the advantages provided through it under normal conditions is badly distorted.

"I don't know what to train for," they'll say. "The vocational field I wish to enter is already conjested. Anyway, after I've completed my education my chances are about one in a hundred of getting a worthwhile job. Look at the other well educated fellows around me—they're idle too What's the use of spending hundreds of dollers on a high school education, or maybe thousands on college tuition? It all looks futile to me, so I'll take my chances with the rest, minus the text-books and teachers!"

Among first, second and third year high school students especially is this feeling and twisted opinion prevalent. The discouraged, disconcerted youth oftimes quits school and seeks a job. If he is successful in securing work it merely means that another unskilled worker is added to the long list of manual laborers. It means too that he, because of lack of training, is almost invariably destined to cling, for a living, to this secondary subordinate position throughout life.

If he is unable to find a job, which is more often the case, the incentive, the instinctive urge to forge ahead is impaired by disappointment. Consequently a resentful, cynical attitude toward the world in general is created and cultivated. Dejectedly, the morose youth resigns himself to idleness. The fruits born of this despondent inactive life is manifest through the youth's becoming, very often, a victim of some of the innumerable vices; the ultimate climax frequently being reached with a criminal record and a humiliating, future-wrecking prison term.

If the old adage, "an idle brain is the devil's workship", is true—and I have a lot of faith in the ancient maxim—then the devil here in the United States should be working overtime and sitting on the supreme heights of fat prosperity, with an abundance of working space to spare.

Since all types of brains are available and at his command, he should be, and undoubtedly is, dancing on the pinnacle tip of sheer delight. He has put on and successfully execute a swell program of expansion since 1930.

And why shouldn't his Satanic Majesty dance on the dizzy crests of elation?

J. Edgar Hoover, head of the F.B.I., says crime costs the United States approximately fifteen million dollars annually.

To most of us such a gigantic sum seems exaggerated and almost incomprehensible. But with youth struggling to extricate itself from the dungeon of despair, we can expect only one thing—that the cost of crimes will remain at a maximum, despite drastic measures to combat it!

GOVERNOR O'CONOR MAKES TWO NEW APPOINTMENTS

Minority Members of Roads And Conservation Bodies Named

W. Frank Thomas, a Republican, of Westminster, has been appointed as minority member of the State Roads Commission by Governor O'Conor. The appointment of Mr. Thomas completes the personnel of the Commission, Mr. Thomas succeeding J. Glenn Beall, of Frostburg, a Republican member of the old board, who temporarily was retained on the commission pending the final appointment.

Other members are Ezra B. Whitman, chairman, and P. Watson Webb. For twenty-five years Mr. Thomas was engaged in road construction and performed a large part of the experimental work done by the State in the beginning of its road program several decades ago. Mr. Thomas retired from the contracting business about five years. As a member of the Roads Commission he will receive an annual salary of $5,000.

Governor O'Conor has also appointed Allan A. Sollars, Republican, of Benedict, Charles county, as the minority member of the Conservation Commission. Mr. Sollars has been associated with the seafood industry since 1925, being engaged during that time in oyster planting and packing, and especially interested in experimental work. With him as other members of the commission are Edwin Warfield, as chairman of the Commission, and Robert Harrison, from the Eastern Shore.

SQUIRREL SEASON NOT TO OPEN UNTIL NOVEMBER 1

Several Changes In Law Made by 1939 Session Of Legislature

Western Maryland hunters will have no early squirrel season this year, it was announced by Joseph A. Minke, a deputy game warden from Allegany County, after he had received a copy of the new game and fish laws enacted by the 1939 General Assembly. No copy of the law has been received as yet at the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court at the Court House in Oakland.

The new regulations provide that the open season for hunting squirrels in Garrett and Allegany counties shall be from November 1 to November 30, inclusive. The former date for this type of game was from October 1 to October 15.

In other parts of the State the season will not only be early but will also be twice as long as last year. The new law declares September 15 to October 15 as open season on squirrels for all but Western Maryland. The change was urged by organized sportsmen to protect other game.

The squirrel season in Western Maryland will now correspond with the open season on rabbits, wild turkey, partridges, woodcock, male English ringneck, Mongolian or melanistic mutant pheasant and other imported species, and ruffled grouse.

The new regulations assure a five-day deer season this year, beginning the first Monday in December. Last year the season was from December 1 to 5, and since Sunday intervened the hunting season actually covered only four days. A similar situation would have prevailed this year had not the law been changed.

Joseph Spates, Frostburg, formerly of Oakland, was here for a few hours on Thursday.

JOSEPH'S PLAN IN EGYPT IS NOW NEW DEAL MODEL

Ezekiel's New Book On Distribution Goes Further Than That Of The Biblical Dream Boy

From President Roosevelt's inner circle comes a hint that the distribution system which the Bible says Joseph used to feed the hungry people of Egypt may be brought to date by the New Deal in an effort to end the American paradox of "starvation in the midst of plenty."

It is advanced in a book just published by a "brain truster," Mordecai Ezekiel, one of the authors of the farm program.

Joseph stored surplus grain during seven years of bumper crops in order to feed the Pharaoh's people during seven years of drought and dust storms.

Joseph's Plan—Plus

Ezekiel would store all sorts of surpluses—steel and radio and automobiles and other things Joseph never dreamed of—to balance fluctuations in supply and demand and keep employment and purchasing power at a consistently high level.

Joseph's plan covered only farm crops. Its 1939 counterpart takes in all of big business and industry.

The basis of both is a government guarantee that if producers will produce steadily, surpluses that may accrue will be disposed of.

Joseph's plan had the approval of Pharaoh. Ezekiel says his plan is "not to be taken in any sense as an expression of views held by the Administration." Ezekiel's book "Jobs for All," is published with the approval of the United States Department of Agriculture, however, and experiments out of which his plan logically could grow are now being carried on by the New Deal.

Here's How It Would Work

For instance:

Ezekiel's program would bring whole industries together to decide voluntarily how much each industry would produce during the next year. After this total was set, each manufacturer would be given a definite quota as his share of the business for the year.

The government would guarantee to buy, at a discount, any surplus the manufacturer had over his quota at the end of the year. The agreement would be made binding by contract between the individual manufacturer and a government agency designated to umpire the plan.

For the businessman, Ezekiel argues, this plan would eliminate uncertainty about the future, stimulate investment, and encourage expansion.

Steady Job For Workingman

For the workingman, it would mean a steady job and steady income to buy the goods of the grocer, the butcher, the baker, the tailor and the man at the filling station. Which brings it right back to the businessman again, for if buying were constant surpluses would be reduced to a minor problem that could be straightened out in the next year's plan.

Thus the Ezekiel program runs.

Nothing as sweeping as that is being attempted right now. But current business journals are filled with talk about Agriculture Department proposals to bring the food industry into a general agreement to market surpluses at lower than usual prices for the purpose of—

1. Disposing of crop excesses which for years have been the root of the national farm problem.
2. Stimulating employment in food processing industries, in railroads and other carriers which transport food to market, and in the realm of the "middlemen" who bridge the distribution gap between producer and consumer.
3. Broadening consupmtion among low-income families who could buy more if prices were lower.

In Effect On Small Scale

Such marketing pacts already have been accomplished, on a small scale, through the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, Agriculture Department agency which buys surplus crops and gives them away to persons on relief throughout the country.

An example in the FSCC plan for the citrus fruit industry, in which producers, packers, jobbers, wholesalers and retailers cooperated.

The FSCC agreed to buy and give away 5,000,000 boxes of grapefruit. In return, the grapefruit growers agreed to divert 5,000,000 more boxes of low-grade fruit from normal market by selling it for fartilizer and stock feed.

Not only will this remove the surplus and stabilize prices, but it will make possible shipment of 2,000,000 more boxes of fruit than were shipped durign either of the last two years.

From Housewife's Standpoint

More important from the standpoint of the housewife who buys the grapefruit for her breakfast table is the agreement's proviso for an industry-wide drive to cut handling costs, reduce canning margins, and lower freight rates so retail prices would be lower. Retailers, for example, agreed to charge not more than 25 per cent. of the price they paid to the wholesaler.

As its share in increasing grapefruit sales, the FSCC is giving its 5,000,000 boxes away in areas which normally use little or none of the fruit.

Applied To Other Commodities

This same general "marketing education" pattern is adopted, as far as possible, in disposing of other surplus commidities.

At each step of the distribution system—producer, packer, wholesaler, jobber, retailer the—same reasoning is applied: increase profits by increasing sales, and increase sales by cutting prices.

The success of the FSCC efforts to date may provide an argument for adoption of the co-operative-price-cutting-on-surpluses idea on a broader scale. Likely to be a more persuasive argument is the alternative Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture has indicated he would like to try: A two-price system—one price for those who can afford it and another, lower, for poorer people.

State Guide Manuscript May Go To Publisher Soon

After forty-two months of labor and expenditures of more than $175,000 for salaries, rent and incidentals, a 500-page 200,000-word Maryland Guide may reach the publishing house this month.

Governor O'Conor, after having gone over the voluminous manuscript forwarded by Francis H. Dryden, State WPA administrator, has agreed to sponsor its publication.

A nationally known press, which has published a dozen or more of the more than a score of guidebooks of other States, has offered to "assume full financial responsibility" for publication of Marylandiana.

Manuscript Delayed

The Maryland manuscript, long delayed in getting to Washington headquarters of the Federal Writers' Project for final approval, is being passed on by the staff of experts which must approve the sections of the publication. The first of the manuscript reached Washington May 1.

Attention is being centered on the tours section, which will detail in words and maps fifty or more tours over the State's highways to points of historic and scenic interest.

The producers are confident that no State guide has been prepared with such care or attention to correctness in detail and facts as Marylandiana. They feel, therefore, they will be spared the chagrin of other States' producers felt when Washington demanded wholesale revision.

AVOID "LEAFLETS THREE" IS ADVICE OF PHYSICIAN

Poison Ivy Is Determined And Luxuriant Grower In Some Localities

Use your eyes when you go through the woods. You can recognize poison ivy by the way its leaves are divided into threes. If you see 'leaflets three, let them be'", sums up the answer and advice of Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the Maryland State Department of Health to a question as to how to avoid the danger of skin poisoning—dermatitis—from contact with poison ivy.

"In this part of the world, poison ivy is a very persistent pest," Dr. Riley continued. "You will find the vine festooned over fences and fence posts, growing over walls, climbing up and over tree trunks, scrambling along the ground or attaching itself to undergrowth. It is a determined and very luxuriant grower. You can't miss it. But avoid touching it. You can easily distinguish it from other vines by its three leaflets. It is often entangled with Virginia creeper or woodbine. But the Virginia creeper has five leaflets—not three— and is harmless.

"The skin poisoning caused by poison ivy and by other members of the same plant family, is due to an irritating, resinous substance in the sap of the plants. Anybody who has ever suffered an attack of poisoning from poison ivy has every reason for remembering to keep hands off it. The slightest brushing of the leaves or handling of the plants will release the poisonous sap. It is deposited on anything that touches it, not only on the hands and face, but on clothing, shoes, tools, garden implements, golf clubs, golf balls and the fur of animals. The poison may even be carried long distances in the smoke from burning the leaves or stems or roots of the plants in camp fires and in brush fires.

"The best way to protect yourself against poison ivy dermatitis is to avoid touching the plants. If you happen to come in contact with poison ivy the first thing to do is to lather the hands and other affected parts, thoroughly, with suds from a good alkaline soap—strong, yellow kitchen soap—rinsing frequently in clear water. The abundant soapy lather will help dissolve the oily sap, which is not affected by water, alone. But be very careful in rinsing not to spread the irritating poison.

"The poison retains its strength for a long time on objects that have come in contact with it—even lasting from one season to another. Clothing or tools or other objects that have been contaminated by the sap or juices from the plants should be thoroughly scrubbed with soap suds before they are put away.

"Constitutional disturbances, fever, digestive and kidney complications may occur in connection with the skin poisoning produced by poison ivy and other members of that plant family. Accordingly, as soon as any signs of the poisoning occur, consult your family doctor. He will give you detailed directions as to what you should do."

Husband Of Local Girl Featured In Magazine Article

William Warfield, son of Mrs. Eleanor Warfield and the late John R. Warfield, of Cumberland, and husband of the former Miss Mary Lynn McIntire, of Oakland, is featured as one of the nation's leading experts on beans in an article by David Burpee, celebrated naturalist, in the June 24 issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

Warfield, a graduate of Allegany High school, Cumberland, completed his course in agriculture at the University of Maryland at the head of his class and has rapidly forged to the front until now he is head vegetable breeder at famous Fordhook Farms, and the leading authority in the country on garden beans.

Mr. Burpee tells in his article how the former Cumberlander set about to grow every known variety of bean in the entire world. He got specimens from Japan, South Africa, Java, Australia, all the countries of Europe and North and South America. All together he gathered 677 individual varieties of beans and grew them in carefully marked rows at Fordhook Farms.

No foreign variety could compare with American beans for taste, tenderness and freedom from strings, Warfield found. But some varieties from Europe were such a beautiful green that an attempt will be made to improve the color of American beans, and from the 677 varieties "build" a hybrid that will combine the attractive characteristics of all.

The article in the Post is illustrated with a photograph in colors of a celery farm in Florida.

Has Herd Free of Bang's Disease

The herd of cattle owned by Roy O. Winters, of the Highland Dairy, from which many Oakland people receive their milk supply, is entirely free from Bang's disease, according to the results of tests made recently by veterinarians of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

There are 27 head of cattle in the herd. All have been tested three times this year by S. Richman, veterinarian, and there were no reactors and no suspects, the report stated. Bang's disease in cattle sometimes causes undulant fever in human beings. The test for Bang's disease is being made throughout the county to keep the area accredited as being relatively free from the disease. Since the test was made Mr. Winters has acquired two more cows, both of which had health certificates.

quirements are not followed, then the funds necessary for the teacher's salary must be provided by local county taxation through the County Commissioners.

The county superintendent submitted a letter written by W. Lee Elgin, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles for the State, in which Mr. Elgin called attention to the law passed by the General Assembly of Maryland, under Chapter 448, requiring "Every school bus transporting children to public schools in each county shall be inspected at least twice each year. Such inspection shall be made by the county superintendent of schools or his duly authorized agent, assisted by a person to be designated by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles. One of the two inspections mentioned above shall be made during the month of September." The Commissioner also requested that a copy of the specifications of the Board of Education for the body and chassis of equipment purchased for school busses be sent to him.

An order was adopted following the usual custom relative to the purchasing of coal for the schools throughout the county, leaving the same within reasonable limits to the principal and trustees of the various schools.

Mr. Charles M. Humberson was appointed as trustee of the Sand Spring school to supply the vacancy caused through the death of Bruce Friend.

The Board authorized and instructed the county superintendent to move the abandoned Mar's Hill school building to Grantsville for school purposes there, or to sell the building and ground.

An order was passed co-sponsoring along with the County Commissioners of this county, the recreational project for Garrett county of which Mrs. George Hanst is the local Project Supervisor.

In accordance with advertisements published, sealed bids were opened for the construction of a new two-room school building to be erected at Bloomington, Garrett county, in accordance with the requirements of Chapter 356, Acts of the General Assembly of 1939. Bids received read as follows, with the amounts given below, omitting the additional amounts for alternate bids described in the specifications:

Snider Brothers Co., Keyser, W. Va., $19,000; Fairchance Lumber Co., Fairchance, Pa., $18,300; Hardesty Brothers, Oakland, $16,598; Potomac Engineering and Construction Co., Cumberland, $14,154.

In view of the fact that the appropriation for this particular construction was limited to $12,000, all of the bids were submitted to Smith & May, architects, Baltimore, whose representative was present at the opening of the bids, with the request that a recommendation be made by them to the Board within the next few days, the same to be in accordance with the Act of the General Assembly.

The Board accepted the resignation of Miss Ethel Grove, teacher of home economics at Friendsville.

Injured Driver Is Sued For Automobile Crash Last Week

Dr. Robert Tolley, veterinarian in Garrett county this summer, employed by the United States Department of Agriculture, was named defendant in three civil suits in the Allegany County Circuit Court as the result of an automobile accident which put him in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, as a surgical patient.

Three summonses were served on Dr. Tolley in the hospital last Friday. His injuries consist of a fractured knee cap and other lesser hurts.

The plaintiffs in the actions against Dr. Tolley are three Cumberland residents, Mrs. Anna Sommerkamp, 69; her granddaughter, Miss Mary Katherine Pafel, 22, and Simeon T. Wilson. Mrs. Sommerkamp and Miss Pafel were passengers in the Wilson car when it was allegedly struck by Tolley's car at a point about twenty miles east of Romney, W. Va., on Route 50. State police said the Tolley auto skidded out of control on the wet highway atop Schaffenaker Mountain and crashed into the Wilson car. In the bills filed by the plaintiffs it is stated that the Tolley car was "driven negligently, carelessly and recklessly."

Mrs. Sommerkamp asks damages of $15,000. Her injuries include a fractured spine; Miss Pafel, owner of the car Wilson was driving, asks $10,000 for personal injuries and damage to the car. Wilson seeks $5,000 for a cracked rib and other injuries.

Birthday Congratulations To:—

Mrs. Margaret Beckman, North Glade, Thursday, July 13.

Mrs. Arch Beckman, North Glade, Monday, July 3.

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED FOR FOLK FESTIVAL AT PARK

Miss Sara B. Huff Has Gathered Talent From Five Counties In Area For Saturday Event

TO HAVE QUILT DISPLAY

The festival of folk music and art of this entire region, which is to be held in Bashford Amphitheatre at Mountain Lake Park on Saturday afternoon and evening, July 15, is attracting much talent from many miles around, according to Miss Sara B. Huff, director, groups planning to be here from all parts of Garrett county and also from Grant, Tucker, Monongalia and Preston counties, in West Virginia.

In addition to the festival there is also to be a display of arts and crafts from Arthurdale, West Va., and a quilt display with exhibits from this entire area.

Miss Huff made known this morning a few of the definite features of the program.

From Tucker county, West Va., will come the Wardrope bagpipe players from Douglas, trained in Scotland; Italian Folk dancers from Thomas; old American square dancers from Parsons.

Folk dances of England, France and Scotland will be portrayed by Oakland Elementary school students, directed by Mrs. Lucille Robinson. Mrs. Frederick Thayer, Oakland, is to sing a group of songs which will be pictured with children in costume.

Stringed orchestras are coming from White Church, Pleasant Valley, Oakland, Mountain Lake Park, Gortner, Germania, Point Marion, Pa., and Kingwood, W. Va. The poem, "Old Fashioned Garden," by Mrs. Ralph E. Weber, an enlargement of which is now on display at the New York World's Fair, will be dramatized with seventy-five children participating.

Quilt Display Will Be Large

Miss Huff announced also that the quilt display was going to be quite large, and that there would also be exhibits of fine glass and other treasures. Quilts a few days old and some over a hundred years old will be there to be seen.

All quilts and other treasures for display must be brought to the amphitheatre Saturday morning, Miss Huff said, so that they could be arranged in the display. They may be examined from 1:00 to 2:30 and after 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon. Several WPA recreation groups and others are sending in displays.

The afternoon program will be from 2:30 to 4:00 and the evening program begins at 7:00 o'clock. The programs will include all kinds of folk music, both foreign and native. Admission will be 15 cents for each performance.

Miss Huff also announced that a fifteen-minute program, beginning at 4:15 p. m., would be broadcast from radio station WMMN, Fairmont, on Friday.

There will be a number of small prizes awarded for various kinds of musical presentations.

Miss Huff stressed the point that this was the first annual event of its kind for this region and that others of a bigger nature were to follow in succeeding years.

An agricultural day is also being planned for August.

Tennis Tournament Plans Being Made This Week

Invitations to the twentieth annual tennis tournament at Mt. Lake Park, August 11 to 18, are being mailed this week to several hundred possible entrants.

This splendid organization under the baton of Mr. Fisher, is on its regular summer tour and it is fortunate that Oakland people can have them here for the entertainment.

As an expression of appreciation and for the benefit of this training home for children, a free will offering will be received.

TWO HELD UNDER BOND FOR MAIL BOX "BLAST"

Both Released Under $500 Bond; May Be Tried In Baltimore

Arraigned Saturday before United States Commissioner James Alfred Avirett, at Cumberland, on charges of damaging a mail box, Robert B. Utterback, 21, Mt. Lake Park, and Guy Gregg, 23, Deer Park, were released under $500 bond each for action of the United States District Court. It was indicated that they would be tried in Baltimore and not during the September term at Cumberland.

They were arrested by Keith E. Moyer, postal inspector, who said a large firecracker was placed in a mail box, corner of Second and Green streets, Oakland, about 4 a. m., July 4. The front of the steel box was shattered and some of the mail inside was damaged. The young men told the commissioner that they had been drinking. Gregg had a thumb burned, he said, when one of the firecrackers exploded in his hand. "This is the first childish thing I have done in a long time," Utterback told Avirett. He said the firecracker was "about the size of a cigaret."

According to federal officers nobody can blow U. S. mail boxes to smithereens even on the Fourth of July. The maximum penalty for the offense, that they "did unlawfully injure and break open a U. S. letter box and did injure mail deposited therein," is three years in prison or $1,000 fine.

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED FOR BEAUTY PAGEANT ON LAKE

Water Carnival Included in Day's Activities Sunday, July 16

The second annual bathing beauty pageant and water carnival on Deep Creek Lake is scheduled to take place this Sunday, July 16, at Stone Tavern, at the Deep Creek bridge, and along the lake shore between the two bridges.

The program will open at 10 o'clock at Stone Tavern with swimming, diving and rescue exhibition. The motor boat parade will begin at 1:30 with motor boat races scheduled for 2:30, and sail boat races at 3. Water thrills, including surf board riding will be at 3:30. The water events will take place along the shoreline and the races between the Deep Creek and Glendale bridges.

The beauty pageant is scheduled for 5 o'clock p. m., at Stone Tavern. A fireworks display will be set off at 9 p. m., and it is planned to have them across the lake from the state road, so that they will be visible for quite a distance.

From seven to nine o'clock p. m., the Oakland Boys' Band will give a concert. The band members will be transported to the lake by citizens of the town, according to Delbert Davis, chairman of the band committee of the Oakland Rotary club. Music throughout the day is to be furnished by the German Band of Frostburg.

Blank (?) Cartridge Causes Serious Wound To Robert Stanton

Robert Stanton, 11 years old, second son of Joseph T. Stanton, Second street, is recovering at his home from a wound inflicted Monday evening by a blank cartridge, fired by Lawrence Gonder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gonder.

Robert and his brother were on their way to St. Peter's church, where they were to act as altar boys, when young Gonder stepped up and in a playful manner held the pistol against Robert Stanton's chest. The boy pulled the trigger of the arm, the paper wadding tearing a hole through his clothing and a hole as large as a nickel in the Stanton boy's chest. The breastbone of the lad was exposed. The lad bled profusely and after three attempts to run homeward collapsed. He was taken to the office of Dr. Mahlon C. Hinebaugh by James Treacy. The wound was dressed and the boy given anti-tetanus serum, to prevent possible lock-jaw.

St. Peter's Parish To Have Annual Homecoming Event

The annual homecoming and carnival of St. Peter's Parish, Oakland, will take place during the first week of August. The carnival will be held on the evenings of August 3, 4 and 5. The homecoming celebration will close with a Knights of Columbus Vesper service at St. Peter's church on Sunday, August 6.

NEW RELIEF BILL MAKES CHANGES IN WPA SET-UP

Workers Employed 18 Months Must Stop Work August 31 and Must Wait for Recertification

700 ON ROLLS IN COUNTY

The Congressional provision in the new relief bill that WPA workers must be discharged after 18 months on work relief roles will force the dismissal of between 5,000 and 10,000 workers in Maryland on August 31, officials have estimated. There are about 700 people on WPA in Garrett county.

A preliminary survey by F. H. Dryden, state administrator, showed the provision covers 30 to 40 percent of the workers on construction projects and 10 to 80 percent of those on non-construction.

It was stated that the State welfare department did not have enough funds to certify continuously for reemployment of WPA workers who, under a new Congressional act, will be dismissed after they have served eighteen consecutive months on work projects. They cannot be reemployed until thirty days have elapsed and they have been recertified as in need of relief, it was explained.

Workers who are dropped and recertified are not assured they will regain their old positions. During the thirty-day period which they must wait before they are eligible again for jobs their posts will probably be filled in order to keep work projects going.

The relief bill also provides that all wrokers must work 130 hours per month for the same pay they were getting previously when they worked 110 hours. While this has caused much grumbling in the county it was stated at WPA headquarters here that there was no snch trouble as was being experienced in other parts of the country where workers were striking and refusing to work.

Work in this county is goiug along as before, it was stated.

NOTED LECTURERS COMING FOR SCHOOL OF MISSIONS

Program Each Evening Expected to Attract Hundreds of People

In addition to regular day classes at the Summer School of Missions at Mt. Lake Park which are taught by outstanding people in the Christian World, the evening sessions are being planned to attract many hundreds of people. Noted lecturers have been scheduled for each evening, from Wednesday, July 19, to Tuesday, July 25, including Dr. Rebecca Parish, Mr. Eric Muggeridge, Miss Laura Williams, Mrs. Harry Goedeke, Dr. F. I. Johnson, Mrs. Alvin Sherbine, Miss Ruth Juram, Mr. Arthur E. Hungerford, and Bishop Ralph Ward.

Mr. Muggeridge recently returned from war-torn Spain and will speak July 19 on "The Crucifixion of Spain and the Fate of World Democracy". Dr. Parish will lecture also each afternoon from 3:20 to 4 o'clock and give impersonations in costume each evening.

The very best of talent has been secured for the Mission school classes, according to those in charge. Included in the staff of instructors are Dr. J. E. Hartzler, Bible; Mrs. C. E. Timberlake, home text book; Mrs. F. I. Johnson, foreign text book; and Miss Mary Johnson. Mrs. Johnson has traveled in many countries of the world and will give an insight into China, Africa, Europe, Great Britain, the near East, India, Japan, North and South America.

Local Board Discusses Old-Age Assistance Eligibility

Sixteen old-age assistance cases who are now receiving help were discussed for eligibility at a meeting of the Garrett County Welfare Board on Thursday evening, July 6. The Board is now stressing the responsibility of sons and daughters for the support of their parents, Miss Ethel Miller, executive secretary, stated. This responsibility is set forth in the Maryland law, she pointed out.

The CCC enrollment was announced for July 10. The county quota was 28 and 28 boys were sent. Miss Miller said the Civilian Conservation Corps is now stressing the requirement that boys over 17 years of age be sent rather than boys who are just that age.

SYMPHONY CONCERTS ARE SCHEDULED FOR JULY 29-30

Choir Contest Concludes Music Festival Program Last Sunday; Connellsville Group Wins Prize

CELANESE CORP. DONOR

The Civic Choral Society of Connellsville, Pa., a newcomer to the Mountain Choir Festival, was awarded first prize of $100 in the a capalla choir contest last Sunday evening in the Bashford amphitheatre at the Park in the concluding program of the week's activities. The prize was donated by the Celanese Corporation of America.

Selections by various visiting choral organizations and also several numbers by the combined festival choir, under the direction of Dr. Harvey Gaul, Pittsburgh composer, to whom the festival was dedicated this year, featured the afternoon and evening program, which were attracted by more than 500 persons.

Three junior choirs were particularly well received at the afternoon performance—the Methodist junior choir of Kingwood, W. Va.; Trinity Lutheran junior choir of Keyser, and the Bethel Methodist junior choir of Mt. Lake Park. Other features during the day were selections by the Homestead Choral, Homestead, Pa.; the West Virginia Legionettes, Keyser, West Va.; the Washington Irving High school a capella choir, of Clarksburg, West Va.; the Clarksburg Women's Ensemble, the Tri-Towns male chorus; Grace Hampstead Glee Club, Hampstead, Md.; Oakland-Keyser Community chorus.

Between the afternoon and evening programs on Sunday, Mickey's Band of Mountain Lake Park and Loch Lynn Heights gave a concert.

Symphony Orchestra Scheduled

During the program rendition it was announced that the Johnstown Symphony Orchestra would be at the emphitheatre in Mountain Lake Park on Saturday, July 29, at 7:45 in the evening, and Sunday afternoon, July 30, at 2:45 in the afternoon. This orchestra is coming highly recommended and thus far has had a most successful season. It is a full symphony organization of eighty pieces, under the direction of Theodor Koerner, and will be the first time for such an appearance here.

Local committees are being formed to have in charge the sale of tickets which can be procured for as little as 25 cents. Those in charge stated it would require the sale of 2500 tickets to meet expenses and they were hoping that the community would back the project to the fullest.

Music Hath Charms To Attract A Lowly Skunk

Music hath charms for more than human beings and snakes, it was demonstrated Sunday night at the concluding session of the Mountain Choir Festival.

Although the singers themselves were unaware of what they had attracted as part of the audience, the spectators in that particular section of the amphitheatre were soon notified and they lost no time in scampering to the center section of the building.

During the rendition of one of the selections Sunday a skunk calmly walked down an aisle to the left of the stage, played around under the seats of two sections and finally returned from whence he had come. Fortunately for both singers and those in the audience, he did not become excited, and everything remained quiet along the Potomac, the Western Front and all points east.

Although the animal was not seen on the previous night, there was strong evidence that he had become excited at that time. People from the Park volunteered the information that there was a whole family of skunks in the neighborhood of the amphitheatre and that they were seen frequently taking nature walks.

Marriage Is Announced

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Mrs. Margaret Jane (Mason) Browning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee R. Mason, Oakland, and Mr. Clifford Daniel White, of Terra Alta, West Va., where the couple will reside.

The ceremony was performed Monday afternoon at the Lutheran parsonage by the Rev. A. B. Leamer, D.D., pastor of St. Mark's church.

CRELLIN BOY IS KILLED; RUNS IN FRONT OF TRUCK

Dashed Across Road Saturday Evening To Greet Father, Iret Ashby

Running across the road to his father, after alighting from a bus with his mother, Jesse Ashby, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Iret Ashby, of Crellin, was killed about 7:30 p. m., Saturday when he was struck by a cattle truck operated by Robert R. Dodge, 29, of Oakland.

The child and his mother were returning home from Oakland and the father was waiting in front of Adam's store in Crellin. Witnesses told police that the boy apparently did not see the approaching truck, loaded with ten head of cattle, and dashed in front of the machine to reach his father. He was hurled several yards and suffered a fractured skull and other injuries.

The driver, employed by H. E. Shahan, of Oakland, was exonerated by State's Attorney Neil C. Fraley, following an investigation by Corporal Thomas Currie, State police, and Deputy Sheriff Clarence Spear.

This was the only child of the Ashbys. Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon from the home of the lad's grandmother, Mrs. Jesse Ashby, with interment in the Ashby cemetery. Playmates acted as pallbearers and twenty girls were flowerbearers.

Murder Charge Lodged Against Miner Who Admitted Shooting Floyd Harvey July 4th

HEARING AT KITZMILLER

Thomas Cooper, of Vindex, charged with the murder of Floyd Harvey, also of Vindex, on July 4, as Harvey and Mrs. Cooper were partaking of a dinner prepared by the woman at Harvey's cabin, was held for action of the September Term Grand Jury of the Garrett County Circuit Court at the conclusion of a preliminary hearing before Magistrate George J. Poole at Kitzmiller on Monday evening.

The formal charge of murder was made by Sheriff J. W. Owens. State's Attorney Neil C. Fraley, representing the State, and William R. Offutt, counsel for Cooper, appeared at the hearing. Cooper did not testify, nor did his wife.

The hearing was conducted in the council room of the town hall while a crowd of some two hundred persons listened to the testimony offered. Under the new law governing magistrates, a hearing on charges of a criminal nature must be held in the district where the offense is committed. The hearing involving Cooper was postponed from last Friday until Monday.

Dr. N. I. Broadwater, county medical examiner ,and Sheriff Owens were also at the hearing and testified as to the facts concerning the manner of death. Officials and Mr. and Mrs. Cooper, who is being held in jail as a material witness, returned to Oakland about 10:30 o'clock Monday evening.

Following Cooper's arrest last Wednesday morning, Sheriff Owens said that Cooper had admitted the shooting at Harvey's three-room cabin. Harvey stated, however, he "didn't mean to shoot anyone; I just meant to shoot out the light." A lighted lamp was on the table between the couple as they were partaking of a late chicken supper at the time of the murder.

The shot from the twelve-gauge gun used by Cooper, did extinguish the light, but it also struck Harvey full in the back of his neck, killing him instantly. Mrs. Cooper escaped the pellets as they poured into the room through a window, before which Harvey had taken a position some time before he fired the charge of shot.

To Address Rotary

F. T. McIntire, of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, will be the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Oakland Rotary club on Friday evening, July 14.

At this time Dr. E. I. Baumgartner will become a member of the group.

The Board of Directors met last evening at Table Rock Inn as guests of Grover C. Stemple, new president. Various committees were appointed and other business discussed.

COUNCIL WILL PROHIBIT SALE OF FIREWORKS HERE

Instructs Attorney To Draw Ordinance—Many Other Cities Passing Similar Legislation

OTHER COUNCIL AFFAIRS

By unanimous action of the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, the city attorney was instructed to prepare an ordinance prohibiting the sale or storage of fireworks in the town of Oakland, at the regular meeting of that body on Monday evening.

The immediate passage of the ordinance unanimously as soon as drawn and presented is considered a foregone conclusion.

In taking this step Council is doing what a large number of other cities of the nation are doing, Cumberland having just this week passed an ordinance prohibiting the sale of fireworks, in addition to prohibiting people from setting them off within the city limits or one mile beyond the limits.

Oakland already had an ordinance preventing fireworks from being set off within the town limits, but as long as fireworks are sold it is practically impossible to enforce the law. Members of Council stated that quite a number of citizens had protested against the manner in which the Fourth of July was celebrated here this year and asked that the Council take definite steps to see that it did not occur again.

Baltimore newspapers made a survey of injuries suffered throughout Maryland during the holiday period which showed that many persons were injured and one person died as a result. In Pennsylvania, where the law against fireworks went into effect last year, satisfactory results were noted this year.

Legislature Killed Bill

A fireworks bill, introduced in the legislature at the last session, which would have prohibited the manufacture and sale of the article in Maryland, lost by one vote. Senator Clifford Friend, Garrett county, was one of those who voted against its passage, and thereby made their sale legal this year as usual. Senator Kimble, Allegany county, also voted against the measure.

A news article in a Cumberland paper a few days ago told of a reporter contacting Senator Friend at Accident. Friend declared that "the newspapers are stirring up all this talk. I haven't changed my mind on that fireworks bill, but I might favor a more lenient law. I understand they have such a law in Pennsylvania containing certain liberal leeways." Informed that patients in hospitals at Cumberland were nearly driven crazy by the Cumberland demonstration, Senator Friend observed: "Yes, I know. My wife was in a hospital down there one July 4; I complained about the noise and tried to do something about it."

Another Ordinance Request

Council also requested that another ordinance be drawn which would limit the speed of trains through the town to twenty miles an hour.

The fireworks ordinance would also contain a clause prohibiting the sale of ammunition of all characters to children under sixteen years of age.

Rudy Resigns

Irvin R. Rudy, Council president, resigned as a member of the body. He was recently appointed acting postmaster and hence under the Federal law, is prohibited from holding any other civic office. No successor has been named for the vacancy made by Council which is empowered to fill the vacancy thus caused. Delbert Davis was elected president of Council in place of Mr. Rudy.

An order was passed directing that Third street, Green to Center street, be curbed and that a new sidewalk be built on the west side of the block thus improved.

The County Commissioners were given permission to use the town roller on several roads in this community.

Bills amounting to $2,705.60 were ordered paid. This amount includes the payment of an electric light bond of $1,000; coupons of $500, and $134.61 as balance due on the band appropriation for last year.

The town was in receipt of a check for $1,500 from the West Maryland Power Company, covering payment of an electric bond and coupons.

Arthur Lawton, clerk-collector, informed Council that collections during the month of June amounted to $1,294.

REHOBOAM: A MAN WHO MADE A FOOLISH CHOICE

LESSON TEXT—I Kings 12:1-5, 12-17, 20.
GOLDEN TEXT—A man's pride shall bring him low.—Proverbs 29:23.

"He did evil because he prepared not his heart to seek the Lord"—this is the divine epitome of the life of Rehoboam as given in II Chronicles 12:14.

Life is full of choices, and the decisions we make determine our destiny both in this life and in the life to come. Since the great issues of our life may hinge on the simplest of choices, it is obvious that we need guidance at every point and in every moment of life. The counsel of men, the right impulses which are born of good breeding, the light of knowledge—all these may help us to make right choices. But since there is only One who has all the knowledge, who can see the end from the beginning, who has all the power to make His decisions effective, it is obviously folly of the highest degree to do without His holy guidance, especially since God is willing to give it without money and without price even to the humblest believer.

Men and women, let us not follow the foolishness of Rehoboam. Let us seek first God's kingdom and His righteousness, and then we are assured that everything else shall be added unto us (Matt. 6:33).

The picture before us is astonishingly up-to-date. People were crying for relief from tax burdens. One group of leaders counseled moderation; another group, said in effect, tax them all you can and keep on spending. The king, who in a monarchy had the final decree in his power, replied to the plea of the people with the 900 B. C. equivalent of our modern slang expression, "Oh, yeah?" and the ten tribes promptly revolted.

I. A Reasonable Request (vv. 1-5).

Governments exist for the people, not the people for the government. Political leaders seem to forget this axiom and begin to rule as though they need not listen to the reasonable pleas of the people. Tax burdens rise, regimentation of the life of the nation takes place, and sooner or later the people rise to overthrow the government. It happened in Rome, it was back of the French Revolution, it brought an uprising of the serfs of Russia, it can and will happen elsewhere if men who rule do not listen to reason.

Rehoboam made at least one wise decision—to wait three days before speaking and to seek counsel. He needed this, for having been brought up in the palace of Solomon, without proper training for his place as king, he was quite unable to make immediate answer to their request. Incidentally, we note that much of the folly of Rehoboam is chargeable to the neglect of his father to rear him properly. May that terrible thing never be said about you and me regarding our children.

II. An Unreasonable Refusal (vv. 12-15).

The picture of the two groups of advisers is a most graphic one and should afford the teacher an excellent opportunity to show young people especially, how important it is to heed the counsel of their elders. Even so youth stands today at the fork of the road. Let us in all kindness, love, and tact seek to help them choose the right way.

III. The Inevitable Revolt (vv. 16, 17, 20).

The people, long submissive and apparently servile, ultimately come to the point where they think, and when they do, dictatorial rulers tumble from their self-made thrones. Would that the people of the earth realized the power which they have and that they would use it for the glory of God. Rehoboam felt the power of the people who revolted, others have followed him, for it is still true in the world that the rulers "do evil" because "they prepare not their hearts to seek the Lord."

Rehoboam, who had awaited the arrival of this crucial hour in anticipation of taking his place as the king of the ten tribes, was ready, and was at once chosen as the leader of those who withdrew from the rule of the house of David. Rehoboam's sin brought this about, but it was also in the counsels of God (v. 15). As Alexander Maclaren expresses it, ". . . the historian draws back the curtain. On earth stand the insolent king and mutinous people, each driving at their ends, and neither free of sin and selfishness. A stormy sea of people, without thought of God, rages below, and above sits the Lord, working His great purpose by men's sin. That divine control does not in the least affect the freedom or the responsibility of the actors. Rehoboam's disregard of the people's terms was 'a thing brought about of the Lord,' but it was Rehoboam's sin none the less."

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS . . . . . .

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

Washington, July 11.

They Turn On Mr. Murphy

There may be an idea in some quarters that the New Dealers "close to the President" in Washington constitute one great big happy family, steeped to their starry eyes in that inspiring Three Musketeers "all for one and one for all" stuff. But that notion is entirely without foundation.

Actually what those who cling to its outer edges refer to as the "inner circle" seethes with small jealousies and friction. Not many of its members completely trust each other and it is a very real tribute to Mr. Roosevelt that he is able to hold together behind himself so many men whose personalities clash, whose opinions sharply diverge and who are filled with animosity and suspicion.

* * *

It is true that most of these White House satellites are not wholly disinterested. Regardless of press-agent pictures of their idealism, unwavering loyalty to Mr. Roosevelt emphatically contributes to their own material welfare. This, however, does not lessen the bitterness with which they seek to destroy the influence of important Administration figures, equally loyal but of a different breed. For example, there has been no secret for a long time of the hostility of the "palace politicians" toward three members of the President's Cabinet—Mr. Hull, Mr. Woodring and Mr. Farley.

* * *

The reason for this is quite well known. Not only have the Messrs. Hull, Woodring and Farley shown complete detachment from the "draft Roosevelt" movement engineered by the "intellectual liberals," but, in the latter's view, the Messrs Hull, Farley and Woodring are conservative men, not fully convinced on the economics of the New Deal and inclined toward orthodox Democracy. All these things happen to be true and it is not surprising the young radicals should regard them with aversion. But it is surprising they should now turn on one of their own number, against whom not one of those complaints could be made—to-wit: the impeccable Attorney General, Mr. Frank Murphy.

For quite a while after Mr. Murphy took office he was in high favor with the "inner circle." Referred to as the "glamor boy" of the New Deal, he was put forward as the running mate for Mr. Roosevelt's third-term attempt. The purity of his private life was paraded and great stress laid upon his "crusading spirit." In view of all this, the change in the attitude of his New Deal friends is strange. Instead of inspiring eulogies of the Attorney General, the harshest criticism of him now comes from the very group which originated his Vice-Presidential boom and is promulgated by journalists who habitually reflect its view. For example, it is strongly intimated that as a crusader Mr. Murphy is a "bust," and it has been flatly stated in print, among other things, that he is making too many speeches; hopping about the country too much; that Washington and New York "society" have gone to his head; that he is obsessed with his own publicity; is running too hard for the Vice-Presidency; ought to come back and get on his job.

This is really a shocking blast to come from his side of the fence. From time to time men on the other side have spoken somewhat in this vein, but when highly placed New Dealers thus assail one of themselves it seems to call for an explanation. Two are offered. One is that the over-righteous manner and high-powered publicity of Mr. Murphy really have created irritation. The other is that Mr. Murphy's recent speech, in which he urged a twenty-five per cent reducing in the Federal payroll and inveighed against the vast size and cost of the Federal bureaucracy, gave grave offense. It is true that just before he spoke Mr. Murphy had made a place for ex-Senator J. Thomas Heflin. It is also true that he has found jobs for a good many of Mr. Corcoran's young men, and is generally "amenable to reason" in patronage matters. But none of these things, it is held, excuse a speech pointing out how much money can be saved by removing useless jobholders. It might have been made by Senator Byrd, of Virginia.

TO PRESERVE HISTORIC BRIDGE AT GRANTSVILLE

Mayor And Council Take Action Looking To This End

The Mayor and Town Council of Grantsville at a meeting of the body on last Friday night resolved to take action looking to the preservation of the old single-arch stone bridge spanning the Casselman River east of the town at Little Crossings.

Action by the town authorities on this matter is receiving the hearty support of the residents almost without exception and will also be appreciated by Garrett county citizens who are interested in the preservation of historic landmarks and those things contributing to the early settlement of this part of the country, for it was over this old bridge and the ford just below it that thousands who traveled westward before the turn of the last century passed this way.

Built about 1815, this bridge was said to have been the largest single span of rubble stone masonry in the United States, 93 feet high and 93 feet in span. It was repaired in 1911 by the State Roads Commission of Maryland.

When the National Pike underwent extensive changes several years ago, traffic was diverted from this bridge to a newly-constructed steel bridge on a more direct route.

The use of the old bridge has been prohibited by the Mayor and Council until repairs are made.

It is an historic fact that Braddock's Army with George Washington and other Americans of that time, crossed the Casselman River immediately south of the bridge on the way to Fort Duquesne in 1755. In the days of the stage coach and freight wagons this bridge was known as "Little Crossings" to distinguish it from the "Big Crossings" of the Youghiogheny River at Somerfield, Pa. The area around the bridge still retains this name.

Referred to by many as the "sensational" bridge, it was the delight of many motorists to pass quickly over the bridge and at the apex of the "hump" in the center of structure experience the thrill like unto the swift descent of an elevator.

GORTNER

A Bible school will open on Monday morning in the Union church here with Rev. Paul Roth, of Masontown, Pa., as principal. Among the teaching force will be Misses Katie and Fannie Thomas and Cora Hostetler, of Johnstown, Pa., and Miss Grace Miller, of Springs, Pa.

Mrs. Elwood Schlossnagle, Mrs. Harvey Swartzentruber and Mrs. Max Oxendorf and their families celebrated the birthday anniversaries of the women named with a lunch in Swartzentruber's grove on Sunday evening.

D. L. Swartzentruber is preparing his grove at Swan Meadow in readiness for the Sanders reunion July 23.

Mrs. Roy Sanders and son Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thompson, of Cumberland, and Guy Hardesty, of Grantsville, visited Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fulk recently.

Mrs. Anna Bittinger and son Lawrence were in Cumberland and Meyersdale on Saturday.

Mrs. Earl Spoerlein visited in Wheeling, W. Va., on the Fourth.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Liehty and Mrs. Bob Swartzentruber spent Wednesday with relatives near Meyersuale, Mrs. Lichty remaining with them for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Ersel Stocket, of Ohio, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Will Welch.

Noah Slabach, who spent several days in Uniontown, has returned home accompanied by his grandson, Robert Slabach, who will remain here for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gortner and Mrs. Anna Bittinger went to Pittsburgh on Sunday. Mrs. Bittinger is remaining with her cousin, Mrs. Ralph Edmiston, who underwent a surgical operation recently. During Mrs. Bittinger's absence Miss Carrie Sims, of Underwood, is in charge of the Gortner home.

Harold Hauser, Harold White, Miss Beryl Gnegy, Miss Grace Gnegy, the Spoerleins and a number of others of this community, spent the Fourth at Swallow Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Sanders, Mrs. Ernest Gortner, Mrs. Paul Welch and Mrs. Anna Bittinger attended the funeral of Mrs. Dayton Conaway at Bayard on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kitzmiller, Asa Kitzmiller and daughter Mary Ellen were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Porter Jordan at Dodge on Sunday.

Sunday evening a big gray mare belonging to Simon Swartzentruber fell in a spring on the farm. The water virtually covered the animal, it being six feet deep, and had quite a chill before the fifteen men, summoned to assist, could remove her from the predicament. However, the animal has now recovered and may yet be what she used to be.

Miss Virginia Biser, Harrisburg, Pa., is spending this week with her parents.

Miss Catherine Miller and daughter Eunice, of Springs, Pa., visited Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Swartzentruber on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Eggers, who were recently on a trip through portions of the west, stopped at Arthur, Ill., and paid Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Slabach a visit.

W. E. Speorlein and family, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Schlossnagle and Noah Slabach attended a party given for Mr. John Spoerlein at Accident on Wednesday evening.
